On Mortgage Security.

Having been engaged for the past 12 years in investing money at ten per cent interest, on farm property in Illinois, we have now opened a branch office at Council Bluffs, Iowa. The amount of loans placed by us have exceeded $4,500,000 without the loss of a single dollar to the investors.

Iowa has entered upon a career of wonderful, and, we believe, permanent prosperity. During 1874 Iowa farmers raised more wheat, corn and hogs than any other State in the Union.

The demand for loans is active, and we are receiving large numbers of choice applications for sums ranging from $500 to $10,000, on from three to five years time.

THE TREASURY AND THE MONEY MARKET.

On Thursday it was announced from Washington that the Secretary was about to make some changes in the arrangements for the payment of moneys into the Treasury. The announcement has been received with some dissatisfaction for two reasons. The banks and the public have become used to the existing methods of the Treasury, which work to the satisfaction of the parties chiefly interested, and the present system has the further advantage of avoiding those mischiefs to the money market, which, under heavy war payments, have often in the past caused the Treasury and its operations to be regarded with dread, in a critical and sensitive condition of the money market. Secondly, the approaching prospects of our financial machinery render it desirable that nothing be done by the Treasury which would make it a cause of monetary trouble; but that, during the present year, the loan market be kept free, as far as possible, from perturbation from preventable and extraneous causes.

Both these considerations are well worthy of notice, but it seems to us that too much has been made of them in the present case. The following is the essential part of the circular which has elicited so much apprehension: "In view of the labor and hazard incurred by the Treasurer of the United States, and other independent Treasury officers, in the receipt and collection of drafts and cheques received by them from national banks, public officers, and other persons having payments to make into the Treasury, the Secretary has advised these officers that he thinks it better they should receive in all official transactions only the lawful and proper moneys of the United States, as provided by law and regulations thereunder. This will prevent payments for semi-annual duties, fractional currency, and revenue deposits, by means of drafts and checks, thus doing away with a practice which seems to have crept into Government transactions without any special authority of law or regulations, and which has become a burden to the officers who voluntarily undertook to collect the cheques and drafts transmitted."

It will be difficult to point out in this announcement anything to justify the fear that has been exhibited. Mr. Bristow in issuing this order has simply brought into play two important principles which have always governed his management of the Treasury. The first is, that of strict literal obedience to the laws, and the other that of economy in administration. It was only the other day that one of our city banks paid a cheque over the counter to a treasury clerk; who, after he had left the bank, found the money $1,500 short. The bank refused to make the amount good, on the plea that it was not responsible after the clerk with his cash had left the bank. If the clerk had any claim to make he ought to have made it before leaving the house with the money. The Court ruled this point in favor of the bank, and held that its responsibility ceased with the departure of the clerk from the banking room. We do not intend to question this decision. We mention it simply to call attention to the fact that no such case could have occurred but for the abuses which the circular before us is intended to stop. Under the Sub-Treasury laws it is no part of the business of the Treasury to send its clerks to the banks to collect cheques or drafts. The Treasury is not even permitted to collect its moneys through the clearing-house, which perhaps is a reform that ought to be sanctioned by law, and no doubt will be so sanctioned in the future.

Mr. Bristow's point is, however, that there is no law at present which authorizes the Treasury to send to any bank to collect its money. If the bank owes anything to the Government, the simple duty of the Treasury is to receive the sum when offered in greenbacks, in national bank notes or in coin, and the duty of the bank is to go to the Treasury and pay the sum in legal-tender money, as appointed by the law. The same rule holds good with all persons or corporations that have to pay money to the Treasury. The sums due are required to be brought in legal money to the counter of the Sub-Treasury, and cheques or drafts are not receivable there by law. We need not pursue this side of the objection further. All that Mr. Bristow has done is to call the attention of the public to the orders given to his subordinates in the Treasury that the law must be strictly obeyed and that the abuses which, in the confusion of our war finance, may have crept into sanction, shall be at once stopped. If any modification of the laws are to be hereafter made, good government and sound policy require that these reforms should be secured by the enactment of new laws and not by the evading of old laws.

A still more important question that has been raised is that of economy. The abuses which are being swept away are of a costly nature. They lay upon the Treasury duties which do not appertain to it by law. As they thus multiply unnecessary clerks, it is evident how the destruction of these abuses will aid those reforms and frugalities in expenditure, by some of which Mr. Bristow is said in certain quarters to have made himself unpopular. One of the most imperative reforms of our administration is the economy of expenditure. We do not affirm, nor do the people of this country expect, that the work of governing the United States can be conducted as cheaply as before the war. Good government is a very expensive article to buy, and under free institutions the cost is quite as high as in less advanced forms of polity. We have a large public debt which costs us 130 millions a year. Besides this, we are a more numerous and a richer nation than we were before the war. All our expenses of government are enhanced by similar causes to those which have added so much since 1860 to the cost of government in England and throughout the world. Still it is certain that the pressure of taxation in this country must be lightened, and that a host of economies are imperative in our administration. Retrenchment and reform will for many years to come be the popular policy in finance. What we have to do is to harmonize economy with good government; or, in other words, to follow to their legitimate consequences the two principles embodied in the foregoing order of the Treasury—strict enforcement of the laws and rigid economy in their administration. On the whole, we may conclude, in regard to the influence of the Treasury on the monetary movements of the country, that there is much room for judicious reform; and, as we have seen in the case of the recent circular, this influence is anxiously watched.

EXTENSION OF OUR CLEARING-HOUSE SYSTEM.

One of the compensatory results of the late bank troubles in California is the reported establishment of a Clearing-House at San Francisco. The project of organizing such an institution has been agitated for some years; but until now it has been opposed by a powerful interest, originating chiefly with the Bank of California. When this new Clearing House gets to work we shall have seventeen clearing houses in the United States. This is a larger number than exists in the whole of Europe. In Mr. Jevons' book on Money, an interesting account is given of the English clearing houses, which he states to be three in number—that of London, which was formed in the year 1775, and is the oldest in the world; that at Newcastle, which was also established many years ago; and that of Manchester, established in 1872. At Liverpool, he says, the banks have some method of private clearing among themselves. Of the Manchester Clearing-House Mr. Jevons gives a minute account. Its clearing methods are copied closely from those of the London Clearing House, the balances being paid by cheques upon the Manchester branch of the Bank of England. On the Continent of Europe the clearing-house system is in a very undeveloped condition, as is also the cheque system, on which clearing houses so much depend. There is a clearing house at Paris and another at Vienna. Altogether there are not in the whole of Europe more than eight or nine clearing houses; while in the United States, as we have said, the more rapid growth of our banking system has called into existence twice as many of these institutions, all of them making daily clearings. The statistics of the clearing-house associations of the United States have never been compiled until a few months ago, when an elaborate account of them was published by the Bankers' Magazine. The following table is from the researches of our contemporary:

| Sixteen Clearing Houses | | | 334 |

From this table it appears that most of the central cities of our banking system are provided with clearing-houses, making daily exchanges between their associated banks. The exceptions are Albany, Detroit, Louisville and San Francisco. In the last-named city, according to the report above noticed, the clearing-house system is about to go into operation; and in Louisville a charter was granted some years ago by the State Legislature but for some insufficient reasons it has not yet been acted upon. The number of banks associated in the sixteen clearing-houses of the above table is 334. It is easy to see from the central position of these institutions that they are, as it were, the ganglia of the whole banking system of the country. Our clearing houses combine and consolidate into one compact organism the chief branches into which our banks are divided. These branches are four—that of the national banks, the State banks, the private banks, and the savings banks. These great branches, with all their widely-extended ramifications in every town and village of this continent, meet and are united in the central clearing houses, which, as we have seen, are dispersed at convenient points, just as the ganglionic centres of life are distributed in the human body.

If we were asked to enumerate the causes by which our banking system has preserved so much strength, stability and solvency during the rude pressure of our war finance, we should have to claim a conspicuous place on the list for our clearing-house system; which, as we shall presently see, differs somewhat in its methods and functions from the clearing houses of the old world. In this country our banks are estimated at 4,000, of which about half are national banks and are under strict discipline in regard to publicity and other safeguards of solvency. The rest of our banking mechanism, comprising the whole body of the State banks, the savings banks and the private banks, with the trust companies exercising banking functions, are under fewer restrictions, and the inflation of the last dozen years would have done more mischief and worked more corruption in the exposed parts of our banking machinery, if we had not developed so rapidly the salutary powers of our clearing-house system.

The primary work of a clearing house is very simple. As conducted in this country, it consists in the reception, every morning, in the clearing house, of the cheques which each bank holds against the other banks of the association. To receive these cheques the clearing house holds a meeting, at which every bank is represented by two or three clerks. The daily functions of the clearing house are, first, to receive the cheques referred to, and to distribute them to the banks which have to pay them. The second process is that of actual payment. These two processes are completed at different parts of the day. In our New York Clearing House, the first process —that of presenting the cheques and distributing them— begins at ten o'clock every morning, and is finished in less than ten minutes. The rest of the day, until 1:30 P. M., is allowed for examination of accounts; but, at that hour, the debit balances of each bank have to be paid in greenbacks, or in government certificates convertible at sight into greenbacks at the Treasury.

Such is a general sketch of the work done by the clearing houses of this country. They deal with the cheques and other claims received the day before, and all these cheques and claims are paid in actual cash, or its equivalent, about the hour of noon. Most of the banks include in to-day's exchanges the cheques which arrived in this morning's mail. But this part of the exchanges is comparatively small. The great bulk of the business done to-day in the Clearing House consists of cheques which were received from the public yesterday. This arrangement causes a delay of nearly twenty-four hours, on the average, between the time of presenting a cheque at the counter of a bank and its final rejection or payment in the Clearing House. To overcome the legal and other difficulties hence arising, the process of certifying cheques was invented, with which, as well as the other expedients for similar purposes, our readers are quite familiar.

In London no such general custom of certifying cheques has gone into use for several reasons. One is, that the certified cheque system implies "identification" and cannot flourish without it. But the London banks are much more remiss than ours in requiring the holder of cheques and demand notes to be identified. To protect the banks in their habit of non-identification Parliament passed in 1857 the statute 16 and 17 Vict., ch. 59, sec. 19, by which the English bankers were protected against the losses which might fall on their customers if "demand drafts to order" were paid to the wrong man. The reason of this law, as we have said, was that the customers of the London banks were unwilling to submit to the supposed humiliation of identifying themselves to a mere clerk; and, as the bankers had long been protected by custom in paying demand drafts and cheques to the holder without troubling him to identify himself, so in the law referred to the bankers obtained statutory protection in paying demand drafts to order without identification of the man presenting them. This is one of the banking anomalies which most strikes an American traveller who opens a banking account in London. He is surprised to find that, although he is a stranger, he needs no identification at the teller's desk in cashing demand drafts or cheques. The law of 1857, above referred to, induced, as our readers will remember, a modification of our foreign exchange business. It caused our foreign bankers to draw their sight exchange at three days. This makes them "time drafts." And these are beyond the operation of the law, which only applies to "drafts on demand to order." Hence, in the time-draft, there is more protection to the true owner in respect to the point under consideration.

There are other reasons why a certification of cheques, which is so common here as a part of our Clearing House arrangements, has not been found necessary in London. In our New York Clearing House every cheque which is to be paid to-day must be scheduled and delivered by ten o'clock this morning; otherwise it will go over to the next day's clearing. Moreover, every cheque will be paid in actual cash or its equivalent at or before 1:30 P. M. The arrangements are very different in London, where to-day's cheques may be presented up to 4 o'clock P. M., and all these cheques will be paid to-day, if not thrown out before a quarter to 5. The following is Mr. Jevons' account of the methods of the London Clearing House: "There are three clearings daily at the Lombard street House. The morning clearing opens on ordinary days at 10:30; drafts are received not later than 11, and the work must be closed at noon. The country clearing then begins, drafts being received until 12:30, and the clearing closed at 2:15. The heaviest clearing, however, is that of the afternoon, which begins at 2:30. The bustle and turmoil of the work grow to a climax at 4 o'clock, the runners rushing in with the last parcels of drafts, up to the moment when the door is finally closed. On the fourth day of each month, when the heaviest work occurs, the hours are extended, the house opening at 9 o'clock."

What has been said as to the primary work of the clearing houses—that of making the daily exchanges of the banks—suggests that the banks which are associated together in any clearing house are vitally interested in each other's solvency. As the result of this, the clearing house is one of the safe-guards of the solvency and vigor of any banking system. Whether or not our clearing-house methods surpass, in this respect, the methods in use in Europe, is an interesting question which we must reserve for future discussion.

COTTON SPINNING IN THE UNITED STATES.

(Report for the year ending July 1, 1875).

The issuing of our annual report of the Cotton Manufacturing Industry of the United States has been delayed this year longer than we anticipated. Few, we fancy, comprehend the labor required and the difficulties and hindrances met with in obtaining the results published. Of course our final list includes only mills that spin; but returns have to be obtained from very many establishments, other than those finally included, which sometimes, but not always, use raw cotton. And, while the larger number speedily respond, just enough hold back to make necessary many and repeated applications, by letter and in person, before the final result can be reached. We mention this simply as the reason for the delay in issuing this report.

CAPACITY AND CONSUMPTION OF MILLS.

Our crop statement published in September referred to the fact, which those figures indicated, that the consumption of cotton in the North appeared to have been in excess of all estimates. The full returns from the manufacturers now furnish a complete confirmation of that statement. They even go further than this, and establish beyond controversy, the surprising fact that more cotton was used by our spinners during the year now under review than during the previous year. It will be remembered that before the crop figures were issued the best authorities supposed, and in truth it was generally believed, that Northern consumption would show a decrease of about 150,000 bales. Three facts in the history of the trade were the basis of this belief: (1.) The efforts made in the fall of 1874, (that is in October, November and December) to have all Eastern mills run on one third time, which efforts (notwithstanding some mills in that section, and notably those at Lowell, did not accede to the arrangement) were believed to have resulted in a falling off in the New England consumption of about 25 per cent for the three months; (2.) again, there were the prolonged winter drought and extraordinary freezing of the water-courses which were supposed very considerably to have reduced the actual mill power during the month of February; (3). and since February the goods trade has been so bad that an increasing tendency towards less active production has been manifested. For these reasons, we were prepared to find that less cotton had been consumed; whereas, the opposite, as already stated, appears to be the truth.

This fact, so clearly established, is of great interest to the producer, as well as the manufacturer. It illustrates how difficult it is for any great industry to effectually organize a short-time movement. Left solely to natural causes, restricted production comes when circumstances actually force it; but, until thus forced, mill owners generally find they can better afford to lose money on their goods than to lose more by stopping spindles. The error, then, in the popular belief as to consumption during the past year was probably due in the first place to an over-estimate of the extent of the short-time movement; in the second place to a forgetfulness of (or not making sufficient allowance for) the fact that the consumption of the previous year was also much less than the full capacity of the mills, since, notwithstanding there was a very considerable increase in spindles in 1874, (the average yearly addition from 1870 to 1874 being about 600,000 spindles) the actual consumption decreased 30,000 bales; in the third place to a further small increase in the spindles this year; and finally to the manufacture of somewhat coarser materials. In this last particular (size of yarn) it is possible that our returns may not be an exact indication of the true average number spun. Some outside facts point to a coarser average; but we necessarily adhere strictly to the figures made up from the returns, which on that point are not in all cases as full and complete as desirable. With these preliminary explanations, we give our detailed statement, showing the results of our investigation as to number of mills, number of spindles, consumption of cotton, &c., in each State, North and South, for the year ending July 1, 1875:

The above show that the consumption in the North this year has been 1,097,001 bales, against 1,094,387 bales last year. According to our crop report, the takings by Northern spinners this year were 1,062,522 bales; and hence they have, during the year, decreased their stocks on hand 34,479 bales. It is certainly a little surprising to meet with such proof as these figures afford of the perfection to which we have brought the system of preparing the cotton crop statements. These spinners' returns were this year obtained by ourselves, but the tables have all been prepared in Boston by the former Secretary of the Manufacturers' Association. Such a direct accord, therefore, between his tables and our crop deductions shows that we have freed that formerly involved problem, a crop report, of every doubtful element, except what hangs around the item of Southern consumption, and we hope another year to relieve that feature of all uncertainty by an earlier collection of the mill figures. To indicate the movement of spinners' stocks for a series of years the following statement will be found of interest:

| Added to mill stock during year | ..... | 80,750 | ..... | ..... | 83,030 | ..... |
| Reduction of mill stock during year | 33,876 | ..... | 40,000 | 50,000 | ..... | 34,479 |

The decrease in stock here shown was anticipated, it being the natural result of the relatively high price of cotton, compared with goods, and the promising condition of the growing crop in the late spring and early summer months.

GOODS MANUFACTURED THIS YEAR.

The statement of kinds and quantities of goods manufactured is necessarily incomplete. Of course we do not claim that these results are as exact as the returns of consumption. Spinners are frequently unwilling to state their production except in gross, which we are required to divide up on information otherwise acquired. We have bestowed great care upon the statement and believe it is as close an approximation as the nature of the case will permit. We also repeat the figures for last year, correcting a clerical error in the quantities of threads, &c., for the Middle States.

A very considerable variation will be noted above in the production of print cloths in New England, the total the past season reaching 640,000,000 yards. This year's statement, however, must be very near the truth. The actual returns we have from those States, in which the exact production of each mill is given, show a total of 500,000,000 yards; and the mills which have not reported the extend of their production fully bring the figure up to the total we give.

FOREIGN MARKETS FOR OUR GOODS.

The foregoing statements go far towards explaining the unsatisfactory condition of the goods market the past year. In fact this country has now reached a very interesting point in the development of its cotton industry. Under the stimulating influences which, during late years, have forced an overgrowth in almost every industrial department, spindles have been increasing rapidly, year by year, until our power to consume cotton has outstripped our capacity for consuming goods. At present we are suffering the natural consequence—a kind of commercial paralysis. But healthy progress is often the fruit of just such seasons of enforced rest. Idle spindles lead to new economies in manufacture, new investigations both with regard to cost and consumption, and not unfrequently force new channels for trade. Precisely this experience are we now passing through and, if we are wise, the end will be a wider field for American enterprise, a successful competition with other countries in the markets of the world. Nor is this a difficult problem. Only very slight hindrances stand in the way of its full realization.

To this conclusion our investigations in preparing this report have brought us. For, it seems that even now (where quality is a consideration) in coarse, or even medium, goods we can hold the market. Thus, China is taking a fair quantity of our drills and heavy sheetings at prices which give the factories that make them a moderate profit. These goods are made from American cotton at the rate of 85 lbs. of cloth to 100 lbs. of cotton. Coarse fabrics of the same character are made in England from India cotton and stuffed with starch and china clay or terra alba, so that the outturn of cloth is 110 to 130 lbs. of cloth to 100 lbs. of cotton. One manufacturer assures us that he has samples of which 33 1-3 per cent of the weight washes out in the first washing. Upon such goods our stamps and tickets have been forged. This, however, we could have met; but, with the disturbance of values during the war, which followed greenback issues and indiscriminate taxation, we lost our trade. Now we are regaining it, and permanently, unless, by chance, we should once more become worshippers of the rag baby.

But, it may be asked, why may not the English make the same goods, and, with cheap labor, undersell us. The question of labor in America we shall consider later on; but here we would remark that low wages do not of necessity imply low cost. Leading manufacturers give it as their opinion that we get more work from a given number of hands, and that there is not now any great difference in wages. English hours are 54 per week; ours are 60 to 66. But, aside from this question, in order to work American cotton as we do, the English would be obliged to reconstruct their mills on our more expensive plan, and to change their whole method—not a quick or easy task. Then, again, American cotton costs the Manchester spinner about 1¼ cents per pound more than the Lowell spinner. Call it even one cent, then comes the important conclusion that one cent a pound is more than 16 per cent on the labor in making a pound of drill or heavy sheeting. Hence Lowell can pay 16 per cent higher wages and yet lay down goods made of American cotton at even rates in markets at even distances. Under such circumstances our hold upon China has become permanent. As yet we have secured but a small share in that market, but it is certain to become greater.

Next look at Canada. Quality is appreciated in Canada. In order to compete with us the Lancashire spinner must use American cotton, from which cause we have, as above stated, 16 per cent advantage on the labor bill. But the English manufacturer must also pay freight and charges on the goods to Canada, which amount to not less than 4 per cent more than the freight from Lowell or Lawrence, and 4 per cent on the whole value is again 13 to 16 per cent on the labor. Therefore, even if we did pay 25 to 30 per cent more for our labor,—that is, even if the actual cost of our labor was 25 to 30 per cent greater than in England,—we could still hold our own market and compete in Canada. Then, why not in Mexico? Why not in Central America? Why not in South America? Simply, because (1) we have few or no merchants who understand the business; (2) our navigation acts have destroyed or crippled our means of intercourse; (3), and more than all, we cannot be free sellers unless we are free buyers, for the Chinese system is not productive of outside trade.

The advantage which, as we have stated, our cotton gives us applies to coarse goods; but we can also make medium goods of No. 20 to 30 yarn and equal the English in many markets. Where the labor is a quarter of the cost of coarse, it is a third of the cost of medium makes, and of the latter description are th several thousand packages lately shipped to and sold in England. These goods have, in every case, paid cost and charges. In the same connection one fact may be of interest. Last March an American gentleman sent to London to buy at retail the best shirting. He obtained a quality about equal to Wamsutta, not so heavy as New York Mills. It cost 18 cents per yard, gold, and Wamsutta was at the same date retailing here at 16 cents, currency. Since then the English fabric has declined 1 cent, and the American 2 to 3 cents.

We thus see how hopeful is the position with regard to foreign markets which our cotton industry even now occupies. Yet a future of far more promise is possible, dependent upon our taking the necessary steps for re-organizing our industrial system. But to attain that end it is first of all necessary that values be re-adjusted by the world's standard; next, that our tariff system be thoroughly remodeled; and, finally, that our Navigation acts be amended so that our intercourse and inter-traffic with other nations may be freer. Until these points are gained we shall fail to reap in full the advantages before us. Only look at the question of labor which is of so much importance to the manufacturer, being so large a portion of the cost of goods. Wages are gradually declining and are at present about 20 per cent lower than they were in 1869, and yet even now they are about 40 per cent higher than in 1860, as may be seen by the following statement, which has been specially prepared for us, and is as nearly correct as it is possible for such a comparison of averages to be:

The above shows that there is much room in this direction for a further very considerable decrease in the cost of manufacture. And yet little permanent reduction in wages can be secured that does not correspond with a reduction in living expenses. A return to a specie basis will be a very long step towards that end. But even then we shall need a remodeling of the tariff before the full advantage of our position is reached. For instance, a good female weaver can make five and a half dollars per week, and pays, say, $2.25 to $3.50 for board, earning net about $3, most of which is spent for clothing, and probably half her clothing is of foreign production—ribbons, laces, bonnets, &c.—or home made worsted goods in which the tariff on wool constitutes one-third of the cost. Hence, before we can expect to reach the wages of 1860, all this must be re-adjusted.*

We might pursue this subject further, but we think we have demonstrated clearly enough the present importance of foreign markets to our cotton-spinning industry; the promising condition in which we now are for developing this new trade; and the easy road by which a very rapid progress is assured. Without exaggeration a future of wonderful prosperity lies within reach of our people. Scarcely can we over-estimate the possibilities. Shall we hesitate, then, about putting ourselves in condition to receive the benefits thus awaiting us?

COURSE OF THE MARKET FOR 1874-75.

The market the past year has been in a chronic state of overproduction. More goods have been pressing for sale than home consumption could absorb, notwithstanding short time at the mills and many spindles standing idle. Prices, therefore have been almost everywhere unsatisfactory. The conclusion is inevitable that the growth of spindles since 1870 has been too rapid.

* In considering this subject of comparative wages the following facts are important to be remembered:

Card strippers—Since 1869 almost all cards have been furnished with self-strippers; fewer men are now employed of a higher grade.

Fly frames and spinning—The hands all work by the job, and on better machines tend more spindles.

Dresser tenders—The dresser has disappeared from all plain mills and the slasher has taken its place. One man and a boy now do the work of eight men in 1860.

Weavers make higher wages by the piece, by making more cloth per hour.

On the other hand the Massachusetts ten-hour law has to some extent offset the improvements.

For we can consume much more cotton and make many more goods than we are now doing. The main feature of the year has been the revival in the export movement, which we have remarked upon above. Perhaps as good an index as we can have of the course of the market may be found in the following statement of the weekly sales of (64x64) print cloth at Fall River, with the prices of sales each week:

We now add the jobbers' prices at New York of leading styles of goods, to complete the record, though of course but an imperfect guide to the amount realized by the agents:

—The Manhattan Savings Institution, No. 644 Broadway, has declared its fiftieth semi-annual dividend, payable on and after January 17. Among the financial institutions of our city the Manhattan takes a high rank, and apparently gains in popularity as its years increase. Its course has been marked by a conservative management from the start, and it is only the savings banks of that character which will ultimately command the public confidence.

—Mr. John P. Acker, Treasurer of the Hannibal & St. Joseph Railroad Company, gives notice that the interest maturing Jan. 1, 1876, on the bonds of the company, also on $3,000,000 Missouri State six per cent bonds known as the "Hannibal & St. Joseph issue," will be paid on and after Jan. 3, at the Bank of North America.

—The Philadelphia & Reading Railroad Company has declared its regular quarterly dividend of 2¼ per cent, on both the preferred and common stock, payable on and after January 25th. Transfer books close on December 31st and re-open on January 17th.

—The National Bank of Commerce in New York has declared a semi-annual dividend of 3½ per cent, payable on and after January 10th.

LONDON, Saturday, Dec. 11, 1875.

Notwithstanding that there is still a demand for gold on account of the German Mint, the supplies of money seeking employment continue large, and in the open market the best bills are taken at about half per cent beneath the official minimum. It is anticipated that during the next fortnight, or three weeks, there will be an augmented inquiry in connection with the wants of the community, incidental to the close of the year; but as soon as the business of the new year has fairly commenced, there is reason to believe that the money market will again relapse into a very easy condition. Some uncertainty, however, still exists with regard to the probable requirements of the German Mint. It is stated that it is not the intention of the German Government to complete the demonetization of silver at one stroke. This would lead to a great increase in the demand for gold, and it has been decided therefore, to reduce the one-thaler pieces from standard to token money, and to demonetize, at once, only the two-thaler pieces. The process of the demonetization of silver is fixed to be commenced at once; but it will be seen that the Government are anxious to pursue a policy of caution, for fear of disturbing their own and the money markets of Europe. France still keeps the large supply of £65,318,000 in gold, locked up in the vaults of the Bank of France, and she will not probably let loose her hold of it until the German coinage operations are entirely completed. It is fortunate, perhaps, that the trade of Europe has been exceedingly quiet while these gold coinage operations have been in progress, or else the disturbance might have had serious results; and it is also fortunate that German merchants could not bear the strain of dear money, one result of which has been to inspire an additional spirit of caution into German statesmen. At the present time, the supplies of unemployed capital in that country are so ample that the export movement of gold has of late attracted but little attention. Half a million sterling was, indeed, withdrawn from the Bank of Germany, ten days ago, and further small amounts have followed in the same direction, but, if those operations have had any effect upon the money market, they have only done so by checking a further downward movement in the quotations. We can quite imagine, if the German demand for gold should cease, that our money market would relapse into a very easy state, as the requirements of the mercantile body are even less than they were. Should the export movement in gold terminate, therefore, and should there be no improvement in trade, it is more than probable that the present rates of discount would not be maintained. There has been a moderate demand for gold for export, but, at the same time, a few parcels have been sent into the Bank from abroad. The supply of gold held by the Bank of England is still large, viz., £23,030,433, against £20,316,262 last year. For silver, the demand has been quieter, the inquiry on Spanish account having fallen off. The tendency of prices is, in consequence, downwards. Mexican dollars are also rather cheaper. Notwithstanding the near approach of the close of the year, a few new schemes and loans have been introduced to public notice. The Queensland Government have applied for a loan of £1,000,000, and the applications reached a total of £1,346,200, of which £1,200,500 were above the minimum. Tenders at £91 2s. and upwards receive allotment in full, and those at £91 1s. 6d. about one-fifth. The loan is to bear interest at 4 per cent per annum. Tenders are also invited by the East Indian Railway Company for £1,000,000 4½ per cent debentures for five years, with payment of principal and interest guaranteed by the Indian Government. In the present condition of the money market, and with a desire to obtain good security, that loan is certain to be quickly absorbed. The success of the new companies introduced to the public is, however, less certain. The Odessa Tramways Company invite subscriptions to an issue of 20,000 £10 shares to construct tramways in Odessa. The municipality of Odessa has granted a concession, but the public are now very cautious, and have not forgotten that the same municipality instituted vexatious proceedings only a short time ago against a water-works company, and threatened to confiscate the works, which were not quite completed within contract time. It is certainly boldness on the part of a committee of gentlemen to induce the public in its present temper to risk their money in a similar venture, more especially as the shares of the water-works company are at a heavy discount. If there is no hope for so important an undertaking as a water-works company, tramways to the extent of fifty-six miles, cannot hope to yield a remunerative result. £160,000 in 5 per cent. guaranteed preferred shares of the Waterford, Dungarvan & Lismore Railway Company is also required, the interest on which is guaranteed by the city and county of Waterford for five years, during the construction of the line, and for thirty-five years afterwards, after the opening of the whole line; and the Eastern Telegraph Company propose to raise £700,000 by the issue of 6 per cent preference shares, for the purpose of duplicating the company's cables.

After the recent heavy losses, a spirit of caution has pervaded the Stock Exchange, and only a moderate amount of business has been transacted. Egyptian government securities are very firm and their value has further improved; but the Peruvian market has been dull and unsettled, and the quotations are lower. Turkish stocks show some recovery, but not much disposition is shown to purchase those securities. British railway shares are mostly firm but the American market has been quiet.

The closing prices of consols and the principal American securities at to day's market, compared with those of Saturday last, were as follows:

January Dividends and Interest Payable in Boston.—Mr. Joseph G. Martin, stock broker, No. 10 State street, Boston, has prepared his customary list of interest and dividend disbursements to be made in that city in January. He says:

The following dividends are payable in January at the dates given in the margin. They are all payable in this city—excepting Connecticut State sixes at Hartford, New Bedford and Taunton R. R., 6s at New Bedford, Providence and Worcester Railroad at Providence, and Worcester and Nashua Railroad at Worcester—at the Treasurers' offices.

Manufacturing dividends show a reduction in Androscoggin from 4 to 3 per cent, Contocook, 4 to 3½, and Douglas Axe, 5 to 4 per cent. The Atlantic, Bates, Cabot, Dwight, Franklin, Great Falls, Hill, Naumkeag, Newmarket, and Salisbury, pass. The Middlesex increases from 4 to 5 per cent, and Waumbeck, 3 to 4 per cent. The Chicopee resumes after passing one dividend, and pays on a capital increased from $420,000 (by stock dividend) to $1,000,000. The Washington pays a dividend of 3 per cent, the first since July, 1872. The Pacific holds firmly to its 10 per cent semi-annual. Cocheco paid 5 per cent December 16, a reduction from 10 per cent.; and the Salmon Falls passed at the same time.

A pleasing anomaly in railroad dividends is an increase by the Chicago Iowa & Nebraska. This Company reduced from 5 to 4 per cent. July 8, and now resumes 5 per cent. The Company also gives notice that it will redeem on presentation, at par and interest, the $100 and $500 pieces of its second mortgage bonds not due until 1888. The Worcester & Nashua Railroad Company having given the required three months' notice, will redeem January 2, 1876, when interest will cease, $125,000 of its 7 per cent. bonds due in 1881.

The Ware River Railroad is leased to the Boston and Albany for 999 years, from January 1, 1874, at the rate of 5 per cent. for the first year, 5½ the second, 6 the third, 6½ the fourth, 7 per cent. the fifth and every year thereafter.

The Chicago Burlington & Quincy Railroad gives notice "that the privilege of exchanging Branch Railroad bonds into consolidated mortgage 7 per cent. bonds will be withdrawn after January 15, 1876." The Missouri River Fort Scott & Gulf Railroad Company will pay, January 1, the balance of coupon No. 10, due January 1, 1874, on 1st mortgage bonds, for which six months' notes were given in July last.

The Essex Railroad 6 per cent. bonds ($194,400) due September 1, 1876, and guaranteed by the Eastern, are a first mortgage on that part of the road running from Salem to Lawrence, 17 2 3 miles.

The Treasurer's office of the Michigan Central Railroad having been removed from this city to Detroit, coupons due on its own bonds or branches must be sent to the Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., New York, for collection.

The Housatonic Railroad, preferred, will pay its quarterly of 2 per cent., January 10, at Bridgeport, Conn. The New York Providence & Boston (Stonington) pays 2½ per cent. quarterly, January 10, in New York. The New York New Haven & Hartford 5 per cent., in New York, January 3. The American Button-hole Sewing Machine Company divides 4 per cent., payable January 3, in Philadelphia.

Pacific of Missouri.—At the meeting of the stockholders, this week, there was much stormy discussion, but little accomplished. Mr. Bowman, the attorney representing the county of St. Louis and the citizens of Missouri, offered a resolution to the effect that in the proceedings before the United States Courts in St. Louis, the Judge be requested to appoint separate receivers for the Missouri Pacific and the Atlantic & Pacific Railroads; that no person interested in the third mortgage bonds of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, or in any way interested in the Atlantic & Pacific, should be appointed receiver of the Missouri Pacific.

A stock vote was called for, and persons representing 28,000 shares voted in favor of the substitute, and 6,351 shares against it. Upon the motion of Mr. Bowman it was resolved that the stockholders' committee confer with the committee representing St. Louis county, with a view to the selection of a suitable person to be presented to the Court for receiver.

—Accountants will save themselves many hours of hard and annoying labor by providing themselves with a copy of the "Time and Labor-Saving Table for computing the wages of Mechanics and Laborers," the uses of which are indicated with sufficient clearness by its title. The compilers and publishers of the table are Messrs. Valpey, Angell & Co., of Providence, R. I., and it has already been very generally adopted by the New England manufacturers, by whom, as well as others it is recommended for its completeness and accuracy.

—In the INVESTORS' SUPPLEMENT of Dec. 25, a reference was made to the business of the New England Mortgage Security Company in Boston, which was accidently called the New England Trust Company. The latter corporation is an institution of altogether different character, and it is the first-named only which has to do with selling real estate mortgage bonds being its own guarantee.

—"The Law of Taxation" is the title of a new work just published by Little, Brown & Co., of Boston, by the well-known law-writer, Mr. Francis Hilliard. Very favorable notices of the work are given by leading Boston journals, and the subject treated of is so important to capitalists and freeholders, as well as to the legal profession, that a good sale for the work among other parties than lawyers may easily be predicted.

—Attention is directed to the card of Messrs. A. H. Muller & Son, the well known stock auction-house. In the present times there is a vast amount of miscellaneous securities never sold at the Stock Exchange, and the only way of buying or selling such stocks or bonds to advantage is through a reliable auction house.

—Among the cards of prominent cotton firms in THE CHRONICLE, to-day, will be found that of Messrs. Ware, Murphy & Co. Colonel Murphy retires now from the firm, but the business will be continued under the same name and style as heretofore by the remaining partners, Messrs. Ware and Schroeder.

—Messrs. M. K. Jesup, Paton & Co., as appears by their advertisement in our to-day's issue, will pay, on January 3, the interest due on the bonds of a number of Western and Southern railroads, for which they are the financial agents in this city.

—Messrs. Fisk & Hatch will pay the gold coupons, due January 1, on the bonds of the Central Pacific Railroad Company, including the main-line issue, the Western Pacific, and the California & Oregon Railroad first mortgage bonds.

—Attention is called to the card of Messrs. Donaldson & Fraley, bankers, in St. Louis, Mo. The firm gives attention to all dealings in county, city and township bonds, as well as to railroad, miscellaneous and local securities.

—Messrs. Winslow, Lanier & Co., 27 Pine street, give notice of the payment, at their office, on January 3, of a number of coupons and interest due January 1.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1875—6 P. M.

The Money Market and Financial Situation.—The principal features of the week have been a close money market, lower gold in the early part, and lower exchange towards the close, an advance of 1 per cent in the Bank of England rate, decided firmness here in Government bonds and other investment securities, and a recovery and advance in leading speculative stocks.

The commerce of the whole United States for the eleven months ending November 30, 1875, is shown by the figures just issued by the Chief of the Bureau of Statistics at Washington. From this it appears that the exports of domestic merchandise for the eleven months were $502,732,099, against $552,632,318 for the same time in 1874; the imports of foreign merchandise were $471,087,838, against $525,263,022 in 1874.

The figures, in detail, are as follows, the returns of Alaska, Brazos, Corpus Christi, Detroit, Mobile and Vicksburg, not being reported:

| Periods. | Total Imports. | Domestic Exports. | Foreign Re-exports. |
|---|---|---|---|
| MERCHANDISE. | | | |
| Eleven months ended Nov. 30, '75.. | $471,087,838 | $502,732,099 | $11,214,299 |
| GOLD AND SILVER. | | | |

The figures above for the exports of domestic merchandise are in currency values; when reduced to gold they are as follows: Eleven months ended Nov. 30, 1875, $440,485,980; eleven months ended Nov. 30, 1874, $498,731,995.

The local money market has continued to be rather irregular for call loans, and each day the rates have ranged up to high figures, generally falling off towards the close of business hours when brokers had supplied themselves with money. To-day, the rates were up to 7 gold in the morning, and down to 3@4 per cent at the close, a fair quotation for general business being 5@7 per cent. Choice commercial paper sells at 6½ to 7½ per cent, but there is very little doing.

The present stringency in money is regarded as only temporary, and there are few, if any, who anticipate a higher rate than 5@6 per cent after the new year has fully opened.

On Thursday the Bank of England rate was advanced a full 1 per cent—now 4 per cent in consequence of a loss of £924,000 in bullion for the week. The Bank of France gained only 9,782,000 francs in specie, and it is therefore concluded that a large part of the gold from England must have gone to Germany.

The weekly statement of the New York City Clearing-House Banks, issued December 24, showed an increase of $354,609 in the excess above their 25 per cent. legal reserve, the whole of such excess being $7,361,000, against $7,007,300, the previous week.

| | 1875. Dec. 13. | 1875. Dec. 24. | Differences. | 1874. Dec. 26. | 1873. Dec. 27. |

This week's bank statement is issued to-day, and shows an increase of $3,473,400 in specie, a decrease of $837,300 in legal tenders, and an increase of $3,937,300 in deposits. The net result is an increase of $1,651,775 in surplus reserve.

United States Bonds.—There has been quite an active movement in government securities, partly on speculative account. Some large purchases of bonds have been made in Germany for importation here, and we heard of $1,500,000 so taken to-day, as the relative prices of the two markets showed a considerable profit on the transaction. It is evident that there is a strong feeling in governments, based on the idea that they will be more in demand than ever before, and that prices will go higher in the coming year.

State and Railroad Bonds.—In State bonds there are few new features. Tennessees have been a little firmer, possibly because they had been oversold. The Treasurer of South Carolina gives notice that the January interest on the new consols of that State will not be paid till February 15. To-day the principal of some of the Missouri State bonds fell due, but on presentation for payment at the Bank of Commerce only the principal was offered to be paid and not the last six months interest, as no coupon therefer was on the bonds; this difficulty of course can only be temporary, as the State undoubtedly intends to pay the interest, but any such hitch in financial matters is always unfortunate.

Railroad bonds have been strong and advancing, and there is a feeling of decided firmness in regard to all of the first-class bonds.

Railroad and Miscellaneous Stocks.—The stock market, on a moderate business, has shown quite an improvement in prices. Western Union Telegraph led the advance, and closes to-day at 74⅝, the highest price of the week. Lake Shore also closes at 60¾, and Michigan Central at 59¼. The most important occurrence having any bearing upon the value of stocks was the agreement of the Trunk lines upon a basis for the adjustment of freight rates from Boston and New York to the West, upon which they had previously been widely apart in their views. No semi-annual statements by Lake Shore, Michigan Central or Cleveland Col. Cinn. & Indianapolis have yet been issued, and they will be looked for with much interest by stockholders and the public. Interest is noticed for payment on the second mortgage bonds of the Missouri Pacific, which is so far good. The present feeling in stocks is generally strong, and there is confidence in some quarters that the coming year will enable railroads to show larger net earnings than in 1875.

Total transactions of the week in leading stocks were as follows:

The Gold Market.—Gold was easier in the earlier part of the week, but stiffened up to day to 113¼, closing at 113. There has been some anticipation of higher gold, and possibly of an export demand after the first of January, but it is yet too early to know with certainty the course of transactions between the foreign markets and our own, as it is possible that the placing of railroad or other loans abroad may intervene to affect the exchanges. This week there is a movement in the other direction—of United States bonds towards this country. On gold loans full rates have been paid most of the time or carrying, and to-day the terms were 4, 5, 4½, 3, 3½, 1, 2 and 5 per cent for carrying, and also flat. Time loans of gold were quoted this week as follows: 30 to 60 days, 3-16@¼ for carrying; 90 days, 1-16@3-16 for carrying; 4 months, "flat;" 6 months, ⅛@¼ for use; all the year 1876, 1@1¼ per cent for use. Customs receipts of the week were $870,000.

The following table will show the course of gold and operations of the Gold Exchange Bank each day of the past week:

Foreign Exchange.—The exchange market has been more active this week, and prices have shown some fluctuation. There has been quite a large supply of bills on the market since Wednesday's steamers, and there was some talk that this came from borrowed bills by stock brokers. The better opinion seems to be, however, that the accumulation of cotton bills in the hands of one prominent house and the negotiation of certain railroad loans in London by another were the principal reasons for a liberal offering of bankers' bills. To-day, there was an advance of one-half point in rates, and the revised quotations are as follows:

ANNUAL REPORTS.

Richmond & Petersburg.

(For the year ending Sept. 30, 1875).

The report has the following:

| | 1873-74. | 1874-75. |
|---|---|---|
| Gross receipts | $147,220 15 | $164,935 34 |
| Operating expenses | 94,152 86 | 86,684 31 |
| Income | 53,067 29 | 78,251 03 |

| Reduction of funded debt | ..... | 50,500 00 |
| Percentage of operating expenses | 64 | 52⅝ |

"It will be observed that there are no extraordinary expenses charged during the year. Expenditures usually chargeable to that account have been made, but they have all been taken up in operating expenses.

The unusual exhibit of an increase of 12 per cent in gross receipts, and a net income more than double that of the previous year, and that during a period of extraordinary depression in general business, and especially in railroads, is very encouraging. This result has been obtained without suffering the road and property to depreciate. They have been fully maintained, and the policy of a steady, permanent improvement of the road-bed and property is earnestly recommended."

At the last annual meeting (1874) the execution of a mortgage was authorized to provide for all the outstanding debt of the company, as it should mature, and for other purposes, and such a deed has been prepared and executed.

$150,000 of the bonded debt matured during the year, of which $50,500 had been paid up to 30th Sept., out of the current revenue of the company, without creating a new debt. The holders have been notified that the company is ready to pay the balance.

| Gain for the year | | $27,786 61 |

The President's report says:

Notwithstanding the continued depression of business, we are enabled to report to the stockholders an increase both in gross revenue and in net earnings for the last fiscal year, as will fully appear from the foregoing statements. During the year the large shop of the company at Hartford, for the construction and repair of cars, was destroyed by fire. This has been replaced by a fire-proof building. A large addition has also been made to the equipment of the road. The cost of these additions and improvements is included in the expenses for the year. Except for these outlays and the reduction in the market value of materials and supplies on hand, the net earnings, after paying all expenses, interest and taxes, would have shown considerably more.

On the Shore Line Railway we have realized a profit on the business of the year of $27,786 61, after the payment of all expenses, rent and outlays for permanent improvements. As compared with the preceding year, the results of the business are better for your company by the amount of $143,400.

On the first of October last, the first mortgage bonds of the old New York & New Haven RR. Co. fell due, were paid off and cancelled, so that now the New York New Haven & Hartford RR. Co. is free from both funded and floating debt, and is at liberty, after fulfilling its obligations to its leased roads, to apply all its net earnings to the payment of dividends upon its stock.

It is the purpose, however, of your Board of Directors, in the management of this valuable property, to limit the dividends upon the Stock to ten per cent. per annum, and to apply the surplus earnings to increasing the facilities and accommodations of the road. This policy we deem just to the stockholders and equitable to the public.

Washington City Virginia Midland & Great Southern.

(For the year ending Sept. 30, 1875).

This road was formerly known as the Orange Alexandria & Manassas.

For the year ending Sept. 30, the earnings and expenses were as follows:

| | 1874-75. | 1873-74. | Inc. or Dec. |
| Earn., incl'd'g rents of Valley line | $1,033,980 57 | $978,843 69 | Inc $55,136 88 |
| Expenses | 672,367 85 | 577,559 23 | Inc. 94,808 62 |
| Net earnings | $401,612 71 | $401,284 46 | Inc. $328 26 |
| Per cent of expenses | 61·16 | 59·03 | Inc. 2·16 |

The expenses include $41,144 44 trackage paid to the Chesapeake & Ohio road and to the Baltimore & Potomac from Alexandria to Washington. The net earnings were 6·02 per cent on the funded debt.

The debt of the company at the close of the last two fiscal years (Sept. 30), was as follows:

| | 1875. | 1874. |
| Funded debt | $6,667,454 00 | $6,425,559 00 |
| Floating debt, secured | 963,047 54 | 1,685,991 00 |
| " " unsecured | 582,092 64 | |
| Total debt | $8,215,594 18 | $8,161,550 00 |

The funded debt increased $191,895 during the year, and the floating debt decreased $137,857 82, leaving a net increase of debt of $54,044 18. The funded debt is $19,844 and the floating debt $4,608 per mile. The company is largely indebted to the Baltimore & Ohio, which holds a large amount of its bonds, and has made advances to it from time to time for several years.

The report says that—

A policy of the strictest economy has been pursued, but the general depression of business and still more the very low rates on through freight, caused by the sharp competition which has prevailed, have prevented any considerable increase of earnings. The low through rates are also chargeable with the increase in the proportion of expenses to earnings. It is hoped that with the improvement of business and the increase of through rates to a fair standard the present year may make a better showing.

The president renews the recommendation that the company build a new line of its own between Charlottesville and Gordonsville. The possession of such a line will enable the company to avoid the heavy trackage charges now paid to the Chesapeake & Ohio, and by its judicious location some additional local traffic may be secured.

Wilmington Columbia & Augusta.

The net earnings of the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad Company (leased), for the year were:

| Earnings of the year | $269,509 25 |
| To which should be added interest received | 3,371 23 |
| | $272,880 48 |

| Amount of interest paid | $116,899 69 | |
| " " rental dividends paid | 101,661 00 | |
| " invested in real estate and old accounts charged to profit and loss account | 9,207 24 | $228,767 93 |
| Net profit to credit of lessor | | $14,112 55 |
| The net earnings of the Wilmington Columbia & Augusta Railroad Company, for the same period, are | | 136,158 60 |
| To which add profit derived from operating the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad for the year | | 44,112 55 |
| | | $188,271 15 |
| Paid coupon interest and discount | | 282,323 59 |
| Deficit | | $99,052 44 |
| Less proceeds of bonds sold | | 23,682 60 |
| Net deficit | | $75,369 84 |

The report says:

"The freight receipts of the Wilmington Columbia & Augusta Railroad show a decrease of 26 per centum on local and an increase of 5 per centum on through freights. In the passenger receipts there is a decrease of 16 per centum in local and an increase of 6 per centum in through travel, from which it is apparent that the causes which have led to diminished receipts are local, and, therefore, it is believed, temporary in their character.

"The bills payable of the Wilmington Columbia & Augusta Railroad Company, which at the end of the fiscal year amounted to $985,419 66 (exclusive of the $20,000 for the payment of which the Charlotte Columbia & Augusta Railroad Company is liable) had, up to the 13th inst., been reduced by payments from our net earnings to $921,348 72.

"While, therefore, the business year opens with such fair prospects that it may reasonably be expected that its net earnings will exceed those of any preceding year, still, in view of the great importance to the permanent value of the property of the company of the removal of the shops and depots above referred to, and the building of the necessary docks, &c., and the expense attending the same, it becomes necessary to ask the indulgence of the first mortgage bondholders till the changes referred to are made. Thenceforth, it is believed, there will be no trouble in promptly meeting our interest and gradually paying off our floating debt. The increased value of the road will fully compensate the holders of bonds, for which it is mortgaged as security, for the temporary suspension of the payment of coupons."

GENERAL INVESTMENT NEWS.

Canada Southern.—It is reported that Commodore Vanderbilt has bought a large part of the bonds of the Canada Southern Railroad, under a contract to complete the extension of 100 miles to Chicago early in the Spring. This would give the New York Central an independent line from Buffalo to Chicago direct.

Cherry Valley Sharon & Albany.—It is reported that this road will shortly be sold under foreclosure of mortgage. It is twenty-one miles long, from Cherry Valley to the Albany & Susquehanna at Cobleskill.

Illinois Central.—WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The Attorney-General's opinion has been given on the question submitted to him by the Secretary of the Treasury as to refunding the $176,251, tax on dividends of the Illinois Central Railroad Company on stock held by non-resident aliens, the matter at issue being whether the money shall be paid to the company, as they claim it should be, or to the non-resident alien stockholders. The Attorney-General says:

This money was claimed and received by the United States as income tax upon dividends of stock held by non-resident aliens, made by the Illinois Central Railroad Company, in the years 1863, 1864, 1865, and 1866. Subsequently the courts of the United States declared it to be illegal to exact this tax upon dividends of stock belonging to aliens non-resident in this country. The officers of the company are trustees of the stockholders, and they held the money earned, in trust, for the owners of the stock after payment of all legal claims against the company. The officers of the road were bound to pay over the dividends earned, to the stockholders, and they had no right to withhold five per cent or any other sum for any illegal purpose, and, if so withheld, the stockholders might sue for and recover the same against the road. These alien stockholders can recover from the company any money to which they have a lawful right. The Government unlawfully exacted the money from the railroad company, and it should be paid back to the company from which it was unlawfully taken. The non-resident alien stockholders can recover it of the corporation.

Indianapolis Bloomington & Western.—The report of General George B. Wright, Receiver, shows that, during the past year, 64 miles of new iron and steel rails have been laid, 2¼ miles of side track put in, 146,000 cross-ties laid, 24 miles of track graveled, thirteen bridges entirely rebuilt, three station-houses built and six stock-yards fitted up. The liabilities of the Company aggregate $23,726,600, which may be increased by interest and outstanding claims not yet adjusted. Payments have been made on the floating debt the past year to the amount of $52,152, of which $15,360 was on balances due other roads and $30,000 on pay-rolls. The earnings for the past year were $1,173,432, of which $767,567 was from freight and $359,594 from passengers. The total receipts were $1,475,319, and the total expenditure $1,403,064.

—The mortgage bondholders of the Western Extension of the I. B. & W. Railroad met this week to hear the report of a special committee, appointed in October to consider the present condition of their property. The Committee reported that they had sought to confer with the committees representing the several mortgages on the main line, with a view to uniting their efforts and making the reorganization general; but their proposals had not been favorably received by those committees. The Committee recommend that the Western Extension bondholders assess themselves one-half per cent., to defray necessary expenses in ascertaining and protecting their legal rights, and that a committee of five be appointed to take full control of the matter. The report was accepted, the one-half per cent. assessment was authorized, and the following gentlemen were appointed as the committee: Sumner R. Stone, Solomon Mead, F. D. Tappen, John Welch and H. K. Thurber.

Oil Creek & Alleghany.—The sale of the Oil Creek & Alleghany Valley Railroad, under foreclosure of mortgages, was made at the Philadelphia Exchange December 29, at noon, for $100,000. It was purchased by a committee for the bondholders.

Railroad Freights to the West.—An adjustment of the difficulties with the Grand Trunk and Vermont Central has been made on a basis of 75 cents on first-class freight to Chicago. The N. Y. Tribune says:

The result of the final meeting yesterday between officers of the Grand Trunk Line of Canada, the Vermont Central, and the New York Central Railroad, met the highest expectations of New York and Western railroad managers. An amicable adjustment of differences was reached and hands shaken over what, the night before, seemed an irreparable breach. The settlement is on a basis of equal freight rates from both Boston and New York, and as soon as the tariff details can be arranged, westward rates will be advanced to 75 cents per hundred on first-class freights from Boston and New York to Chicago.

COMMERCIAL EPITOME.

FRIDAY NIGHT, Dec. 31, 1875.

The year closes with a quiet, but cheerful, tone pervading business circles. It is believed that the depressing influences which have been felt with such force for more than two years have nearly or quite exhausted themselves; that no measures calculated to disturb values or check the restoration of confidence are likely to be taken at the present session of Congress; and that trade and commerce, left to legitimate influences, may be expected to exhibit a satisfactory revival on the opening of the new year.

Provisions have generally been quiet, and the speculation in hog products has been towards lower prices. Mess pork declined, and sold latterly at $20 65@$20 70 for December, $20 40 for January, and $20 75 for March. Beef is without new feature. Bacon has been quiet at 10¢c. for city long clear. Cut meats have been firm, but the business light, except for pickled rib bellies, in bulk, which have been sold largely at 11¼@12c. Lard declined to 12 13-16c., spot and January, 13c. for February, and 13¼c. for March. Butter and cheese have been quiet and unchanged. Tallow has been moderately active at 9 15-16@10c., and stearine at 13¼c. for prime Western. To-day, the market was quiet, except for lard, and prices without essential change. The progress of pork packing is detailed in the Cincinnati Price Current, which publishes an elaborate report, with estimates for the entire season, which indicate a falling off at all interior points in the West amounting to 570,000 hogs, and with a possible falling off at the leading cities enough to make the aggregate decrease 750,000, compared with last year. The Price Current, however, regards the chances favoring a final deficiency somewhat less than this number, and that, taking the increased weights into consideration, it may be safe to calculate that the hog crop will not materially vary from 5,000,000 hogs at last year's weights, against 5,566,000 last year, a decrease of 10 per cent. The packing to date at all points is approximately 3,000,000, against 4,000,000 hogs a year ago. The interior points in Ohio show ten to twelve pounds decrease in weights; Indiana, about the same as last year; Illinois, 20 pounds increase; Iowa, 15 pounds increase; Missouri, 35 pounds increase; Kansas and Nebraska, 50 pounds increase, and a moderate increase in other sections.

Rio coffee has arrived freely, and the stock at this point has increased to 158,200 bags, with a visible supply for the United States of 341,000 bags; prices have declined, and fair to prime cargoes quoted at 17¼@19c. gold. Mild coffees dull, with the stock of Java increased to 72,500 mats, and of other growths 38,600 bags and 9,400 mats. Rice has been very dull. Molasses steady, but the business mainly in domestic of the new crop. Teas have been quiet, though ruling steady. Spices are weak. Foreign dried fruits have ruled steady, but with little doing. Sugars have been very dull, and prices have favored buyers—good refining Cuba quoted at 8¼c, and standard crushed 10¼c.

Kentucky tobacco has been in moderate demand and steady, at 7@8¼c. for lugs and 10@18c. for leaf; the sales for the week embraced 700 hhds., of which 400 were for export and 300 for consumption. There has been a fair demand for seed leaf at about steady prices; the sales embrace: Crop of 1873, 31 cases Connecticut, at 11c., 709 cases Ohio, at 5¼@14c., 76 cases New York and 100 cases Wisconsin, on private terms; crop of 1874, 58 cases Massachusetts, at 7c., 44 cases Connecticut, at 12c., 250 cases Pennsylvania, at 12@14c., 120 cases Wisconsin, at 6¼c., and 25 cases New York, on private terms; also 200 cases sundry kinds, at 7@10c. Spanish tobacco has remained steady, with a moderate business; sales 400 bales Havana, at 88c @$1.15.

The market for ocean freights has latterly shown some weakness, consequent upon more liberal offerings of room, and a decreased demand from all classes of exporters. Late engagements and charters included: Grain to Liverpool, by steam, 10d. per 60 lbs.; provisions, 50s. per ton; cotton, 13-32@7-16d.; grain, by sail, 8¼d.; cotton, 5-16@11 32d.; flour, 3s. 3d. Grain to London, by steam, 11¼d.; do., by sail, 8¼d.; flour, 3s. Grain to Glasgow, by sail, 9¼d., and flour, 3s. 3d. Grain to Cork for orders, 6s. 10¼d; crude petroleum to Havre, 5s.; refined do. to Bremen, 4s. 1¼d. To-day, there was only a moderate business, but no further changes took place. Grain to Liverpool, by steam, 10d.; do. to London, by sail, 9d. Flour to Glasgow, 3s. 1¼d., by sail; refined petroleum to Gibraltar for orders, 5s. 6d.; naphtha to Cork for orders, 5s. 10¼d.; case oil to Beyrout, 37½c., gold.

Naval stores have shown but few changes. Spirits turpentine at one time sold fairly at 37½c., which is the closing price. Rosins, on the contrary, have been dull, and close weak at $1 65@$1 70 for common to good strained.

Petroleum has latterly shown an advance, under higher advices from the Creek; crude, in bulk, closes at 7⅞@7¼c.; refined, in bbls., 13¼@13⅝c. for January delivery. Ingot copper has been quiet; sales, 100,000 lbs. Lake, at 23½c., cash.

Linseed oil steady at 62@63c. Crude fish oils quiet and unchanged. Hides have been in moderate demand and steady; dry Buenos Ayres quoted at 20@23½c., gold, and dry Texas, 18@19½c., currency. Whiskey has declined to $1 13½. Clover seed has sold at 12 11-16@13½c. for Western and State.

THE MOVEMENT OF THE CROP, as indicated by our telegrams from the South to-night, is given below. * The exports this week under the head of "other ports" include from Boston 421 bales to Liverpool; from Philadelphia 944 bales to Liverpool.

☞ Our telegram from New Orleans to-night shows that besides the above exports the amount of cotton on shipboard, and engaged for shipment at that port, is as follows: For Liverpool, 60,000 bales; for Havre, 32,500 bales; for Continent, 18,000 bales; for coastwise ports, 2,000 bales; total, 112,500 bales; which, if deducted from the stock, would leave 158,000 bales representing the quantity at the landing and in presses unsold or awaiting orders.

From the foregoing statement it will be seen that, compared with the corresponding week of last season, there is an increase in the exports this week of 38,966 bales, while the stocks to-night are 17,217 bales less than they were at this time a year ago. The following is our usual table showing the movement of cotton at all the ports from Sept. 1 to Dec. 24, the latest mail dates:

These mail returns do not correspond precisely with the total of the telegraphic figures, because in preparing them it is always necessary to incorporate every correction made at the ports.

There has been a fair demand for cotton on the spot the past week from shippers, while home spinners have been doing very little. Considerable changes in quotations have been made, stained and low grades being materially reduced, the medium grades very slightly changed, and the higher grades somewhat advanced; but the extent of the variations can be most readily shown by the following comparison of prices:

To-day, the market was quiet and unchanged.

For future delivery, the large receipts at the ports, and the decline in gold, had on Tuesday a depressing influence, under which the market opened on Wednesday; but later on that day, and in the course of yesterday's business, prices had returned to the figures of the previous Friday, in the face of an advance in the bank rate, and large receipts at the ports. There has been in some quarters a disposition to restore the early crop estimates of 4¼ million bales and upward, but this has been combatted by others, who have poluted to the smaller stocks at the interior towns to demonstrate that the present free movement is nothing more than a free marketing of the crop. To-day, the market opened weak, but was steadied up a little at the close by the comparatively small movement at the interior towns of the South. After 'Change, there were sales at 13 5-32c. for January, 13 11-32c. for February, 14 1-16c. for May, and 14 9-16c. for August.

The total sales for forward delivery for the week are 74,700 bales, including —— free on board. For immediate delivery the total sales foot up this week 7,648 bales, including 5,163 for export, 2,021 for consumption, 464 for speculation, and —— in transit. Of the above, 300 bales were to arrive. The following are the closing quotations:

* In taking count of stock last year (Dec. 31, 1874), there was found an excess of 88,630 bales, and in counting stock the previous year (Dec. 31, 1873,) the excess found was 119,870 bales. Count of stock was taken this year, October 30.

These figures indicate a decrease in the cotton in sight to-night of 62,636 bales as compared with the same date of 1874, an increase of 90,369 bales as compared with the corresponding date of 1873, and an increase of 436,671 bales as compared with 1872.

AT THE INTERIOR PORTS the movement—that is the receipts and shipments for the week and stock to-night, and for the corresponding week of 1874—is set out in detail in the following statement:

| | Week ending Dec. 31, 1875. | | | Week ending Dec. 31, 1874 | | |

The above totals show that the old interior stocks have increased during the week 10,618 bales, and are to-night 20,169 bales less than at the same period last year. The receipts have been 13,560 bales more than the same week last year.

BOMBAY SHIPMENTS.—According to our cable despatch received to-day, there have been 7,000 bales shipped from Bombay to Great Britain the past two weeks, and 5,000 bales to the Continent; while the receipts at Bombay during this week have been 12,000 bales. The movement since the 1st of January is as follows These are the figures of W. Nicol & Co., of Bombay, and are brought down to Thursday, Dec. 30:

|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1875 | 7,000 | 5,000 | 12,000 | 799,000 | 459,000 | 1,258,000 | 12,000 | 1,303,000 |
| 1874 | 15,000 | 5,000 | 20,000 | 853,000 | 406,000 | 1,259,000 | 16,000 | 1,321,000 |
| 1873 | 5,000 | 12,000 | 17,000 | 737,000 | 225,000 | 962,000 | 8,000 | 1,033,000 |

From the foregoing it would appear that, compared with last year, there is a decrease of 8,000 bales this year in the week's shipments from Bombay to Europe, and that the total movement since January 1 shows a decrease in shipments of 1,000 bales compared with the corresponding period of 1874.

WEATHER REPORTS BY TELEGRAPH.—The past week has been rainy and very unfavorable. Little cotton would probably in any event be picked during the holidays, but these frequent rains are doing great harm to the crop still ungathered more especially in the Southwest, where, over a considerable section, there is much cotton still outstanding. Our reports have shown that the total crop brought to the picking season was very large; how much of it has been or will be saved is more doubtful. Certainly, these constant rains have been very disappointing and injurious. In Texas the picking is probably completed, but in the other Southwestern States much remains to be done.

Galveston, Texas.—We have had three showery days this week, with the rest of the week cloudy. The cause of the large receipts is that railroad traffic has been fully resumed. Waggoning is still suspended, and the receipts will consequently be light after the depots are cleared. The rainfall this week has been fifty-five hundredths of an inch, and for the month of December nine inches and sixty-six hundredths. The thermometer has averaged 66, the highest being 73 and the lowest 56.

Indianola, Texas.—There have been two showery days, with a rainfall of twenty-seven hundredths of an inch. The roads are very bad. For the month the rainfall has reached five inches and sixteen hundredths. The thermometer has averaged 64, the highest being 75 and the lowest 52.

Corsicana, Texas.—It has rained hard here two days the past week, and the rest of the week has been cloudy. The roads are wretched. The rainfall this week has been two inches and eight hundredths, and during the month seven inches and sixty-six hundredths. The thermometer has averaged 58, the highest being 76 and the lowest 35.

Dallas, Texas.—We have had two showery days, and the balance of the week cloudy and drizzling. The weather is very unfavorable for the movement of the crop, and the roads are bad. Rainfall this week is seventy-five hundredths of an inch, and for the month five inches and ten hundredths. The thermometer has averaged 60, the highest being 74 and the lowest 30.

New Orleans, Louisiana.—We have had warm, sultry weather all the week, with rain on one day, the rainfall reaching twenty hundredths of an inch, and for the month the rainfall was five inches and seventy-two hundredths. The thermometer has averaged 72.

Shreveport, Louisiana.—There was rain here on Sunday and Tuesday last, the rainfall reaching one inch and sixty-four hundredths. Average thermometer for the week, 61; highest, 79, and lowest, 41. Receipts the past week were small.

Vicksburg, Mississippi.—The rainfall this week was three and nineteen hundredths inches, and the average thermometer 63. The weather has been warm, sultry and wet.

Columbus, Mississippi.—We have had warm, sultry, wet weather. There have been five rainy days, with a rainfall of four inches and seventy hundredths, and the thermometer has averaged 61, the extreme range being 55 to 68.

Little Rock, Arkansas.—The past two weeks have been very unfavorable for gathering cotton, and the beating rains have destroyed a large portion left in the fields, which is about one-third of the entire crop in this section. The thermometer the past two weeks has ranged from 27 to 74, averaging 54. The rainfall for the same period was four inches and seven hundredths; for the month four and a half inches.

Nashville, Tennessee.—There have been three rainy days here, and it is now sultry and threatening. The rainfall has reached a total of two inches and seventy hundredths. The thermometer has averaged 56, the extreme range being 48 to 64.

Memphis, Tennessee.—There were four rainy days the past week, and the rest of the week was cloudy, the rainfall reaching three and forty hundredths inches. The average thermometer was 56, the highest 61 and the lowest 48.

Mobile, Alabama.—The weather has been warm, sultry and wet. It was showery two days, the rainfall reaching fifty-one hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has ranged from 62 to 75, averaging 68.

Montgomery, Alabama.—It has rained continually six days out of the seven, the rainfall aggregating three and seventy-nine hundredths inches. The thermometer has averaged 67, the extremes being 62 and 75. The rain, coupled with the holidays, is the cause of the small receipts this week.

Selma, Alabama.—Rain fell on four days of the past week to the extent of four inches and thirty-three hundredths. The thermometer has averaged 66.

Madison, Florida.—There has been no rain here the past week, the weather being warm and dry. The thermometer has averaged 56, the highest being 75 and the lowest 37. Contracts with freedmen for the coming year are now being made at about last year's rates.

Macon, Georgia.—We had two rainy days here the past week. The thermometer has averaged 65, the highest being 73 and the lowest 58.

Atlanta, Georgia.—It was showery three days this week, and it rained constantly two days, the remaining two days being cloudy. The weather has been warm and sultry, the thermometer averaging 63, and ranging from 62 to 70. The rainfall for the week was four and twenty-two hundredths inches.

Columbus, Georgia.—It was showery three days the past week, the rainfall reaching one inch and twenty-one hundredths. The rainfall for the month was three and eighty-eight hundredths inches. Average thermometer during the week 67, highest 74 and lowest 62.

Savannah, Georgia.—The weather the past week has been warm and dry, rain having fallen on one day to the extent of only one hundredth of an inch. The rainfall for the month was one inch and forty-one hundredths. Average thermometer 67, highest 80 and lowest 57.

Augusta, Georgia.—The weather here the past week has been warm, sultry and wet. The early part of the week there were three rainy days, the rainfall reaching one inch and sixty-seven hundredths. Total rainfall for the month, three inches and fifty-five hundredths. Average thermometer during the week, 65; highest, 77, and lowest, 56.

Charleston, South Carolina.—We had a slight rain one day this week, the rainfall reaching two hundredths of an inch. Total rainfall for the month, one inch and eighty-two hundredths. Average thermometer during the week, 64; highest, 72, and lowest, 55.

The following statement we have also received by telegraph showing the height of the rivers at the points named at 8 o'clock Dec. 30. We give last year's figures (Dec. 31, 1874) for comparison.

| | | —Dec. 30, '75— | | —Dec. 31, '74.— | |
| | | Feet. | Inch. | Feet. | Inch. |
| New Orleans | Below high-water mark | 10 | 3 | 14 | 8 |

New Orleans reported below high-water mark of 1871 until Sept. 9, 1874, when the zero of gauge was changed to high-water mark of April 15 and 16, 1874, which is 6-10ths of a foot above 1871, or 16 feet above low-water mark at that point.

COTTON SPINNING FOR 1875.—In our editorial columns of to-day will be found our annual report on cotton spinning in the United States. We think it will be found to contain many points of more than usual interest.

EUROPEAN SPINNERS' TAKINGS.—The following is our statement in detail of European takings for consumption to Dec. 1. The Continental figures are made up from the very complete and elaborate tables of Messrs. Ellison & Co., but the statements for Liverpool and London are mainly prepared from the official figures of the Cotton Brokers' Associations of those cities. The form we have thrown these facts into is the usual one in this country, which is so simple each reader can easily understand the movement. For instance, the spinners' takings are found by adding the total net imports (that is, the imports less the exports) to the stock on the first of last January and deducting from that total the present stock.

* A count of stock at London, August 21, showed the estimated stock to be overstated 23,003 bales. That is to say, Bombay was 8,437 bales too large, Madras 1,851 bales too large, Brazil 14,347 bales too large, and other descriptions 1,632 too small. Hence, in determining the spinners' takings from London, we have, of course, made allowance for these errors.

It should be stated that the Continental figures are only to Dec. 1, so that the total takings, 4,995,392 bales, include for the Continent only 47 weeks, and for Great Britain 48 weeks, and have, therefore, averaged per week 59,313 for Great Britain and 45,705 for the Continent, or a total for Europe of 105,018 bales.

GUNNY BAGS, BAGGING, &C.—Bagging—The market for bagging, the past week, has been quiet and only small sales have been made. Prices rule firm, however, and manufacturers are not disposed to sell at the quoted figures on account of the increased cost of butts. At the close the market is quiet but strong at 12¼c. Bales are neglected and nominal. Butts have been in request and prices rule firm, and spot lots are held at 3⅜@3½c. cash, with small lots selling. To arrive, we hear of 3,500 bales at 2⅜@2½c. gold, cash and time. The stock on hand continues small and is decreasing; holders are firm as to price, and figures will not be shaded. We give below a statement of visible supplies to May 1, 1876:

BREADSTUFFS.

FRIDAY, P. M., December 31, 1875.

The flour market has been quiet the past week, with scarcely a change in quotations. Trade has been of a holiday character, and the business for export has been limited by a scarcity of freight room, a decline in gold and exchange, and other unfavorable influences. The stock in this market is found to be about 400,000 bbls., which is a moderate increase over preceding years, but it is well held, and generally of grades which are most in request. Corn meal has slightly declined, leading to more business, and closes firm. Rye flour shows no change. To-day the market was unchanged, except in some improvement in the export demand.

The wheat market has shown a hardening tendency the past week, and in all low grades, as well as in the better grades of winter growths, there has been some advance. A better supply of shipping, brought in by a favorable wind, has led to a decline in ocean freights, and the wants of shippers have seemed to be much more urgent. Receipts have fallen off at all points, and stocks are generally firmly held, though the higher rates for money have developed a little weakness in some instances and a readiness to meet the views of buyers. Local millers have not bought much, because they have not been able to sell their flour on advantageous terms. To-day, there was some speculative demand on Western account, which caused some irregularity of prices; $1 24 paid for No. 2 Chicago in store.

Indian corn has been variable. Early in the week a considerable decline was submitted to, under increased supplies of new and high rates of ocean freights, with great scarcity of steamer room. There were free sales of prime new mixed at 64@65c., but yesterday freights were lower, foreign advices were stronger, and there was an advance; there were free sales at 66@66½c. for prime new and 73c. for prime old, with a subsequent advance to 68c. for new and 74c. for old. To-day, the market was less active and scarcely so firm.

The quotations of rye are nominally unchanged. Barley has further declined, but at the concession holders show much firmness, and the demand is more general. Barley malt has been quiet and unchanged. Canada peas have been in fair request, and not plenty at the late decline. Oats have been dull, but have scarcely varied. No. 2, mixed, sold yesterday at 47½c. on the spot and for early arrival. To-day the market was quiet and weak.

THE DRY GOODS TRADE.

FRIDAY, P. M., Dec. 31, 1875.

The market has been dull all the week with package houses. Most of the jobbers have been taking account of stock and closing up the transactions of the year; consequently their purchases were restricted to such goods as were required for filling orders, and were light in the aggregate, as were their own sales. The chief feature of interest in the market was a break in fine bleached shirtings, some of which, including Wamsutta and Davol, were reduced to lower prices than ever known for these popular goods. As might have been expected, the low prices enabled agents to effect large sales, which had a depressing influence upon fine medium makes, which are now relatively too high. The failure was reported of James A. Smith, Worcester, Mass., and James A. and G. M. Smith, in neighboring place, with estimated liabilities of $600,000. These firms were extensive manufacturers of woolen goods, and employed thirty-six sets of woolen cards. There will be unusually few business changes at the close of the year, although some old importing and commission houses will relinquish the trade.

DOMESTIC COTTON GOODS.—There was a moderate movement in brown sheetings, low grade cotton flannels and corset jeans, on account of former orders, but very little new business. The feature in bleached cottons was the reduction, as above stated, of some of the most prominent shirtings in the trade, when the following revisions were made: Wamsutta, 13c. less 5 per cent.; Davol, 12c. less 5 and 2½ per cent., and New York Mills discount increased to 10 per cent. Tickings, denims, ducks and other colored cottons remained quiet, but cottonades were in some demand by clothiers. Rolled jacconets, cambrics and silesias moved slowly, and there was very little doing in grain bags, batts, warps or domestic twines. Print cloths were quiet and cash purchases of extra standard 64x64 could have been made at 4¼, although the nominal asking price was 4⅜, 30 days. Plaid prints were in fair demand for the season, and some considerable lots of these goods were distributed to Western and Southern jobbers, but printed shirtings and cambrics continued sluggish. Ginghams and plaid cotton dress goods were in limited request, and the supply of dark styles has been greatly reduced in first hands.

DOMESTIC WOOLEN GOODS.—The business of the week was interrupted by the holidays, which caused many of the larger clothiers to leave the market temporarily. Fine grades fancy cassimeres were shown in increased variety by the leading agents, who received fair orders from jobbers for January delivery. The clothing trade also bought moderate lots of low and medium cassimeres, and, on the whole, the distribution of this class of fabrics was up to expectations. Worsted and imitation worsted coatings were taken in considerable amounts by clothiers and jobbers. Cloths and doeskins remained quiet, and there was not much animation in either Kentucky jeans or satinets, although printed makes of the latter found some buyers. Flannels and blankets were quiet, as is usually the case at this advanced period of the season. Dress goods, in full colorings, were quiet, and as yet few of the agents have shown their new spring styles. Shawls and felt skirts were dull and irregular in price.

FOREIGN DRY GOODS.—There was a very limited demand for small lots of the most staple fabrics and specialties, but activity was lacking in all departments. Black cashmeres and pure mohairs were in steady request, but selections were individually small. Colored silks, in such shades as seal brown and myrtle, were in demand, but most other colors were neglected. Fine black silks ruled quiet, but low and medium grades were in moderate request. Mantilla velvets continued depressed, but trimming velvets were in steady request. Linen goods ruled quiet, and handkerchiefs became dull. White goods, laces and embroideries were severally quiet.

TO THE BONDHOLDERS OF THE

Chesapeake & Ohio R.R. COMPANY.

By a decision rendered in the United States Circuit Court, the proceedings for the foreclosure and sale of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad are transferred to the State Courts of Virginia and West Virginia, and General W. C. WICKHAM has been appointed Receiver by these Courts, in accordance with the nearly unanimous choice of the Bondholders and all other parties represented, to be put in possession on the 18th inst.

This result is of great importance to the interests of the bondholders, and will inspire renewed confidence in the future of the enterprise, and promote the early consummation of the PLAN OF REORGANIZATION, which has already been accepted by Bondholders to the extent of over $10,000 000, including upwards of $6,000,000 of the First Mortgage Bonds. Many others have only awaited the decision of the questions pending in the United States Court.

It is important to the interests of all who desire to participate in its advantages that they should signify their assent to it without delay.

When it is accomplished, all the measures for the improvement of the connections and business of the Road will receive a new impetus; and in the hands of a reorganized Company, freed from financial embarrassment, and possessing the advantages of confidence and credit, a marked improvement in all its interests, as well as in the market value of its securities, must follow.

Copies of the Plan of Reorganization, which every Bondholder should obtain immediately, may be had at the office of FISK & HATCH, No. 5 Nassau Street, or will be mailed by them to any address.

We, the undersigned, being holders of First Mortgage Bonds, have accepted and heartily approve the above Plan of Reorganization:

THE GOLD SUPPLY AND ITS USES.

The opinion has been much agitated, both here and abroad, whether the supply of the precious metals throughout the world is just now increasing or falling off. A partial solution of this problem is given in the annual report, just published, of the gold and silver production of this country. The report is issued by Mr. Valentine, of Wells, Fargo & Co., San Francisco, and has appeared earlier than usual. It shows that the aggregate yield of gold for the year ending December 31, 1875, was about equal to the average of the last ten years. The amount was $26,340,476, against $26,358,776 in 1874. The production of silver shows a notable increase. It is reported at $54,530,561, against $48,042,279 in 1874. Altogether the whole yield of the mines of this country amounts to more than eighty millions of dollars of gold and silver, which is a greater sum than that of any previous year. In 1853 the aggregate supply of the precious metals was 65 millions, and this total was not exceeded till 1873, when the aggregate was $72,258,693, or eight and a half millions less than in 1875. Subjoined are the statistics of 1875:

These figures are quite as satisfactory as the more sanguine of our financial observers had anticipated. To show the progress which has been made, we add the aggregates for the year 1874. It will be seen that there is a slight falling off in the product of California and Utah. But this was more than compensated by the rapid increase in Nevada and Colorado. Another point of interest is the steadiness of the supply of gold, which remains, as we have said, at about the same level, while the increase of the year is confined to the yield of silver. It is worthy of remark that the aggregate product of the year was estimated, twelve months ago, by Mr. Valentine at 80 millions. This close approach to accuracy lends some authority to the estimates for 1876, which are set down at 90 millions, of which Nevada is expected to produce 50 millions, or 25 per cent. more than last year. If we add these figures to the tables of Mr. Rossiter Raymond, we shall find that the total production of the precious metals in this country from 1848 to 1875 will amount to $1,582,090,092. Of this sum the gold product has been $1,293,458,252, and that of silver, $288,631,830. It follows that, at the estimated rate of silver production, we shall in the next five years raise and send to market more silver than during the previous quarter of a century. How far the activity of production may be checked by a lower scale of prices and by a declining demand for silver, is a matter which the speculators in silver mines and mining shares have for some time past been anxiously pondering.

Nor is the solicitude on this point confined to the speculators at the Stock Exchange. It is spreading elsewhere. In an elaborate article in the December number of the Journal des Economistes, M. Bonnet discusses some aspects of this question, and arrives at a very decided opinion as to the future price of silver. His conclusions are very like those to which we have been led by the same facts which he passes in review. Without recapitulating the oft-repeated arguments, we content ourselves with observing that M. Bonnet regards the price of silver as so unstable, uncertain and open to violent changes, that silver coin is wholly unfit to constitute the monetary standard of any modern commercial country. He therefore calls upon the French government to demonitize silver and to make it a subordinate currency receivable only for small sums, instead of being a standard currency co-ordinate with gold, as it is at present in France. M. Bonnet cites the example of this country, but he makes the mistake of supposing that we did not give up the double standard of our coinage until 1873. It is well known that the change was made twenty years earlier. The coinage law of 1853 did for our metallic money what M. Bonnet wishes a French law in 1876 to do for the coinage of France. He would have gold as the standard of the monetary system, and he would make the silver coins a legal tender for no sums above $5·00 or twenty-five francs. This single gold standard is adopted, or is about to prevail, in Germany, Portugal, Holland and other parts of Europe, while it has been established in England for nearly half a century. Russia, also, is preparing for specie resumption by accumulating gold in the Imperial State Bank, instead of the silver of which its former bullion reserve used to consist. M. Bonnet adds Austria to the list of countries about to resume specie payments on a gold basis. Our information does not confirm this part of M. Bonnet's argument. At Vienna, as at Washington, some of the people in authority have supposed that silver resumption could be made a stepping-stone to resumption in gold, if not a substitute therefor.

As to the soundness of M. Bonnet's views on the general question of silver coinage and on the probability that a great demand will continue for some years for a supply of gold coin in Europe, there is no doubt; for his views are supported by the best authorities here and in Europe. In this point of view the figures given above assume a new interest. They show us that in estimating the effect of our annual production of the precious metals towards aiding the prompt return to specie payments, two things must be held conspicuously before us, if we would escape serious errors and miscalculations. In the first place, we must distinguish between the supply of gold and that of silver, the latter promising to be of more limited utility as an instrument of resumption, while the former is all important. Secondly, the same principle must preside over our estimates as to the outflow of the precious metals by exportation. It may be argued that we can send to the Orient and to other foreign countries any amount of the precious metals which they are likely to want, so long as our exports are chiefly composed of silver. But, for the next three years, our progress towards specie payments, other things being equal, will be facilitated and aided by any economic movements which tend to check gold from being exported, and to substitute other products of exportation to foreign countries. Now it so happens that at the present time a number of circumstances are combining to produce the result to which we have referred. To some of these events, with their economic value, and their effects in depressing the recent premium on gold, we shall often have to return hereafter. They depend partly on the demand in Europe for our breadstuffs, manufactures, and other exportable products, and partly on the flow of foreign capital into our best securities. Some of our shrewdest bankers declare that there has not been a time, for many years, in which the demand in England for good American securities has been so full of promise. The causes of this growing activity in the demand are of such a permanent character that it is expected not only to keep up, but also to expand, if it be directed with intelligence and judicious scrutiny. Meanwhile, as we have said, it is to be reckoned as one among the numerous advantages accruing to our finances from this export of securities, that so far as it saves us from the possible contingency of exporting gold, it gives us important aid in our efforts for the restoration of specie payments.

THE DEBATE IN THE SENATE ON RESUMPTION.

The attitude of Congress is more satisfactory in regard to the currency question than at the beginning of any previous session for some years past. Several important questions were raised in the Senate, on Thursday, during the debate on Mr. Morrill's bill on resumption. This bill has two principal features: first, it prescribes what the Government is to do to prepare for specie payments; and, secondly, it enacts what the national banks have to do in the same work of preliminary preparation. With regard to the part which the Government has to perform, Mr. Morrill's bill is merely a supplementary act to the Resumption law of January, 1875. That statute laid down with great precision the duty of the Treasury, under certain restrictions, to reduce the currency and to redeem greenbacks prior to 1879 in bonds, and after that date in gold. Mr. Morrill's bill takes up the first of these points, the redemption in bonds. By the present law this method of redemption is limited and restricted, and Mr. Morrill proposes to add to it certain new facilities. These he explains as follows: "The original issue of legal-tender notes was a temporary war measure. It would be better, cheaper, and less likely to derange the money market, to sell or exchange 4 or 4½ per cent bonds, running thirty years or more, for the legal-tender notes, redeeming them in the manner originally proposed, than to have the Treasury exchange United States bonds for gold. If we should allow this to be done, the currency would gradually approach to that volume required by the wants of trade and of specie resumption in 1879. Nor do we need to be compelled to keep in circulation any fixed amount of legal tenders at par with specie. This would throw upon the Government the whole duty and cost of maintaining specie payments, which ultimately must mainly belong to the national banks, and this duty, it is fairly to be presumed, unless the banks mean to commit suicide, they will cheerfully assume and prepare for, just so soon as the Government no longer seeks to crowd gold out of the country by maintaining in its place United States notes. Mr. Morrill thought by January 1, 1878, the difference between paper and gold would be much less than it is now."

An amendment has been proposed to extend the four per cent bonds to fifty years, and to take off the limit of 1,000 millions, which is imposed upon their issue by the Refunding act of 1870. Another proposition of more doubtful utility is that of repealing the stipulation that the Secretary shall not sell these bonds below par in gold. The general intention of this part of the bill is to diminish the danger and difficulty of resumption, by lessening the volume of the greenbacks for which the Treasury will be liable to be called on for gold when specie payments begin in 1879. The argument is that, in proportion as we can safely diminish the volume of outstanding greenbacks before the day of coin payments arrives, in the same degree shall we lighten the perils and relieve the burdens of the Treasury at that critical period. Of course this principle is one of great importance, and is entitled to a high place in our specie-payment policy. But in providing for it other principles of equal value must not be overlooked. For example, so long as the greenback dollar is the standard of our monetary system, the changes in the volume of the paper currency will offer delicate and difficult problems for consideration. At certain periods of commercial activity and financial excitement, when the monetary system is put to its greatest strain, a sudden contraction, rashly made, in the volume of the currency, might result in precipitating confusion throughout the monetary and industrial interests of the country. For this and other reasons, we have always contended that the Treasury should possess as little discretionary control as possible over the volume of the currency, and that all the changes effected by the Treasury in the volume of the greenbacks should be under the the strictest safeguard of publicity. It is hoped that this principle, which, since the war has been so conspicuous a part of our monetary policy, will be carefully preserved in the currency legislation of the future.

Passing by several minor provisions, we turn to the second great object of Mr. Morrill's bill, which is to give to the national banks their proper place in the machinery, and in the arrangements for specie payments. The bill provides that the national banks shall begin immediately to accumulate coin, with a view to resumption. The specific requirements may, perhaps, be modified in some details. As they stand at present, they prescribe that one fourth of the cash reserve of the banks shall be held in coin. After 1st January, 1877, one-half of the reserve is to be held in coin, and after October, 1878, three-fourths. The chief objection urged against this provision is, that the coin reserve thus locked up in the vaults of the banks will displace the greenbacks, so as both to throw into the active channels of the circulation a stimulus of inflated prices, and also to weaken the strength of the banks towards their depositors. This objection is met by the reply that the banks will hold just as large a volume of greenback reserve under the new act as before; or at least that their regard for their own convenience and solvency will cause the national banks to accumulate in their vaults, and to keep by them at all times, an ample cash reserve in addition to the minimum required by the law. In confirmation of this argument, we are pointed to the official reports which show that the national banks of the interior and of the chief cities keep more reserve than is required by law. It is argued that if the banks have always kept a large percentage of cash reserves in excess of the legal minimum, much more will they follow this prudent and conservative policy during the critical period of preparation for specie payments. The inference which is deduced with much show of reason from these facts is, that the proposed accumulation of gold, as prescribed in Mr. Morrill's bill, is not only necessary but perfectly safe and salutary for the banks. The circumstance is also worthy of note that this duty of the banks to accumulate coin as a preliminary to resumption is recognized as safe and needful by Mr. McCulloch, by Mr. Spaulding, and by many other bankers and financial men of large experience. Whatever we may think of their proposition, it is certain that if Mr. Morrill's bill had proposed to deprive the bank notes of their legal tender properties, it would have better fulfilled its purpose of devolving upon the national banking system its proper functions in the work of resumption. The bill would also have been equally likely to have passed into a law.

GOVERNOR TILDEN'S MESSAGE AND REFORM MEASURES.

In times of mercantile depression the question which necessarily becomes the prominent one is how can expenses be reduced. This is so because depression is almost always the successor to extravagance, and hence there is large room for such reduction and an absolute necessity for making good the previous waste. Only through recuperation thus secured can we expect to find a basis for future progress.

Out of the very earnestness of this feeling has grown the popularity of Governor Tilden and the favor with which his messages and administration have been received. He is fortunate in being the first leading official who has appeared to understand the evil the country is laboring under, and had the courage and ability successfully to attack and expose it; for the great truth stands out that we are living in a lavish, fictitious way, with fraud and extravagance everywhere apparent. These would be harsh words, were it not for the absolute proof the country now has of their truth. As individuals, the plague spots are being hunted out and cured, for we feel it is a personal necessity with us. Our Governments, however National, State and Municipal, are still managed as if there was very little to cure, and still less capable of being cured. Governor Tilden forcibly illustrates this extravagance of governmental consumption by the following comparison of the public expenditures, according to the census figures of 1870—five years after the close of the war—with those of 1860 and 1850:

TAXES IN THE UNITED STATES.

| | 1850. Gold. | 1860. Gold. | 1870. Currency. |
| Federal | $40,000,000 | $60,010,012 | $450,000,000 |
| State, county, city and town | 43,000,000 | 94,186,746 | 280,591,521 |
| Total | $83,000,000 | $154.196,858 | $730.591,521 |
| Population | 23,191,876 | 31,443,321 | 38,558.371 |
| TAXES PER HEAD. | | | |
| Federal | $1 72 | $1 91 | $11 67 |
| Local | 1 85 | 2 99 | 7 24 |

Here is the whole case in skeleton. Since 1870, however, the General Government expenditures have been reduced by lessening the interest account and otherwise, until now (including the Post Office Department, the purchase of bonds for the sinking fund and the interest account) they reach abont $350,000,000. During the same time, however, State and municipal indebtedness has been on the increase. We all know how closely the "daily wants of the masses of mankind" press upon their daily earnings, and how great a drain, therefore, taxes sufficient to pay such expenditures as these must be upon our people. It will not do, then, for our legislators to say there can be no reduction in expenses. There must be a decided, material relief. These comparative figures prove its possibility; or if they did not prove that, the developments of the past year make clear how it can be done.

As we look at it, then, Governor Tilden's message is an admirable document, not alone as indicating so clearly what has been or may be saved in New York State, but also, and perhaps mainly, as disclosing the way to reduce taxation everywhere; for this governmental expense-account has been in each case run up in a similar manner, that is by fraud and prodigality, and must now be overcome in a similar way. First, then, let us see the items which made up the saving in State taxation last year.

| Extraordinary canal repairs..... | $1,898,144 39 | None. | $1,898,144 39 |
| Asylums and reformatory..... | 813,490 45 | $479,800 00 | 333,690 45 |
| General purposes. ..... ..... | 4,189,475 45 | 3,696,117 66 | 493,358 18 |
| Total reduction ..... ... ..... | | | $2,725,193 02 |

This was the amount saved to the people, and very much more is proposed for the coming year. How was, and is, this possible? Simply by enforcing honesty and economy in the administration of the government. Let us look, then, at some of the means used for securing the relief being obtained in our own State, and see if the plan which is working so well here could not be applied with good effect in other fields.

And first, notice the treatment our canals have received. We all know the course pursued with regard to them, and we have seen with what immediate results. Fraud and loose management, which have for years impaired the usefulness of our great highway, have been dug up, exposed, checked. Are there not overcharged services and concealed extravagances in other States and cities, and in the departments of the General Government which should be similarly treated? We heard a president of one of our railroads say, not long since, that twice as much was paid by the Government for post-office employees on his road as was necessary. This may not be so. But when we see the expenses of that department running up from about eight millions to thirty four or five millions since 1860, it would seem as if there might be room for careful inquiry. The leaks must be searched for with that laborious examination into the details of the service which has been used in ferretting out canal frauds. Then there are also the bounty payments which might be profitably looked after. If all who have made applications for affidavits to officers under whose command they were, and now claim that they have obtained a position as Government pensioners, have really obtained such position, a fair-sized ringworm has been sufficient to establish the right. In a word, every department of the General Government and all the governmental machinery of every State and city need a thorough overhauling. Fraud has been the natural product of the times we have passed through, and when once fixed it has the life of a polyp.

But, as we said, Governor Tilden is not satisfied with what he has thus far accomplished. He proposes to again reduce taxation—this time to one-half the former rate. And, in seeking ways to attain this end, he calls, among other things, for the suppression of another evil which is of very general existence; that is, the wild extravagance used of late years in constructing public buildings. He mentions particularly asylums for the insane, costing so much that the outlay for each inmate is about five thousand dollars, or, say twenty-five thousand dollars for five persons, which compose the average families in the State. This is a mere illustration of a species of extravagance which everywhere is prevailing. Staid old New Jersey has just completed a palace for this same purpose. Compare the appropriation bills for 1860 and 1875, of the various States and cities on this one point, and we shall be surprised to see how liberal we have become. Still more surprising is the amount of money thus being paid out by the General Government. What post-office buildings we are having now-a-days! It would be well enough to have a beautiful stone structure in every village in the land if we had the money to pay for them. But when the whole nation is suffering under a burden of debt and taxation, and every business interest languishing, in great part, from the same cause, is it safe to continue this extravagance?

Another form of relief, the Governor seeks, is through a more careful personal management of all Government works. It is the general experience, of late years especially, that economy follows private enterprise alone; public management is always wasteful. Hence, our canals (even after all fraudulent practices have been lopped off) and our State prisons and our Salt Works, afford opportunities for retrenchment. As Mr. Tilden states, they now share the fate of all other business and speculations which the State undertakes; a decay of income and a growth of expenditures indicating the incompetence of the State, in its sleepy indifference, to compete with the ever-vigilant and earnest activity of private interests. There is certainly an important lesson in this. The fact is, we should give our Government as little to do for us as possible. Some enthusiasts have long been advocating that the powers at Washington must assume our telegraph system. If there were no other objection to the plan, the natural extravagance of Government management would be sufficient to condemn it. But, with regard to the work the Government already has to do, retrenchment is possible and necessary and a wiser policy imperative. In this State, this is especially true as to our canals. Last year, it will be remembered, the Legislature referred to the Commissioners, State Engineer and Surveyor, the subject of selling all the lateral canals which are not necessary for feeders. This matter will come up again before the present Legislature, and it is very important, in the interest of lower taxes, that some action be taken, as the following table plainly indicates:

| Canals. | Income Tolls. | Ordinary Repairs. | Extraordinary Repairs and New Work. | Total. |
| Erie Canal..... ... | $1,708,374 72 | $808,985 09 | $673,098 77 | $1,477,083 86 |

With some of these useless and expensive laterals abandoned, and with the "ordinary expenses and repairs kept down to the lowest point consistent with the efficiency of the canals," both forwarders and taxpayers will have reason to rejoice. Just this same thorough revision and supervision of all Government work at Washington, and at every State Capital, would bring about a wonderful change in the burdens the people are called upon to bear.

Only one other recommendation in the Message have we space to refer to, and that is that the appropriations be always kept down to the taxes levied. The Governor very properly says that the opposite practice has led to deficiencies in the Treasury, and floating debts which are forbidden by the Constitution, and to violations of the sinking funds. We cannot too vigilantly guard against a recurrence of these evils, or insist too inflexibly that no appropriation shall be made until the means of paying t shall have been provided.

Much more might be said upon the reformatory plans our present Governor is pursuing in the management of the State Government. In just such efforts, so wisely put forth, is the real hope of the country; for business revival lies mainly through the relief resulting from a contraction of expenditures, and this can be largely reached by an enforcement of official honesty and economy everywhere.

RETROSPECT OF 1875.

In briefly summing up the principal features of monetary and commercial affairs during 1875, it may be stated that the results of the year were notably unsatisfactory; business was disappointing and profits exceedingly small; failures were numerous and the percentage realized from assets was generally meagre; a strict economy in expenditures was still practiced by consumers; manufactures were curtailed to some extent, and wages of skilled and raw labor declined; in financial enterprises capital was timid and money accumulated without means of employment; United States bonds and other prime investment securities were in sharp demand while speculative stocks depreciated under neglect.

A recuperation in 1875 was looked for with much confidence, since the financial crisis of 1873 had been passed by more than a full year; but it failed to take place, and it appears that the disastrous effects of the panic were under-estimated and considered more transient and temporary than was really the case. Many of the same influences which affected business unfavorably in 1874 were prolonged into 1875, and still continued to operate against a substantial return of prosperity. The same rigid economy with consumers; a yet lower range of prices in many leading articles of merchandize; a minimum of profit on the transactions of manufacturers, merchants, and transportation companies; and the losses arising from the failure of many houses which had already been struggling too long to maintain themselves after the panic of 1873—these were some of the adverse influences against which the mercantile community was obliged to contend.

It had been anticipated that with the curtailment of production, and a reduced volume of foreign imports, together with the exhaustion of stocks of merchandize throughout the country, there would spring up a renewed demand for goods which would lead to a more healthy business at better prices. However correct these expectations may have been in theory, they were not realized, in fact, up to the close of 1875, and prices of many leading articles of trade, particularly of manufactured goods, ruled at low figures. The following shows the prices of a few of the more important articles about the first of January, July, October and December:

| Cotton—Mid. uplands....lb. | 14½c. | 15⅝c. | 13¼c. | 13 1-16c. |
| Corn—West. mixed...bush. | 87@93c. | 78@82c. | 67@70c. | 64@75c. |
| Wheat—No. 2 spring..bush. | $1 12@ 1 17 | $1 16@1 21 | $1 24@1 31 | $1 20@1 28 |
| Pig Iron—Am., No. 1..ton. | $25 00@26 00 | 26 00@28 00 | 25 50@26 50 | 23 00@24 00 |
| Flour—Sup. State & W..bbl. | $4 30@ 4 60 | $4 50@4 70 | $5 10@5 45 | $4 65@5 00 |
| Pork—New mess.....bbl. | $20 50 | $20 80 | $21 80 | $22 25 |
| Standard sheetings ...yard. | 10½c. | 10½c. | 10c. | 9¾c. |

The small margin allowed for profits was one of the principal causes of complaint, and in merchandize operations as well as in railroad traffic, this difficulty was more generally spoken of than the small volume of business done. So far as trade statistics can furnish an indication of the actual amount of merchandize handled during the year, the following condensed figures will show the value of exports and imports of the whole United States for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1875, as compared with the previous year, and the exports and imports of the port of New York for the calendar year 1875 as compared with 1874:

Failures during the year were numerous, and the percentage realized from the assets of houses failing was unusually small; it was evident, in a number of instances, that the parties had endeavored to keep on in business long after their books showed them to be hopelessly insolvent, and the developments of the year in this respect, while the warnings of 1873 and 1874 were yet fresh in remembrance, did not convey a very favorable idea of the prevailing standard of commercial morality.

A fair crop of cotton and large crops of cereals did something to relieve the depression of the year, but the effect of these would have been much greater had not the prices of leading products ruled at such low figures.

Capital, which is proverbially timid, could not be obtained for any new enterprises, and railroad loans were scarcely attempted in the New York market. In London, some considerable amounts of bonds were placed early in the year, but nearly all of these were for old companies of well-established reputation, whose previous loans had been well known in that market. The only new loans which, as a class, met with any favor in this country, were those offered by cities, and of these several were readily sold at full prices. As a consequence of the very moderate use of surplus funds in new financial or industrial enterprises, or in stock speculation, it was found that money accumulated at the financial centres, and during six months of the year it was difficult to place money on call, with satisfactory collaterals, at anything like remunerative rates—the price on government bond security during most of that time being 2 per cent. As showing the condition of the New York City Clearing House banks at or about the commencement of each quarter, the following summary is furnished of their statements nearest to the dates named in the past two years:

Among the general events of the year which had a bearing upon financial matters, should be mentioned the passage of the law by Congress, declaring that specie payments should be resumed on the 1st of January, 1879, and subsequently, the elections in November, in which the issue of inflation was distinctly presented in several of the States, and the advocates thereof met with a signal defeat.

The following comparisons, from the circular of Messrs. Fisk & Hatch, on January 6th, show the relative prices of government bonds, and some of the other prominent first-class securities, a year ago and at the present time:

THE MONEY MARKET.

The money market, upon the whole, was decidedly easier than in any year since the close of the war. Even in the first quarter—a period when there is usually a fair demand for money for commercial purposes—there was no considerable inquiry, and on call loans the rates were 2@3 per cent. until after the 1st of March. During the six months, from the middle of April to the middle of October, 4 per cent. was an outside rate on call loans, and during much of the time it was difficult to place money with satisfactory collaterals, at 2@3 per cent., and the quotation of 1¼ per cent., most unusual in New York, was made for several weeks as the bottom price on call money. It was not until November that loans fairly advanced to 5@6 per cent., and in the latter part of December there was some temporary stringency, with quotations up to 7 per cent. gold. Mercantile paper followed the course of call loans, and sold at very easy prices, the quotation for choicest paper being 4 per cent. during the summer months. There was considerable discrimination among purchasers as to the grades of paper taken, but the failures of the year had at no time the effect of shaking confidence to any important extent in the general soundness of the mercantile community.

The following table will show the rate for call loans and for prime commercial paper in each week of the year:

GOLD.

Gold opened at 112⅜ in January, 1875, touched 117¼ on the 21st of June, and 117⅜ on the 5th of October, and closed December 31, at 113. The price was largely controlled by speculative manipulation, which was rendered practicable by the comparatively small supply of cash gold available for market purposes. A combination among parties able to hold a few millions of gold is formed, and by withdrawing so much from the market, cash gold is made scarce, and a high price exacted from borrowers for the use thereof from day to day. The specie in the New York banks at the beginning of each quarter of the year and near its close, was as follows: January, $17,974,000; April, $9,665,500; July, $13,824,600; October, $6,448,900; December 24, $16,759,900. The Secretary of the Treasury began his weekly sales of gold in May and kept them up until the close of November, selling in each month the following amounts: May, $5,000,000; June, $2,000,000; July, $5,000,000; August, $5,000,000; September, $4,000,000; October, $5,000,000; November, $2,000,000. The exports and imports of specie and bullion from and into the United States in the fiscal year ending June 30, and the exports and imports at New York in the calendar year, were as follows:

| Exports from the United States | $92,132,142 | $66,630,405 |
| Imports into the United States | 20,894,217 | 28,454,906 |

The production of gold and silver in the States and Territories west of the Missouri River (including British Columbia and western coast of Mexico), for the year 1875, is estimated by Mr. Valentine, General Superintendent of Wells, Fargo & Co., in California, to have been $80,889,037 against $74,401,055, in 1874. The prospects for 1876 indicate, according to the same authority, a yield of $90,000,000, of which $50,000,000 is attributed to Nevada. Details of the estimate will be found in an article on a preceding page.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

The course of foreign exchange was not seriously disturbed during the year by any irregularity in the commercial transactions between the United States and foreign countries, but rates were greatly depressed at times by speculative operations in the New York gold market, which led to excessive stringency in gold loans and also advanced the premium. As all the transactions in exchange are done on a gold basis, the result of such manipulations was to put a check on dealings in exchange, for the time being, and to force rates down to unnaturally low figures; thus, on the 16th of March the rate for prime 60 days bankers' sterling was down to 4.79, and again on the 20th of October down to 4.77. Aside from the local and temporary influence here referred to, the tendency of exchange was strong in the first eight months of the year, frequently ruling above specie shipping point, and admitting of the export, prior to September 1, of $61,877,998 of specie from the port of New York. The principal financial transaction between this and foreign countries was the negotiation of United States 5 per cent. bonds abroad, by the Syndicate of bankers, and the calling in of like amounts of the 5-20 6 per cent. bonds for redemption, all of which was done without any material derangement of the exchanges. In the first two months of the year there were negotiated in London some $36,000,000 of loans mostly for railroads, of which $12,000,000 was to replace prior loans then outstanding. Subsequently in the year, there were very few loans placed abroad, except for cities, of which the whole aggregate amount was not large.

UNITED STATES BONDS.

At the beginning of January, 1875, United States ten-forty 5 per cent. bonds sold at 115 and currency 6 per cents about 117¾, and, on the first of January, 1876, the ten-forties sold at 118, an advance of 3 per cent., and currency sixes at 122¾, an advance of 5 per cent. These bonds are selected as fair standards of the popular issues of government securities, not liable to be called in at any moment, and their gain in price shows the extent to which United States bonds grew in favor during the year. The demand for governments came largely from corporations, such as banks, savings banks, trust companies and insurance companies, as the experience of the past few years had shown that no other class of investments could so effectively strengthen their position, or be so relied upon for immediate use in raising money, in any time of financial disturbance. The range of prices for the year 1875 and the amount of bonds of each class outstanding on the 31st of December was as follows:

The transactions of the Syndicate of bankers who took the new United States 5 per cent. loan—Messrs. August Belmont & Co., Drexel, Morgan & Co., and J. & W. Seligman & Co., of New York, representing their respective London houses—were quite successful, and resulted in their taking during the year the whole balance of the $500,000,000 loan amounting to $122,688,550. To comply with the provisions of the sinking fund the Secretary of the Treasury called in $30,000,000 five-twenty bonds for redemption on the 11th of March, $8,000,000 on the 1st of September, and $5,000,000 on the 15th of November, the call in each case maturing three months after date of its issue.

The whole amount of the United States bonded debt outstanding, December 31, 1875, was $1,724,712,690; of these $398,408,850 were held by the national banks on the first of October, of which $370,321,700 were deposited with the Comptroller of the Currency as security for circulation and $14,097,200 for deposits. By a statement published in the CHRONICLE, of October 9, it appeared that $118,419,354 of governments were held by all the financial corporations in New York City, according to returns made by them at various dates in the year—or, excluding $33,414,450 held by national banks of the city, and embraced in the totals above—the amount of $85,004,904. Thus accounting for $483,413,754 of government bonds held by the national banks of the country and by financial corporations in New York City, and there remains $1,241,298,936 of United States bonds outstanding in the hands of parties not known. Of this amount $500,000,000 are estimated to be held abroad, and the balance, $741,000,000 by our own citizens.

STATE AND CITY BONDS.

State bonds, as leading investment securities, continue to be regarded with much favor wherever the ability and inclination to meet obligations are clearly shown. These bonds are held largely by corporations and in trust funds, and it is a notable fact that the aggregate amount is steadily diminishing, as States (at the North) are the only borrowers that, as a class, are materially reducing their outstanding obligations. Massachusetts alone, among the Northern States, has made any considerable addition to her bonded debt, and possibly this very increase has been stimulated by the fact that her bonds commanded an exceptionally high price at home and abroad. Southern State bonds, as a rule, have been greatly depressed, though there were several exceptions to this in the bonds of Virginia, Georgia, Texas, Louisiana consols and South Carolina consols. The most unfortunate event was the default of Tennessee on the interest due in July, 1875, and January, 1876, after having once resumed and paid interest in January, 1875. No progress was made in North Carolina towards a settlement with the State's creditors, and there was so little promise of success under the funding law of 1875 that the State Treasurer declined to incur the expense of having new bonds prepared. The State Commissioners of Alabama were still engaged at the close of the year in negotiations for a compromise with bondholders. Louisiana and South Carolina made considerable progress in funding their old bonds under the provisions of their respective laws.

City bonds were decidedly in favor, and several issues of new bonds were placed at good prices, some at home and some in the London market. The bonds of cities are held to a very considerable extent in their own localities, and have many strong points to commend them, but the large increase of late years in municipal debts is attracting much attention, and will tend to check the popularity of city securities.

RAILROAD BONDS.

All the defaults on railroad bonds which have occurred during the past three years have not succeeded in destroying the popularity of the best class of these securities with private investors. It is true that the inclination to purchase the bonds of new roads was no longer found, and any attempt to negotiate such in this market would probably have been a conspicuous failure; but in regard to old bonds, the case was different, and particularly as to the choicest of this class, for the best bonds were most in favor during 1875, and a high price was but slight objection to purchasers, where the principal and interest of the bonds were secure beyond all reasonable question. The cause for this is obvious in the advance of governments to prices which were about 20 per cent above the prices of some of the best first mortgage railroad bonds, and also in the aversion to all weak or doubtful railroad securities, engendered by the experience of the past few years. It was under these influences that N. Y. Central and Hudson 7s reached 126, Morris & Essex firsts 7s 116½, Harlem 7s 115½, Del. & Hud. Canal 7s 114½, Union Pacific firsts 6s, gold, 105¾, Central Pacific firsts, gold, 108, Central of N. J. 7s 115, and other choice bonds similar high prices; it being understood, of course, that the highest prices made were usually just prior to the payment of interest, and therefore showed 3 to 3½ per cent better than the same bonds would have sold "flat."

The general course of the market was towards higher prices in the first half of the year, with a reaction afterwards which was caused in part by the unfavorable reports of railroad traffic, the new defaults made on a considerable amount of bonds, and the apprehension of additional defaults, and the pending litigation affecting the Pacific railroads and the other companies interested directly or indirectly in the decision of the so-called "Granger suits." The Pacific Railroad case was decided by the Supreme Court of the United States, November 29, and settled the important question that the companies receiving subsidy bonds from the government are not obliged to refund the interest paid on such bonds until the principal matures—thirty years after their date. This decision greatly strengthened the securities of the companies, as it placed them in a far better position than they had ever before occupied. The Granger suits were argued, but had not been decided at the close of the year.

Several new loans were placed in London early in the year, the principal ones being as follows—all brought ont prior to February 20: Pennsylvania Railroad, $15,000,000; Central of New Jersey, $3,000,000; Illinois Central, $2,500,000; Rome Watertown & Ogdensburg, $1,000,000; Baltimore & Ohio (notes), $1,000,000; Chicago & Alton, $1,000,000; United New Jersey Railroad & Canal, $2,200,000; Utica Ithaca & Elmira, $1,500,000; Lehigh Valley, $3,000,000; Delaware & Hudson Canal Company, $2,000,000; Western Union Telegraph, $1,030,000; Real estate (N. Y.) mortgages, $2,750,000. Total, $36,080,000. Of this total the sum of $12,600,000 was for the purpose of retiring old bonds, and the balance created new obligations of the several companies.

RAILROAD AND MISCELLANEOUS STOCKS.

The course of prices in 1875 was marked by extreme depression in many of the prominent speculative stocks which had long been favorites at the Stock Exchange. The most important influence bearing upon the values of railroad stocks, in general, was the decline in earnings during the first nine months of the year, arising from the depression in commercial affairs, and more particularly from the low rates on both freight and passengers, which were caused by the sharp competition for business among the different roads. The latter difficulty was greatly aggravated on the principal trunk lines between the West and the Atlantic Seaboard by the disagreement between the Baltimore & Ohio and the Pennsylvania railroads, which led to the so-called "freight war," in which rates were reduced below the actual cost of transportation. Two prominent roads forming parts of Western trunk lines defaulted on their interest and went into the hands of receivers—Erie on the 26th of May, and Toledo, Wabash & Western February 23—and on several other roads belonging to the same general group the net earnings were only sufficient to pay bonded interest, and the prices of such leading stocks as Lake Shore and Michigan Central declined to lower prices than in the panic of 1873. The Pacific railroads—Central Pacific and Union Pacific—formed a conspicuous exception to most others, in showing a highly prosperous business and a large increase in gross and net earnings. Both companies during the year paid dividends on their stocks, and declared the policy of paying eight per cent per annum in future. These companies were also greatly strengthened by the U. S. Supreme Court decision, given November 29, declaring that they are not bound to pay interest on the bonds issued to them by the United States Government until the maturity of such bonds. A new line of steamships between China and Japan, the "Occidental and Oriental," was established under the auspices of parties interested in the Central Pacific Railroad. Western Union Telegraph paid eight per cent on its stock, and showed a small surplus in earnings.

The grand speculative move of the year was the advance in Union Pacific stock from 36 in January to 79¼ in July, and to 82¼ in November, under the management of Mr. Jay Gould and other parties, mostly in Boston. Second to the advance in Union Pacific the most extraordinary fluctuation in any stock was that in Pacific of Missouri, which sold at 55 in April and 47¾ in September, and went to 7¼ in October. This extraordinary break in the stock of a road leased at fixed annual dividends (to the Atlantic & Pacific), was demoralizing in its effects and tended to increase the lack of confidence in values; it was caused by a large decrease in earnings and by the development of the fact that a heavy increase in bonded debt had been made since the lease. Towards the close of the year there was an improvement in the general tone and a more confident feeling, based in part upon an improvement in railroad earnings.

RECORD OF PRICES.

The table of governments is compiled from the closing prices as reported at the Stock Exchange each day. The table of railroad stocks is made up from all sales of stocks at the Board, and contains every stock that has been sold there during 1875. The tables "Course of Prices of State Securities" and "Course of Prices of Railroad Bonds" are made up from prices bid at the New York Stock Exchange on each Friday. It should be clearly understood that the highest and lowest prices, as given in these tables, do not represent actual sales, but merely afford an indication of the course of prices in each month.

—Appletons' Journal, published, weekly, by Messrs. D. Appleton & Co., is well known as among the first publications of the day in the great variety and choice character of its contents—on topics, literary, social or miscellaneous. In addition to the attractions of the Journal itself, subscribers are offered, this year, the further inducement of receiving a magnificent steel engraving of "Charles Dickens in his study," which is given with the Journal for one year, at the subscription price of $5. The engraving is a striking likeness of Mr. Dickens, and being handsomely executed, will make a desirable ornament to any library.

— The Logansport first mortgage bondholders held a meeting this day and appointed a committee to take into consideration the best form of foreclosure, whether by request to the trustee, or to continue in the prosecution of the suit already begun by Mr. Hassler. The following compose the committee: Charles W. Hassler, John Baird, Henry A. Mott, P. G. Sauerwein and C. T. Henry.

—The Providence & Stonington Steamship Company, with its customary enterprise, has taken the initiative in the reduction of passenger fares from this city to the East. The new rates, which have already gone into effect, are on a basis of $4 to Boston and $3 to Providence. This is a material reduction and one which the traveling public will not fail to appreciate.

— The Union Dime Savings Bank publishes its statement of assets and liabilities, to-day, in our advertising columns. This Bank, apparently, has every reason to give the widest publicity to the exhibit of its financial condition, as its investments are of the best sort, and on a total liability of $12,022,832 it shows a surplus of assets amounting to $1,064,887.

— The Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railroad Company has declared a dividend of two per cent. out of the earnings of the past six months, ending Dec. 31, 1875, payable on Feb. 1 at the office of Messrs. Chase & Atkins, No. 18 Broad street, New York. The transfer books close on January 12, and re open February 2.

— Attention is called to the notice of co-partnership of the firm of Messrs. Fabbri & Chauncey. This house has the large special capital of $800,000, and its operations in the shipping and commission business are on a grand scale. London, New York and South America are represented in the partners of the firm.

LONDON, Thursday, Dec. 23, 1875.

Owing to the approach of the Christmas holidays and of the close of the year, the amount of business in progress in commercial and financial circles this week has been extremely limited and it is not probable that there will be anything of importance to record until the trade of the New Year has been fairly commenced. The demand for money has been upon an extremely moderate scale, and at present there are no indications of any change in this respect. The trade of the country remains too quiet to admit of any activity in the demand as a result of commercial enterprise, while there is no hope that financial schemes will attract much attention from the investing public. To ensure success, new loans or new companies must possess every indication of soundness, failing which, it cannot be expected that they will meet with public approbation. How far the German demand for gold will influence the market, it is just now difficult to decide; but if there should be no improvement in trade, and no increase in values, it is quite probable that we shall be able to spare moderate sums, without the money market being influenced by the loss. The prices of money are now as follows:

| | Per cent. | | Per cent. |
| Bank rate | 3 | 4 months' bank bills | 2½@2¾ |

There has been a fairly active demand for gold for export during the week, and not only have all arrivals been absorbed, though these have been few, but more than half a million has in the week, embraced in the Bank return, been withdrawn from the Bank of England. Bar silver has been dealt in at 56½d. per ounce.

The trade for wheat has been exceedingly quiet. There have been liberal arrivals, and, owing to the approaching close of the year, business has been very restricted. Choice wheats, however, are rather firm in price; but inferior parcels are cheaper to sell. The weather is now very mild, and a few farmers have continued to sow their wheat.

The return for the week ending December 18th shows that the deliveries of wheat by the English farmers in the 150 principal markets of England and Wales amounted to 50,736 quarters, against 66,345 quarters last year, showing a decrease of 15,605 quarters, while since harvest they have been 768,521 quarters, against 1,027,074 quarters in 1874, being a diminution of 258,453 quarters. It is estimated that in the whole Kingdom they amounted in the week to 203,000 quarters, against 265,400 quarters, and since harvest to 3,075,000 quarters, against 4,108,300 quarters, being a falling off of 1,033,300 quarters. It is computed that the following quantities of produce have been placed upon the British markets since the close of August:

In the Stock Exchange, during the week, the prominent feature has been a demand for the first mortgage bonds of American railways, at a further advance in the quotations. The more favorable traffic receipts which have been lately published have had a good effect, and the demand is of a bona fide character. The Erie market has been unsettled, owing to the sacrifices which each section of bondholders is called upon to make in the interests of the undertaking.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 7, 1876—6 P. M.

The Money Market and Financial Situation.—The first week of the year opens quite hopefully in financial circles, with considerable strength in the prices of investment securities, and also in some of the speculative stocks. With the characteristic buoyancy of our people, there is an evident determination to forget the losses of the past year, and to hope for better things in the immediate future. Nor is this a mere result of sanguine temperament, without any facts upon which to base it, for the general circumstances of the commercial and financial situation seem to warrant a reasonable expectation of better business in 1876 than in 1875. Among the principal facts which furnish grounds for such anticipations, it may be mentioned that the process of economy and curtailment of production which have been going on, are precisely the opposite of expansion and inflation, and have the natural effect of bringing merchandise transactions down to a basis where a healthy business may be done with fair, though not extravagant, profits. Then the Government finances, under Secretary Bristow's management, are in a favorable condition, and with the present policy carried out in a practical and conservative way—and there seems to be no reason to fear that he will move otherwise than conservatively—it seems possible that, under the unfavorable condition of paper money inflation, the best that can be done may be realized. Again, as to stocks and bonds, the outlook is more encouraging; United States governments are stronger than at any former period, and all good investment securities show a tendency to reach higher prices in consequence of a greater confidence in the value of the properties on which they are based. In the latter class we include railroad securities, as they seem to have a decidedly better prospect since the earnings of the respective roads show an improvement from the extreme depression of the first nine months of last year.

The money market worked very closely during the early part of the week, but to-day there is an evident relaxation in the rates for money on call, and the quotation this afternoon is 5@6 per cent. on good stock collaterals. The range on previous days was from 5 per cent. on governments to 7 gold and sometimes 1-64 to 1-32 per day, on other collaterals. It is anticipated that money will steadily grow easier during next week. Prime commercial paper is in good demand at 6½@7½ per cent.

The Bank of England report on Thursday showed a further loss of £448,090 for the week, and again advanced its discount rate 1 per cent., so that it is now 5 per cent. The Bank of France gained 10,815,000 francs in specie.

The weekly statement of the New York City Clearing-House Banks, issued December 31, showed an increase of $1,651,775 in the excess above their 25 per cent. legal reserve, the whole of such excess being $9,013,675, against $7,361,900, the previous week.

The following table shows the changes from the previous week and a comparison with 1875 and 1874:

United States Bonds.—There has been a pretty large business in governments during the week, of which a good share seems to be on speculation. One of the notable features is the amount of transactions between Germany and this market, as a large part of the bonds taken here are supplied by the German bankers. The circular of a prominent firm of Government bond dealers, dated January 1, has the following:

Independently of the ordinary fluctuations occurring from temporary causes at different seasons, Government bonds are steadily appreciating in average market value, from year to year. No government stands higher in credit in the markets of the world, than that of the United States, and it is not unreasonable to anticipate that in a few years its bonds cannot be had at prices at which they will pay better than from three to four per cent. interest on their cost. For long, permanent investments we would advise, at the present time, the new fives of 1881, ten-forties, sixes of 1881, and currency sixes; while for the temporary employment of capital the various issues of five-twenties are relatively much cheaper, and as the five per cent. bonds, authorized by the Funding act, are now all issued, the remainder of the five-twenties, except such as may be called in for the Sinking Fund, are likely to live for some time, depending, of course, upon how soon the Government can sell four and a-half per cent. bonds at par, in gold.

The following table, giving the prices, December 31, of all the various issues of Government bonds, less the value of the accrued interest, will be of assistance in determining their relative values:

State and Railroad Bonds.—There has been rather more activity in State bonds this week, in common with all other investment securities. Tennessee bonds have advanced quite sharply, and one of the causes commonly assigned for this in the market is that the rise is a natural reaction, and that the previous depression was caused by bear operations of parties who wished to purchase a considerable lot of bonds at low figures. Louisiana consols ex-interest are 1½@2 per cent higher than last week.

Railroad bonds have shown a large business at buoyant prices. Nearly all the popular bonds of the list have received the attention of purchasers, though the favorite issues of the Pacifica, St. Paul, Northwest, and some other railroads, have been most largely dealt in. The movement seems to be both on speculation and investment, and seems to be based on a general feeling that good railroad bonds just now offer one of the best chances for the investment of money in a convenient form at full rates of interest, and in a shape that is readily salable at the option of the holder. There is a better prospect as to railroad traffic, and no positive defaults in interest have been made this January, so far as we have yet ascertained.

Daily closing prices of a few State bonds, and the range since Jan. 1, have been as follows:

Railroad and Miscellaneous Stocks.—Stocks have shown more activity this week, and in some of the specialties there has been a decided advance in prices, which has led to a stronger feeling throughout most of the list. Western Union Telegraph has been one of the strongest, and closes at 75⅛, which (ex-div.) is the highest price made on this stock for some time. Lake Shore has been strengthened considerably by the declaration of a 2 per cent dividend out of the earnings of the last six months of 1875, and which was nearly all earned in the last three months, according to the company's statement. The semi-annual statement of Michigan Central is not considered very favorable, as the surplus above interest payments is small. The following shows a brief summary of the statements just made by Lake Shore and Michigan Central for six months of 1875 as compared with 1874, and for New York Central & Hudson and the Erie Railway for the year ending September 30th:

| | Gross Earnings. | Operating Expenses. | Net Earnings. |

The New York Central report appears to be well thought of, as the stock has advanced since its appearance. St. Paul preferred has been strong on the rumors of a 14 per cent. dividend in bonds to be paid on it in March. At the close prices were generally strong and near the best point of the day.

The Gold Market.—Gold has been comparatively quiet, as attention has been diverted to other branches of the financial markets. The loans recently negotiated in London will have some effect in supplying that amount of exchange and so far checking a demand for gold to export. There does not seem to be much expectation of a speedy decline in gold to materially lower figures, and, so far as we hear opinions expressed, the majority seem to think that, if there is any change, the price is likely to be firmer. On gold loans the rates to day were 4½, 5 and 2 per cent for carrying. Time loans of gold have been quoted as follows: 30 to 60 days, ½@⅝ for carrying; 90 days, ½@¾ for carrying; 4 months, "flat;" all the year, ¾@1 per cent for use. Customs receipts of the week were $2,295,000.

The following table will show the course of gold and operations of the Gold Exchange Bank each day of the past week:

Foreign Exchange.—There have been considerable dealings in foreign exchange this week, a large part of the supply of bills coming from the loan negotiators referred to last week. These loans were £2,000,000 of the Philadelphia and Reading general mortgage bonds, brought out by Messrs. McCalmont Bros. & Co., and £1,350,000 of Pittsburgh and Connellsville Railroad consolidated mortgage bonds, guaranteed principal and interest by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company. Both loans were managed by Messrs. J. S. Morgan & Co. in London, and the bills drawn were by Drexel, Morgan & Co. There has been a good steady supply of cotton bills coming forward, the most of which are controlled by a few parties. To day there was an advance of ¼ point in prime sterling, but this, in the opinion of the brokers, hardly seems to have been warranted by the situation.

(For the year ending September 30, 1875.)

The Times publishes extracts from the company's report filed at Albany for the year ending September 30, 1875, which are compared below with the corresponding figures for 1874:

| No. tons carried one mile | 1,404,008,029 | 1,391,560,707 |

EARNINGS, EXPENSES, DIVIDENDS, ETC.

The gross earnings of the New York Central and of the Harlem Roads are included in one statement, as follows:

Gross Earnings.

| From passengers | $7,276,847 | $7,497,356 |
| From freight | 17,899,701 | 20,348,725 |
| From other sources | 3,850,668 | 3,804,304 |

| Maintaining road-bed, &c | $3,686,641 | $3,775,526 |
| Repairs of machinery | 3,781,724 | 3,812,805 |
| Operating | 9,793,741 | 10,799,964 |
| Total | $17,262,107 | $18,388,297 |

This shows a decrease, as compared with 1874, of $2,623,168 69, or over eight per cent., in the gross earnings, and a decrease of $1,126,189 92, or six per cent., in the expenses. The net earnings for 1874 were $13,262,089, and for 1875 were $11,765,110, being a decrease of $1,496,978 77. The following percentages are given:

The operating expenses in 1875 were 59.46 per cent. of the gross earnings, and in 1874 58.09 per cent.

Freight—Earnings per ton per mile in 1875, 1.27 cents; in 1874, 1.37 cents; expenses, 1875, .90 cent; in 1874, .98 cent; profit, 1875, .37 cent; in 1874, .39 cent. Passengers—Earnings per passenger per mile in 1875, 2.14 cents; in 1874, 2.13 cents; expenses, 1875, 1.36 cents; in 1874, 1.33 cents; profit, 1875, .78 cent; in 1874, .80 cent.

| For interest | $2,728,118 94 |
| For dividends: Oct. 15, 1874, four per cent | 3,568,339 99 |
| " Jan. 15, 1875, two per cent | 1,784,169 99 |
| " April 15, 1875, two per cent | 1,784,169 99 |
| " July 15, 1875, two per cent | 1,784,169 99 |
| For rent of other lines | 1,697,795 78 |
| Total | $13,346,764 68 |

On its face this shows $1,581,654 29 more than the net earnings, but to explain this the following note is appended to the report:

"Owing to a change in paying dividends from semi annual to quarterly periods, ten per cent. was actually disbursed therefor within the year embraced in this report. The amount, however, chargeable to the business of the year is eight per cent. only."

By deducting one dividend of two per cent. from the total of "net earnings applied," it is shown that besides paying all interest, rents, and eight per cent. dividend, the road added $202,515 70 to its surplus fund.

Lake Shore & Michigan Southern.

(For the Six Months Ending December 31, 1875.)

The Lake Shore Directors have declared a dividend of 2 per cent out of the earnings of the company for the last six months of 1875, as shown in the statement of the auditor below, to which we have added the figures for the same time in 1874:

| | 1875. | 1874. |
| Gross earnings | $7,545,000 | $9,575,675 |
| Operating expenses and taxes | 5,051,000 | 5,478,432 |
| Net earnings | $2,494,000 | $3,097,243 |
| Interest on bonded debt, leases of branch roads, and dividend payable Feb. 1, 1876, on guaranteed stock | $1,419,000 | $1,486,860 |
| Balance | $1,075,000 | $1,610,383 |

The report says the variation in earnings (principally in the first three months of the above period) compared with the last half of 1874, is as follows:

| | | |
| Loss on freight | $873,000 | |
| Loss on passengers | 133,000 | |
| | | $1,006,000 |
| Gain on mails, express, and miscellaneous | | 57,000 |
| Aggregate loss | | $949,000 |

The loss on freights was caused by the following:

| Less prices on business done | 15·65 per cent. |

The average rate per ton per mile has been in 1875, 0·997 cent; in 1874, 1·182 cents.

The cost of steel rails, in excess of the value of the iron rails for which they were substituted, is included in operating expenses. The amount of steel rails laid on main line, during 1875, was about 12,000 tons; and the amount of iron rails laid (principally on branch lines) during the same period was about 9,000 tons.

The amount of steel rails to be laid on main line during 1876 will, it is estimated, be about 15,000 tons. A considerable part of the steel rails laid in 1875 having been paid for with old iron rails (the full value of the steel being, however, included in the operating expenses above stated), the money which would otherwise have been expended therefor is in hand and constitutes a fund applicable to providing the steel rails intended to be laid in 1876.

The road, machinery and property of the company have been, in all respects, fully maintained at their standard high condition.

The bonded debt of the company at this date (Dec. 31, 1875),

| is | $36,230,000 |
| Against, at same time last year | 36,500,000 |
| Diminution by means of the Sinking Fund, the obligation of which has been fully complied with | $250,000 |

An additional report for the year ending Sept. 30, 1875, taken from the report filed in the State Engineer's office at Albany, we will give next week.

Michigan Central Railroad.

(For the six months ending November 30, 1875.)

The semi-annual statement of the financial condition of this company has just been issued.

President Joy gives a statement in regard to the business of the company, in which he says:

"It is not usual to make any statement at the close of the half year after the annual report, except that of the treasurer, of the financial condition of the company. The past year, however, has been so extraordinary in its results that the board has deemed it fitting to place the causes before the stockholders in an additional statement. The floating debt also requires explanation.

"The statement of the treasurer shows the cash receipts which have come into the treasury, the interest paid during the six months, and the operating expenses as they appear on his books, except the month of November, which are estimated on the basis of October expenses, the account for those of November not being complete. The receipts are not exactly the same as the earnings, being sometimes more and sometimes less, depending upon the amount of earnings unrealized at the date of any statement of them.

"The earnings of the road and branch lines have been, for the past six months ending with November, $3,359,309 25, which is less than they were for the corresponding period the prior year by $439,687 94. The earnings of twelve months, ending at the same time, have been $6,662,598 47, and are less than the earnings of the same period the year before by $955,823 69. The expenses for the year ending with November have been, as above stated, $4,953,067 56; for the same period the prior year they were $5,246,494, showing a reduction in the operating expenses of $293,426 44. The net earnings for the last year have been $1,718,503 52, while those of the same period the year before were $2,371,920 48, showing a falling off in the net earnings of $653,422 96.

"The business of the road, notwithstanding this decrease of both gross and net earnings to these large amounts, has been larger than it was in the previous or any preceding year, the tonnage of all classes having increased, and in the aggregate, for the last six months on the main line, 64,184 tons.

"With regard to the floating debt of this company, which is stated at $934,440 03, the sum of $435,838 80 is for steel rail. There had been contracts made for steel rail to complete the main line before the panic. One contract for 5,000 tons was yet out, and the rails had not been delivered. It could not be cancelled. Five hundred tons were delivered in 1874, and paid for. The remainder, 4,500 tons, have been delivered the past year, and partly used. For this rail there have been given since the last annual report, the notes of the company to the amount of $435,838 80, falling due from June 1876 to August, 1877. The floating debt, other than this, which in June last stood at $7,770,015 16, has been reduced, Dec. 1, by payments, to the sum of $542,218 30."

TREASURER'S STATEMENT.

The condition of the company on the 1st day of December, 1875, is shown by the following statement:

| The receipts of the main line and branches for the six months ending November, 1875, were | $3,373,218 52 |
| The operating expenses of the main line and branches, accurate for five months, and estimated for November, are $2,383,876 28; the interest amounted to $804,249 27; total | 3,188,125 56 |

The bonded debt of the main line now amounts to:

| First mortgage loan, due in 1882 | $556,000 00 |
| Sinking fund loan | 2,179 000 00 |
| Seven per cent consolidated loan | 8,000,000 00 |
| Equipment mortgage loans | 556,000 00 |
| Total | $11,291,000 00 |
| From the first two items in the above statement must be taken the bonds of this company, of the same class paid, and to the sinking funds | 672,000 00 |
| Which will reduce it to now outstanding | $10,691,000 00 |

The sum in the sinking fund (not including the $672,000 of the bonds of the company) at their par value, amounting to $1,044,719 57, will reduce the amount of the above outstanding bonds to the whole extent of the value of that fund and its accumulations. The bonded debts of the leased roads which have been assumed by this company, are all bearing 8 per cent. interest.

| Michigan Air Line | $1,900,000 00 |
| Michigan Air Line, South Bend division | 200,000 00 |
| Grand River Valley | 1,500,000 00 |
| Kalamazoo and South Haven | 710,000 00 |
| Jackson Lansing and Saginaw | 4,253,000 00 |
| This company has also endorsed the bonds of the Detroit and Bay City railroad to the amount of | 424,000 00 |
| The capital stock stands at last report | 18,728,204 00 |
| Construction account amounts to | 27,536,747 74 |
| The floating debt, as per June report, was | 770,015 16 |
| It now amounts to | 964,440 03 |
| Showing an increase of | 194,424 87 |
| Of this amount, however, have been given for steel rails since June last | 435,838 80 |

Debt of June last has been reduced by payments to $542,218 30.

GENERAL INVESTMENT NEWS.

Boston & Lowell.—At the annual meeting of stockholders the issue of $750,000 in 7 per cent. currency, or 6 per cent. gold, bonds for the payment of the floating debt was authorized.

Chesapeake & Ohio.—The opinion of the Court in the case of A. F. Richards and others against the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company was delivered on January 3d by Judge Bond in Alexandria, Va. Chief-Justice Waite, though absent, concurred in the opinion. It will be remembered that Henry Tyson, of Baltimore, was appointed receiver of the road in November last, by Judge Bond of the United States Circuit Court. Subsequently, the trustees under the six per cent mortgage made application to the State courts of Virginia and West Virginia for the appointment of a receiver to wind up the affairs of the company. Under this application, General William C. Wickham, Vice-President of the road, was appointed receiver.

Judge Bond, after a full review of the case, now announced that an order would be issued directing receiver Tyson to settle his accounts, and the parties to be allowed to proceed in the State courts according to the desire of a large majority of the creditors of each class. The 20th inst. was fixed upon as the date for Mr. Tyson to settle his accounts.

The effect of this decision will be to place the affairs of the road in the hands of General Wickham, the receiver appointed by the State courts, and it is a substantial triumph for Messrs. Fisk & Hatch and the officers of the company, under whose plan, we presume that the road will be foreclosed and re-organized.

Eastern, Massachusetts.—Notice is given that under the advice of the Committee of Conference on the part of the bondholders, the company will pass its January coupon, and that payment of the rental due January 1st to the Portsmouth Saco & Portland Railroad will be paid as soon as the alterations in the contract voted by the stockholders are perfected.

—The following is understood to be a basis for settlement of the financial embarrassment of the Eastern Railroad, to be proposed to the creditors: The interest on all the liabilities to be calculated at seven per cent. to September 1, 1876; application to be made to the next Legislature to allow the road to issue bonds to be secured by a mortgage on the property of the corporation, said bonds to bear interest for the first year at three and one half per cent., payable in gold, and to be increased to six per cent. The bonds thus issued to be applied to the settlement of the outstanding notes and other indebtedness of the corporation.

Erie Railway.—Press despatches from London, Jan. 4, state that an adjourned meeting of the Erie Railway bondholders took place that day, to consider the proposition recently made by the Watkin Committee. Sir Edward Watkin moved that the scheme of the Committee be adopted in principle, subject to such modification of details as the Committee may think necessary or expedient after a consultation with President Jewett and the American bond and stockholders. A resolution that a committee be appointed and empowered to execute the scheme, and that Gov. Tilden of New York be invited to act as referee, and decide all questions that might arise in its completion and execution, was adopted unanimously.

— An abstract of the annual report of this company to the New York State Engineer, for the year ending Sept. 30, is given above. The following figures are from the report of Receiver Jewett for September, October and November last. Exhibit B of the receiver's report gives the totals in September and October as follows:

| Sale of old and surplus material | 47,931 01 |
| Interest on securities | 16,103 85 |

| Total expenditures | $3,978,575 00 |
| Balance on hand Nov. 1 | 441,871 81 |

Exhibit D is an analysis of the cash balance as shown by A and B, and is intended to show that the actual amount of cash on hand Nov. 1, 1875, was $194,387 07; and the balance consists of cash items or debit items.

The second report is similar in form, and shows the business of the road for November. The balance on hand November 1, was $441,871. The receipts for the month, including this balance, were $2,662,530, and the disbursements, $2,144,358, leaving a balance on Dec. 1, of $518,171. The actual cash balance on hand was $202,961, and the balance of $518,171 included cash items or debit items of $315,210. The aggregate certificates of indebtedness and notes issued up to Nov. 30, were $1,535,529, and the aggregate amount paid up to that time was $755.000, leaving outstanding Dec, 1, the aggregate amount of $781,539.

Mansfield Coldwater & Lake Michigan.—Thomas A. Scott and George W. Cass, trustees under the first mortgage, have taken formal possession of the road and property of the company, on account of the continued default in interest on the bonds.

South Carolina State Finances.—In consequence of the delay in the passage of the Tax bill of the State of South Carolina, which became a law on the 24th inst., the payment of the interest on the consolidation bonds and stock of the State is postponed from January 1 to February 15.

Wallkill Valley.—This road has been for some time in the hands of the second mortgage bondholders, who bought it in under a foreclosure of their mortgage. Proceedings have now been begun for the foreclosure of the first mortgage on the road, under which $700,000 of bonds have been issued.

—The following is a statement of the earnings of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company for the month of November last:

| Total earnings | $580,685 48 |
| Total expenses | 429,236 89 |

COMMERCIAL EPITOME.

FRIDAY NIGHT, Jan. 7, 1876.

Trade opens the new year with rather less of that speculative spirit than was expected would be exhibited. Stocks of some of the leading articles of merchandise are found to be unprecedentedly large; and much uncertainty is felt with regard to the extent of supplies of others in the early future. Still, in general trade, there is a steady tone, which promises to bring an improvement in mercantile affairs, as the winter wears away.

The following is a statement of the stocks of leading articles of domestic and foreign merchandise, at dates given:

The speculation in provisions has been conducted quite tamely. In pork it has almost wholly ceased, but yesterday there was some business in mess at $20 80 on the spot and for March delivery. Lard has been fairly active, on the spot as well as for future, at rather better prices, going at 13 1-16c., spot and January, 13¼c. for February and 13⅜c. for April, but these prices have not been sustained. Bacon has been more active and is higher, at 10¾@11¼c. for Western and city long clear. Cut meats have also ruled firmer from scarcity, with sales of pickled rib bellies, in bulk, at 11½@12½c. Beef and beef hams have been more active at steady prices. Tallow has declined to 9¼@9¾c. for prime Western and city. Butter has been without important change. Cheese has been in fair request, at 12@13c. for prime to choice factories. To day, lard declined, and closed at 12¾c., spot and January, 13 1-16c. for February, and 13 3-16c. for March, but in other provisions there was no change.

Coffee has been very dull, and under the pressure of large stocks prices have further given way; Rio, fair to prime cargoes, 17½@18¾c; Java, 24@26c., and Maracaibo, 18@20c., all gold. Rice is in large stock and drooping. Teas have been unsettled by the failure of a large house in the trade. Foreign dried fruits are quiet. Molasses has been doing rather better for choice qualities of domestic. Sugars have been dull, but are without quotable decline; good refining, 8⅛c., and standard refined crushed, 8⅝c.

Kentucky tobacco has been quiet but firm at 7@9c. for lugs, and 10@18c. for leaf; the sales for the week embraced 400 hhds., of which 350 were for export, and 50 for consumption. Seed leaf has been in fair demand and steady; sales embrace: crop of 1872, 19 cases Wisconsin, on private terms; crop of 1873, 90 cases Connecticut, at 22c., and 400 cases Ohio on private terms; crop of 1874, 115 cases New York, part at 11½c., 110 cases Ohio, 76 cases Pennsylvania, and 100 cases Connecticut, on private terms; also 150 cases sundry kinds at 7@12½c. Spanish tobacco has been dull and prices rather easier; sales, 250 bales Havana at 71c.@ $1 15.

In ocean freights a decline has taken place, which has stimulated a pretty fair, if not good, business; petroleum vessels have been active, though at somewhat irregular rates. To-day there was a slight improvement in berth room, owing to reduced supplies of tonnage; charter-room was unchanged. Grain to Liverpool, by steam, 9d. per 60 lbs.; cotton, ⅝d. for compressed; grain to London, by sail, 9d.; refined petroleum products to London, 5s. 6d.; the nominal rates for grain to Cork for orders were 6s. 6d.@6s. 9d.

Naval stores have latterly shown more firmness, owing to improved advices from the South; considerable has been done in spirits turpentine, which closes at 39c.; common to good strained rosin quoted at $1 70@$1 75. In petroleum there has been an advance, and some business; but at the close there was a pretty easy tone, under quiet advices from the wells; crude in bulk, 7⅜@7½c.; refined in bbls., 13½@13⅝c. for spot and all January delivery. Ingot copper remains steady, with sales of 250,000 lbs. Lake at 23¼c. cash.

These mail returns do not correspond precisely with the total of the telegraphic figures, because in preparing them it is always necessary to incorporate every correction made at the ports.

The market for cotton on the spot has continued to exhibit much irregularity, as between high and low grades, and on Tuesday quotations were again revised; strict good ordinary, low middling and strict low middling remained unchanged; mid.

dling and above advanced 1-16c.; strict ordinary and good were reduced 1-16c.; ordinary was reduced ¼c.; all stained grades were reduced ¼c. The demand from shippers has been more active, and the sales of Wednesday included 1,000 bales in transitu; but spinners have been doing very little. To-day, the market was very quiet and prices nominally unchanged. For future delivery the market has been feverish and unsettled. Receipts at the ports have been unexpectedly large and gold has declined, but Liverpool accounts have been stronger, and receipts at some of the interior towns at the South fell off, giving promise, with the reduced stocks, that current receipts at the ports cannot be long maintained. But another element of strength, and probably the most effective, has been found in the revision of quotations for cotton on the spot. The marked reduction that has been made in low grades has contributed to enhance the value of contracts made on the basis of middling uplands, and the operators for a decline have complained of the extent to which this influence has been carried against them. To-day the market was quiet, prices having declined 1-16c.

The total sales for forward delivery for the week are 69,000 bales, including —— free on board. For immediate delivery the total sales foot up this week 6,916 bales, including 3,572 for export, 1,373 for consumption, 971 for speculation, and 1,000 in transit. Of the above, 100 bales were to arrive. The following are the closing quotations:

These figures indicate an increase in the cotton in sight to-night of 4,939 bales as compared with the same date of 1875, an increase of 145,720 bales as compared with the corresponding date of 1874, and an increase of 469,132 bales as compared with 1873.

AT THE INTERIOR PORTS the movement—that is the receipts and shipments for the week and stock to-night, and for the corresponding week of 1875—is set out in detail in the following statement:

The above totals show that the old interior stocks have decreased during the week 2,610 bales, and are to-night 21,192 bales less than at the same period last year. The receipts have been 11,263 bales more than the same week last year.

BOMBAY SHIPMENTS.—According to our cable despatch received to-day, there have been 0,000 bales shipped from Bombay to Great Britain the past week, and 1,000 bales to the Continent; while the receipts at Bombay during the same time have been 9,000 bales. The movement since the 1st of January is as follows. These are the figures of W. Nicol & Co., of Bombay, and are brought down to Thursday, Jan. 6:

|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Great Britain. | Con-tinent. | Total. | Great Britain. | Con-tinent. | Total. | This week. | Since Jan. 1. |
| 1876..... | .... | 1,000 | 1,000 | .... | 1,000 | 1,000 | 9,000 | 9,000 |
| 1875..... | 16,000 | 16,000 | 32,000 | 16,000 | 16,000 | 32,000 | 25,000 | 25,000 |

From the foregoing it would appear that, compared with last year, there is a decrease of 31,000 bales this year in the week's shipments from Bombay to Europe, and that the total movement since January 1 shows a decrease in shipments of 31,000 bales compared with the corresponding period of 1874.

WEATHER REPORTS BY TELEGRAPH.—The weather during the week has been decidedly better; very little rain has fallen anywhere, and the temperature has been high for this period of the year. Hence, wherever there is cotton left to pick, and a disposition to pick it, work has progressed. It is, however, always difficult to bring the freedmen into the fields after the holidays, and the present low prices furnish less inducement than usual for attempting it.

Galveston, Texas.—Early in the week we had two days with slight showers, but since then it has been clear and pleasant. The cause of the small receipts is the approximate exhaustion of the depot accumulations; waggoning is only partially resumed, but now beginning again. Next week receipts will probably be light. The thermometer has averaged 61, the highest being 73 and the lowest 55. The rainfall has been seventeen hundredths of an inch.

Indianola, Texas.—We have had no rain this week, but the weather has been warm and dry and beautiful. If this fine weather continues, the movement of the crop will be fully resumed in a few days. The thermometer has averaged 63, the highest being 75, and the lowest 52.

Corsicana, Texas.—There has been rain here on two days this week, one day it rained hard and one day was showery; as the week closes there has been a favorable change, and now it is all that could be desired. The roads are again practicable. The thermometer has averaged 56, the highest being 70, and the lowest 39. The rainfall has been one inch and fourteen hundredths.

Dallas, Texas.—It has been showery on two days, but there has been a favorable change now, and the roads, though bad, are improving rapidly. The rainfall has been twenty-five hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 65, the highest being 70, and the lowest 30.

New Orleans, Louisiana.—Our New Orleans telegram has failed to reach us.

Shreveport, Louisiana.—There was rain here on Saturday last, but the weather since has been fine. Shipping facilities are very good, and receipts show an increase over last week. The rainfall for the week was forty-eight hundredths of an inch. The average thermometer, 56; highest 79 and lowest 40.

Vicksburg, Mississippi.—We had some rain on three days the past week, the rainfall reaching twenty-nine hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 59, the highest being 78 and the lowest 43.

Columbus, Mississippi.—The weather the past week has been warm, the thermometer averaging 71, the highest being 98 and the lowest 49. Rainfall for the week, sixty-one hundredths of an inch.

Little Rock, Arkansas.—The weather the past week, excepting a shower Friday evening, has been delightful. The rainfall reached thirty-eight hundredths of an inch, and the thermometer averaged 38, ranging from 34 to 54.

Nashville, Tennessee.—It rained here slightly one day this week. The thermometer has averaged 54, the highest being 64 and the lowest 44.

Memphis, Tennessee.—Rain fell on one day this week to the extent of thirty hundredths of an inch. The rest of the week was pleasant. The thermometer has ranged between 47 and 64.

Mobile, Alabama.—We have had no rain here during the week past. The thermometer has averaged 62, ranging from 73 to 46. The rainfall for the month of December was three inches and one hundredth. The causes of the small receipts this week are the holidays and the bad roads.

Montgomery, Alabama.—There was one rainy day the past week, the rainfall reaching twenty hundredths of an inch. The remaining six days were warm, with cold nights. Total rainfall for December six inches and four hundredths. Average thermometer during the week 60, highest 75 and lowest 43.

Selma, Alabama.—It has rained here slightly one day, but the remaining six days have been pleasant, the thermometer averaging 60.

Madison, Florida.—There has been no rain here the past week. The thermometer has averaged 61—the highest being 68, and the lowest 54. About all the crop has now been secured.

Macon, Georgia.—We have had no rain here the past week. The rainfall for the month of December was one inch and sixty-three hundredths. Average thermometer during the week, 59; highest, 76; and lowest, 49.

Atlanta, Georgia.—It was showery here one day the past week, the rainfall reaching thirty-one hundredths of an inch. The weather has been warm, the thermometer averaging 59, and ranging from 46 to 71. Rainfall for the month of December, six inches and fourteen hundredths.

Columbus, Georgia.—It was showery here two days the past week, the rainfall reaching forty-one hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 58, the extremes being 38 and 70.

Savannah, Georgia.—There was one rainy day here this week, the rainfall reaching eleven hundredths of an inch. The rest of the week was pleasant, the thermometer averaging 62, and ranging from 49 to 77.

Augusta, Georgia.—The weather the past week has been warm and dry, there having been only a sprinkling rain on one day, the rainfall reaching twenty-four hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 60, the highest being 77, and the lowest 35.

Charleston, South Carolina.—We have had no rain here this week. The thermometer has averaged 62, the highest being 76, and the lowest 44.

OUR COTTON CROP ESTIMATE.—We are receiving many inquiries for our estimate of the present cotton crop. It has been our custom for several years to publish such an estimate, in detail, the latter part of December. The accuracy with which, for three years, we were able to forecast the event, gave our compilation more influence than it deserved; for at best, with a cotton district so extended and varied as ours, such information must be very imperfect, and one should receive an estimate based upon it with caution. Last year, however, we are persuaded that our error did much harm, and we have concluded, therefore, to omit for this year, at least, any such publication. This decision has been generally known to the trade in this City, but we state it now simply in answer to the inquiries on the subject from other points.

And yet we expect our readers to be able, with the information we give them, to make at all times a tolerable estimate of the true position. Those who have followed us closely, this year, cannot have been misled by the foolish figures which have been published. We have no hesitancy in saying that a very large crop was in the fields on the first of September. We put it down at that time as not less than four and a half million bales, with a satisfactory picking season. Since then, however, up to Christmas, the weather has certainly been far more unfavorable than last year, and much that on September 1st promised fruit, has rotted and fallen off. The extent of the damage done we do not, at present, know.

MONTHLY MOVEMENT OF CROP.—Below we give our statement of the monthly movement of the crop, brought forward to January 1:

The total receipts at the ports on the 15th day of December (when, last year, half of the port receipts had been received) were 1,899,965 bales, and on the 22d day of December (when, last year, half the total crop had been received) were 2,093,130 bales. Hence, if we call the comparative movement of the crop the same as last year, the total will be about 4 190,000 bales.

GUNNY BAGS, BAGGING, &c.—Bagging has ruled quiet during the past week, and the trade doing was of a jobbing character from dealers to consumers. The price is steady at 13c., the high cost of butts making holders firm. Bales are dull and nominal. Butts continue very firm, and there is a fair demand, chiefly for lots to arrive, and we hear of sales footing up about 5,500 bales at prices ranging from 2⅜@2⅜c., gold, duty paid, for January, February and March shipment from Calcutta, the market closing firm at these figures. Spot lots are strong at 3¼c.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 7.—4:30 P. M.—BY CABLE FROM LIVERPOOL.—The market has ruled steady to-day. Sales of the day were 10,000 bales, of which 2,000 bales were for export and speculation. Of to-day's sales 6,000 bales were American. The weekly movement is given as follows:

Below we give all news received to date of disasters, &c., to vessels carrying cotton from United States ports:

AMERIQUE str. (Fr.), from New York, recently disabled at sea and towed into Queenstown, left the latter port D c. 29 for Havre, where she arrived 30th.

CLEOPATRA, str., from Savannah for New York, was detained a few hours at Tybee by a slight accident to her machinery. She repaired and sailed Dec. 29, and arrived at New York Jan. 3

DANIEN, str. (Br.), from Norfolk, Va., at Liverpool Dec. 19, struck on a shoal in Cardigan Bay Dec. 18, and was got off again soon after, making a great deal of water, which damaged the lower portion of her cargo in the fore hold; damage to hull confined to fore compartment.

DURHAM, str. (Br.), from New Orleans for Reval, which was taken on the dry dock at Savannah, Dec. 27, to have a new shaft put in, had to discharge 2,913 bales cotton; 1,827 bales were left on board, and she was successfully raised, drawing 11 feet of water.

ISAAC WEBB, ship, from New York at Liverpool, Dec. 19, had been in collision, Dec. 16, 20 miles west of Crookhaven, with bark Bridegroom, from Iquique, but received little or no damage; the Bridegroom had bulwarks, rail and bowsprit carried away, cutwater and portion of stem knocked away, &c.

HARTSTENE, schr.—About one-third of the cargo (which consisted of 1,929 bales of cotton) was supposed to have been saved Dec. 14 dry from the Hartsene, M Nair, from Charleston for Reval, ashore at Halland's Waderow. The salvage was going on at the rate of 25 per cent. for dry cotton and inventory, 40 per cent. for cotton saved by diver, or 27½ per cent. if the vessel got off; all to be taken to Elsinore. (The H. has since been got off and taken into Elsinore leaky.)

Market steady.

BREADSTUFFS.

FRIDAY, P. M., January 7, 1876

The flour market was more active early in the week; there was a better demand from the local trade, and shippers for the West Indies and South America were pretty free purchasers. But the better demand was very freely met on the part of holders, and no decided improvement in prices took place, though a smaller proportion of the business was done at or near inside figures. Receipts have been comparatively free for this reason, and the stock on the 1st of January was found to be nearly double that of last year. Latterly the demand has fallen off, but choice family brands of Southern rule very firm. To-day the market was dull, and shipping grades weak.

The wheat market opened the week with a pretty fair demand, and a strong effort to promote an advance in prices. Millers were in want of stock, and the recent arrival of vessels caused some buying to fill freight engagements. But the demand soon fell off, and the market relapsed into the condition of stagnation and lassitude that was so conspicuous throughout December. The large stocks at London, Liverpool, and New York, aggregating about 17 million bushels, against 7 millions last year, had a very discouraging influence; and a decline in gold, with some recovery in ocean freights, were also circumstances unfavorable to holders. The business in wheat has been in mixtures, by which they were able to make up samples equal to No. 2 Milwaukee at $1 20 while straight cargoes were held at $1 24 and upward. Yesterday, it was reported that the limits of shippers had been materially reduced, and the sales were only about 23,000 bushel all told. To-day, holders were firm, but very little was done.

Indian corn has been in good demand for export, and prices do not show much change, though some variations from day to day have been noted. The supplies of new Western mixed, and the quality of the best samples, is all that could be expected; hence they are in brisk demand to go forward by the English steamers. Old corn was neglected, but at some decline, latterly, has been taken more freely for shipment by sail at 71@72c. for prime afloat, while prime new sold largely at 66c. Southern corn has been in limited supply at 63@66c. for new. To-day, there was an active demand and some further advance in prices.

Rye has been very firmly held, but business has [illegible] a very limited scale. Barley has met with a fairly active demand, and full prices have been maintained, the sales being mostly of Canada West, including No. 2 at $1 20, to arrive. Barley malt remains quiet; a boat load of Canada peas sold at $1 02, in bond.

Oats have had a slow sale, and prices have been barely supported at 45½c. for No. 3, and 47@47½c. for No. 2 mixed; prime white grades in better supply. To-day, No. 2 mixed sold rather more freely at 47c.

THE DRY GOODS TRADE.

FRIDAY, P. M., Jan. 7, 1876.

In volume, the business of the week has been light and unimportant with manufacturers' agents, and foreign goods almost stagnant in importers' hands. Many of the resident buyers for the larger Western houses, who left the city to spend the holidays in their several localities, have not yet returned, and operations by the City and local jobbers were of a strictly hand-to-mouth character. A few of the leading print houses opened their new spring goods with fairly satisfactory results, and agents for cotton hosiery received liberal orders for delivery hereafter, apart from which there was a quiet movement in domestic productions. Values of both cottons and woolens, of domestic manufacture, were fairly sustained, but there were some further reductions in bleached cottons, in which the well known productions of the Utica Steam Mills participated. The failure of Hamilton, Richardson & Whitney, dry goods jobbers, Boston, was reported, with estimated liabilities of $350,000.

DOMESTIC COTTON GOODS.—There was a limited movement in the most staple fabrics, and some fair transactions occurred in denims and brown drills for export. Heavy standard and fine brown sheetings of the best corporation makes were firmly held, and are not in excessive supply. Bleached cottons dragged, and Utica nonpareils were reduced to 13¼c., less a liberal trade discount, while wide bleached sheetings of the same make were marked down to 38c. for 10-4, 33c. for 9-4, and 30c for 8-4. There was a small stocking-up demand for tickings and denims, but cheviots, ducks, stripes and checks remained quiet, and there was less than the expected demand for cottonades, which have been sluggish up to this time, and irregular in price. Print cloths were lightly dealt in, but tolerably firm at 4⅜c., thirty days, for extra 64s, although some transactions were reported at 4¼c., cash. Prints moved slowly in fancy styles, but there was an increased demand for shirtings, which were distributed in considerable amounts at 6½@7c., the Orientals having been reduced to the former figures on Wednesday. The Cocheco and Manchester Print Works forwarded to their agents, lines of their new spring productions, which were favorably received by the trade, with whom the price—7¼c.—appeared to be popular.

DOMESTIC WOOLEN GOODS.—There have been very few clothiers in the market, and, as it is yet too early for jobbers to commence their purchases of spring woolens, business has been quiet in this department. Agents having lines of fine fancy cassimeres to offer received a few orders for future delivery from the finest clothing trade and cloth jobbers, but these were not important in the aggregate amount. Worsted coatings ruled quiet, and present appearances indicate a large supply of these goods, which will probably be found excessive, as their popularity is somewhat on the wane. Cloths and doeskins were very dull, and satinets and jeans were only placed in limited amounts. Flannels were taken in small lots for the renewal of assortments, but blankets were very quiet. Agents have their new styles of worsted dress fabrics in a forward state of preparation, and some of the leading mills will show their productions in a few days, when a brisk movement may be expected.

FOREIGN DRY GOODS.—The market for imported fabrics has been extremely quiet, and will probably continue so until importers are ready to show their new spring goods which are coming forward slowly. Reports from Europe indicate a stronger market for brown linen goods, and an advance on some makes has been established, which has checked operations for this market. Yorkshire stuff goods, such as alpacas, mohairs and brilliantines, are a shade lower in the Bradford market, but 40-inch black French cashmeres are steadily held abroad. In our annual report, given in our editorial columns last week, of spinning in the United States, we published a table of jobbers' prices at New York for the year ending July 1, 1875. We now bring down to January 1st similar quotations for same goods.

On Mortgage Security.

Having been engaged for the past 12 years in investing money at ten per cent interest, on farm property in Illinois, we have now opened a branch office at Council Bluffs, Iowa. The amount of loans placed by us have exceeded $4,500,000 without the loss of a single dollar to the investors.

Iowa has entered upon a career of wonderful, and, we believe, permanent prosperity. During 1874 Iowa farmers raised more wheat, corn and hogs than any other State in the Union.

The demand for loans is active, and we are receiving large numbers of choice applications for sums ranging from $500 to $10,000 on from three to five years time.

On Mortgage Security.

Having been engaged for the past 12 years in investing money at ten per cent interest, on farm property in Illinois, we have now opened a branch office at Council Bluffs, Iowa. The amount of loans placed by us have exceeded $1,500,000 without the loss of a single dollar to the investors.

Iowa has entered upon a career of wonderful, and, we believe, permanent prosperity. During 1874 Iowa farmers raised more wheat, corn and hogs than any other State in the Union.

The demand for loans is active, and we are receiving large numbers of choice applications for sums ranging from $500 to $10,000 on from three to five years time.

CURRENCY MEASURES IN CONGRESS.

Although, in the present state of the public mind, it has not been expected that any currency bill will pass Congress this session, still the advocates of paper money are very busy, and several measures have been brought forward during the past week or two of an inflationistic tendency. The most notable is the bill of Mr. Wood of this city. As its author holds an important position on the Committee of Ways and Means, it has received more attention than it could otherwise have claimed. At the very first sight this bill appears in its true character as an expedient for paper money expansion. It purports to be "a bill to repeal, in part, the act entitled 'An act to provide for the resumption of specie payments,' approved 19th January, 1875, and to facilitate the resumption of specie payments without contraction of the currency." In conformity with its title, Mr. Wood's bill aims to meet the views of those who want the resumption law repealed, and, secondly, of those who want the currency enlarged by further issues of legal tenders. Besides these two principal objects of the bill, it aims at a number of subordinate ends, and seeks to conciliate diverse plans and conflicting factions. The consequence is that the bill is both complicated and perplexing. It consists of nineteen sections, and its provisions are, some of them, so vague that it is not easy to form a positive opinion as to how it would work if it became a law. Hence it happens that public opinion is much divided on this bill, and there are but three points on which unanimity seems to prevail. The first is that the bill would postpone indefinitely the return of specie payments, and render it impossible, except by a convulsion like that which terminated the assignats of France. Secondly, that it would inflate the currency by new issues of paper. Thirdly, that it would subvert our present currency system, and overthrow it with all its existing safeguards. The essential parts of this bill are subjoined:

SEC. 1. That the $700,000,000 of four per centum bonds, provided for in the act entitled "An act to authorize the re-funding of the national debt," approved July 14, 1870, as amended by the act approved January 20, 1871, shall be redeemable at the pleasure of the United States after forty years from their date, which shall be July 1, 1876, and interest thereon shall be payable, quarterly, on the 1st days of January, April, July, and October of each year.

SEC. 4. That any person, firm, or corporation, doing business in the United States, may deposit said bonds with the Treasurer of the United States in sums of $10,000, or any multiple thereof, and, upon relinquishing to the United States one per centum of the annual interest thereon, may receive their par in the Treasury notes hereinafter mentioned.

SEC. 6. That all Treasury notes heretofore authorized, and all National bank notes and other securities of the United States, received in payment for the bonds herein authorized, shall be retired from circulation and canceled, and shall not again be issued; and the Treasurer of the United States shall return to each National bank, the notes of which, to the amount of $1,000, or any multiple thereof, may have been received in payment for said bonds, an equivalent amount of the bonds on deposit with him to secure said retired notes.

SEC. 9. That the Secretary of the Treasury shall cause to be prepared Treasury notes, for the purpose of this act, of such denominations, not less than $10, as he may think proper. Said notes shall be payable to bearer on demand at the Treasury of the United States or any of its branches; and when the Treasury of the United States shall have resumed payment in gold, said notes shall be paid therein on presentation and demand.

SEC. 10. That said notes shall bear upon their face a certificate that they are "secured by the pledge of bonds of the United States known as circulation bonds of 1876, deposited with the Treasurer of the United States;" and said certificate shall be authenticated by the written or engraved signatures of the said Treasurer and of the Register of the Treasury.

SEC. 11. That said notes shall be receivable in payment of all taxes, internal duties, excises, debts, and demands of every kind due the United States, except duties on imports, which shall be paid in coin, and of all claims and demands against the United States of every kind whatsoever, except for principal and interest of the public debt, which shall be paid in coin; and said notes shall be lawful money and a legal tender in payment of all debts, public and private, within the United States, except where payment in coin or otherwise is specifically provided for by the terms of the contract or agreement between the parties thereto, and except duties on imports and the principal and interest of the public debt as aforesaid. But nothing herein contained shall be construed to require the payment of any part of the principal or interest of the public debt in coin which is now by law payable in currency.

SEC. 16. That said notes shall be exempt from all taxes or duties of any kind whatever by or under national, State, municipal, or local authority, except as herein provided.

Among the numerous objections that have been urged against this bill, there are one or two which are worthy of special notice. In the first place the bill is singularly ill-timed. At the present critical period of our finance and trade, it is difficult to imagine a currency measure more adapted to disturb business and to shake commercial confidence. It authorizes the issue of 4 per cent. United States bonds, but it fixes their price very much below the value which such bonds ought to command in the market. The effect of such a policy could not fail to be disastrous. It would tend, if adopted, to disturb values, to shake the public credit and to depress our Government bonds both in Europe and here. And this it would do even if unaided by other provisions of a like sinister character with which the bill is replete. But the 4 per cent. bonds are not ordinary securities. They are called "circulation bonds." They carry with them a power and a privilege such as has been conferred on no bonds ever issued by any Government in good credit in modern times. Section 4 declares that any person who holds these bonds shall have the privilege of depositing them in the National Treasury, and of receiving in return their value in legal tender notes at par. The only condition exacted of the fortunate possessor of such prolific securities is, that he shall give up 1 per cent of his annual interest. He is to be satisfied with three per cent instead of four. This peculiarly beneficent arrangement is well worthy of examination. Suppose it were to go into effect to-day. How would it work? Let us apply it to the case of an impecunious Wall street speculator, who has a friend willing to lend him $100,000 for a few days. With this sum in hand our Wall street man buys the new fours, under Mr. Wood's act; he deposits these bonds immediately in the Treasury, and receives his money back in full. With this money he repays his friend's loan. In a few days, without investing a dollar of his own money, this shrewd, worthless speculator has earned an annuity from the Treasury of $3,000 a year, which is a larger sum, we believe, than is paid on the average to the Governors of the States throughout this country. Let us trace out the successive steps of this lucrative investment. First, our adventurer, as we have said, takes his friend's $100,000 to the Treasury, and buys 100 bonds of $1,000 each; secondly, he deposits these bonds in the proper office, where he signs a paper formally surrendering one per cent of the annual interest of $4,000 due on his bonds, and consenting to accept $3,000 a year in full of all demands; thirdly, he receives $100,000 in legal tender money, and he thus repays the loan with which his friend had temporarily accommodated him. But this is not the whole transaction. Let us examine another case. Instead of our moneyless adventurer, with no means and little credit, let us take a capitalist who has $100,000 of his own funds, and is not obliged to repay any loan as soon as he gets his first instalment of Treasury notes. This opulent investor can go through the three steps above described, and at the end he still owns his $100,000 of cash. What is there to prevent him from repeating the threefold process as often as he likes? With no new outlay of fresh capital, but with the same capital turned over and over, he may thus become possessed of successive instalments of bonds to the amount of a million of dollars or more. There is no apparent means of restraining him provided in the bill. Hence it appears that by repeated investments of $100,000 at a time, our capitalist might obtain under this bill an annuity from the Government, and at the end of his operations he would have the whole sum of $100,000 in cash with which he started. Besides this, he would, of course, have his annuity of $30,000 a year, supposing that his operations had been repeated ten times. Our space forbids us to pursue the subject, or to add further argument against this latest inflation bill, or in support of the opinion that no Government in good credit has ever issued securities with such dangerous, exceptional, and needless privileges as are asked for the circulation bonds which Mr. Wood desires to create. It is easy to see that the result would inevitably be to promote the issue with great rapidity of 700 millions of legal tender notes of a new and mischievous species; that the Treasury would have to pay to the adventurers who had invested in this enterprise the sum of twenty-one millions of dollars a year. What would not be so easy for Mr. Wood to tell the country would be the nature of the consideration on account of which the nation ought to pay an annuity of twenty-one millions a year to a clique of speculators, the sources from which the Treasury would obtain the funds needful to redeem the 370 millions of greenbacks proposed to be withdrawn and canceled to make room for the new notes, and the constitutional means by which a series of new Treasury notes could be created a legal-tender in time of peace.

LAST YEAR'S MERCANTILE FAILURES.

Recent events have stirred up considerable agitation as to the ruinous losses of the community by financial and mercantile failures. Some months ago we ventured to suggest that the annual losses which fall so heavily upon our commercial firms through the insolvency of their debtors, are susceptible of a distribution over a wider area, so that the pressure might be more gentle and less disastrous than at present. With a view to stimulate discussion, and to give it a practical direction, we cited the principle of insurance as having been applied with advantage to diffuse over a greater area the pressure of pecuniary calamities and disasters. The suggestion was well received in some quarters, while in others it elicited the well-founded objection that creditors would be too ready to insure doubtful transactions and too loath to insure sound ones. Another criticism was that any such insurance of credits would work mischief in various ways, and especially by relaxing that severe scrutiny of credits which is one of the bulwarks of mercantile honor and general solvency. This discussion is still open. It will probably be stirred up anew by the report which appears to-day of the commercial failures of the year 1875. The compilers of these figures, Messrs. Dun, Barlow & Co., have rendered much service to statistical science by their elaborate reports on this subject, and their statements are now made quarterly, instead of annually, as heretofore. The advantages of so frequent a publication are too obvious to need pointing out, in view of our approaching return to specie payment. The pressure which must be generated in various parts of our financial machinery, during the change from the paper basis of monetary values to the safer and more solid foundation of coin, is not unlikely to cause new risks to invade mercantile credits. Hence our men of business will require a larger capital compared with the aggregate of business done, and the shrewdest men will be the earliest to take proper precautions for safety. This point has not escaped notice in the circular before us. It states that the "active surplus or capital employed in the mercantile trade of the country has been shown to be in larger proportion to the business done, and to the amount of existing liabilities, than at any time in our previous history." This testimony offers gratifying confirmation of our oft-repeated inferences from other facts, that "a conservative economy has been growing among our people and producing its natural fruit in the augmentation of capital." The numbers of the failures of the past year are reported as follows:

To make these figures more instructive, we must remember that the 7,740 insolvents of the year 1875 constitute one and a tenth per cent. of the whole body of mercantile men, bankers, manufacturers and traders whose status is here reported. In other words, our industrial army of 680,072 men has had 7,740 casualties by failure. It thus appears that eleven of our business men in every thousand were brought down by this form of financial disaster and ruin. How many of these bankrupts have been struck down by the fall of others we have no facts to enable us to judge. One-third of the total number is an estimate which is said to be moderate. Assuming it to be true, we should infer that of the 7,740 casualties of last year, more than 2,500 might have been prevented if some method were devised to apply the principle of insurance to bad debts, with safety and success.

If we consider the vast aggregate of capital which was swept away when these energetic business men were prostrated and their business organization broken up from causes which were in part preventable, we shall see sufficient ground for pushing our inquiries and investigations on every side. The new departure which political economy is taking in this country and in Europe inspires the hope that the preventable causes of mercantile failure will at a not distant day be submitted to an analysis as searching, conservative, and successful as has been applied in other departments of economic science and philosophic research. If the average lifetime of man has been signally lengthened by hygienic knowledge, why should not economic knowledge enable us to protract the average lifetime of honest commercial solvency? In any case, however, and whether we admit or deny the feasibility of this scheme, the discussion of so interesting a question cannot fail to be in many ways instructive and useful. Passing from the numbers of our insolvent business men we come next to examine the total sum of their losses. These are reported as follows:

From this table it appears that the total of last year's failures amounted to 201 millions, against 155 millions, in 1874; 228 millions in 1873; 121 millions in 1872, and 85 millions in 1871. For the last twenty years the aggregate of 1875 has never been surpassed but three times—in 1857, 291,750,000; in 1861, 207,210,000, and in 1873, 228,499,000. Of the 201 millions represented by this year's failures, 82 millions were in the Middle States. The amount was 36 millions in the West, 36 millions in the South, and 40 millions in New England. For obvious reasons the failures in the South are much larger than for many years past, amounting to 36 millions, against 20 millions last year, 19 millions in 1873, and 11 millions in 1871. In Maryland the failures this year are reported at 10 millions, against 1½ millions in 1874. In Kentucky the amount is nearly 4 millions, against half as much for 1874, and in Georgia the total has reached 6 millions or more than three-fold the average of the previous four years.

If we sum up the aggregate failures of the five years, we shall find that they amount to 791 millions of dollars. We have no means but conjecture for ascertaining how much the creditors received as dividends on these insolvent estates. Thirty per cent would be a high estimate. This would leave 554 millions of total losses to be borne by the mercantile community. In the early years of the war we estimated the annual growth of wealth in this country on the basis of the census of 1860 at nearly 500 millions a year. The national increase of wealth averages now, in all probability, nearly 700 millions a year. On this showing the failures for the past five years have caused losses amounting to 79 per cent of the average annual increase of this country in productive capital. We know it is contended by some persons that the capital swept away by failures is not all lost, but that much of it re-appears again in new forms, so that the country does not suffer, though individual creditors may suffer severely. Into this general question we shall not enter now. What is certain is, that these immense sums of which we have been speaking are positively lost to the lawful creditors of the insolvents, whose misfortunes or misdeeds are recorded in the tables before us. We say "misdeeds" because there is in the public mind a growing conviction, which is not without good grounds, that the number of dishonest failures in some parts of this country is increasing. Among the problems of a practical character which are suggested by the records of our mercantile failures, one of the most urgent is the prevention and the punishment of dishonest insolvents.

REDUCTION IN GOVERNMENT EXPENSES.

The following table, which we quoted last week in an article on the reform measures of Governor Tilden, we see criticised by the Springfield Republican and the Utica Herald. Both papers say that the statement of $450,000,000 for the Federal Government in 1870 is an error—being "$70,000,000 too large if taxation is meant, and "$150,000,000 if expenditure is meant." It will be remembered that this statement was given by the Governor to illustrate the extravagance of Public expenditures, and the figures of the census years were used, we suppose, because at no other dates could the State, County and City figures be obtained.

| Total | $83,000,000 | $154,196,858 | $730,591,521 |
| Population | 23,191,876 | 31,443,321 | 38,558,371 |
| Federal | $1 72 | $1 91 | $11 67 |

As we made the foregoing table the basis of some remarks, and as the above criticism is being extensively copied, we consider it of importance to state the facts for 1870 more in detail.

But first we should remember that this profligacy in expenditure is not a point made against the General Government alone; and the Governor presents his facts in a way not to reflect on it, but on the evil wherever manifest. The growth in debt and taxation is really the result of the times and monetary derangements we have passed through, governments and society everywhere becoming infected with the grossest extravagance and a very low moral standard in official life. As individuals we have attempted reform and have been forced, each for himself, to materially reduce expenses; many gratifications and indulgencies long accustomed to have been cut off, and personal outgoes are at present approximating ante-war times. So too our railroad and manufacturing corporations have found themselves compelled to make the expense account materially less. This same process it is now proposed our governments shall go through. Not the National organization alone, but every City and State organization. The evil that is upon us must be remedied, and it is only when anyone says it cannot be done, that he assumes and defends the evil system which is attacked.

For a moment, then, turn to these figures for 1870, which appear to be questioned. If the reader will look at the National Census Report for that year, the volume on "Industry and Wealth," pages 10 and 11, probably the first step in the Governor's examination will be seen. On those pages the total taxation, State, County, Town and City, was given in detail; at the top of the same pages we have the gross amount for the United States for same year with the exception of the Post-Office department. The State, County, &c., for 1870 will thus be found to be $280,591,521, and the United States $411,255,479. Now if the reader will follow up the investigation, by a reference to the Finance Report for 1870, the same statement for the General Government will be found more in detail, as follows:

| From customs | $194,538,374 44 |
| From internal revenue | 185,128,859 37 |
| From sales of public lands | 3,360,481 76 |
| From miscellaneous sources | 28,227,762 66 |
| Total | $411,255,478 23 |

These, then, are the same receipts, the total of which is in the Census Report. But it will at once be seen that if we should place the figures for 1870 by the side of those for 1860, the comparison would not be accurate, for the one is gold and the other is partly gold and partly currency. So, to perfect the statement, the customs receipts (which are gold) were very properly reduced to currency, and then the word "currency" placed over the statement for 1870 and "gold" over the other two years. If we call the premium on gold for the year ending July 1, 1870, twenty-four per cent (it probably averaged more than that) the result would be about $47,000,000, which, if added to the above, would make the total (after deducting fifteen million dollars premium on gold sales included in miscellaneous) $443,000,000. But it has been stated that there could be no reason for thus reducing those figures to currency. Most certainly there was. It would have been unfair and inexact to have said simply this is the increase in ten years, for it was in great part a currency increase, and hence to some extent fictitious; consequently, to perfect the comparison, the figures for 1870 were reduced to and stated to be currency figures, while the others are gold. Now let the reader go one step farther and add the Post-Office department receipts (about twenty millions) and he will have a total many millions more than Governor Tilden gave it. Hence we see that in the table in question the statement for the General Government is not too large but rather (if it is subject to any charge of inaccuracy) it is too small.

Yet all this discussion is to little purpose except to remove any idea of unfairness, and which might rob the figures of their proper influence. The comparison, then, is just; the evil is not exaggerated in the least. We are laboring under a burden of taxation no people could support long. As we stated last week, the General Government expenditures have been reduced since 1870 by making our payments on the principal of the debt less and our interest account smaller; but State and municipal taxation has during the same time increased, and the actual United States Government expenses have not in the least fallen off. That is to say, though we have decreased National taxation by not paying so much on our debt, we have during the last five years increased rather than decreased the actual expenses of City, State and National Government. The position of the United States in this respect may be shown by the following statement:

ACTUAL EXPENDITURES OF THE UNITED STATES.

* These figures are only the expenses of the Post Office Department, less the appropriations to that department (a constantly increasing amount), but included in the miscellaneous.

We here see that, outside of the interest account and any payments on the principal of the debt, the actual expenses of the General Government have increased $14,000,000 since 1870, and that the average expenses for the six years are nearly four and one-half millions more than they were in 1870. Can one look with satisfaction on such an exhibit? Is it not, on the contrary, alarming? And yet it is but a type of what has been the course of public expenditures since 1870 the country over. Some now claim that the above cannot be reduced without crippling the government, and even higher estimates are made for the future. But a change and a decided change must be made; public expenditures must be largely reduced; we cannot afford this waste whatever the consequences; and the people must be satisfied with the government that is left them, and will be, if honestly administered.

WHAT HAS GERMANY DONE WITH THE FRENCH INDEMNITY PAYMENT?

(Communicated.)

DUISBURG, Prussia, December 9, 1875.

Over the whole world there is now in process a reaction from the speculative mania, that broke down first in Vienna, in May, 1873. Since that time affairs have gone from bad to worse in every corner of the civilized world, with the exception of France, and even there the signs of reaction are now visible. The newspapers at present give daily announcements of failures as regularly as weather reports.

Germany, a country that was formerly proud of the soberness and solidity of her commerce, has now to bear the humiliation of acknowledging that her population has been infected by a speculative mania, hardly equaled by the celebrated South Sea bubble in England. How this disease of the German brain—for disease it was—could become so widespread an epidemic and end in such disaster, will be interesting to investigate.

The situation of commerce and industry was good in the beginning of the year 1870, before the Franco-German war, though the commencement of a speculative era was visible. During the war the wants of the large army in the field gave a stimulus to consumption, and, consequently, to business. After the war all kinds of stocks began to rise, and the manufacturers of every sort were incapable of producing as much as was wanted.

Principally the iron and coal industry profited from this state of things, iron being in great request for railroad construction in the United States, Russia, Austria and Germany, and prices rose enormously. A particular feature was the mania for founding joint stock companies, a new law having facilitated the perfecting of such organizations. In the first place banks were founded, then came the mania for buying manufactories and transforming them into joint stock companies, with a capital thrice as large as the original cost of the manufactory. Altogether, there have been invested about 1,200,000,000 thalers (one thousand million dollars) in joint stock companies in Germany during three years. Money during the whole time was very abundant. The immense sums that came from France made the market extremely easy. Manufactories were largely employed for the army. Railroad construction went on at a vast rate. In five years Prussia has augmented its railroad mileage about 50 per cent. All these influences combined had the effect of raising the prices of everything largely: wages, rents, houses, the products of industry, etc. This rise of prices made it appear as if everybody was making money, and the shares of all railroad companies, banks, manufactories rose immensely, reaching high quotations. The following statement will show the selling prices of the shares of some of our principal banks, railroad and mining companies, in December, 1872, and in November, 1875:

| Disconto Company | 340 per cent. | 115 per cen |
| Prussian Baden credit | 265 " | 90 " |
| Bergisch Mark Railroad | 135 " | 75 " |
| Rheinisch Railroad | 172 " | 106 " |
| Dortmarsder Union Mining and Iron Works | 173 " | 9 " |

Through the heavy rise of prices the banking institutions and manufactories made large gains. It must here be remarked that nearly all of our banks, with the exception of those issuing paper money and under control of the government, speculated in stocks like the celebrated Credit Mobilier in France, and the results have at last been the same; most of them having locked up half their capital, or even more in mining shares, railway shares, etc. Now, it is ridiculous to call such gambling and jobbing institutions banks, but the division of labor has not yet extended so far in Germany, as to separate the real banking business from the stock-jobbing business; and though these banks were, in 1872, capable of paying large dividends, they will now pay much less, if anything at all. They have to suffer for having tried to make money by gambling, instead of by legitimate business. In 1857 a great many German banking institutions locked up and lost their capital in the same way; but most of them forgot the lessons then taught, and committed the same blunder again. For in such times of rising prices and much speculation, most men lose their balance of mind, and in the spring of 1873 the commercial world in Germany was fit to be put into a mad-house. A man who followed his legitimate business without speculating, was thought a great fool, for very many made, through speculations in stocks and mining shares in coal and iron, more money in a month than in actual business is to be made in a life time. But what is easily won is generally easily lost again; and I know a a great many who then thought themselves millionaires, but are now nearly beggars.

The question arises, where has the French money gone to? for one who sees Germany now will find her rather poorer than in 1870. We know that France paid over to Germany partly in coin, partly in bills of exchange, a sum of 4,500,000,000 francs. The bills of exchange became due by and by, so that our Government would have had in hand that amount of money in coin (supposing the amassing of so much coin possible), if it had not paid some debts, expended much for equipping anew the army, building fortresses and railroads, giving large deposits to the State banks and loaning money to the stock market through the "Seehandlung," a kind of banking-house belonging to the government and founded in old times to keep commerce in Prussia. With the exception of the sums used for repaying the State debts, all this money has now been expended for what an economist would call unproductive works; though they will help to keep the French out of the country. But during the time necessary for spending the money, it was at the disposal of the money market and was used to extend credit. As the demand for everything, including labor, was very large, and everybody consumed much, profits made by all industries were very large, and this seduced the public to invest their capital and often their credit in such new enterprises as manufactories, railroads, etc. It appears now that most of these enterprises are unprofitable, and that the power of production is much larger than the power of consumption, and that the capital thus invested is in great part lost. The public having now none of the French indemnity, but having spent their capital in building roads and manufactories, which do not pay, finds at last that they are the losers, and that it will take, perhaps, five years of frugality and hard work in the right direction, to repair the loss caused by transforming too much floating capital into fixed capital; fixed in the same manner as the capital was fixed in building the Northern Pacific Railroad, fixed in such a way as never to pay or produce floating capital anew. Such capital is utterly lost and the public is the poorer for it. If I am not mistaken, such investments are often called in the United States permanent investments. At least I remember that a correspondent of ours in your country, recommended the Northern Pacific bonds as good for permanent investment, but they appeared to us an extremely permanent investment, so that we declined the kind offer and are not sorry for it.

As in the whole world over-speculation has been going on, it would not be logical to assume, that the French indemnity was the sole cause of over-speculation in Germany; it is, perhaps, even not the principal cause.

But our speculation would, without so much French money, never have been on so large a scale, and the lesson to be learned therefrom is the old lesson, that money easily won is easily lost, and that hard work is the law of nature for mankind, as the Bible teaches. However, the depression of spirits in the business world is at present in Germany, probably, as extreme as was three years ago the contrary feeling, and I admit that I myself may take a too gloomy view of the situation; but I hope that we will never receive five milliards of francs in so short a time again. The effect of the French money on the German public has been much the same as that of striking oil, on some farmers in the Alleghany Valley; it has been a curse instead of a blessing.

CLEARING-HOUSE AT LOUISVILLE.

In an article on Bank Clearing-Houses, in the CHRONICLE of January 1, we stated that Louisville, San Francisco, Albany and Detroit were about the only central cities of our Banking System where such organizations had not been formed. We see now, by the Louisville Courier-Journal of the 8th inst., that the exception no longer applies to that city. Louisville has a clearing house which went into operation the first week in January. It is a voluntary association, and not an incorporation under the charter obtained a few years since, as certain features of the charter were objectionable. The membership embraces twenty banks, as follows:

RAILROAD EARNINGS IN DECEMBER, AND FOR THE YEAR 1875.

Railroad earnings having been reported now for the full year 1875, it is possible to take a retrospect and see how the gross receipts compare with previous years. The general situation is pretty well understood, as it has been indicated by the course of earnings during the last three months. The first nine months of the year were notably unfavorable, and at the end of September there were only three roads of prominence, then reporting, that could show a material increase in their earnings as compared with the corresponding nine months of the previous year; these were the two Pacific roads and the St. Louis and Iron Mountain. With October an improvement in traffic commenced, and during the last three months of the year the prospect has been brightening.

The principal cause for decreased earnings has been found in the excessively low rates for through traffic which prevailed throughout the whole year, but especially during the continuance of the so-called "railroad war" between the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore and Ohio roads. To show the relative decrease in earnings on eight roads which form parts of the several great trunk lines between the West and the Atlantic coast, for the whole or part of the year 1875, the following figures have been brought together:

| | Gross Earnings. | | Net Earnings. | |
| Grand Trunk, Canada— | | | | |

| | Total Tonnage. | |
| | 1875. | 1874. |
| Grand Trunk, Canada— | | |
| For six months, Jan. 1 to June 30 | 956,000 | 908,750 |
| Great Western, Canada— | | |

| Boston & Albany— | | |
| Year ending Sept. 30 | 282,209,789 | 290,672,369 |
| New York Central & Hudson— | | |
| Erie— | | |
| Baltimore & Ohio— | | |
| Year ending Sept. 30 | 872,101 | 752,25 |

In the case of the Boston & Albany, New York Central and Erie the tonnage represents the total tons carried one mile; Grand Trunk, the total tons moved; Baltimore and Ohio, total tons of through freight. As to Lake Shore and Michigan Central, tonnage is not given, but on the latter an increase was carried.

The prospect for better earnings in the year 1876 is generally considered good, as the agreement among the principal trunk roads on the freight question, and the existence of good crops of cotton and cereals are all favorable to such an expectation. There is also some expectation that the famous Potter law of Wisconsin will be repealed, a recent dispatch from Milwaukee stating that the Governor of Wisconsin, in his message, recommends the repeal of the present Granger laws, and recommends a substitute similar to the Minnesota or Massachusetts law, whereby railroad companies may fix their own rates under a proper supervision of the State to prevent extortion or discrimination, and that new rates shall not exceed rates fixed by railroad companies before the Granger law, under which they were supposed to derive a reasonable revenue.

The rate is to be uniform on all the trunk lines from New York and Boston. Sunbury & Lewistown.—The Bucks County Intelligencer says: About twenty of the principal bondholders have recently made up among themselves the sum of $125,000, which was paid over to the trustees of the first mortgage, James Pollock and Edward D. Mitchell, to liquidate the expenses incurred by them in regard to the sale some months ago, and meet the judgments still in existence on account of claims for right of way. This clears up all valid claims, and, as the advance of $125,000 to get possession of the road was made by those interested upon their own responsibility, a meeting of the bondholders, generally, will soon be held to take such steps as may be thought expedient. An assessment of 15 per cent will be made on the bonds to repay the sum now advanced, and to cover the expenses incurred by Josiah Hart and others of the committee which had the affairs of the road in charge for some time past.

—The Alta California has the following:

The Southern Pacific Railroad is now finished and in running order fifteen miles out of the San Gorgonio Pass and well on to the Colorado Desert, while north the tunnel work at Tehachepa Pass is being pushed to completion, and by the first of March will be finished. When the road is joined from Tehachepa to San Fernando, but an hour's staging will intervene between that city and San Francisco.

—An important transfer of Pacific Coast railway rights has just been consummated, by which control of the Oregon Railroad system will pass into new hands. The majority of the stock of the Oregon railroads, of which Ben Halliday is president, has been transferred to the German bondholders, who agree to supply the necessary funds for completing their construction. It is now said that the construction of the roads will be immediately pushed to a rapid completion.

—The Home Insurance Company has just issued its annual statement, which will be found in our advertising columns. This strong company, with a cash capital of $3,000,000, large reserves for re insurance and unpaid losses, and a net surplus of about $900,000, does not appear to have suffered much from the depression in mercantile business, and the conclusion is that it has done its full share of all the fire business offering.

—Mr. Joseph G. Martin, of 10 State street, Boston, has just issued his "Stock Fluctuations" of that market for the year 1875, which forms an appendix to his "Seventy-three Years' History of the Boston Stock Market." Mr. Martin's compilations are standard for reference, and his long experience in the business gives to his reports a greater prestige each year.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 14, 1876—6 P. M.

The Money Market and Financial Situation.—The course of financial affairs the past week has been marked by growing ease in money, comparatively steady markets for gold and exchange, a continued good demand with firm prices for investment securities, and towards the latter part a decided buoyancy in several of the prominent speculative stocks.

There is evidently a better feeling, and much confidence in a more prosperous condition of business during the present year. These expectations may, indeed, be well founded, but the first inclination after a long period of depression is to "discount" the favorable prospects of the future, and create a remarkable buoyancy in prices which cannot afterward be sustained. It is hardly necessary to remark that a steady and gradual improvement, fully warranted by the financial situation, is healthier in its results than a spasmodic buoyancy.

The Journal of Commerce publishes a statement of interest and dividends paid at this period by States, and by banks, railroad, insurance and miscellaneous companies. No account is taken of the payments by cities, counties or towns, but the total made is such as to warrant the belief that the total January disbursements in New York approximate the sum of $25,000,000. The Journal's recapitulation is as follows:

| States | $721,456 |
| Banks | 3,046,605 |
| Railroads | 17,583,702 |
| Insurance | 506,620 |
| Miscellaneous | 1,086,749 |
| Grand total | $22,495,132 |

The money market has taken the course which was predicted, and has become easier as the week advanced. Currency is returning from the interior, and the supply of money loanable on call is also increasing as the disturbing influences incident to the January payments and settlements are removed. The savings banks offer money on call freely with government collaterals, and it now seems probable that they had strengthened themselves with large currency reserves, in anticipation that deposits might be withdrawn to a considerable amount after the January interest had been paid on them. On call loans the price was up to 7 gold, in the early part of the week, but yesterday and to-day the extreme range was 3@6 per cent. Commercial paper is offered a little more freely, but rates show a tendency to become easier on prime grades, which are quoted at 6@7 per cent.

The Bank of England report on Thursday showed a gain of £378,000 in bullion for the week, and the discount rate remained unchanged at 5 per cent. The Bank of France gained 610,000 francs in specie.

The weekly statement of the New York City Clearing-House Banks, issued January 8th, showed an increase of $1,759,475 in the excess above their 25 per cent legal reserve, the whole of such excess being $10,773,150, against $9,013,675 the previous week.

The following table shows the changes from the previous week and a comparison with 1875 and 1874:

United States Bonds.—There has been a large business in governments at firm prices. The slight decline in gold had some effect in keeping prices down for a time, but recently they have been stronger, and close at an advance on last week's figures. The savings banks will probably appear again in the market as liberal buyers, just as soon as they consider it advisable to invest their currency balances, and there seems to be every prospect that governments will maintain all their popularity with financial corporations.

State and Railroad Bonds.—State bonds have generally shown firmness. Tennessees are about steady and Louisiana consols particularly strong. Virginia bonds are in demand from parties at home, and it becomes more apparent that the coupons receivable for taxes are the great feature of these bonds, and the strength of the old consols gives support to the "pealers" and other bonds. In all future propositions for funding State debts, it is probable that bondholders will insist upon this quality in the coupons.

Railroad bonds have been strong under a good demand. The Pacifics have not been as active as last week, and remain firm at previous prices. Northwest and St. Paul bonds have been among the most active, in sympathy with the buoyancy in their respective stocks, caused in part by the prospect that the obnoxious Potter law may be repealed.

The following securities, seldom or never sold at the Board, were disposed of at auction this week by Adrian H. Muller & Son:

$71,000 town of Eastchester 7 per cent. bonds, 102¾—103¼.
$1,000 town of West Farms 7 per cent. Central avenue bond, 105.

Railroad and Miscellaneous Stocks.—The stock market has shown considerable activity and quite a buoyancy in prices on several of the leading speculative stocks. There has been some depression in Pacific Mail and Panama in consequence of the reports of continued disagreement between the directors of the respective companies, and the giving notice of the termination of their contract at the end of ninety days. The strongest stocks have been Lake Shore, Michigan Central, Northwest and St. Paul, all of which have made an important advance during the week. Lake Shore closes at 64¼ ex div. of 2 per cent., which is an advance of about 4½ per cent. in the week. Michigan Central has advanced to 61½ after selling down to 57 last Friday.

The Northwest and St. Paul stocks are strong on the prospect that the Granger or Potter law of Wisconsin may be repealed or modified in accordance with the suggestions of the Governor in his recent message. There is evidently a general feeling that railroad business has passed its point of greatest depression, and that the prospect for the coming year is favorable for a decidedly better business. There are many reasons to encourage the hopes thus entertained, although the disappointments of the past have been such as to warn us against any definite predictions.

The Gold Market.—Gold was easier on Wednesday and Thursday, but stiffened up to-day, and closed at 113. There is no feature of special importance, but the import of United States bonds, which is going on, if continued for any great length of time, will probably lead to a demand for coin to export. It is to be remarked, however, that the movement of securities to or from this country, being done privately, cannot be definitely arrived at as can be the shipments of coin or produce. On gold loans the rates to-day paid for carrying were 4, 3, 5, 4½ and 3 per cent. Loans were also made "flat." Time loans of gold are quoted as follows: 30 to 90 days, ¼@⅜ for carrying; 6 months, "flat;" and all the year, ⅜@½ per cent for use. Customs receipts of the week were $1,483,000.

The following table will show the course of gold and operations of the Gold Exchange Bank each day of the past week:

Foreign Exchange.—The exchange market has been fairly active during the week, and the supply of bills has come in good part from the railroad loans referred to in our last. There has also been a good supply of cotton bills, which have sold at about 4.83. To day there was an advance of ¼ point in sterling, which seems to have been based upon the idea that the loan bills, above mentioned, were about exhausted. Actual transactions were about ¼ lower than the nominal quotations, which were as follows:

GENERAL INVESTMENT NEWS.

Alabama & Chattanooga.—In the United States Circuit Court in Mobile, Ala., Dec. 29, Judge Woods sitting, this case came up and the arguments were opened by Mr. Snagge, of London, counsel for the foreign bondholders. The bondholders contest the validity of the receivers' certificates, issued by Rice and Haralson, of which $400,000 were sold and $700,000 hypothecated for advances. Opposition is also made to claims of $116,000 for counsel fees, and $240,000 for lands in Chattanooga sold to the company by John C. Stanton. On Jan. 13 decision was rendered in favor of the defendant.

Atlantic & Pacific—Pacific of Missouri.—Judge Dillon, of the United States Circuit Court, delivered a decision, January 7, in the railroad cases. He said the application of St. Louis county to become a party defendant in the bill to foreclose the second mortgage on the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad, and to the bill to foreclose the third mortgage on the Missouri Pacific Road, must be denied, for the reason that an unsecured creditor could not be permitted to interfere with the foreclosure of the mortgages, as it had no interest in the subject matter. He also refused to grant the motion of the State to become a party in these cases for the same reason.

In respect to the suit of N. A. Cowdrey, of New York, against the Missouri Pacific Railroad and others, he said the bill was for the sole purpose of setting aside the third mortgage as fraudulent, but that its averments were not sufficient for that purpose, if true, and that, if the bill did contain sufficient allegations to justify the setting aside of the third mortgage, no receiver could be appointed under it, for the reason that the lease of that road had not yet expired under its provisions, and for the further reason that the object sought did not warrant the appointment of separate receivers. He intimated that if it was ture, as claimed, that the third mortgage was void because of fraud, the proper way would be to intervene in the suit to foreclose, and that if the company refused to defend, the Court would, on a proper showing, permit such intervention.

Afterwards, the attorneys in the Cowdrey case filed an amended bill in conformity with the views of the Court.

Boston City Finances.—Mayor Cobb says: It appears that the increase of the gross debt, during the municipal year, has amounted to $458,478 43, and that the increase of means on hand, for paying off the same, has amounted to $764,058 02—showing an actual reduction of indebtedness amounting to $305,579 59. The debt of the city, December 31, 1875, may be stated briefly as follows:

| Gross debt | | $45,134,261 82 |

| Mystic works | 1,223,000 00 | |
| New supply | 2,110,000 00 | |
| | | $13,769,739 19 |
| Showing net debt, exclusive of water loans | | $14,982,895 83 |

The average rate of interest paid by the city on all its loans is 5 61-100 per centum. The average rate of interest on gold debt of all classes is 4 92-100 per centum. The average interest on all currency loans is 5 999-1000 per centum.

I am not without hope, which seems to me not altogether chimerical, that the policy of paying as we go may be so strictly adhered to that the entire debt may be virtually extinguished in a few years. We are required by law to raise by taxation every year a sum sufficient to pay the interest on the entire debt, and the surplus left after paying the interest on the net debt must by law be added to the Sinking Fund. It has been calculated by careful experts in figures that this process would make the Sinking Fund equal to the debt (exclusive of the water debt) in eight years; and then there is no longer any real debt. I leave out the water debt, because the interest on that is more than paid by the net water rates. Of course the debt would not be cancelled within the time mentioned, except on the condition that we abstain absolutely from contracting new loans. I do not think such abstinence absolutely impracticable. Last year we paid, by taxation, for improvements, which, according to the previous practice, would have been provided for by loan, the sum of $255,500, and the year before last the sum of $1,072,000; and, at the same time, we have been lowering the rate of taxation and diminishing the levy. We can do the same hereafter; and I do not believe it will be necessary to depart from this "pay-as-we-go" policy, even when we come, as we shall once in a while, to a very large and costly improvement, taking care, as of course we shall and can, not to have more than one such enterprise in hand at any one time.

Central Pacific Railroad Securities.—Messrs. Fisk & Hatch, in their annual circular, Jan. 1, say: The earnings of the road for the year 1875 were largely in excess of any previous year, and the business promises to steadily increase for years to come. The following shows the gross and net earnings for the last two years:

| Gross earnings | $14,522,814 15 | $16,891,018 74 |
| Earnings over operating expenses | 8,673,498 90 | 9,716,905 05 |
| Increase (gross earnings) in 1875 over 1874 | | $2,368,204 59 |
| Increase (earnings over operating expenses) in 1875 over 1874 | | 1,043,406 15 |

The earnings over operating expenses for the year 1875 are more than $6,000,000 in excess of the annual interest on the entire bonded debt of the company. The company are now paying dividends on their capital stock, out of net earnings, after providing for the payment of interest on their bonds.

Colorado Central & Kansas Pacific.—The Denver News reported, a short time since, the proceedings of an adjourned meeting held by the stockholders of the Colorado Central Railroad to consider a proposition looking to the consolidation of the Colorado Central and Kansas Pacific railroads. The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That it is the sense of the stockholders of the Colorado Central Railroad Company that the proposition of Robert E. Carr to buy the stock of said company, held by Colorado parties at twenty per cent, payable in Boulder and Gilpin county bonds, at par, is a fair and liberal offer, and ought to be accepted.

Resolved, That we accept the agreement made between the Kansas Pacific Railway Company and the Union Pacific Railroad Company, by the respective presidents, April 23d, 1875, to consolidate the Colorado Central Railroad Company with the Kansas Pacific Railway Company, and the board of directors are authorized to carry such an agreement into effect, and to consolidate the Colorado Central Railroad Company with the Kansas Pacific Railway Company, on the terms in said agreement proposed, or as near as may be.

Eastern Railroad, Mass.—A meeting of the creditors of the Eastern Railroad was held in Boston, Jan. 8, to hear the report of a committee of the stockholders and discuss what could be done for the best interests of all concerned. The meeting was very largely attended. The committee reported an act to be presented to the Legislature for passage, providing for the mortgage of the entire property of the road, and the issuing of thirty-year bonds to the creditors, to the full amount of their claims, with interest payable for the first three years at 3½ per cent., gold, for the next three years at 4½ per cent., and thereafter at 6 per cent. The corporation will continue to run the road. Three trustees are to be appointed by the court, who shall also be directors. Three directors will be elected by the bondholders and three by the stockholders. In case of a default, trustees shall take possession of the road, and, if the default continues for a period of two years, the mortgage shall be absolutely foreclosed. The plan appeared to meet the almost unanimous approval of the meeting, and of large bondholders and stockholders who were present. Another meeting will be held on Saturday, Jan. 15.

| | Miles. |
|---|---|
| Main Line—Indianapolis, Ind., to Peoria, Ill. | 211·50 |
| Western Extension—Champaign, Ill., to Havana | 100·63 |
| White Heath, Ill., on Western Extension, to Decatur | 30·91 |
| Total | 343 01 |

Of the main line, 0·22 miles, from Pekin, Ill., to Peoria, is leased from the Indianapolis & Springfield Company, leaving 333·82 miles owned. Gen. Geo. B. Wright, as receiver, makes the following report for the year ending Nov. 30, 1875. The capital account at that date was as follows:

| Capital stock ($22,785 per mile) | $7,610,200 |
| Bonded debt ($33,948 per mile) | 12,000,000 |
| Past-due coupons | 519,289 |
| Floating debt | 3,597,210 |
| Total ($71,038 per mile) | $23,726,700 |

The receiver has paid $52,152 13, during the year, on account of floating debt claims. He has also made improvements in road and equipment.

Concerning equipment he says: "Your receiver entered into a new contract with the Western Car Company for the use of cars remaining on the road for the period of one year from September 1, 1875, at a monthly rental of $10 per car.

"The twenty-eight locomotives claimed by the Rogers Locomotive & Machine Works, of Paterson, N. J., are still in the possession of your receiver, and the suit pending in the United States Circuit Court for the District of Indiana, to recover possession of said locomotive engines, is still pending and undetermined. [Decided January 10, 1876, in favor of R. Locomotive Works.] The receiver suggests that new engines and cars be purchased in sufficient numbers to supply the locomotives claimed by the Rogers Works and the cars leased; the purchase to be made upon favorable terms and easy payments, so that the payments would be upon purchase instead of rental. By this method the company can become the owner of the locomotives by paying, in monthly instalments, a sum but little in excess of a reasonable rental."

The earnings of the main line, 211·5 miles, for the year, were as follows:

| From freight | $707,567 69 |
| From Passengers | 359,594 39 |
| From Mails and express | 45,434 19 |
| From Miscellaneous | 60,836 68 |
| Total | $1 173,432 95 |
| Actual working expenses (89·85 per cent) | 1,054,330 92 |
| Net earnings | $119,112 01 |
| Extraordinary repairs | 423,000 40 |
| Deficit | $303,889 37 |

The earnings of the Western Extension, 131·51 miles, for the year, were:

| Earnings | $151,101 40 |
| Working expenses (99·98 per cent) | 151,063 25 |
| Net earnings | $38 15 |

The total amount of receipts and disbursements was as follows:

|---|---|
| Receipts from all sources | $1,475,319 07 |
| Disbursements on all accounts | 1,401,064 30 |
| Balance December 1, 1875 | $72,254 77 |

With respect to certain complaints made of his administration of affairs, the receiver says:

"I have been able to apply only a very small proportion of the earnings in the direction of payment of back pay-rolls and supply bills. Such had been, and was, the credit of the company and the condition of the property at the time your receiver took possession, that nothing could be purchased without the most positive assurance of prompt payment out of the earnings, and any diversion of the earnings to the prejudice or delay in payment of current bills and pay-rolls, would have compelled the suspension of the necessary improvements and left the property in such condition that it could not be operated advantageously or profitably. It has been intimated that more has been done in the direction of improvements to the property than was absolutely necessary. Whoever has entertained such an opinion proves himself ignorant of the real condition of the property, and I respectfully refer to the sworn statements contained in my first report in this case, and to the needed improvements and repairs upon the property specified, under that head, in this report."

Logansport Crawfordsville & Southwestern.—A meeting of the first mortgage bondholders was held in this city on the 6th inst. John Baird, of New York, was Chairman and Howard Darlington, of Philadelphia, Secretary. The Tribune report says that fifty bondholders from New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, and Spencer D. Schuyler, receiver, were present. There was considerable discussion whether this meeting should hold itself responsible for the proceedings of the last meeting of the first mortgage bondholders, and it was decided that it must do so. J. Charleton Henry, of New York, asked that it be expressed, as the judgment of the meeting, that the time had arrived when the first mortgage should be foreclosed. This awakened active discussion, but the resolution finally prevailed. L. C. Clark, of New York, called for the appointment of a committee with power either to adopt the suit already begun by Charles W. Hassler and others, or procure a new suit to be instituted by the trustees of the first mortgage bondholders, or as the committee might otherwise advise. The following gentlemen were appointed on this committee: Charles W. Hassler, John Baird and Henry A. Mott, of New York, T. Charleton Henry, of Philadelphia, and P. G. Sauerwein, of Baltimore.

Mr. Mather offered a resolution, which was adopted, to the effect that doubts had arisen whether authority had been given to the receiver to contract debts, raise money, or otherwise act for the bondholders, and that all authority from the first mortgage bondholders to the receiver to issue receiver's certificates, or to contract any indebtedness, be revoked. The first mortgage bondholders are endeavoring to get Mr. Schuyler removed and a new receiver appointed.

Louisiana State Finances.—The message of Governor Kellogg says that by the operation of the Constitutional amendments the State debt has been reduced "to a point admittedly within the power of the State to meet, principal and interest, at maturity." The credit of the State can no longer be tampered with. The rate of taxation is limited, and expenditures are limited to what such taxation will yield. There can be no more floating debt. He states that warrants in excess of revenue were issued under the Warmoth administration to the amount of over $4,250,000, and that the Legislature of 1866–67 appropriated $13,000,000 over receipts. The State and city debts are both limited. He hopes for reduced taxes and enhanced value of property as results of these measures. Bonded debt, January 1, 1874, $22,430,800; warrants, $1,790,453; total, $24,221,553—the interest on which was $1,493,338 per annum. The total bonded debt, January 1, 1876, was $18,473,443; total bonded and floating debt at the same date, $19,061,645. Taxes have been reduced from twenty-one and a half mills to fourteen mills. The expenditures of 1870, 1871 and 1872 were $20,000,213, while those of 1873, 1874 and 1875 were $9,720,659.

Maine State Finances.—Governor Connor's message states the bonded debt of the State, January 1, 1875, as $7,088,400; January 1, 1876, $5,949,400. The present net indebtedness of the State, deducting the sinking funds, is $5,272,638 23. The Bank Examiner reports 64 savings banks in operation. Deposits for the year ending November 30, 1875, amounted to $32,083,314 28, an increase of $1,021,350 55. The State lands not finally disposed of are now 34,781 acres of settling lands unsold, and 142,067 acres for which certificates have been given to settlers. The State Treasurer recommends the amendment of the law so that the sinking fund may be invested in the municipal bonds of cities in New England having a population of 15,000 or upwards. There has been $22,943 25 paid for premium on bonds purchased the past year. The Treasurer has not issued bonds under the act of 1875, renewing a portion of the public debt, not deeming it necessary, as no part of the public debt they are intended to renew falls due until 1880. The State tax available for 1875 was $1,134,286, of which $25,503 remains uncollected. To meet the estimated expenditures for 1876 a tax of four mills on the dollar will be required. If appropriations are authorized for extraordinary expenditures, an increase of this rate will be necessary.

Massachusetts State Finances.—From the message of Gov. Rice we gather the following:

The public debt of the Commonwealth now amounts to nearly $34,000,000, showing an apparent increase over the corresponding period last year of about $4,500,000—a larger increase than has been made in any year since the direct expenses for the war ceased. A portion of this increase was authorized by the legislatures of previous years, but did not appear in their accounts; and a portion of the money raised is still in the treasury, a favorable state of the money market having rendered it expedient, in the opinion of the fiscal officers, to anticipate the immediate demands upon appropriations; but I am informed that it is certain the whole amount, and probably some additions, will be required to complete the objects and fulfil the purposes for which the appropriations were made. It will be observed, also, that the increase of the sinking-fund account is made nearly commensurate with the increase of the debt; this fund is kept unimpaired and unpledged, except for the special purposes for which it has been from time to time created, and it therefore virtually provides for the ultimate payment of that portion of the debt. Yet, an increasing debt makes also an increasing interest account, which must be annually provided for in some form of taxation.

| | | |
| Aggregate funded debt, January 1, 1875 | | $29,465,201 |
| Scrip issued during the year— | | |
| Troy & Greenfield Railroad loan (sterling) | $1,497,980 | |
| Troy & Greenfield Rai road loan (dollar) | 1,500,000 | |
| Worcester Hospital | 750,000 | |
| Danvers Hospital | 250,000 | |
| State prison and women's prison (sterling) | 1,292,280 | 5,060,260 |
| Paid during the year | | 669,000 |
| Present funded debt | | $33,886,491 |

The sinking fund amounts to $11,725,309 12.

These funds, as also the Back Bay lands, the South Boston flats, and other property, are, by existing laws, pledged for the redemption of the State debt, and with, perhaps, the exception of the Troy & Greenfield loan and the prison and hospital loan, will be sufficient for its redemption at maturity.

VALUATION AND TAXATION.

The following table shows the growth of State, county and municipal indebtedness in Massachusetts between the years 1865 and 1875:

| | Indebtedness. | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| | 1865. | 1870. | 1875. |
| County | 423,461 25 | 485,198 31 | 1,520,645 40 |
| Municipal | 19,852,109 21 | 31,571,268 29 | 80,427,215 00 |

Of the municipal indebtedness of 1875, $65,426,341 belonged to cities and $15,000,904 to towns.

We see here an increase in the total public indebtedness within the Commonwealth of $68,243,551 38, or 158 per cent on the indebtedness of 1865. In the meanwhile, the increase in our population and valuation has not kept pace with our expenses. In population, the gain was from 1,267,031 to 1,651,912,—a little more than 30 per cent. In valuation, the gain was from $991,841,901 in 1865 to $1,840,785,000 in 1875,—about 85½ per cent,—an annual average of $84,894,310. The gain in 1875 was only $9,183,835, which was 13 per cent on the value gained in 1874, and 11 per cent on the annual average during the ten years now under review.

While the increase in the State debt from 1865 to 1875 was about 29 per cent, that in the county indebtedness for the same period was about 260 per cent, and that in the debts of the cities and towns was 305 per cent. The total tax for State, county, city and town purposes, in 1872, was $22,911,883; in 1875 it was $27,769,848. In both these years the State annual tax was the same, namely, two million dollars; the increase in the levy, therefore, of 21 per cent, or four and three-quarters millions of dollars, in three years, is altogether chargeable to local expenditures. This alarming tendency to excessive expenditures in towns and cities, led to the enactment of a very sound and conservative measure, at the last session of the legislature, for limiting and regulating municipal indebtedness.

SAVINGS BANKS.

The returns of the savings banks for the last three years show a steady increase in the total amount on deposit; a slight gain in the deposits in 1875 over those made in 1874; and, notwithstanding the prevailing depression in our industries, a smaller amount withdrawn from these institutions in 1875 than in either of the two previous years. The official figures are as follows: In 1873 there were 175 savings banks, with a total of deposits of $202,195,343; in 1874, 179 banks, deposits $217,452,120; in 1875, 180 banks, deposits $238,396,584. The total amount deposited during the three years was: In 1873, $58,846,558; in 1874, $57,611,608; in 1875, $59,930,144. The withdrawals in each year were: In 1873, $50,458,340; in 1874, $49,696,893; in 1875, $46,996,036.

Minnesota State Railroad Bonds.—Gov. Davis refers to this old debt and says that an amendment to the State Constitution authorized the State to loan or give its credit in aid of railroad enterprises, and it limited the amount for which the State was authorized to become responsible at $5,000,000. The amendment also provided, with great precision of direction, when or how the aid or loan was to be given, and the faith and credit of the State were expressly pledged for the payment of the interest and the redemption of the principal of the bonds.

As this was merely a loan of the credit of the State, the amendment providently prescribed by what security the State should be indemnified in case the companies should default in payment. It was therefore provided that each company should give a mortgage of the net profits of the road, and a conveyance of the first two hundred and forty sections of land, free from prior incumbrances, in trust, to secure the State from loss on the bonds, and as further security the Governor was directed to exact of the companies an amount of first mortgage bonds on their roads, lands, and franchises, corresponding to the State bond issued, to be transferred to the Treasurer of the State at the time of the issue of the State bonds.

After the companies had commenced work and had earned a large amount of these securities, a warfare was made upon them which was so far successful that distrust was excited; the companies were unable to negotiate them and obtain funds to carry on construction, and they ceased to be marketable. Work was therefore stopped and the companies made default in the payment of interest. They have become insolvent. The State then proceeded to foreclose its securities. By these foreclosure proceedings it acquired about 250 miles of graded road, the franchises of the companies, the lands of the companies—in fact, it acquired the title to all the securities which it had taken for its indemnity, including nearly five million acres of land as security for its liability upon $2,275,000 of bonds with interest. Here, then, we see the state—a surety—become the owner of assets enough to satisfy all this claim over and over again.

In the meantime, another constitutional amendment had been adopted by which it was provided that no law levying a tax, or making other provisions for the payment of the principal, or interest of these securities, should take effect until submitted to a vote of the people of the State and adopted by them.

The duty of the State at this stage is an obvious one. It was to make provision for an adjustment of the qustion by means of the securities which it held for that purpose. But this duty was wholly neglected. The lands and road-bed and franchises, which it held for its indemnity, were granted by it to existing companies free and clear, and the result has been the development of our railway system to its present proportions.

New Orleans St Louis & Chicago.—This Company has issued a circular explaining the delay in payment of January interest on account of the necessity of settling back pay-rolls, in which they say: "We are under the necessity, from these causes, to ask the holders of the first mortgage coupons, on bonds of the New Orleans Jackson & Great Northern Railroad Company, due 1st proximo, to present their present schedules of coupons either at the office in New Orleans or New York, and they will receive bank checks on New York or New Orleans, as preferred, in full payment of these coupons, during the month of January, and as rapidly as the earnings of the road will warrant. The whole income of the month will be devoted to the payment of these coupons, and by the end of the month the total amount will be liquidated."

New York City Finances.—The Mayor, in his message, says: During 1875, there has been a decided improvement in the finances of the city, as compared with 1874. I am informed by the Controller that there were issued stocks and bonds amounting to $35,806,539 62, those falling due and paid off in the same time amounting to $33,088,266 23, leaving, January 1, 1876, an apparent addition of $2,718,273 39 to the debt. The aggregate amount of those classes of the debt, as stated by the Controller, on the 31st of December, 1874, was $115,187,980. There is, therefore, an apparent increase during the last year of $1,431,506 87. But the actual amount of the real indebtedness of the city (the bonds payable from the sinking fund or from taxation, less the actual amount in the sinking fund) has been diminished. On the 31st of December, 1874, it was $91,625,779 24; on the 31st of December, 1875, as shown by the above schedule, it was only $91,154,359 02—a decrease of $471,420 22. The apparent increase consists of bonds issued payable from assessments, and of revenue bonds issued to raise moneys for current expenses, in anticipation of taxes now coming in every day. Those bonds are all perfectly secured and will be paid off in a short time. In referring to the sinking fund, the Mayor says that it is now largely in excess of the amount of the securities for which it is pledged, and that the amount of interest earned by the investments of the fund is annually more than $1,000,000 in excess of the interest payable by it. The fund was swollen by receipts from many sources, and it has grown nearly $10,000,000 since 1870. The Mayor recommends the Common Council to inquire whether it would not be wise to have an amendment to the act of 1862 to authorize transfer, not only of the surplus of the interest account, but also of the surplus of the redemption account, to the general fund to be used to reduce taxes, or by canceling, from time to time, bonds and stocks of the city which are held by the Sinking Fund, in amounts sufficient to keep down the surplus. The Mayor further says that by the first plan there would be a very large reduction of taxes in the year to which it is first applied; by the second, there would be a large and permanent reduction of the city debt, and that second course is the one which he recommends.

New York State Finances.—Governor Tilden's message contained the following: The amount of debt, on the 30th of September, 1875, after deducting the assets in the sinking funds at that time applicable to their payment, is exhibited by the following statement, furnished by the Comptroller:

| | Debt, Sept. 30, 1875. | Sinking Fund, Sept. 30, 1875. | Balance. |
| General fund | $2,119,526 40 | $3,029,603 70 | $89,923 70 |
| Contingent | 68,000 10 | 36,677 64 | 31,322 36 |
| Canal | 10,686,660 00 | 1,118,315 51 | 8,538,314 49 |
| Bounty | 15,454,500 00 | *9,066,753 29 | 5,987,746 71 |

*Deducting interest accrued to Oct. 1, 1875, payable Jan. 1, 1876.

The actual reduction, during the year, of the debts by cancellation of matured stocks, and by the purchase of $858,000 of the bounty loan for the sinking fund, is $1,870,770. The diminution, during the year, of the debts, after deducting the assets of the sinking funds, is $2,744,505 06.

STATE TAXES.

The taxes levied by the Legislature of 1874 were 7½ mills on a valuation of $2,169,307,873. Their produce, when all is realized, is $15,727,482 08. The taxes levied by the Legislature of 1875 were 6 mills. They were computed in the Comptroller's office and in the Legislative committees on the valuation of the previous year. On that basis their product would have been $13,015,847 24. But the valuation was increased to $2,367,780,102. The produce of a six-mills tax on that amount is $14,206,680 61. The increase of the valuation gives an excess over the estimated amount of $1,190,833 37. The reduction actually effected is $1,520,801 47.

| The taxes for State purposes in 1874 were 7¼ mills on a valuation of $2,169,307,873, producing | $15,727,482 08 |
| The taxes for State purposes in 1876, if reduced to 3·625 mills on the valuation of 1874, or 3·321 mills on the valuation of 1875, which is $2,367,780,102, would yield | 7,863,741 04 |

The Governor then submits a table showing the manner in which this one-half reduction of taxation can be accomplished. In bounty and canal debts a reduction of appropriation from that of 1874 could be made to the amount of $2,105,531, and in canal expenditures to the amount of $2,200,000, and these sums could be increased to a gross total of $6,009,496 by means of surplus from last year's taxes, and general taxes for asylums and reformatories. This also could be increased by reductions in school appropriations and for the new Capitol, etc., by a further sum of $1,854,244, which would permit the desired reduction in the taxes.

—Comptroller Hopkins' report has the following in addition:

| | Mills. |
|---|---|
| For the General Fund | 1½ |
| For schools | 1 |
| For the new Capitol | ½ |
| For Bounty debt | ½ |
| Total | 3 |

The returns of the several counties received at this office indicate that the aggregate valuation of real and personal property will exceed $2,500,000,000.

| In 1865 the State tax was | $7,230,976 53 |
| In 1875 the State tax was | 14,206,680 61 |
| In 1865 the taxes for all purposes known to this office (including local taxation) amounted to | 43,961,440 62 |
| In 1875 the taxes for all purposes known to this office amounted to | 56,926,370 69 |

As to the debt, the Comptroller says: "Through the practical extinguishment of all the State debt, except the canal debt, which has been reduced to $8,638,314 49, and which should be met from the revenues of the canals, the period is at hand when a large reduction of taxation may be effected. It was announced in my last annual report, that, when the general fund and bounty debts were provided for, the State tax could be reduced about $5,000,000. That statement can now be verified, and I have the great pleasure of informing the Legislature that the amount now in the treasury, together with the tax of the current year due in May next, will very nearly provide for those debts at maturity; and as the two-mill tax of the present year for this object produces something more than the appropriation, if the excess be applied to this purpose, as it should be, an additional tax of a third of a mill will suffice to make complete provision for this indebtedness. * * *

"Of the State debt, apart from the canal debt, only $700,000 remain to be provided for. A levy of one-third of a mill will be adequate for that purpose; so that, while the tax of the current year is six mills, the tax recommended in this report will not exceed three mills, which will be a reduction of over $7,000,000. To effect this reduction, it is only necessary that the appropriations shall be kept within reasonable and proper limits, and the Comptroller urges the Legislature to exercise the utmost vigilance and firmness in this direction."

Ohio State, County and Municipal Finances.—The sum of $866,230 47 was appropriated to the payment of the principal of the loan of 1875, called in for redemption on the 1st inst., and the balance of that loan, $606,884, will be paid a few months later.

The State debt is now reduced to $7,081,689, and the local indebtedness is shown in the following table:

| | In 1875. | In 1874. |
|---|---|---|
| Net debt of counties, Sept. 1, 1875 | $3,044,578 99 | $3,492,575 62 |
| Net debts of townships | 222,971 13 | 329,339 08 |
| Net debts of cities (first and second class) | 20,250,722 11 | 15,899,112 83 |
| Net debts of incorporated villages | 931,332 64 | 884,355 18 |
| Net debts of separate school districts | 1,507,953 43 | 1,290,621 65 |
| Totals | $25,957,588 21 | $21,866,007 36 |
| Total for 1875 | | $25,957,588 21 |
| Net increase in above debts over last year | | $4,071,580 85 |

The valuations upon the several county duplicates of the State for the years 1874 and 1875 footed up as follows:

| | 1874. | 1875. |
| Real estate in cities, towns and villages | $331,849,199 00 | $366,031,721 00 |
| Real estate not in cities, towns and villages | 697,403,537 00 | 696,883,329 00 |
| Chattel property (being personal property of every kind) | 528,121,588 00 | 535,660,818 00 |
| Total taxable valuations for 1874 | $1,580,370,824 00 | $1,598,575,868 00 |

Add to the amount of local debts, viz., $25,957,588 21, the amount of the State debt prior to Jan. 1, 1876, viz., $7,949,920 12, and we have for the entire public indebtedness in the State of Ohio, $33,907,508 33.

The taxes levied in 1874 and receivable in 1875, upon the above basis of valuation of 1874 were as follows: For State purposes (3 2-10 mills on a dollar), $5,050,367 42; for county taxes, $6,038,749 78.

Local taxes as follows:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| For township expenses | $801,338 90 | |
| For school and school-house purposes | 6,305,593 77 | |
| For city, town and village purposes | 7,236,420 27 | |
| For other special purposes | 1,404,786 63 | |
| Total township, city, school and special taxes | $15,748,079 57 | |
| Total county and local taxation | | $21,786,829 35 |
| Total levies in 1874 for all purposes | | $26,837,196 77 |
| Add delinquent taxes and forfeitures of former years | | 777,532 39 |
| Total taxes for 1875, including delinquencies | | $27,614,729 16 |

The increase of taxes as compared with last year (1874) is $1,140,269 14, and the estimated taxes to be paid in 1876 are $28,893,182 37, which will be a still further increase of $1,278,453 21 as compared with the present year.

Pennsylvania State Finances.—Governor Hartranft says in his Message: The appropriations made for the fiscal year ending November 30, 1875, exceeded the receipts of the general revenue fund $515,821 22, and with like appropriations and receipts the deficit for this year would be doubled. It is estimated, however, that the revenue of this year will be $500,000 less than that of last year, which would make the deficiency at the end of the current fiscal year about $1,500,000, unless the appropriations can be reduced. The appropriations are already made for that part of the fiscal year embraced between December 1, 1875, and June 1, 1876. The appropriations cannot be materially reduced, and the deficiency must be provided for either by the imposition of new taxes or the diversion into the general fund of some of the revenues now flowing into the sinking fund. To levy new taxes at a time when the business and industrial interests are prostrated, would be unwise and a great hardship, and would justly meet with public condemnation. The necessity, therefore, of the redistribution of the revenues is obviously a duty that is urgent, and demands your immediate attention. * * * *

By another calculation it appears that by taking one-third of the corporation tax which the Legislature assigned to the Sinking Fund and dedicating this one-third to the uses of the general fund, the whole indebtedness can still be liquidated in fifteen years. Without additional taxation a fund may thus be created that, with the other revenues of the general fund, will, with prudent management, possibly be sufficient to meet all the necessary and proper expenses of the Government, and I recommend that this change be made.

At the end of the last fiscal year there remained in the Sinking Fund the sum of $934,028 59. There can be no further redemption of public debt until August, 1877, as all State loans reimbursable prior to that time have been paid; and in the mean time the Sinking Fund, in addition to the above amount, will continue to accumulate a large balance, which there is no authority to invest. I therefore recommend the enactment of a law authorizing the Sinking Fund Commissioners to invest the surplus funds in the bonds of the State or the United States, as they deem most advantageous, which, in accordance with the provisions of the new Constitution, are the only investments that can be made, and that these investments be directed to be made monthly.

Railroad Construction in 1875.—The Railroad Gazette gives its complete annual statement showing the miles of railroad constructed in the United States during the past year. It says:

"The total completed during the year was 1,483 miles, against 2,025 miles the year previous, 3,883 miles in 1873, and 7,340 miles in 1872, which was the culmination of the railroad-building era that followed the war. The construction of last year, though less than for any previous year since 1865, is yet larger than seemed probable down to very nearly the end of the year. Early in the year very little was done; at its middle we had reported but 336 miles completed, so that more than three-fourths of the whole was completed in the last half of the year. It is true that usually the larger part of the track is laid in the last half of the year, but in 1875 the proportion has been greater than for previous years, for which we have records, and this leads to the conclusion that there was a slight revival in railroad construction during the last half of 1875, and that this work was in the most depressed condition, since the war, during the first half of the year.

"An examination of the table giving the length of new road constructed by each company will show that a great many roads or parts of roads have been built, but that most of them are short. 'Great through lines' do not make much of a figure, though doubtless many of the projectors of short roads hope soon to be able to make them parts of such lines. Still, an unusually large proportion of the new work has been on roads almost exclusively intended to serve local needs. Such roads are usually paid for chiefly by the communities which they serve, and are not often built unless they are needed, though they may not be directly profitable. That the roads constructed have been unusually short, will be seen by the statement of the number of companies constructing roads, the total mileage completed, and the average length constructed by each company, for each of the past four years, as follows:

| 1872 | 210 | 7,340 | 35·0 miles. |
| 1873 | 137 | 3,883 | 28·3 miles. |
| 1875 | 86 | 1,483 | 17·2 miles. |

"To enable us to see more clearly what the changes in the progress have been since the culmination of activity in 1872, and especially to see where it has been, we have prepared the following table, giving, first, the mileage constructed in each State and territory during each of the four years past, and its total mileage at the close of 1875, and finally a summary by sections, the States for each section being selected as having some close geographical and industrial similarity, and, for the most part, close relations with each other. The total mileage is given by adding that constructed in 1875 to the total mileage for each State and territory reported in the last issue of 'Poor's Manual.' The latter, we believe, is not made up exactly to correspond with the mileage actually existing at the close of the calendar year 1874, and the statements of total mileage are therefore probably not quite accurate. They are the best attainable, however.

The Commercial Times.

COMMERCIAL EPITOME.

FRIDAY NIGHT, Jan. 14, 1876.

A number of failures of considerable importance in various branches of business have had a depressing influence in mercantile circles, and, with the decline in gold, have given a check to the revival of speculative action and confidence, of which there was some promise last week. Great uncertainty is felt respecting the future of prices for leading staples; the usual data for reaching an intelligent conclusion are wanting, or regarded as unreliable; hence, cautious and timid action that is fatal to activity in trade.

The market for provisions has, on the whole, been rather more steady, with the exception of lard, which has further declined for both spots and futures. At the concession, however, there has been a large business for export and in contracts, and the close, last evening, was quite steady. Mess pork advanced to $21 on spot and for the next two months, and $21 25 for April, but experienced some reaction. Bacon has also been more active and firmer, at 11@11⅛c. for Western and city long clear. Cut meats have been somewhat irregular, rib bellies receding a little from the recent high prices current. Beef has been more active, the sales including a line of Philadelphia mess, at $28 per tierce, and there has been a large movement in beef hams at $22@23 for prime Western. Tallow, at a decline to 9⅛@9⅜c. for prime, has been more active. Butter and cheese have been more active, with an upward tendency of prices. To-day the whole market for hog products was dull and depressed, except lard on the spot, at 12⅞@13c. for prime Western, but this closed weak for future delivery, at 13c. for February and 13⅛c. for March.

There has been a more active market for Rio coffee the past week, the sales aggregating 27,200 bags, the stronger accounts from Rio having operated in favor of sellers. But with free receipts stocks are still large, being 193,000 bags at this port, and 480,300 bags as the visible supply for the United States; fair to prime cargoes quoted at 17¾@19c., gold. Mild coffees are also in large stock; 106,500 mats Java, and 50,300 bags and 10,300 mats of other growths; Java quoted at 24@27c.; Maracaibo at 18@20c., and Macassar, 20@21c., gold. Rice has been dull, but prices do not show further decline. Foreign dried fruits have declined under a dull trade. Teas have met with but a limited trade. Molasses has been less active, and the demand trifling, except for the finer qualities of domestic. There has been a steadier feeling in raw sugars, but the movement has been light; good refining quoted at 8⅛c., and standard crushed refined, 10⅛c. The movement in raws has been:

| | Hhds. | Boxes. | Bags. | Melado. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Receipts past week | 1,522 | 1,063 | 30,944 | 120 |
| Sales past week | 4,356 | 8,903 | 27,889 | 249 |
| Stock Jan. 13, 1876 | 15,526 | 14,246 | 82,906 | 1,190 |

There has been a fair shipping demand for Kentucky tobacco, and prices are steady at 7@9c. for lugs, and 10@18c. for leaf; the sales for the week embraced 800 hhds., of which 600 were for export, and 200 for consumption. Seed leaf has been in good demand; the sales include: crop of 1872, 148 cases Connecticut, on private terms; crop of 1873, 200 cases do., on private terms, 63 cases Ohio at 12c., 80 cases New York at 7@13½c.; crop of 1873 and 1874, 107 cases Pennsylvania, part at 15c., 131 cases Wisconsin on private terms; and crop of 1874, 400 cases Connecticut and Massachusetts at 7@9c., 73 cases New York at 7½@25c., 100 cases Illinois and 50 cases Ohio, on private terms; also 200 cases sundry kinds at 7@12½c. Spanish tobacco is firmer and fairly active; sales 500 bales Havana at 88c.@$1 05.

Hides have been in fair request and quotations are very steady; sales include dry Texas, at 20½c. currency, and dry Montevideo at 20½@21c. gold. Linseed oil firm and in fair demand, at 62@63c. Menhaden has ruled higher, owing to the continued light supply; quoted at 47@50c. for prime Sound, and 50c. for Maine oil. Other oils quiet and unchanged. Whiskey has latterly been fairly active at $1 11. Clover seed has been active at 13@13½c., and there has been a large sale of Calcutta linseed at $2, gold.

In ocean freights a steady, fair business in berth room, brought about by some irregularity in rates, as the supplies are now quite ample, while the general demand is rather small. For chartering tonnage quite a good demand has prevailed, which has reduced the offerings of room, so that at the close more steadiness is noticeable. Late engagements and charters: Grain to Liverpool, by steam, 8¾d.; provisions, 40s. per ton; cotton, ⅛d., compressed; by sail, cotton at 9-32d., compressed. Grain to London, by steam, 10½@10¾d.; hops, ⅜d.; provisions, 45@50s. per ton; flour, by sail, 2s. 9d. Grain to Glasgow, by steam, 8½d. Grain to Cork, for orders, 6s. 6d.@6s. 9d. Refined petroleum, hence to Bremen, 4s. 4½d.; do. to Rotterdam and Antwerp, 4s. 7½d.; do. to the Baltic, 5s. 1½d.; case oil to Palermo, 22½c., gold. To day, there was a better business in berth, at somewhat easier rates. Charter room was steady. Grain to Liverpool, by steam, 8¾d. per 60 lbs.; cotton, ⅛@9-32d., compressed. Grain to London, by steam, 10½d.; do., by sail, 7¾d. Grain to Cork, for orders, 6s. 9d. per qr.; do. to Lisbon, 16c., gold. No petroleum charters were consummated on 'Change.

Although naval stores have been rather dull, yet the close was steady at 37⅛@38c. for spirits turpentine, and $1 62½@$1 70 for common to good strained rosin. Petroleum has steadily advanced, under the continued strong Creek advices; the business at the close was slow. Crude, in bulk, 8c., and refined in bbls., 14c., for spot and all January delivery

COTTON.

FRIDAY, P. M., Jan. 14, 1876.

THE MOVEMENT OF THE CROP, as indicated by our telegrams from the South to-night, is given below. For the week ending this evening (January 14) the total receipts have reached 161,515 bales, against 138,174 bales last week, 186,527 bales the previous week, and 196,631 bales three weeks since, making the total receipts since the 1st of September, 1875, 2,640,375 bales, against 2,310,029 bales for the same period of 1874–5, showing an increase since Sept. 1, 1875, of 330,346 bales. The details of the receipts for this week (as per telegraph) and for the corresponding weeks of five previous years are as follows:

* The exports this week under the head of "other ports" include from Baltimore 1,295 bales and 41 bags Sea Island to Liverpool, 375 bales to Bremen and 100 bales to Amsterdam; from Boston 921 bales and 6 bags Sea Island to Liverpool; from Philadelphia 860 bales to Liverpool; from Norfolk 4,950 bales to Liverpool; from Wilmington 1,140 bales to Liverpool.

[☞ Our telegram from New Orleans to-night shows that besides the above exports the amount of cotton on shipboard, and engaged for shipment at that port, is as follows: For Liverpool, 49,000 bales; for Havre, 26,000 bales; for Continent, 30,000 bales; for coastwise ports, 6,000 bales; total, 111,000 bales; which, if deducted from the stock, would leave 196,000 bales representing the quantity at the landing and in presses unsold or awaiting orders.]

From the foregoing statement it will be seen that, compared with the corresponding week of last season, there is an increase in the exports this week of 51,846 bales, while the stocks to-night are 18,702 bales less than they were at this time a year ago. These mail returns do not correspond precisely with the total of the telegraphic figures, because in preparing them it is always necessary to incorporate every correction made at the ports.

The market for cotton on the spot has been dull, and prices have further declined. Quotations were revised on Wednesday as follows: Low middling and above were reduced 1-16c.; low middling and below, reduced ⅛c.; stained middling reduced ⅛c.; stained low middling and below, reduced ¼c. Liverpool has reported a dull and declining market, the premium on gold was lower and exchange weaker; and added to these adverse influences, the receipts at the ports were so excessive as to cause much pressure to sell current receipts from the wharf. To-day quotations for cotton on the spot were further reduced ⅛c. For future delivery, prices were steadily declining till close of Wednesday's business, when a reaction set in that could not be readily accounted for, except as the effect of a demand to cover contracts put out at higher prices, and some speculative orders from the South. The increased receipts at the ports have caused some increase in the crop estimates, and 4¼ million bales is now generally accepted as a minimum. The Bureau report had little effect, and in fact was so generally omitted from our daily press that its contents were not generally known. Yesterday, the market opened with a slight upward tendency, but the close was weak under the decline in gold and free receipts at the interior towns. To-day, there was a further decline, but the close was steady.

The total sales for forward delivery for the week are 136,100 bales, including —— free on board. For immediate delivery the total sales foot up this week 4,812 bales, including 1,395 for export, 2,666 for consumption, 301 for speculation, and 450 in transit. Of the above, —— bales were to arrive. The following are the closing quotations:

The above totals show that the old interior stocks have decreased during the week 3,164 bales, and are to-night 18,626 bales less than at the same period last year. The receipts have been 15,717 bales more than the same week last year.

BOMBAY SHIPMENTS.—According to our cable despatch received to-day, there have been 9,000 bales shipped from Bombay to Great Britain the past week, and 14,000 bales to the Continent; while the receipts at Bombay during the same time have been 17,000 bales. The movement since the 1st of January is as follows. These are the figures of W. Nicol & Co., of Bombay, and are brought down to Thursday, Jan. 13:

|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1876..... | 9,000 | 14,000 | 23.000 | 9.000 | 15,000 | 24,000 | 17,000 | 26,000 |

From the foregoing it would appear that, compared with last year, there is an increase of 13,000 bales this year in the week's shipments from Bombay to Europe, and that the total movement since January 1 shows a decrease in shipments of 18,000 bales compared with the corresponding period of 1874.

WEATHER REPORTS BY TELEGRAPH.—There has not much rain fallen throughout the South the past week, but the temperature has been much lower. The crop is being marketed very freely, the roads now being generally in pretty fair order, and the rivers in good, navigable condition.

Galveston, Texas.—Two days this week were showery, the rainfall reaching twenty-five hundredths of an inch. The roads now are greatly improved, and the country movement is, therefore, resumed. The crop is being marketed freely, both from compulsion and choice. The thermometer has averaged 56, the highest being 73 and the lowest 45.

Indianola, Texas.—It has been showery here on two days, the rainfall reaching, however, only twelve hundredths of an inch. The roads are not yet good, but are improving fast. The thermometer has averaged 57, the highest being 74 and the lowest 44.

Corsicana, Texas.—We have had showers on two days, with a rainfall of fifty-three hundredths of an inch. With the improved weather the movement of the crop is fair. The thermometer has averaged 54, the highest being 73 and the lowest 34.

Dallas, Texas.—We have had no rain of any consequence this week, but the roads are still bad in the black lands, though good elsewhere; the movement of crop has, therefore, been resumed. It was cold here one day this week and ice formed, but the balance of the week has been pleasant. The thermometer has averaged 58, the highest being 68 and the lowest 32.

New Orleans, Louisiana.—It rained here on one day this week, the rainfall reaching fifty-five hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 56.

Shreveport, Louisiana.—The weather for six days of the week was fair, but one day (Sunday) was showery, the rainfall reaching sixty seven hundredths of an inch. Cotton remaining in the fields has been mostly abandoned for want of hands to pick it. Receipts have been moderate. Average thermometer, 49; highest, 73; and lowest, 36.

Vicksburg, Mississippi.—There were three days on which rain fell the past week, but altogether the rainfall aggregated only twenty-three hundredths of an inch. Average thermometer, 49; highest, 72; and lowest, 35.

Columbus, Mississippi.—The weather has been cold and dry all the week, except it was showery two days, the rainfall reaching thirty-four hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 62, the highest being 81 and the lowest 42.

Little Rock, Arkansas.—We have had a dry and cool week, the thermometer averaging 45 and ranging from 72 to 29.

Nashville, Tennessee.—Rain fell on one day of the past week, the rainfall reaching thirty-nine hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 39, the highest being 49 and the lowest 29.

Memphis, Tennessee.—It was rainy on one day this week, the rainfall reaching thirty-five hundredths of an inch. The rest of the week was pleasant. Planters are sending forward their crop with great freedom.

Mobile, Alabama.—It was showery one day the earlier part of the week, the rainfall reaching nineteen hundredths of an inch, but since then it has been clear and pleasant. The thermometer has averaged 51, the extremes being 36 and 71.

Montgomery, Alabama.—The weather the past week has been cold and dry, with the exception of two days, which were rainy. Average thermometer during the week, 49; highest 72 and lowest 32.

Selma, Alabama.—Rain fell on one day this week, the rainfall reaching sixty-three hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 46.

Madison, Florida.—We had one day on which it rained slightly the past week, the rainfall reaching ten hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has ranged from 68 to 36, averaging 52.

Macon, Georgia.—It was rainy here one day of this week. The thermometer has averaged 42, the highest being 70, and the lowest 24.

Atlanta, Georgia.—It was showery one day the past week, the rainfall reaching twenty-five hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 48, the highest being 65 and the lowest 26.

Columbus, Georgia.—It has rained on one day, the rainfall reaching eighteen hundredths of an inch. Average thermometer, 42; highest 60 and lowest 25.

Savannah, Georgia.—There was a slight rain here on two days during the week, the rainfall aggregating twelve hundredths of an inch. The weather has been cold, the thermometer averaging 49, and ranging from 48 to 69.

Augusta, Georgia.—The weather has been cold and dry all the past week, the thermometer averaging 47 and ranging from 72 to 29. Planters are sending their cotton to market freely.

Charleston, South Carolina.—There has been no rain here this week. The thermometer has averaged 50, the highest being 67 and the lowest 28.

The following statement we have also received by telegraph showing the height of the rivers at the points named at 3 o'clock Jan. 13. We give last year's figures (Jan. 15, 1875) for comparison.

New Orleans reported below high-water mark of 1871 until Sept. 9, 1874, when the zero of gauge was changed to high-water mark of April 15 and 16, 1874, which is 6-10ths of a foot above 1871, or 16 feet above low-water mark at that point.

AGRICULTURAL BUREAU'S CROP STATEMENT FOR DECEMBER.—On Sunday of this week the Agricultural Bureau published its crop report for December dated Saturday, January 8. It will be seen that it is a wonderfully different statement from its November report. We should be extremely sorry to do injustice to the Agricultural Bureau or to its Statistician; but it seems to us that the cotton trade is certainly entitled to figures of some kind from month to month that are intelligible, more consistent and less contradictory. But what have we had the last three months from the Bureau?

On the 15th of November, figures were published by it showing a crop a little less than 2,900,000 bales, with the sentence added, that "these figures point to a small advance upon last year's aggregate, if November and December should be favorable to the opening and picking of the top crop." On the 10th of December, another instalment of the same report is published, having in it this sentence: "this renders it almost certain that the crop will pass the limit of four million bales." Finally, on the 8th of Jan., is made public what is generally the December report, stating that the averages of condition have ever since October (not a result from any new returns received) pointed to a crop of 4,400,000 bales; and after deducting 4 per cent. for seed, and 2 to 4 per cent. for unfavorable weather since October, the Statistician concludes that we are to have a crop of from 4,050,000 bales to 4,150,000 bales.

But this is not all. If any one will take the trouble to go over and work out the Bureau's "average condition" of 93½ per cent., from which he intimates he makes his 4,400,000 bales, he will find that it is obtained by first adding up the condition of all the States, each month, and dividing each result by ten, the number of States, and then adding up the monthly averages thus obtained, and dividing that result by five, the number of months. This reminds one of the French recipe for making soup; but of course it does not make a crop report. That is to say, no average yield can be found by adding up the simple condition of North Carolina, South Carolina, &c., with Mississippi, Texas, &c., ignoring entirely the difference in acreage and the different yield per acre in those States; and yet the statistician expressly says "that, in analyzing the monthly cotton reports of the season, the "average condition from June to October is made 93½ per cent. "against 83 per cent. in the same period of 1874; this would "indicate a crop of about 4,400,000 bales, &c." We think one can draw no other conclusion from these words than that this average is the basis of, or certainly has some very important office to perform, in making his estimate. But it has not, in our opinion, any connection with it whatever. Of course, the Bureau named this average inadvertently, and not to mislead any one; we only refer to it as preliminary to our explanation.

How, then, it will be asked, was the result of four million four hundred thousand bales reached? The question is important because its answer throws more light upon the meaning of these monthly figures of condition than any previous report of the Bureau, and hereafter our readers will have, on the 15th of each October, the material for making up the Bureau's estimate of December, with the one exception of such changes, as the difference in the picking season make necessary. Let us, then, show the process in detail. First, take the condition as reported each month of the two years:

|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | June. | July. | Aug. | Sept. | Oct. | Av. | J'ne. | July. | Aug. | Sept. | Oct. | Av. |

| South Carolina | 97 | 99 | 84 | 80 | 77 | 83·8 | 81 | 88 | 97 | 86 | 82 | 86·8 |
| Georgia | 91 | 97 | 86 | 76 | 71 | 84·2 | 80 | 91 | 94 | 77 | 80 | 84·4 |
| Florida | 94 | 101 | 85 | 75 | 70 | 85·0 | 90 | 96 | 102 | 77 | 81 | 89·2 |
| Alabama | 101 | 102 | 93 | 87 | 94 | 95·4 | 82 | 92 | 90 | 81 | 75 | 84·0 |
| Mississippi | 100 | 103 | 104 | 98 | 96 | 100·2 | 78 | 87 | 89 | 74 | 74 | 80·4 |
| Louisiana | 95 | 105 | 99 | 86 | 90 | 95·4 | 70 | 78 | 83 | 62 | 62 | 70·0 |
| Texas | 96 | 98 | 93 | 94 | 88 | 92·8 | 98 | 102 | 105 | 65 | 70 | 88·0 |
| Arkansas | 90 | 104 | 108 | 99 | 103 | 100·8 | 75 | 94 | 87 | 47 | 55 | 71·6 |
| Tennessee | 99 | 109 | 107 | 96 | 90 | 100 2 | 90 | 97 | 83 | 52 | 56 | 65·6 |

In the above we have made a column of averages of the returns each year by adding the five months for each State together, and dividing the result by the number of months. In this way the difference in condition of each State, for the two years, can be readily obtained. Using this difference, then, with the Bureau's figures of increased or decreased acreage and our statement of the yield of each State last year, we easily find the following result:

| | | | | | | Result, | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Yield of | Condition— | | Acreage— | | Per cent.— | | Estimate, |

| Total yield | 3,833,000 | .... | ... | .. | .. | .... | ... | 4,402,344 |

This, then, must have been in detail, the process used for reaching the conclusion referred to. Two facts, however, are a little surprising in the same connection; one is that the Bureau ignores entirely the figures his correspondents sent him in November; and the other is that no other year does he appear to have made up a total in the same way as the present. Still, we do not mean this in a critical sense at all, for we are very greatly pleased to be able to make the whole process finally so clear and plain—a point we have been seeking in common with the trade generally for several years.

With these explanations and suggestions, we give, in full, the report of the Bureau:

AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, January 8.

The statistician of the Department of Agriculture has completed the compilation of official returns for the past month, and finds correct the general assumption of a lower yield of lint in proportion to seed cotton. Only two States—Arkansas and Texas—report a larger proportion than in 1874. The Atlantic States, which have previously made low estimates of aggregate production, all return a smaller proportion of lint to seed, in comparison with the previous crop, and none of them over 30 pounds to each hundred pounds of seed. The average decrease in all of the States is 4 per cent. This reduction is attributable, in most cases, to excessive moisture and resultant imperfect development of the boll, and in some to the effects of early drought in preventing full maturity. Cotton grown in fields heavily dressed with commercial fertilizers, is found to have a greater proportionate development of seed than of lint. The average quality of the fibre is somewhat lower than it was last year. Arkansas and Texas furnish the only exceptions to this statement, though the average depreciation is slight in Louisiana and Alabama. It is greatest in Mississippi and the Atlantic States.

The proportion of the crop reported as gathered by Dec. 1, was 90 per cent, as follows: North Carolina, 89; South Carolina, 95; Florida, 93; Georgia, 92; Alabama, 87; Mississippi, 75; Louisiana, 83; Texas, 94; Arkansas, 78; Tennessee, 78.

In analyzing the monthly cotton reports of the season, the average condition from June to October is made 93¾ per cent against 83 per cent in the same period of 1874. This would indicate a crop of about 4,400,000 bales, with an equally favorable autumn, and an equal proportion of lint. The loss of 4 per cent in the yield of lint makes a reduction of 176,000 bales, and the difference in maturing and gathering, since October, points to a further reduction of from 2 to 4 per cent. With a margin of 100,000 bales for contingencies after the first week in December, the season's reports, taken together, indicate a crop of not less than 4 050,000 bales, nor more than 4,150,000 bales.

We will add to the above that, in no event, is the crop likely to go below 4,150,000 bales.

GUNNY BAGS, BAGGING, &c.—The market for bagging has ruled quiet during the past week, and no round parcels have been disposed of. Holders are steady as to price, and 13c. is asked at the close. Bales rule quiet and nominal. Butts continue to meet with a good demand, and sales are reported of 1,000 bales December shipment, at 3½c. c'y.; 1,000 bales, February arrival, at 3 5-16c., and 500 bales do. at 3¼c., currency; 1,000 bales, February and March shipment, at 2 13-16c., gold, for bagging quality. Other sales are reported, but we have no particulars, the market closing very firm for future shipments.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 14.—4:30 P. M.—BY CABLE FROM LIVERPOOL.—The market has ruled flat and irregular to-day. Sales of the day were 8,000 bales, of which 1,000 bales were for export and speculation. Of to-day's sales 5,000 bales were American. The weekly movement is given as follows:

Market dull.

BREADSTUFFS.

The flour market has been active for export the past week, and prices have ruled quite firm, with a slight upward tendency especially for good lines of shipping extras, which have been taken freely for arrival, as well as on the spot. Towards the close, however, the demand fell off, owing to the decline in gold, and the scarcity and high rates of ocean freights. The trade has also bought more freely, and some favorite brands have been held at an advance. Production has been curtailed at the West by the relatively higher value of wheat, and stocks have been reduced by the recent free purchases. To-day the market was firm, with prime lines of extra State going at $5 25@$5 30.

The wheat market has been more active for export, and on Wednesday the sales aggregated fully a quarter million bushels, including rejected spring at 97c.@$1 02; No. 3 Chicago, in store, at $1 07@$1 07½; No. 3 Milwaukee, in store and afloat, at $1 10@$1 12½; No. 2 Minnesota, $1 24 in store, and $1 45 for choice amber winter. But yesterday the export orders had apparently been filled, and there was but a limited inquiry. Receipts have fallen off at the West, foreign accounts have been stronger, and there is some revival of speculative confidence. To-day the market was buoyant for the better qualities of reds, with sales, including prime No. 1 spring, in store, at $1 36, No. 2 do., $1 25, in store, and amber Canada, in bond, $1 37 in store, on orders from the continent.

Indian corn has been more freely offered, and though meeting with a ready sale, prices have been giving way in the past few days. The sales for export have been large at 66@67c. afloat for new mixed, closing last evening at the inside price, and at 71@73½c. for old mixed in store and afloat. The supplies of corn from the South have considerably increased, and sold in the range of 64@67c. for both yellow and white. To day the depression continued, with sales of prime new mixed at 65@65½c. afloat, and prime old do. at 70@70½c. in store.

Rye has been quiet, but firm. Barley met with a brisk demand, and low grades have done rather better. Canada peas have been quiet. Oats have been more freely offered on sale, and prices have yielded a little, without, however, any great depression of feeling being developed, and to-day the market was stronger and more active.

THE DRY GOODS TRADE.

There was a continued sluggish movement in nearly all descriptions of domestic and imported dry goods during the week The city jobbers operated lightly, and in strict accordance with the limited wants of current trade, and there were unusually few out-of-town buyers in the market. There were further failures among the Boston jobbing houses, including the firm of Mitchell, Green & Stevens, and one or two smaller concerns, and these, coupled with previous suspensions in that city, created an uneasy feeling in regard to the Eastern trade, which has undoubtedly been in a depressed condition for some time past. The clothing trade resumed their purchases of spring woolens, which were distributed in moderate quantities towards the close of the week, and an improved undertone was remarked in this branch of business. The importing branches remained quiet, and the chief feature of interest in this connection was the suspension of Messrs. George Hughes & Co., importers of Irish linens, which occurred in consequence mainly of the recent failure of Messrs. William Spotten & Co., Belfast, Ireland, with whom Hughes & Co. were involved.

DOMESTIC COTTON GOODS.—The general market was very quiet, but certain makes of bleached shirtings, including "Fruit of the Loom," King Philip, &c., having been reduced to very low figures, there was a liberal movement in these goods, and shirting and plaid prints were in fair demand. Brown cottons were quiet but firm, with an upward tendency on leading corporation makes, which continue in comparatively light supply in agents' hands. Tickings, denims, cheviots, checks, stripes and osnaburgs were severally quiet, and dyed ducks moved slowly. Rolled jaconets, cambrics and silesias were in limited request at unchanged prices. Cottonades were rather more active, but irregular in price Corset jeans and satteens met with a steady demand, and the best makes are sold up to production. The exports of cotton goods for the week reached 693 packages, of which 433 were shipped to Liverpool and 118 to Smyrna. Print cloths were dull and heavy, closing at 4¼c., cash and thirty days, for extra standard 64x64 spot cloths. The chief features of interest in the print market were the opening for the spring season of Pacific Mills, percales and cretonnes and Washington Mills' fancy prints, with a reduction in Wamsutta fancies and robes. Spring styles of ginghams were placed on the market by the Lancaster Mills, and fair sales were at once effected by the agents. Fancy plaid dress fabrics were shown in increased variety, and orders to a considerable aggregate amount were placed for their future delivery. Cotton hosiery was opened by the leading agents, and a fair distribution of hose and half-hose was made to distant buyers.

DOMESTIC WOOLEN GOODS.—Many interior clothiers having re-entered the market, there was an improved demand for several descriptions of men's-wear woolens, but selections were noticeably small in a majority of cases. Fancy cassimeres and suitings were taken by clothiers and cloth jobbers to a considerable aggregate amount, and there was more inquiry than of late for desirable styles of all worsted coatings, while imitation worsteds moved very slowly, and are apparently in large supply. Cloths and doeskins remained quiet, and the demand for winter overcoatings was very light. Printed satinets were tolerably active, but blacks and mixtures ruled quiet. Kentucky jeans were disposed of in moderate amounts, but were not quick. Flannels were dull, as a rule, but some fair sales of white all-wool and domett makes were effected. Worsted dress goods received more attention from distant jobbers, and both plain and self-colored fancy styles were distributed in moderate amounts. Shawls were exceedingly quiet, and there was no animation in skirts or wool hosiery, the season for which has nearly closed.

FOREIGN DRY GOODS.—Apart from making a few deliveries of goods on orders, business has continued very quiet with importers and jobbers of foreign goods. The most interesting event of the week (after the failure of Messrs. George Hughes & Co. referred to above) was a peremptory auction sale of linens of the manufacture of James & Robert Young, Ballymena. The goods, which embraced 120 cases shirting linens, blays, drills, hollands, etc. had been slightly damaged by water and smoke at a recent fire on the premises of Messrs. William Redmond & Son (the importers), and were sold for account of the underwriters. There was a very large crowd of buyers at the sale and excellent prices were obtained. For the spring trade importations of dress goods, etc., are coming forward slowly, and none of the importers have as yet shown their new fancy fabrics, but will probably do so before the close of the month.

OFFERS FOR SALE, AT PAR,

SECURED BY

GUARANTEED, PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST,

BY ITS

CAPITAL STOCK OF $500,000.

Interest Coupons payable semi-annually. Bonds registered to order, or payable to bearer at option. Accrued interest is not required to be paid by purchaser, the next-due Coupon being stamped so as to denote that Interest begins at the date of purchase.

A Pamphlet with full information will be sent on application to the Company's Office,

43 Milk Street, Boston.

These Bonds are commended to the attention of the MOST CONSERVATIVE INVESTORS, as they are believed to be as perfect a security as can be obtained. The issue of Bonds is limited to one-half the amount of the same class of Bonds ever issued under a like Guarantee.

The security of each Bond is not confined a to single Mortgage, but extends over all the Mortgages owned by the Company. This Company receives no deposits, guarantees no other securities, and has no other debts than its bonds. Its Mortgages are of like character to those which have been bought in the last twenty years by individuals, Life Insurance Companies and other Corporations, to the amount of more than Fifty Millions of Dollars, proving a most secure and satisfactory investment. The Loans are all upon improved Farms in some of the most fertile Western States, near the Railroads, with short and perfect titles, and average less than $650 each, upon property worth nearly four times their amount. Experience has proved that well selected Mortgages upon this class of property are safer than those upon city property, either in the East or West. They are not affected by Fires, or by Business revulsions; Principal and Interest are more promptly paid; and upon the success of Agriculture depends that of almost every industrial investment.

THE BANK RESERVES AND THE MONEY MARKET.

In consequence of the improved feeling which is manifesting itself in some departments of business, the probable course of the money market in the early future is attracting anxious attention. On the whole, the general opinion seems favorable. Several reasons concur to give force to the expectation that we are about to enjoy for a protracted period an easy and tranquil condition of the loan market. Some of these reasons are, no doubt, sound, though others may be more doubtful.

Among the latter class we may mention, for example, that no little stress is laid by some of our bankers on the fact that the drain of funds to the West and South has been gradually abating for a year or two past. This diminished flow of the currents of capital from the East to the West is too hastily assumed to be permanent. On this hypothesis it is argued that we shall have one disturbing cause the less in our money market here. The frequent and severe drains of currency and capital to the West for the purpose of moving the crops has long been at certain seasons the sure harbinger of trouble in the monetary movements of New York. If this Western demand were really diminishing and if it be likely to suffer a further diminution, we might agree with the opinion of those who argue from these premises in favor of easy money; but if the changes heretofore developed are temporary in their duration, and if they are to give place to those of a contrary character, then it is easily seen that they should not be allowed too easily to mislead us. At any rate, it is too early as yet to interpret the facts with any assured precision. What is known is, that the Western banks, in the aggregate, have not drawn so heavily as usual on this city of late. The change has been accounted for on several distinct grounds. In the first place, these banks have found it harder than in former years to induce our New York banks to pay heavy rates of interest on their idle deposits; hence, they employed their balances on interest at home in loans on produce and otherwise. Thus it happened that the West has not had so much power to draw on us for deposits and currency, because their balances here were smaller, nor, on the other hand, had they so much reason to make these drafts, because their dealers and customers were already supplied in part for the limited business doing. Still, after we have made all due allowance for these considerations, it is certain that, by the action of the recent laws, our banking system throughout this country is passing through some transformations, which may perhaps diminish the dependence of the interior banks upon the great banking centre of New York. These changes we have frequently discussed. They must be carefully watched, but they have not yet been long enough in operation to enable us to forecast their future results with any certainty.

Among the valid reasons for expecting a tranquil money market we may refer to the influx of foreign capital. There are many persons who believe that this movement will receive a notable impulse during the present year. Certainly a plethora of idle capital is complained of abroad, and this country is rich in profitable safe investments. There are in the European money markets such a multitude of capitalists seeking good investments that in the present activity of international communication it seems impossible that our best securities should not be examined and their merits disclosed. There is the more probability of a favorable result, and that our securities will attract this idle capital, because during the recent panic in foreign stocks, in London, the old investments which used to be so popular have lost much of their prestige. The belief that the foreign markets are peculiarly disposed to receive good American securities, derives some support from the negotiations of this sort which have recently been made and others which are rumored to be on foot. These transactions have commanded the more attention from the fact that they are said to have checked or deferred an upward movement in gold. This movement is supposed by some to be still probable, but such expectations find little encouragement in the reports of new loans, whose negotiation is pending abroad. The effect which would be produced on our money market by the influx of large amounts of foreign capital into our securities is too obvious to need special proof. As the supply of our domestic capital seeking employment is already so ample as to exceed the present demand, we have in the facts just referred to, additional reasons for expecting monetary ease.

The most important point, however, and that which is worthy of the severest scrutiny is the state of the Clearing-House banks and of their legal tender reserve. For many weeks past the greenback reserves have been rapidly falling. In some quarters the fear was expressed that the legal minimum would be reached, and that the money market would thereby become disturbed. About a month ago, in canvassing this opinion, we offered reasons in support of the banks, and showed that their excess of reserve above the legal 25 per cent. was not likely to be exhausted or to fall below six or eight millions. The event justified this prediction, and for the two weeks past the bank movements have indicated that the greenback reserve is again accumulating. If the averages published by the Clearing-House in the immediate future are favorable, the expectations of easy money, so far as they rest on this ground, will be confirmed. The bank statements of the next two or three weeks will be critical, and will be closely scanned, both with regard to the future of the money market and to the movements of gold.

SUPPLY OF GOLD AND SILVER IN THE UNITED STATES.

In THE CHRONICLE, of January 8th (page 25), we based some remarks, with regard to the gold supply, upon the reports of Messrs. Wells, Fargo & Co., for 1874 and 1875. We were not then able to obtain the Government figures later than for 1873, except the totals for 1874, which gave gold and silver together. The official report for 1874, by Professor Raymond, the Mining Commissioner, is not yet printed, but he has kindly furnished us with a manuscript copy of the figures in detail, and those show that the inference in the article referred to, drawn from Wells, Fargo & Co.'s statement, with regard to the relative portions of gold and silver produced, was incorrect.

Two annual Government reports of the contribution of our mines to the world's supply of the precious metals have for several years been prepared—the one already spoken of, by Professor Raymond, Commissioner of Mining, and the other by Dr. Linderman, Director of the Mint. The figures of the former are, however, for the calendar year, and of the latter for the fiscal year. Making allowance for that fact, the conclusions reached are in accord. In the Mint report, Dr. Linderman gives his statement for the twelve months ending June 30, 1875, making the total gold and silver at $71,946,615, of which about $40,000,000, he says, were gold. Professor Raymond's report, for 1874, is now, as stated, in the hands of the printer. The following is the extract from it he has favored us with, showing the production for the States and Territories west of the Rocky Mountains:

PRODUCTION OF GOLD AND SILVER IN THE UNITED STATES FOR YEAR ENDING DEC. 31, 1874.

| | Gold. | Silver. | Total. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Arizona | $350,000 | $137,000 | $487,000 |
| California | 19,000,000 | 1,300,531 | 20,300,531 |
| Colorado | 2,102,457 | 3,086,083 | 5,188,540 |
| Idaho | 1,397,000 | 483,004 | 1,880,004 |
| Montana | 3,300,000 | 544,722 | 3,844,722 |
| Nevada | 14,770,000 | 20,682,233 | 35,452,233 |
| New Mexico | 300,000 | 200,000 | 500,000 |
| Oregon and Washington | 763,605 | ..... | 763,605 |
| Utah | 94,000 | 3,817,601 | 3,911,601 |
| Wyoming and other sources | 100,000 | ..... | 100,000 |

Thus we see that the gold product for 1874 was over forty-two millions, instead of about twenty-six millions as the figures we before used indicated. Professor Raymond's statement for 1875 is not completed and will not be until some time in the summer; but Messrs. Wells, Fargo & Co. give the total (including, however, Mexico and British Columbia) for the twelve months ending December 31, at $80,899,037. Although the reports made up by this firm are no denfinite guide for determining the relative yield of gold and silver, their totals always approximate quite closely to the Government totals made up later; and hence for the purposes of this statement, we may safely use their aggregate figures. Deducting from their report the two items, Mexico and British Columbia, and adding, according to Dr. Linderman, $1,000,000 for New Mexico, we should reach $77,703,413, as the gross product for 1875. Now, if we allow for gold about the same as in 1874 ($42,000,000), the silver production would be $35,703,413. Bringing forward Professor Raymond's figures of the yield of the mines from 1948 to 1874 inclusive, and for 1875 adding the totals as above stated, the total production of the United States, since 1848, would be as follows:

GOLD AND SILVER PRODUCTION IN THE UNITED STATES

| Year. | Gold. $ | Silver. $ | Total. $ | Year. | Gold. $ | Silver. $ | Total. $ |

Turning now to the foreign movement of the precious metals, we find that the total of foreign and domestic gold and silver exported since June, 1859, has been $1,133,181,284, and that the total imported during the same time was $267,580,921, leaving a net export of $865,600,363. The full detailed statement of imports and exports of gold and silver, from June 30, 1859, to June 30, 1875, will be found in our annual volume, "Financial Review for 1875," to be issued about February 15. A summary of the detailed statement is as follows:

| From 1859 to 1875. | Exported. Domestic. | Exported. Foreign. | Total Exported. | Total Imported. | Exports, less Imp'ts. |
| | $ | $ | $ | $ | $ |

Taking the exports and imports as above, and the production since 1860 as given in previous table, the addition to the supply in this country since 1859 would be as follows :

| | Gold. | Silver. | Total. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Production since January, 1860..... | $719,927,092 | $251,354,527 | $971,281,619 |
| Production in excess of net exports.... | $41,025,219 | $64,656,037 | $105,681,256 |

Of course, we cannot conclude from the above that we have added over one hundred millions of gold and silver to our supply since 1860. There are other points which require investigation. For instance, a considerable portion goes into manufacture every year. Some time since, we stated our reasons for believing that this item was generally very largely over-estimated. As we then said, we see no other proper basis for an opinion than the census returns ; and the figures we made up, then, in that way, showed a consumption of about five million dollars for 1870 (see CHRONICLE Feb. 13, 1875, page 152), which, if taken as the average for the sixteen years, would make the total $80,000,000. This, we are inclined to believe, is certainly not an under-estimate. But, besides this inquiry as to the manufacture of the precious metals, there are also other disturbing questions, such as the amounts brought in the pockets of emigrants and the coin taken out in the same way, by the thirty to fifty thousand of our people who every year make the tour of Europe. We do not intend to refer to this further than to say, as we have frequently before, that the best judgment which can be formed on the subject makes these movements so nearly balance one another that it is not necessary to bring either into the account. For evident reasons, also, we do not think it necessary to make any allowance for gold which left the country through the South during the War; it must have been inconsiderable.

The result of what has been said, therefore, is, that the supply of gold and silver in the United States is at least no less now than in 1860. This is certainly contrary to the general impression, and at variance with any conclusion one would draw from the present visible supply. Nor is it believed possible that there can be any considerable amount in the North aside from what is visible; but we have been informed by two Southern gentlemen of large experience, within a very short time, who claimed to speak from their own knowledge, citing several instances, that there is much gold hoarded in the South. Of course, we can easily understand that this should be so in Texas. There must also be at present, compared with 1860, an increased supply used as currency in California, and, also, throughout all the mining region. But it was not our intention to explain or account for the conclusion our figures reach.

The banks of the United States on the 1st of January, 1860, (not including California), held in specie $83,594,537, and on the 1st of January, 1859, they held $104,537,818, or say for the two years an average of $94,000,000. During the same period the balance in the Sub-Treasury was about five or six millions. Hence we had a visible supply, say in 1859, of about $100,000,000. As to the amount then in the hands of the people, no accurate data can be given. On a previous occasion we estimated it at one-half the bank-note circulation ; which, being on the 1st of January, 1860, $207,102,477, would make the supply of specie in the States outside of California at about $200,000,000. The director of the Mint in 1861 estimated the stock of coin in the country at $275,000,000 We do not know how he made up his estimate, but we believe it included California. Secretary Chase, in his annual report of 1862, gave $210,000,000 as his opinion of the supply, not including California.

RAILROADS IN DEFAULT SINCE THE PANIC OF 1873.

In preparing a statement of railroads which have made default in the payment of interest on their bonded debt, several difficulties are encountered. In the first place, it is undesirable to include any company in such a list, which does not clearly belong there; the amount of bonds on which interest remains unpaid is already too large, without adding to it a single dollar of indebtedness which may, with any reasonable fairness, be excluded. The question arises therefore, what is a railroad in default? And for the purposes of this article we shall exclude: 1. Such as have made only slight temporary delay in the payment of their interest. 2. Such as have never sold their bonds to the public nor hypothecated them for loans, although the bonds have technically been issued and are held by friends of the company, or by contractors or contractor-directors who are substantially the company itself. Again, it is not considered that any default has been made unless there was a positive obligation to pay interest, and hence an income bond, on which interest is only payable out of surplus net earnings, is not in default when such earnings are not made. When a railroad has been unable to pay its interest, but the same has been paid or the coupons have been purchased, by another company or other third party, the bonds are not considered in default.

The preceding limitations will exclude such companies as the New Orleans St. Louis & Chicago, which has recently made some temporary delay in payment of accruing interest; the Jacksonville Northwestern & Southeastern road of Illinois, whose bonds are all held by the contractors; also a number of issues of income bonds which are paying no interest, and a good many bonds on which the coupons have been paid or bought up by lessee companies or other interested parties, and which have therefore not been the occasion of loss to their holders.

From the preceding remarks it will be seen that the object of the present article is not to show the maximum, but the minimum, of actual defaults; it is not to show the number of railroads in the country which are actually unable to earn their interest, but rather to present the gross amount of bonds in the hands of investors or money lenders, for which cash was paid or advanced, and on which the interest is overdue and unpaid. It seems hardly necessary to remark that, from the very nature of the case, it is impossible to obtain and classify all the facts and minutiæ on such a subject with the same degree of accuracy and precision which is attained in our banking, cotton, and other statistics. But, enumerating each company in detail, with remarks upon its present condition, the compilation is presented with much confidence in its general correctness.

The whole subject of railroad defaults has grown to be one of such large dimensions, and is so intimately connected with the prevailing business depression of the country as one of its prominent causes—if not, indeed, its principal cause—that it has become a matter of general interest in financial circles; and for the purpose of classifying all the information obtainable in the most practical and useful shape, the following method is adopted:

1. A table showing all the railroads which have made default in the payment of interest falling due at any time between the panic of Sept. 20, 1873, and the 1st of January, 1876, inclusive. This excludes all such as had been foreclosed or had settled up their affairs prior to Sept. 20, 1873, but includes such as had previously made default and continued to pass their interest falling due subsequent to the date mentioned.
2. A division of the bonds on which interest has been passed into six classes, according to the periods when the first default was made by the respective companies, as follows: 1st, Those prior to 1873; 2d, those between Jan. 1, 1873, and Sept. 20, 1873; 3d, those from Sept. 20 to Dec. 31, 1873; 4th, those in 1874; 5th, those in 1875; 6th, those defaulting for the first time in January, 1876.

3. A division of the total amount of bonds in default, according to the condition of the respective companies, as follows: 1st, Those having already funded coupons, or otherwise definitely compromised with bondholders; 2d, those having funding proposals or other settlements pending, or simply remaining in statu quo, and, so far as known, without litigation; 3d, those which have foreclosure suits or other litigation pending; 4th, those which have been foreclosed or re-organized.
4. As a deduction from the above, the amount of bonds remaining now in default and unsettled; also, an estimate of the amount held abroad and the amount held in the United States. Pursuant to this arrangement, we have the following results made up from the general table below:

GENERAL RESULTS.

|---|---|---|
| 1. Total amount of railroad bonds on which default has been made in the payment of any interest falling due from Sept. 20, 1873, to Jan. 1, 1876, inclusive | | $783,967,665 |
| 2. The above, arranged by years, according to date of first default by the respective companies, is as follows: | | |
| Total bonds of companies first defaulting prior to 1873 | $134,684,600 | |
| Total bonds of companies first defaulting Sept. 20 to Dec. 31, 1873 | 150,233,250 | |
| Total bonds of companies first defaulting in 1874 | 262,366,701 | |
| Total bonds of companies first defaulting Jan. 1, '76 | 4,494,400 | |
| Total as above | | $783,967,665 |
| 3. Arrangement according to condition of companies: | | |
| Bonds of companies already funded or settled | $91,549,250 | |
| Do. settling or remaining without litigation | 151,369,500 | |
| Do. having foreclosure or other suits pending | 387 679,615 | |
| Do. foreclosed or re-organized | 153,373,300 | |
| Total as above | | $783,967,665 |
| 4. Bonds now in default, unsettled | | $533,045,115 |
| 5. Proportion of grand total estimated to have been held in the United States | $532,967,665 | |
| Proportion estimated to be held abroad | 251,000,000 | |
| Total as above | | $783,967,665 |

It appears from the foregoing statement that the whole amount of railroad bonds on which any default was made in the payment of interest accruing between the panic of Sept. 20, 1873, and the present date in 1876, foot up a sum total of $783,967,665, and these were issued by 196 different companies. Of these, $533,045,115 bonds, issued by 154 companies, remain still in default, unsettled and not having been foreclosed, to January, 1876. Of the whole number of companies included in the list, 37 made their first default prior to Jan. 1, 1873, and these issued in all $134,684,600 of the bonds included in the total; 35 companies issuing $91,740,500 of the bonds defaulted between Jan. 1, 1873, and Sept. 20, 1873; 25 companies issuing $150,233,250 bonds defaulted between Sept. 20, 1873, and Dec. 1, 1873; 71 companies issuing $262,366,701 bonds defaulted in 1874; 25 companies issuing $140,448,214 bonds defaulted in 1875; 3 companies with $4,494,400 bonds defaulted in January, 1876. Wherever a company has several issues of bonds in default they are all classified here with the period when the first default of the company was made.

The only standard for general railroad statistics in the United States is "Poor's Railroad Manual," which gives the total bonded debt on January 1, 1875, as about $2,000,000,000. Assuming these figures to be as nearly correct as any that can be made, and we find that the total of all railroad bonds in default since Sept. 20, 1873, is about 39 per cent of this amount; and those still unsettled and in default at this date, being $533,045,115, are about 26½ per cent of the total railroad bonds outstanding.

It is possible in these figures to trace in some degree the general course of railroad defaults, and we observe that no less than $226,425,100 of the whole amount belonged to companies which had already made their first default prior to the overwhelming panic of Sept., 1873. It is therefore an erroneous view of the causes leading to that great disaster to suppose that they sprang mainly from the failure of Jay Cooke & Co., and the several other prominent banking-houses which suspended about the same time, or shortly afterwards. In 1874 it was to be expected that a large number of railroads would fail, and we find the amount of bonds issued by companies which first went to default that year to have been $262,366,701. The effect of the next year, 1875, was perhaps the worst, for it had been confidently expected that by that time railroads would decidedly recover, but we find that 25 companies went to default with $140,448,214 of bonds. In Jan., 1876, we have only heard of 3 companies making default for the first time, with $4,494,400 of bonds so involved, and it is generally believed that the defaults are about ended.

After classifying the various companies according to their present condition, we find that 18 companies with $91,549,250 bonds have completed funding arrangements or otherwise perfected a definite settlement with their bondholders; 64 companies with $151,369,500, have funding arrangements or other settlements in progress, or else remain in statu quo without litigation, and waiting for better times; 70 companies with $381,675,615 bonds have foreclosure suits or litigation of some other sort pending, although many of these also have negotiations in progress looking to an adjustment or re-organization without going to foreclosure; and 44 companies with $159,373,300 bonds have actually been foreclosed or surrendered to bondholders and re-organized.

The estimate of the proportion of defaulted bonds held by foreigners is made up from such facts as are known in regard to the original negotiation of many of the railroad loans sold since the close of the war, of which a good number were placed almost entirely abroad, and also from the information in regard to the residence of bondholders which came to light after the defaults occurred, and when proposals for adjustment were offered. It is believed that this estimate approaches quite closely the actual facts of the case and the amount of $251,000,000 as given, constitutes about 32 per cent of all the bonds that have been in default.

In taking a careful review of the field at the present date, when the excitement attending the first stages of the railroad crash have died away, it will be conceded by all that railroad building was carried to excess, and that the roads constructed were more numerous than the traffic of the country through which they ran could support. But hardly second to this in importance was the evil arising from the method of railroad financiering. The roads were built almost entirely from the proceeds of bonds issued, and the capital stock was in many cases given away. Even when the bonds were sold with a success which surpassed all reasonable expectations, it was in very few cases that the proceeds sufficed to complete and equip the roads—the cost was almost invariably underestimated. It does not require a panic to show up the weakness of such a system as this, and the numerous defaults occuring for a year and more before the storm broke, with the failure of Jay Cooke, in Sept. 1873, testify to this fact with sufficient clearness. There should be an amount of paid-up stock, at least equal to the bonds issued, to form any sound basis for a mortgage security.

In applying the lessons of the past to the practical purpose of making improvement in the future, what suggestions on the subject of railroad loans can be be made? It is obviously for our great interest in this country to invite here the capital of foreigners, and it is equally apparent that they must have better security for their money than they have recently found in many of our railroad mortgages. Among other difficulties, none has been more frequently complained of than the obstacles which first mortgage bondholders meet with in obtaining their rights. The holders of junior securities, stocks ,or floating debt, by means of litigation and pliable or ignorant Judges and Receivers, often keep control of the property long after it ought to be in the possession of first mortgage bondholders.

Without definitely recommending any particular measures, we may mention briefly a few points which have been suggested as possible remedies for some of the difficulties, by the events transpiring during the recent "age of defaults": 1. No railroad should issue bonds beyond the amount of its bona fide paid-up stock; 2. Trustees on railroad mortgages should be parties above reproach and entirely unconnected with the managers of the company—(thus far the Trust Companies appear to have been the best trustees for bondholders interests). 3. That from ten to twenty per cent of the bondholders, in amount, should have the right to demand a foreclosure; 4. That bondholders of all classes should have votes in the election of directors, by means of voting scrip attached to their bonds, each $1,000 bond casting the same votes as 10 shares of $100 each. It has been objected to this that bondholders would spend everything on improvements and never declare dividends, but this could only be the case where there were more bonds than stock outstanding, and there ought not to be any such railroads; 5. Receiverships have been a fruitful source of loss and fraud, and the laws defining rights of bondholders and floating debt creditors, and the duties and privileges of receivers, should be thoroughly revised under the light of recent experience, and general rules of action prescribed wherever practicable, instead of leaving all as now, to the discretion of Judges; 6. It may be possible to adopt, to some extent, the English practice, and allow bondholders more frequently to take possession of a road after default, instead of pushing it to forclosure.

The general results would not be materially altered by their addition.

LONDON, Saturday, Jan. 8, 1876.

The demand for gold for export has continued on a moderately extensive scale, and, in the absence of supplies from abroad of any importance, a considerable quantity has been withdrawn from the Bank. The directors have, therefore, been compelled to augment their terms for accommodation to the extent of one per cent, and their minimum charge is now 5 per cent. The state of the Bank account fully justifies this course. Some of the changes are, it is true, but of a temporary character, being incidental to the close of the year; but the supply of bullion has been diminished by nearly half a million, and the reserve of notes and coin by rather more than one million. The proportion of reserve to liabilities is reduced to 28¾ per cent, which is a point which would create some uneasiness, were it not for the fact that notes and coin will be soon returning from provincial circulation, and that a large supply of money will be soon released by the payment of the dividends on the public funds. The probable future course of the money market is very difficult to determine, and there can be no doubt of the fact that the uncertainty will remain as long as the German coinage operations are in progress, and as long as France considers it to be to her interest, or thinks it expedient, to pile up a large supply of gold in the vaults of its National Bank. The gold held by that Bank now amounts to as much as £67,442,510, being the largest stock ever held by any National Bank. That supply is simply out of the market, and is not available for mercantile purposes. It is probable that it will continue to increase, as the trade of the world is in favor of France, while the indications of a return to specie payments are not yet at all distinct As long as Germany is a buyer of gold, and the French note remains at par, it is thought to be probable that the French Government and the nation will be content with the existing condition of affairs. Latterly gold has been sent away from this country, not only to Germany, but also to France. That movement has been produced, not only by the requirements of Germany for her coinage operations, and to meet the balance of trade in favor of France, but also to pay for the foreign stocks which we have lately purchased in large amounts. The rise in the value of money here will check the latter movement, as a much greater degree of caution will have to be exercised now that the Bank rate is at five per cent.

The commercial demand for money has been upon a very moderate scale, and there is still no prospect of any immediate increase in it. The trade of the country remains slack, and it is more than probable that as long as an uncertainty exists about the future course of the money market, and as long as the state of Turkey produces uneasiness in Europe, there will be but little, if any, disposition on the part of the mercantile community to extend greatly their operations. It is quite possible, as neither the one nor the other is likely to be quickly arranged, that our merchants will be disinclined to depart from the cautious policy they have now pursued for so many months. There has been a good demand for gold for export, and not only have all available supplies in the market been purchased for export, but, as stated above, about half a million has been withdrawn from the Bank. Since the rise in the Bank rate, however, the exchanges have become more favorable, and there has been a decided falling off in the demand for gold. The silver market has been dull, and prices have had a downward tendency. Annexed are the quotations:

Quicksilver, £10 15s. to £11 per bottle. Discount, 3 per cent.

The periodical sale of bills on India was held at the Bank of England, on Wednesday. The amount allotted was £700,000, of which £380,000 was to Calcutta, £20,000 to Madras, and £300,000 to Bombay. Tenders on Calcutta and Madras at 1s. 9⅜d., received 15 per cent., and on Bombay, at the same sale, 14 per cent. That result shows no material change in the demand for the means of remittance to the East.

The banks and discount houses are now declaring their dividends, and, with but few exceptions, there is, as might have been expected, a falling off in them, compared with 1874. The London & Westminster Bank recommend a dividend of 7 per cent. for the half year, making 12 per cent. for the year, while the "rest," or undivided profit, is £700,000, against about £1,000,000, in 1874. The dividend for the corresponding period of 1874 was 11 per cent, and for the whole of that year 21 per cent.; consequently, last year's losses have diminished that bank's profits to the extent of 9 per cent. In 1873 the distribution was 22 per cent., and in 1872, 20 per cent.

The Union Bank of London recommend the usual dividend at the rate of 15 per cent., carrying forward £7,200. At the close of 1874, £32,000 was carried forward.

The London Joint Stock Bank have resolved upon paying a dividend and bonus of £1 10s. per share, being equivalent to 10 per cent. for the half year, and making 17½ per cent. for the year. For the corresponding period in 1874, the distribution was £1 13s. per share, or 11 per cent., making 21 per cent. for the year. There is a falling off, therefore, of 3½ per cent. For the corresponding half of 1873 the dividend was 12½ per cent.

Tenders have been received this week for New South Wales Government Debentures. The amount offered was £901,500, and the applications reached a total of £1,374,700, at prices ranging from £91 to £95. The minimum was fixed at £92 10s. The debentures bear interest at 4 per cent. per annum.

The Cape of Good Hope loan, introduced last week, was not fully subscribed; but it is now officially mentioned that the balance remaining has been taken at 98½. These debentures were to bear interest at the rate of 4½ per cent.

Messrs. Henry S. King & Co. invite applications to an issue of £150,000 in seven per cent. first mortgage bonds of the Utica, Ithaca and Elmira Railroad Company, being the balance of an authorized issue of £300,000. The price of issue is to be 92½ per cent., or £185 per bond of £200. The principal is redeemable in 1902.

The state of the Eastern question, and the uncertainty which exists about money, have caused the stock markets to rule dull. The public have afforded but little support, and the result has been that most classes of securities have given way in price. At one period of the week, Egyptian stocks were much depressed, owing to a report that Mr. Cave, the English Commissioner, and the Khedive had had a dispute. The truth seems to be that there are some private accounts which the Viceroy and his Government are unwilling should be investigated, but, as Mr. Cave is desirous of making his report clear and trustworthy, he has insisted upon their being submitted for examination. In the absence of investments on the part of the public, speculators for the fall have had it much their own way, and hence the decline in prices. As a good deal of money will be soon released by the payment of the dividends, it can scarcely be expected that sound securities, although in the majority of cases prices rule high, will be long neglected.

The trade for wheat has been exceedingly quiet during the week, and former prices have been maintained with difficulty. The stocks at the outports are large—a fact which, with a large supply of produce afloat, naturally induces millers to operate with considerable caution.

The imports and exports of cereal produce into and from the United Kingdom since harvest, viz., from September 1 to the close of last week, will be seen in the following figures:

Owing to the liberal importations since harvest, the stocks of foreign produce in the United Kingdom are now very large and are considerably in excess of last year. They are as follows:

The Board of Trade returns for the past year have just been issued. They show the following results:

IMPORTS.

| | 1873. | 1874. | 1875. |
|---|---|---|---|
| In December..... | £33,137,892 | £28,683,185 | £32,114,411 |
| In twelve months..... | 371,259,412 | 370,051,834 | 373,941,125 |

EXPORTS.

The falling off in our exports during the year, compared with 1874, has been therefore £16,000,000, and compared with 1873, nearly £32,000,000. On the other hand, there is an increase of nearly £4,000,000 in the value of our imports.

As we have now entered upon the new year, a brief review of the production, price and movement of wheat in the United Kingdom for 1875 may be of interest. The wheat harvest in this country was a very unsatisfactory one, both in point of quantity and quality. The seed in the autumn of 1874 had been sown under favorable conditions, but, in consequence of the heavy fall which had then taken place in prices, and in consequence, also, of the remunerative quotations current for feeding stuffs, the quantity of land placed under cultivation was considerably below the average. In 1874 there had been abundant harvests in most parts of the world, and it was soon discovered that there was a large surplus available for those countries in which there was any deficiency. It turned out that it was this country alone which required any considerable supply, and hence, owing, in a great measure, to the financial necessities of the producing nations, large supplies of foreign produce were directed to our ports. The result was, not only that wheat receded in value to the extent of 20 shillings per quarter, but it declined to a point which operated as a discouragement to our farmers, who thereupon decided on cultivating much less. In this they were aided by the very inauspicious weather in this country during the period of blooming. The heavy rains and floods of last midsummer must be fresh in the recollection of our readers, and the farmers will have ample and serious reasons to regard the year 1875 as a year of floods. The result of the unpropitious weather in June and July was very adverse to the farmers' interests, for not only was the prospect at one period exceedingly gloomy, but there were apprehensions that the crops of cereals would prove to be an almost complete failure. A brief period, however, of summer, or harvest, weather enabled the farmers to gather in unusually limited crops of wheat, and although, during the period of adverse weather, those farmers who had not disposed of their produce were enabled to obtain much higher prices, yet the produce they had just secured was indifferent in quality and very restricted in amount. The excitement which prevailed in the trade during the period of adverse weather, and the fears which prevailed that the crop would be almost entirely lost, induced merchants and speculators to forward large orders to the producing markets, and it was quickly discovered that large supplies existed in the world. During the first few weeks of the new season, therefore, our imports were on a very large, and, indeed, on an unprecedented scale, and, in spite of the poorness of our own crop, the trade was altogether wanting in animation; and, instead of advancing, as the English farmer wished and expected, prices had a downward tendency. The result of the last crop to the English farmer is, undoubtedly, very disappointing, but, fortunately for this country, there have been ample supplies of foreign wheat in existence; and, as we have had no competitors in the producing markets, we have been able to obtain the supplies we require—and, indeed, more than we require—on very moderate terms. Those terms are decidedly lower than the magnitude of wants justifies, but when there is no competition, and when powers, or countries, are compelled to realize, and an abundance of produce exists, it cannot be surprising that prices should rule low. According to the official returns, the deliveries of home-grown produce have fallen considerably below those of last year.

The return for the week ending January 1 shows that in that period only 34,557 quarters of English wheat were delivered in the 150 principal markets of England and Wales, against 49,125 quarters in the previous week, and 37,921 quarters in the corresponding week of last year. Since harvest they have amounted to 852,303 quarters, against 1,126,658 quarters, while in the whole Kingdom it is computed that they have been 3,409,300 quarters, against 4,506,700 quarters in the previous season. The diminution this season, compared with its predecessor, now amounts, therefore, to about 1,100,000 quarters. It is estimated that the following quantities of wheat and flour have been placed upon the British markets, thus far, this season:

According to the Board of Trade returns, our imports of wheat in December amounted to 4,363,360 cwt., against 2,371,094 cwt. last year, the total for the twelve months being 51,786,393 cwt., against 41,479,460 cwt. in 1874. The estimated value of the year's imports was £37,418,970, against £25,201,062 in 1874. From the following table it will be seen that our imports in 1875 have not been exceeded since 1859, and it is evident, therefore, that they were the largest on record:

THE NEW YORK MUTUAL INSURANCE CO.—We always expect the New York Mutual (Marine) Insurance Co. will publish a good statement. It has done it for so many, many years that the habit is positively fixed. This Centennial season, therefore is, of course, no exception. With a good class of clients, a legacy of the past, and with the best of officers constantly attracting by their discriminating conservative policy, new paying business, the record never fails to be a very satisfactory one. We see that this year they pay the usual six per cent. interest on all their outstanding scrip and forty per cent. new scrip, besides paying up their scrip issues of 1862, and one-half of the issue of 1863. Certainly this company cannot complain that the depression of the past year has made their business either dull or profitless.

BANKERS' ALMANAC FOR 1876.—This annual publication is just issued. For twenty-five years it has made its appearance regularly, and is of great use to a large class. It contains complete lists of

The National banks, State banks and private bankers of every city and town in the United States; the president, cashier and capital of each bank, and the New York correspondents of all.

The savings banks, trust companies and safe deposit companies of the United States. The stock brokers and gold brokers of New York City.

The banks and bankers of Canada, and of all the principal cities and towns of Europe, Asia, Africa, South America, West Indies, etc., with the population of each place, besides other useful information. It is published by I. Smith Homans, No. 251 Broadway. Price, $3.

PACIFIC MUTUAL INSURANCE COMPANY.—It appears that the Pacific (Marine) Insurance Company has done a large business the past year, notwithstanding the general depression all over the commercial world. We notice that their premiums amount to $808,217 67, exclusive of $88,973 19 outstanding Jan. 1. This, if we remember rightly, is a considerable increase over the previous twelve months. The total assets of the company are now $1,002,391 15; and they pay their usual interest on outstanding certificates, besides a dividend in scrip to be issued April 4, to those entitled to participate.

THE RAILWAY REVIEW of this week comes to us in a new and improved dress. The journal has just entered upon its twelfth year of existence. It is ably edited by the veteran writer, Mr. D. C. Brooks, and Mr. Willard A. Smith, both of this city. The Review has quite a large circulation among the railway men of the West, who take it on account of its trustworthiness.—Chicago Tribune.

—The Statement of the Williamsburgh City Fire Insurance Company will be found on another page. The result of the year's business shows the amount of premiums and profits of the several offices to be as follows:

| | Net Prems. | Net Pfts. | Equal to. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Home Office | $96,132 | $35,168 | 36 per cent. |
| New York Office | 138,252 | 35,153 | 26 " |

| Total profits of the several offices being | .... | $127,025 | |
| Income from interest and other sources | .... | 47,679 | |

Making a total result of the year's business $174,704 profit over and above all losses and expenses, which is equal to 70 per cent on the capital stock of the Company, and, after making dividends to the amount of $50,000 the past year, they add $124,704 to the net surplus as the result of the business of the year 1875.

— We have received a catalogue from Messrs. Eaton & Co., No. 17 Ann street, New York, specifying in detail a large and varied assortment of articles kept on hand by them for supplying the needs of sportsmen. A sportsman's salesroom, or establishment, for exhibition and sale of specialties required by devotees of the rod and gun, is a desideratum in our City, as many of our merchants, bankers and others devote a portion of their time to field sports, and the firm of Eaton & Co. offering everything necessary to the outfit of gentlemen visiting the hunting and fishing grounds.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 21, 1876—6 P. M.

The Money Market and Financial Situation.—The principal feature of the past week has been the general strength and buoyancy in the financial markets, and the development of a more cheerful feeling in all quarters.

Money has been growing perceptibly easier, and both investment and speculative securities have been in good demand at firm prices. The amount of United States bonds purchased in Germany and England since the first of this month, for importation to this market, has been of unusually large amount, and it is estimated by some of the best-informed dealers in Government bonds and in foreign exchange, that it exceeds the amount brought back in any similar short space of time in our financial history. As our bonds have got to come home some time for redemption, it may be well to have them drawn here by high prices, instead of being thrust upon us in a period of financial calamity.

The local money market has shown a steady tendency towards ease, and during the past few days large blocks of money have been freely offered to Government bond dealers at 4 per cent., while the range on miscellaneous stock collaterals has been 4 to 6 per cent. Commercial paper has also shown increased ease, and the choicest grades can be sold at 5½ per cent.—the range on strictly prime paper being 5½ to 7 per cent.

It was expected at one time that the Bank of England would reduce its discount rate at the weekly meeting on Thursday, but the exchanges between London and Paris afterward turned against an import of specie to the former city, so that the discount rate was left unchanged at 5 per cent.; bullion in the Bank increased £387,000 during the week. The Bank of France gained 3,161,000 francs in specie for the week.

The weekly statement of the New York City Clearing-House Banks, issued January 15th, showed an increase of $3,083,825 in the excess above their 25 per cent. legal reserve, the whole of such excess being $13,856,975, against $10,773,150, the previous week.

The following table shows the changes from the previous week and a comparison with 1875 and 1874:

United States Bonds.—Government bonds have been active and buoyant, and under the large demand prices have advanced fully 1 per cent on some of the leading issues. All the different classes of conservative investors have been represented among purchasers, and the financial institutions in New York, as well as savings banks out of town, have absorbed a large amount of bonds. The supply continues to be drawn from London and Germany, and although this movement may lead to a demand for coin to export, still there is no better sign than that our bonds are coming home in consequence of a strong demand for them here at higher prices than have ever before been reached.

State and Railroad Bonds.—In State bonds the highest prices have been made on Louisiana consols, which are 68½, bid, and, second to these, South Carolina consols, on which interest has previously been noticed for payment in February. The demand for Louisiana bonds comes largely from New Orleans, and indicates much confidence in these securities by parties within the State. Tennessees remain about steady. The following as to Missouri State bonds is from to-day's Tribune:

Bondholders of the State of Missouri complain that bonds of that State, issued on August 15, 1856, payable twenty years after their date, through the carelessness of the State officials of that time, have no coupon for interest due July 1, 1876, attached. The bondholders protested, but were compelled to take the bonds. The State officials of Missouri now say they will refuse to pay the interest due July 1st, because there is no coupon to represent it, though the bondholders have not yet detached that of January 1, 1876, which is the last, and by which it is conclusively shown that none for July 1, 1876, ever was attached. The bonds have been shown to the State authorities at Jefferson City, also to the fiscal agent of the State in this city, and the justice of the claim for a promise of payment of July interest was readily acknowledged by the latter.

District of Columbia 3·65s have been weak in consequence of the failure of Congress to make an appropriation for the February interest, and it has been rumored that default may be made.

In railroad bonds the business early in the week was somewhat checked by the more active movement in speculative stocks, which usually diverts attention to some extent from the bond market. Latterly there was more done in bonds, and prices to-day were very firm. Many of the leading issues of bonds have advanced considerably during the week, and are strongly held at the advance. At auction, $35,000 Toledo, Canada Southern & Detroit first mortgage bonds were sold at 51½@52⅝; $20,000 at 51½, and the other $15,000 in lots of $5,000 respectively at 51½@52 @52⅝; also $12,000 first mortgage bonds of Canada Southern at 61½.

Railroad and Miscellaneous Stocks.—The stock market has shown much general strength on the speculative list, and prices in some cases have marked a considerable advance. The prime cause for this new strength in the market is found in the prevailing confidence that railroad earnings during 1876 will show a material increase over 1875. Next to this, the most important influence is the change of sentiment in the West on the subject of railroad legislation, and the definite recommendation of the Governor of Wisconsin that the Potter law should be repealed, as this change of feeling renders the decision of the United States Supreme Court of less importance, although it may be against the railroad companies. Under the effect of these changes for the better in the prospects for railroad business, there has been a lively advance in many stocks, as seen in the record of prices below, and to-day the highest prices were generally reached, and at the close the market was strong.

* These figures include $34,175, the earnings of the Springfield division; earnings on main line were $307,317.

The following comparative estimated earnings of the Ohio & Mississippi Railway—transfers included—for the first week in January, is published in the newspapers:

|---|---|
| Main Line, 1876 | $69,233 80 |
| Springfield Division, 1876 | 6,788 75 |
| Increase first week in 1876 | $15,631 26 |

The increase comes from the increased rates on through business bound eastward. A further increase will result, it is said, from the increased rates of 100 to 150 per cent on through west-bound business, which did not go into effect until the 10th inst.

The New York office of the Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway is not yet in possession of all the items of the year's business, but furnishes the following comparative statement for 1874 and 1875, the company's fiscal year ending December 31:

EARNINGS AND EXPENSES.

The Gold Market.—Gold has been pretty steady in the vicinity of 113. No speculative or other movement of importance has been developed, but the large import of U. S. securities from abroad leads to the supposition that there will probably be an export demand for coin at an early day. On gold loans the rates paid to day for carrying were 4, 3 and 3½ per cent. Customs receipts of the week have been $2,245,000.

The following table will show the course of gold and operations of the Gold Exchange Bank each day of the past week:

Foreign Exchange.—The exchange market has been fairly active, and bankers took commercial bills freely up to yesterday, since which there has been less doing. The principal purchasers are the bankers, who are importing bonds from Europe, and they sell their own bills in place of these at a difference of about 2 points. Yesterday there was some speculative buying, but to-day these bills could hardly be disposed of at the prices paid for them, as the market was weaker and rates on actual business were about 4.84¾ for 60 days' sterling, while the nominal quotation remained unchanged at 4.84½.

Mr. F. W. Huidekoper, Chairman of the First Mortgage Bondholders Committee, has issued a circular, in which he says:

In pursuance of the privilege granted in July last by the U. S. Court of Illinois and Indiana, to the Committee of Bondholders to intervene in the Trustees suit of foreclosure (as stated in our circular of August 10, 1875), we filed on the 15th day of December, ult., an Intervening Petition in said suit which the Court received, and in accordance with our request to ascertain the facts therein stated, has referred it to a Master.

Davenport & St. Paul.—A despatch from Davenport, Iowa, Jan. 17, says: A telegram has been received in this city stating that the differences have been settled between the German and American bondholders of the Davenport & St. Paul Railroad, the former owning $4,000,000 of bonds and latter $500,000. Accordingly, advertisement of the sale of the road has been made, and the 2d of March fixed for the date of the sale, and to take place in Davenport,

Eastern Railroad, Mass.—At the adjourned meeting of the creditors of the Eastern Railroad, on Saturday, 15th inst., Francis E. Parker, chairman of the committee appointed to nominate three trustees, reported the names of the Hon. Charles Allen and Messrs. William P. Bacon and Willard P. Phillips for the position.

Dr. Estes Howe of Cambridge moved the acceptance of the report and that the three names be inserted in the proposed legislative act. This was carried, and afterwards the same gentleman moved that the plan be adopted and the former committee on nomination be authorized to present the matter to the legislature and petition for its adoption. This was also adopted.

Georgia State Bonds.—The Governor's Message says: The valid bonded debt of the State amounts to $8,005,500. The whole amount of outstanding bonds of the State declared null and void by legislative enactments, is $2,872,000. The amount of bonds classed by Mr. Bozeman as "invalid," is $473,250. The outstanding past due bonds of the State amount to $35,500. It is shown by the report that an amount of 6 per cent. bonds, not exceeding $375,000, was executed, probably in the year 1854, for the purpose of being exchanged for the outstanding bonds of the Central Bank. For some reason these bonds were never issued, but remained in the Treasury vault at Milledgeville until Nov., 1864, when, it is supposed, they fell into the hands of the Federal troops. A rumor exists that attempts have since been made to put them in circulation in a Western State. For the protection of the public against fraud and imposition, I recommended that appropriate action be taken, declaring these bonds null and void. The attention of the General Assembly is especially invited to that portion of Mr. Bozeman's report, which refers to the State bonds redeemed by Henry Clews & Co., as former financial agent of the State. It is shown that in the years 1870 and 1871, this agent redeemed bonds of the State amounting to $272,250, of which $98,250 were afterwards cancelled. The remaining $174,000, together with $800,000 of void currency bonds, and £15,000 of sterling bonds, which had also been redeemed, were, on the 13th day of December, 1873, sold by the said agent at public auction, in New York, on one day's notice. At the sale, the $174,000 of bonds mentioned were nominally bid off as follows, viz.: $156,000, by J. D. Hayes; $12,500, by the Misses Clews (said to be the sisters of Henry Clews), and $5,000 by Messrs. Chittenden & Hubbard. The amount realized from the sale of these bonds was $18,625. The sterling bonds and the void currency bonds mentioned were also disposed of for a trifling sum. It cannot be doubted that this pretended sale was a mere device resorted to for the purpose of obtaining a color of right for placing these already redeemed securities a second time upon the market. After the sale, they all went back into the control of Henry Clews & Co., and it is alleged that, early in the spring of 1874, a portion of the same bonds, amounting to $149,250, was presented at the Treasury of Georgia, and again redeemed by the late Treasurer. It has not yet been ascertained when or by whom these bonds were thus presented for payment. The late Treasurer himself declares his inability to give any information whatever upon these points.

I would respectfully call the attention of the General Assembly to the following extract from my last annual message: "To prevent the injury to the public interest likely to result from any unauthorized or unlawful negotiation of our securities, I would suggest that all the bonds recognized as legal and binding on the State, issued during the late administration, be withdrawn from circulation, and that other bonds of similar amount and of proper tenor and effect, be issued in lieu thereof." The reasons which induced me to submit this recommendation at the last session still exist, and make it my duty here to renew it. For causes needless to be mentioned, the bonds issued during the late administration are not equal in value to our other public securities. It is manifestly to the interest of the State that all her bonded obligations should, as nearly as practicable, be made of equal value in the markets of the world. It will be remembered that a large amount of the gold quarterly bonds of the State in the hands of Messrs. Clews & Co., have been declared null and void by legislative enactment. Coupons of these bonds, amounting to $2,625, it is alleged, have already been presented and redeemed during the administration of the late Treasurer.

Hartford Providence & Fishkill.—The bonds issued by this company and held by the City of Providence became due Jan. 1. On that date the New York & New England Company tendered to the City Treasurer the amount of the bonds, and demanded the surrender of the same. The Treasurer offered to receive the money on deposit and to give credit for the same, but refused to surrender the bonds, and the Mayor also refused when the same tender and demand were made to him. The coupons were paid by the trustees in possession of the road. The City Council approved of the action taken by the Mayor and Treasurer, and directed that the trustees under the mortgage be notified to take steps at once to foreclose the mortgage.

Maysville & Lexington.—The sale of the Northern Division has been approved by the Court, and the property has been duly transferred and deeded to the bondholders for whose account it was bought. The receiver, Mr. John T. Wilson, delivered possession of the property, January 1st, to Colonel Anderson, who will manage it for the present as agent for the owners.

New Jersey Midland.—The committee having in charge the Balestier plan of re-organization has issued a circular stating that $1,500,000 in bonds have been surrendered. In view of the opposition made to the plan, the committee has extended the time for surrender of bonds to Feb. 1, up to which time holders desiring to join in the plan may deposit their bonds, with the assessment of ½ per cent, with the Central Trust Company, No. 14 Nassau street, New York. The committee say that the condition of the road is improving under the management of the receivers, who are in accord with their plan, and are working for the interests of the bondholders.

From examination of the road and the receivers' books, the presiding liabilities and needs of the company are ascertained to be $529,000.

A careful estimate made by the engineer is that it will require to put the road in good order, $75,000 for filling in trestles, $25,000 for masonry and $12,000 for bridges, in all $112,000.

There are two unsettled claims, which must be adjudicated in the courts, one for the use of the Hudson connecting road under a lease, the other a lien on the equipment given by C. A. Wortendyke as President. The committee believe that the prior mortgage for $500,000 will be sufficient for immediate needs, and that the rest of the money required will be provided by the net earnings of the road.

The names of this committee are as follows: D. B. Halstead, Charles H. Burtis, Nathaniel Dole, Smith Ely, Jr., New York; William S. Banta, Hackensack, N. J.; John J. Brown, Paterson, N. J.; Grinnell Burt, Warwick, N. Y.; J. F. Hull, Poughkepsie, N. Y.; Henry Whelen, Philadelphia; S. E. Olmstead, Norwalk, Conn.; J. M. Meech, Norwich, Conn.; E. S. Francis, Pittsfield, Mass.; J. N. Balestier, Brattleboro, Vt. The Secretary of the Committee is H. P. Dechert, whose office is at No. 138 Chambers street, New York.

—Mr. Alexander Main of this city, in behalf of the other party of bondholders, has issued a counter-statement, in which he says that no such amount as above estimated is required by the road. He says that the taxes are not a pressing liability; that the dues for right of way can be adjusted for $40,000 and be paid out of the net earnings; that the receivers have borrowed only $18,000; that only $30,000 worth of rolling stock is needed, and that this can be leased on favorable terms; that the receivers have so repaired the Dundee bridge that it will last for four years; and that all needed filling, masonry and bridges can be paid for out of the ordinary earnings of the road. The circular continues:

"We are informed by the receivers that if the bondholders will furnish $200,000, by taking that amount of their certificates, they can provide for all pressing liabilities, and that the road will show good net earnings in cash from this time onward, sufficient to pay the interest on the certificates and all deferred claims, and also the principal on the certificates as they mature.

"Their statement of six months' net earnings, $32,215 51, gives an unfair impression of the capacity of the road.

"The following are the receivers' returns for the last five months to December 1st inst.:

| | Gross earnings. | Net earnings. |
|---|---|---|
| July | $45,854 39 | $10,864 40 |
| August | 53,610 18 | 11,598 81 |
| September | 60,186 67 | 13,199 95 |
| October | 53,260 22 | 8,314 50 |
| November | 59,307 48 | 15,613 86 |

"The receivers say that in the 'operating expenses,are included considerable amounts for labor and materials used for the permanent betterment of the mortgaged property, and which are properly chargeable to the equipment and construction accounts.'"

Ohio Railroads in 1875.—The ninth annual report of the Ohio Commissioner of Railroads and Telegraphs includes returns from the various companies for the year ending June 30, 1875. One company, the Whitewater Valley, only a very small part of whose road is in the State, failed to report, but its mileage is included in the general statement. The following figures are obtained from the report:

| | In Ohio. | Total reported. |
|---|---|---|
| Mileage of main line | 4,567 93 | 8,222 00 |
| Mileage second tracks and sidings | 1,190 36 | 2,181 00 |

| Interest paid | ..... | $13,376,985 08 |
| Dividends paid | ..... | 6,377,791 00 |

The track laid in the State was increased during the year by 83·5 of main line, and 48·5 miles of second track and sidings. The total mileage reported for is increased by 413 miles, most of which is accounted for by the completion of the Baltimore Pittsburgh & Chicago and the acquisition of the Springfield Division by the Ohio & Mississippi. There are 1,432·5 miles laid with steel rails. Six companies have lines in progress whose aggregate length when completed will be 1,294 miles, of which 130 are graded. The sum of $1,882,702 75 has been expended on these lines.

As compared with the preceding year, there was a decrease of $6,432,868 84, about 11 per cent, in gross, and of $2,272,482 43, a little over 11 per cent, in net earnings of all the mileage reporting. The net earnings were about 3 per cent on the total stock and debt. Deducting the mileage not reported for, the earnings, &c., given, were from 7,489 miles of main track.

The equipment has changed but little during the year, there being an increase of 22 engine, of 31 baggage, and 20 passenger cars, and a decrease of 22 sleeping cars and 764 freight cars, with and increase of 70 other cars.

There are 7,419¼ miles of telegraph lines reported, with offices at 1,102 stations. The passenger and freight stations number 1,727, and 48,216 persons are reported as employees, of whom 27,716 are in the State.

Panama Railroad.—The New York World says: At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Panama Railroad Company, held on Thursday, a report of the Secretary and Treasurer was submitted, showing the earnings of 1875. The following is an extract from the report:

"For the year 1874 the gross earnings of the road from freight and passenger traffic were $1,592,831 69, while in 1875 they were $1,387,219 71—some $200,000 less in 1875 than in 1874. The tonnage transported in 1875 was about 48,000 tons less than in 1874. This loss, both in gross earnings and in tonnage, was chiefly on traffic between New York and San Francisco, as will be found upon an examination of the analysis of the freight traffic done by the road for the various steam lines centring at the Isthmus.

"While, however, the gross earnings of the road alone were $200,000 less in 1875 than in 1874, the net earnings of the company were $59,630 67 more. This is accounted for by the reduction of expenses on the Isthmus and in New York."

It was also stated, as we learn from a director who attended the meeting, upon authority of President Park's personal inspection and reports of the offices in charge of the road, that the Panama Railroad was never in better physical condition than at the close of the year 1875.

After Judge Donohue had granted the injunction restraining the Panama Company from running steamers of its own on the New York and California route, the Panama directors authorized a committee to see what could be done towards having a new steamship line put on the route. Mr. Park and Mr. C. G. Francklyn have worked on this matter diligently, and we understand that arrangements are on the point of completion; a contract having been made orally, and the necessary papers being nearly ready for signature. This contract would, we presume, prevent the Panama Railroad Company from running a steamship line of its own between this city and San Francisco, even if the injunction should be dissolved on the appeal which was argued before the General Term of the Supreme Court.

The Pacific Mail Company to-day paid to the Panama Company the sum of $50,000, on account of moneys borrowed of it upon sundry steamships. The Panama people state that the Pacific Mail Company owes them, on freights collected for Panama account, a sum four or five times as large as that, and delays payment for reasons which are not made satisfactory.

St. Louis and South-Eastern.—In the foreclosure suit of Calhoun & Opdyke, trustees, vs. The St. Louis and South-Eastern Railroad Company, pending in the United States Circuit Court, H. W. Smithers of London and F. W. Oervel and Wertheim & Gompertz of Amsterdam, Holland, applied by their counsel to be made parties defendants, as representing upward of $2,000,000 of the first mortgage bonds—a prior lien to the consolidated bonds. The petition was allowed, order entered, and answer filed.

St. Paul & Pacific.—The Amsterdam committee announced Dec. 24, that the company had accepted the slight modifications of the plan of arrangement made at the bondholders' meeting; also that the certificates of the committee as well as the original bonds would be received in payment of lands. The committee also reported that the company had made proposals with regard to the St. Vincent and Brainerd extensions, but that they were of such a nature as that the committee could not agree with them. The committee was inclined to await new proposals, at the same time continuing the foreclosure suit.

According to § 7 of the arrangement, the following trustees have been appointed: Geo. S. Coe, John S. Barnes, New York; Edwin C. Litchfield, Brooklyn, N. Y; John Carp, Utrecht, Holland; J. C. de Vries, Solicitor, Amsterdam. The two latter are appointed by the Amsterdam bondholders' committee.

Spartanburg & Union.—The South Carolina Supreme Court has affirmed the decision of the lower court that the bonds, unpaid coupons and interest on the coupons, are to be paid without preference, and pro rata out of the proceeds of the sale of the road, and that the judgment of $30,000 existing before the indorsement of the bonds by the State, and claimed to have been postponed, does not have a lien in preference to the bonds and coupons.

Toledo Wabash and Western.—The Daily Bulletin says of the foreclosure suit under the consolidated mortgage: "The case will not, however, be reached in Illinois till early in February, at which time the stockholders say that whatever opposition is attempted will be developed. Should the gold bondholders succeed in the suit and obtain a decree of sale in the other two States, the stockholders will still have a right to redeem the property for a period of about fifteen months after the sale. The interest of the parties concerned in this city is very large, and while the Committee of the gold bondholders have defined their position in a recently published statement, the other side are very reticent in regard to their line of defence."

Virginia Financial Proposition.—The Richmond Whig says the advantages to the State of Virginia to be derived from the acceptance of the offer made by the British bondholders through General Taylor, as presented by him and as it understands them, are substantially as follows, (the term of three years is taken, and the debt is divided into consolidated, or tax receivable, and non-consolidated):

|---|---|---|
| The non-consolidated debt amounts to | | $10,000,000 |
| Interest at six per cent (currency) | | 600,000 |
| Interest proposed on same by new bonds at three per cent, payable in gold | $300,000 | |
| Premium on gold, say 15 | 45,000— | 345,000 |
| Saved to the State annually | | $255,000 |
| Consolidated debt | | $20,000,000 |
| Interest 6 per cent (currency) | | 1,200,000 |
| On new bond, 4½ (gold) | $900,000 | |
| Premium on gold, 15 | 135,000— | 1,035,000 |
| Saved annually | | $165,000 |
| Annual saving for three years | | 420,600 |
| Total saving for three years | | $1,260,000 |

The interest on new bonds to be offered for "consols" is put at 4½, as the British holder of these securities now realizes 4½ gold. The higher rate of interest would ensure exchange, especially as the new bonds would in a few years carry 5 per cent interest.

Messrs. Thos. Branch & Co., bankers in Richmond, say in their circular of Jan. 15:

The funding of the old debt into new consols continues slowly. The figures are as follows:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Consols carrying tax-paying coupons | $18,881,500 | |
| Consols registered convertible into above | 1,355,500— | $20,237,000 |
| Peelers (coupons not receivable) | | 2,731,000 |
| Unfunded (all classes) | | 6,334,000 |
| Total debt (excluding $15,000,000 West Virginia) | | $29,302,000 |

The market for tax-paying coupons has been steadily maintained at 84 in January and July, up to 90 toward the end of the half year. $820,000 were taken in for taxes last year. Two-thirds of the interest on the balance of the debt has been paid up to July, 1874, but $200,000 had to be borrowed from the banks to make this payment. The estimated cash revenues of the State for the current year do not exceed the estimated expenses, hence no payment can be made on account of interest unless the taxes shall be increased.

COMMERCIAL EPITOME.

FRIDAY NIGHT, Jan. 21, 1876.

There have been no new features presented in trade matters. The volume of business is still quite moderate and speculation is fitful, showing at times much timidity. The leading circumstances that should influence the future of prices are so ill-defined and uncertain in their character that few are willing to trust to any definite view that may be taken of them. A long session of Congress, in which laws of doubtful expediency may be enacted, the excitements of a Presidential canvass and the Centennial festivities, are all before us, and contribute to the feeling of uncertainty which seems to prevail among business men.

The speculation in provisions has been very quiet, except for lard, in which there has been a brisk business at declining prices; prime Western steam selling to-day at 12 15-16c. for spot and February deliveries, 12 15-16c. for March, and 13 1-16c. for April, but at the close there were no sellers at these prices. Pork, bacon and cut meats are not quotably lower, but selling slowly. Beef and beef hams have ruled firm, but with less activity or buoyancy. Tallow has continued to droop, and at the close is not salable at over 9⅛@9¼c. for prime. Butter and cheese have ruled very firm. The following is a comparative statement of foreign exports of hog products from the undermentioned places, from October 30 to January 15:

Rio coffee has been more active, at higher prices; fair prime cargoes 18@19¼c., gold; but the close is rather quiet, the stock at this market being still 183,800 bags, and the visible supply for the United States no less than 470,700 bags. Mild coffees have also been fairly active at old prices, but stocks remain large; 100,500 mats Java, and 10,300 mats and 46,700 bags of other growths. Rice has been dull, and Rangoon is lower, at 2½@2¾c., gold, in bond, with a stock of 9,000 mats. Teas have been quiet, but prices are about steady. Foreign fruits are without feature of moment. Molasses has been quiet for foreign and irregular for domestic, the low grades of which have declined. Raw sugars have ruled dull and nearly nominal, at 8¼c. for good refining; refined lower and more active, at 10¾c. for standard crushed. The movement in raws has been:

* In shipboard at Galveston to-night, not cleared: For Liverpool, 16,269 bales for other foreign, 11,4?2 bales; for coastwise ports, 2,249 bales.
† The exports this week under the head of "other ports" include from Baltimore 363 bales to Liverpool; from Boston 590 bales to Liverpool; from Philadelphia 2,132 bales to Liverpool and 450 bales to Antwerp; from Norfolk 1,515 bales to Liverpool.

☞ Our telegram from New Orleans to-night shows that besides the above exports the amount of cotton on shipboard, and engaged for shipment at that port, is as follows: For Liverpool, 60,000 bales; for Havre, 32,000 bales; for Continent, 47,000 bales; for coastwise ports, 6,000 bales; total, 145,000 bales; which, if deducted from the stock, would leave 179,500 bales representing the quantity at the landing and in presses unsold or awaiting orders.]

From the foregoing statement it will be seen that, compared with the corresponding week of last season, there is an increase in the exports this week of 10,111 bales, while the stocks to-night are 2,515 bales less than they were at this time a year ago. These mail returns do not correspond precisely with the total of the telegraphic figures, because in preparing them it is always necessary to incorporate every correction made at the ports.

The market has been quiet for cotton on the spot, and the only feature to be noted in the past week is the revision of quotations which was made on Monday last, as follows: Of the regular grades, strict ordinary and good ordinary were reduced 3 16c., strict good ordinary was reduced ¼c., low middling was reduced 1-16c.; other grades unchanged; and of stained, good ordinary was reduced ¼c., strict good ordinary and low middling reduced ½c., while middling was unchanged. There has been some business done in transit cottons, but the leading demand has been for consumption. There have been fluctuations at Liverpool, and in gold and exchange, but without much effect. To-day, the market was more steady, with a fair business, mainly in low grades, for export.

For future delivery the fluctuations have been slight, but have exhibited some irregularity, the later months tending downward and the early months steady, with January a fraction higher. The advance which took place on Tuesday was due to a demand from out-of-town operators to cover their contracts; but there was a re-action on Wednesday, which continued until the close of Thursday's business, when a steadier feeling was noted. There seems to be an expectation among many operators that receipts at the ports during a portion, at least, of February will not be much greater, and possibly show a falling off, as compared with the corresponding period last year. The receipts at the ports for the three weeks ending February 12, 1875, were 330,000 bales, against 273,000 for the three weeks preceding, and no greater falling off in the receipts than has taken place this week will be necessary to bring the results of the next three weeks below those of last year. Such strength as the market has from time to time developed has been due to the point above set forth. To-day there was an active demand to cover contracts, and prices recovered fully ½c., but the close was dull and a little weak.

The total sales for forward delivery for the week are 125,700 bales, including —— free on board. For immediate delivery the total sales foot up this week 7,676 bales, including 3,257 for export, 3,098 for consumption, 321 for speculation, and 1,000 in transit. Of the above, —— bales were to arrive. The following are the closing quotations:

These figures indicate an increase in the cotton in sight to-night of 114,653 bales as compared with the same date of 1875, an increase of 114,553 bales as compared with the corresponding date of 1874, and an increase of 500,058 bales as compared with 1873.

AT THE INTERIOR PORTS the movement—that is the receipts and shipments for the week and stock to-night, and for the corresponding week of 1875—is set out in detail in the following statement:

The above totals show that the old interior stocks have increased during the week 2,014 bales, and are to-night 18,332 bales less than at the same period last year. The receipts have been 4,956 bales more than the same week last year.

BOMBAY SHIPMENTS.—According to our cable despatch received to-day, there have been —— bales shipped from Bombay to Great Britain the past week, and —— bales to the Continent; while the receipts at Bombay during the same time have been —— bales. The movement since the 1st of January is as follows. These are the figures of W. Nicol & Co., of Bombay, and are brought down to Thursday, Jan. 20:

|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Great Britain. | Continent. | Total. | Great Britain. | Continent. | Total. | This week. | Since Jan. 1. |
| 1876 | No report received | | | | | | | |
| 1875 | 5,000 | 12,000 | 17,000 | 23,000 | 29,000 | 52,000 | 30,000 | 80,000 |

From the foregoing it would appear that, compared with last year, there is an increase of —— bales this year in the week's shipments from Bombay to Europe, and that the total movement since January 1 shows a decrease in shipments of —— bales compared with the corresponding period of 1874.

WEATHER REPORTS BY TELEGRAPH.—There has been considerable rain throughout the South the past week, especially in parts of Texas and other Southwestern States, and along the Mississippi Valley; our Shreveport telegram speaks of the rain interfering with the movement of the crop. There is much cotton yet to be sent to market in the Southwest.

Galveston, Texas.—The movement of cotton continues free, and there is still an active demand for bagging and ties. We had showers on two days, but the rainfall only reached eighty-five hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 61, the highest being 72 and the lowest 47

Indianola, Texas.—There was rain here on three days, with a rainfall of one inch and twenty four hundredths. The thermometer has averaged 61, the highest being 74 and the lowest 48.

Corsicana, Texas.—We are having too much rain. There have been five days which were showery or drizzling, the rainfall reaching one inch and eighty-eight hundredths. The crop is being marketed freely from compulsion, though the planters are discouraged at the prices. The thermometer has averaged 50, the highest being 67 and the lowest 35.

New Orleans, Louisiana.—There were two rainy days here the past week, the rainfall reaching one inch and sixty-nine hundredths. The thermometer has averaged 58.

Shreveport, Louisiana.—It rained here Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday mornings, the rainfall reaching a total of four and fifty-four hundredths inches. The consequent bad roads prevent receipts. The thermometer has averaged 54, the extreme range being 36 and 67.

Vicksburg, Mississippi.—The rainfall this week was ninety hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 58, the highest being 73 and the lowest 29.

Columbus, Mississippi.—The weather has been cold all the week; on two days it rained, the rainfall reaching one inch and thirty eight hundredths. The thermometer has averaged 53, the highest being 70 and the lowest 37.

Little Rock, Arkansas.—It rained here the past week from Friday to Tuesday almost incessantly, the rainfall footing up seven inches and fourteen hundredths. Average thermometer 49, highest 62 and lowest 32.

Nashville, Tennessee.—It rained heavily on three days the past week, the rainfall aggregating four inches and eleven hundredths. The thermometer has averaged 40, the highest being 54 and the lowest 26.

Memphis, Tennessee.—There has been rain here on five days, the rainfall aggregating five inches and thirty-two hundredths. Average thermometer during the week 48; extreme range 54 to 40.

Mobile, Alabama.—One day the past week was rainy and two were cloudy, but the remaining four days were pleasant. The thermometer has averaged 54, the highest being 71 and the lowest 32. Total rainfall one inch and eighteen hundredths Planters are sending cotton to market freely.

Montgomery, Alabama.—The early part of the past week we had rain on two days, the rainfall reaching two inches and thirty-one hundredths. Since then it has been pleasant. Average thermometer during the week 52, highest 73 and lowest 27.

Selma, Alabama.—We had one rainy day this week, the rainfall reaching one inch and fifty-four hundredths. The thermometer has averaged 51.

Madison, Florida.—Telegram not received.

Macon, Georgia.—It has rained here on one day, the thermometer averaging 51, and ranging from 20 to 75.

Atlanta, Georgia.—There was rain on one day constantly this week, the rainfall reaching one inch and sixty-two hundredths. The thermometer has averaged 46, the highest being 68 and the lowest 20.

Columbus, Georgia.—We had rain one day during the week, the rainfall reaching two inches and twelve hundredths. Average thermometer 51, highest 70 and lowest 26.

Savannah, Georgia.—There was one rainy day here the past week, but the rest of the week was pleasant. The rainfall was one inch and twenty-four hundredths. The thermometer averaged 54, the highest being 64 and the lowest 43.

Augusta, Georgia.—The weather the past week has been cool and pleasant. There was a heavy rain one day, the rainfall reaching fifty-four hundredths of an inch. The average thermometer was 44, highest 72 and lowest 22.

Charleston, South Carolina.—We had rain on one day here this week, and ice formed one day. The thermometer has averaged 52, ranging from 28 to 70, and the rainfall has reached twenty-four hundredths of an inch.

The following statement we have also received by telegraph showing the height of the rivers at the points named at 3 o'clock Jan. 20. We give last year's figures (Jan. 22, 1875) for comparison.

| | Jan. 20, '76. | | Jan. 22, '75. | |

New Orleans reported below high-water mark of 1871 until Sept. 9, 1874, when the zero of gauge was changed to high-water mark of April 15 and 16, 1874, which is 6-10ths of a foot above 1871, or 16 feet above low-water mark at that point.

OUR COTTON CROP ESTIMATES.—We continue to receive requests for a detailed estimate of the crop, such as we have prepared in former years. As some of our friends may have overlooked our item in the cotton report, for the week ending Jan. 7, (see CHRONICLE, page 45, Jan. 8), we repeat that it is not our intention to give any such estimate this year. We have no reason for omitting it except as stated in the item referred to.

Our readers already have sufficient facts to enable them to form a pretty fair judgment upon the subject. If they will go back to our acreage report (CHRONICLE, June 12, 1875, page 558), they will find (1) that our investigations at that time showed an enlarged planting; we put it down, then, at 3½ per cent, stating that the "tendency everywhere was toward an increased acreage," and that our figures were the minimum; (2) that the increase in "commercial" fertilizers was about 30 per cent, besides a much larger preparation and preservation of "home made" manures; (3) that since the War there had never been a more perfect stand and promising crop than this one was last June. We would like our readers to look over that report, for we never used more care and labor in obtaining the facts for any cotton paper; we think it will help one to reach a fair conclusion now. Further, we feel perfectly safe in repeating what we said two weeks ago, that, on the first of September, a very large crop, not less than four and a half million bales, was in the fields. This much our investigations show. And although the picking season has not equaled 1875, yet we cannot conceive it possible that less than 4,200,000 bales should have been secured, and, not unlikely, considerable more. We have not sought or obtained full returns upon this latter point; our opinion, therefore, is based mainly upon the facts we have set out above, and our observation of the weather and work since September 1. We are constantly, however, receiving letters from our friends—several this week—all of which point to the same conclusion—a large crop.

LINT vs. SEED COTTON.—The following letter makes some clever suggestions on a point that has puzzled many:

NEW YORK, January 12, 1876.

To the Editor of Commercial and Financial Chronicle.

Dear Sir:

We desire to recall you to the last Agricultural Bureau Cotton Report, and to that part of it, "The Atlantic States, which have previously made low "estimates of aggregate production, all return a smaller proportion of lint to "seed, in comparison with the previous crop, and none of them over thirty "pounds to each hundred pounds of seed. The average decrease in all of the "States is 4 per cent."

The following has occurred to us upon this point, and we send our deductions as a query:—

With the same labor as last year, and an equal number of picking days, we should have sent to market 2,174 bales (up to to-day), or 90,000 bales less than last year, on account of the 4 per cent. loss in lint cotton. Instead of this, we find ourselves 330,000 bales ahead in receipts (or, with the deduction that the Bureau would make, 420,000 bales ahead). To accomplish this, the same number of hands in the field as in 1874-5 would have to work 1¾ hours longer every day, or pick 18¾ per cent. more in lbs., than hitherto, in the same time, or else, we must have had a larger force harvesting—one man to every five, more than we had last year. Or, is it that each plant, producing more, saved the laborer's steps and time by finding his bag full within a shorter radius?

We state all this, assuming that the favorable days for out-door work have been equal to last year; but we know that from the inclemency of the weather we have lost from twenty to twenty-five picking days. It is therefore necessary to believe one of four things:

1st. That the Southern help has become so efficient that he is able to make up for lost time, enforced or otherwise. The indulgence of the negro is proverbial; but has their laziness been so great heretofore, that with ordinary exertion they can accomplish so much more in a given time?

2d. That reinforcements have come and immigration set in, in the nick of time, and in sufficient numbers to add to field and gin.

3d. That 4 per cent. loss for lint cotton is correct, and that one of the two foregoing suppositions must be a fact.

4th. That the planter was aware of his loss, and, to give us our enormous surplus (against his own interest), has robbed his bales, preferring to see an increase in their number to the detriment of their bulk. On an average bale of 450 lbs, this peculation would amount to 67 lbs. Have we suffered this short weight?

We find something hard to reconcile somewhere, and ask you for an explanation.

Yours truly, M. L. S.

There is, we fancy, one weak point in our correspondent's deductions which some will question; that is, they are made on the supposition that what has been marketed up to a certain date of the two years represents, or bears the same relation to, the total picked. This it will be claimed may or may not be true.

Included in the above totals are from New York 375 bales to Hamburg; from New Orleans, 422 bales to Vera Cruz.

MOBILE, Jan. 12—188 bales of cotton were lost from a lighter in the lower bay during a squall to-day. 14th—Most of the cotton has been recovered.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 16.—Pilot boat Oriental picked up at sea yesterday, 14 miles southeast from the bar, 10 bales of cotton; pilot-boat Ella also picked up 6 bales, and pilot-boat Haze 2 bales. Bark Galatea, which arrived to-day, reports a bark in same direction, hove to and picking up cotton. The cotton shows signs of fire. Probably part of the cargo of a lighter that capsized in Mobile Bay on the 13th.

DARIEN, str. (Br.), which arrived at Liverpool after being ashore near Bardsey Island, in Cardigan Bay, had discharged her cargo Dec. 29, about 300 bales of cotton, more or less injured by sea water. The vessel was placed in dry dock and examined and surveyed. The damage to the planking along the whole line of the flat of bottom was considerable, and the cost of repairs likely to be heavy. A Board of Trade inquiry held at Liverpool, to investigate the stranding of the steamer, adjudged, upon the evidence given, the master gravely in fault, and suspended Capt. Shaw's certificate for six months.

DUNHAM, str. (Br.), from New Orleans for Liverpool, came out of dry dock at Savannah Jan. 10, with new shaft supplied, and commenced re-loading.

SALIER, str. (Ger.), Francke, from New York Jan. 6 via Southampton for Bremen, ran on the Brambles 17th and remained until A.M. of the 18th, when she floated at high water at 4 A.M., and proceeded for destination.

JUVENTA, ship (Br.), France, from Mobile Dec. 18 with 3,610 bales cotton for Liverpool, put into Key West Jan. 15 leaking badly.

LILLIE SOULLARD, ship, from Charleston, collided in the Mersey Jan. 2, with bark Northern Chief, for New York, and sustained slight damage to upper works and rigging.

MARCIA GREENLEAF, ship, Bunker, from New Orleans for Liverpool, put into Queenstown Jan. 14 leaky.

WYOMING—The Venus, fishing smack, of Cowes, arrived at Shoreham Dec. 30, reports having been run into while dredging, Beachy Head ENE, 20 miles, by the ship Wyoming, of Philadelphia, from New Orleans for Antwerp, when she had mainsail much torn and considerable damage to hull.

RHONE, brig (Br.), from New Orleans for Bremen, before reported as having put into Nieuwa Diep leaky, after touching on the Texel coast, was discharging Jan. 12 having six feet of water in her hold.

HARTSTENE, schr.—Advices from the schr. Hartsteene (531 tons, of New York), McNair, from Charleston for Reval, which has been reported towed into Elsinore after being ashore, state that the report of her having been got off was incorrect, and that the vessel will be a total loss, as she had broken up Dec. 27; cargo (cotton) mostly saved.

I. S. & L. C. ADAMS, schr., Samson, from New Orleans for Naples, at Key West short of water, put in Jan. 5 to procure a supply and repair water-tanks, which had leaked out. She sailed 8th for destination.

RUTH H. BAKER, schr., Collins, from New Orleans for New York, with cotton, arrived at Key West Jan. 13, with pumps disabled, and in want of new ones.

THOS. P. BALL, schr., Ryder, from Galveston Jan. 3 for Liverpool, put into Key West Jan 10, with foremast sprung. A new foremast was despatched from New York Jan. 15 for the T. P. Ball by steamer Clyde.

Market dull.

BREADSTUFFS.

FRIDAY, P. M., January 21, 1876

The flour market has, on the whole, been rather dull the past week, and prices have slightly declined, especially for the low and medium grades. Some of the better grades, such as good bakers' brands, from spring wheat and choice Southern and St. Louis family brands, have been supported by special influences, and have ruled with much firmness. Good lines of shipping extra State have been readily obtainable at $5 25, and not in much demand. Rye flour and corn meal have also declined. Supplies of flour and meal are moderate at all points, but there is an absence of demand. To-day the market was dull and prices drooping.

The wheat market has been dull, and prices have lost a portion of the late advance; the decline from the highest point this month was yesterday about 2c. per bushel. The urgency of demand for fine reds, for shipment to the Continent and to English outports, has subsided, while the failure of a Liverpool house has embarrassed trade in that direction. Holders have, consequently, shown more disposition to realize, and probably would reduce stocks to a considerable extent if they could do so without making too much reduction. The sales of yesterday embraced No. 1 Canada Club, in bond, at $1 35; No. 2 Milwaukee at $1 24, and No. 3 do at $1 11, afloat. To-day, the market favored buyers, with little done.

Indian corn was pressed on the market, and prices gradually gave way, until prime new mixed sold at 62½@63c., and yellow at 63@64c., with prime old mixed at 70c., afloat, when the demand became active for export and home use, and the first named quality recovered yesterday to 63@63½c., with some speculation, and sales for February delivery at 63c. Current prices are regarded as safe, and it is thought that current supplies cannot be kept up at higher prices. To-day, the market was weak, and closed at 62½@62¾c. for prime new mixed.

Rye has been dull, with prices nominally as last quoted; bids have been somewhat reduced, however, and the close may be called weak. Barley has been pressed for sale, and lower prices have been accepted. Many holders, however, refuse to sell at any decline, and the close is more steady. Barley malt has also favored buyers. Canada peas have sold to a limited extent, at $1 02 in bond. Oats have favored buyers, and at some concession there has been a more liberal movement, closing yesterday with some recovery at 45½@45¾c. for No. 3 mixed, and 47@47½c. for No. 2 do.

The following are closing quotations:

NOTE.—In last week's statement there were 450,000 bushels wheat credited as stock in Racine, per advice of a Western correspondent. Mr. J. W. Langhan, Secretary of the Milwaukee Chamber of Commerce, since advises that the stock in Racine is comprised in statement of stock in Milwaukee. It is consequently omitted this week.

THE DRY GOODS TRADE.

FRIDAY, P. M., Jan. 21, 1876.

This week there has been a slight improvement in the demand for spring goods, by jobbers from distant parts of the country, but as a rule business has continued quiet with the package houses. The Texas and California trade was represented by an increased number of buyers, whose operations were liberal in amount, and most of the resident buyers for the larger Western jobbers returned to the market, but bought very few goods, as their December purchases have not yet passed into the channels of distribution. City and local jobbers pursued the same apathetic course which has characterized their action for some time past, and their purchases were restricted to such small lots of prints, ginghams, fine cassimeres, etc., as were actually required for replenishing their stocks on hand. The clothing trade bought sparingly of the most staple woolen fabrics, and foreign dry goods dragged heavily. In cotton goods the export movement was fairly satisfactory, and during the week 732 packages were shipped to different markets—Liverpool, Hayti and Venezuela taking the largest amounts.

DOMESTIC COTTON GOODS.—Brown cottons were in moderate request, and deliveries on account of previous orders have almost absorbed the production of leading makes of heavy standards and fine browns. Bleached shirtings were distributed in liberal amounts, most attention having been paid to such makes as New York Mills, Utica Nonpareil, Wamsutta, Davol, Fruit of the Loom, Lonsdale, &c., which are selling much below their real value, and will probably be subjected to an advance before long. Corset jeans and satteens met with fair sales and ruled firm. Colored cottons of all descriptions were quiet but steady. Cottonades were taken rather more freely by the clothing trade and Western jobbers, and the best makes were firmly held. Rolled jacconets, cambrics and silesias moved in small lots but were not active. Grain bags remained quiet and nominal. Carpet warps showed more animation and could have been sold in large quantities at a concession from holding rates. Print cloths were quiet at 4½c.—30 days—for extra 64x64 makes, and a few small lots were disposed of by weak holders at 4c., cash. Prints of new plaid styles and in medium colors were distributed in fair amounts to the general trade, and Southern buyers made considerable purchases of light prints shirtings and cambrics. The Southbridge prints were opended at 7c., and Richmonds at 7¼c. regular. Ginghams were more active, and plain and fancy cotton hosiery met with liberal sales.

DOMESTIC WOOLEN GOODS.—Although the clothing trade was well represented in the market, buyers evinced some hesitancy in their operations, which were mainly restricted to small parcels of cassimeres and worsted coatings. The leading cloth jobbers placed a fair amount of orders for new styles of fine and medium grade fancy cassimeres, suitings, and worsted coatings to be delivered next month, but their purchases for immediate sales were very high. Cloths moved slowly, and there was only a limited demand for black doeskins. Black and mixed satinets ruled quiet, but there was a well-sustained demand for printed styles Kentucky jeans were in moderate request, and low grades were disposed of to a considerable aggregate amount. Flannels continued quiet, except plain white all-wool makes and dometts, which were sold in fair lots. Carpets met with increased attention, and large orders for ingrains were received by the leading agents at a reduction of 2½@5c. per yard from the closing rates of last fall. Worsted dress goods were in fair demand by California and other distant buyers, but the Western and near-by trade have not yet commenced operations in these fabrics.

FOREIGN DRY GOODS.—The market for imported fabrics continued very quiet, and no movement of importance is expected until importers are in a position to open their new spring styles of dress goods, silks, etc., which will probably be early next month. Black alpacas and pure mohairs were rather lower, but black cashmeres and other plain all-wool textures maintained their value. Dress linens were in good demand by suit manufacturers, and clothing linens were in moderate request, but shirting and housekeeping makes remained inactive. White goods and Hamburg embroideries were more sought for by manufacturers but sales were light. Dress and millinery silks continued quiet in first hands, and there was little doing in velvets or ribbons. Kid gloves were in steady demand, and the best makes are firmly held by importers.

We annex prices of a few articles of domestic manufacture:

Ten Per Cent.

On Mortgage Security.

Having been engaged for the past 12 years in investing money at ten per cent interest, on farm property in Illinois, we have now opened a branch office at Council Bluffs, Iowa. The amount of loans placed by us have exceeded $4,500,000 without the loss of a single dollar to the investors.

Iowa has entered upon a career of wonderful, and, we believe, permanent prosperity. During 1874 Iowa farmers raised more wheat, corn and hogs than any other State in the Union.

The demand for loans is active, and we are receiving large numbers of choice applications for sums ranging from $500 to $10,000, on from three to five years time.

The Cotton States

IN THE SPRING AND SUMMER OF 1875

By CHARLES NORDHOFF.

1 vol. 8vo, paper covers, Price Fifty Cents.

DEDICATION.

To the President of the United States.

SIR: I respectfully offer you a report on the political and industrial condition of several of the Southern States, the result of an exploration made by me during the Spring and Summer of the present year, at the request of Mr. James Gordon Bennett, for the New York Herald. The facts collected here seem to me likely to interest you, who, I sincerely believe, have failed to make the people of the Southern States contented, chiefly because in your exalted position, it was unfortunately difficult for you to know the real condition of those States, which has rapidly and continually changed from year to year of your administration. Had you been able to examine them for yourself in 1874-75, as you did in 1865, I cannot doubt that your Southern policy would, in very many particulars, have been different from what it has been; for it is your duty, as it doubtless is your wish, to secure the liberties and increase the prosperity, contentment and happiness of all your fellow citizens.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
CHARLES NORDHOFF.

During the year it will furnish to its readers the productions of the ablest authors, above-named and many others; embracing the Serial and Short Stories of the

It is, therefore, invaluable to every American reader, as the only thorough as well as fresh compilation of a generally inaccessible but indispensable current literature,—indispensable because it embraces the productions of the

WILL THE TREASURY RESUME FUNDING OPERATIONS?

The report has been revived within a few days that Mr. Bristow is likely to do something shortly to negotiate the remainder of the funding bonds authorized in the act of 1870. One of the minor reasons for the revival of this rumor is perhaps the recent arrival in this city of two or three members of eminent banking firms in Europe. But during this Centennial year we may expect large accessions to the ordinary numbers of our European visitors, and many circumstances are occurring just now to draw more and more closely the bonds of industrial and financial alliance between ourselves and the richer Trans-Atlantic nations whose accumulated stores of capital are seeking investment in our best railroad, municipal and government securities. To some of the numerous causes which are about to attract more capitalists, financiers and bankers, as well as more of the other classes of foreign travellers, to visit this country, we may probably ascribe the presence among us of the gentlemen above referred to. Still, as the subject of further negotiations between the Syndicate and the Treasury is being discussed, it may be as well to correct some mistakes which are being made. In order to do this we will first recapitulate a few facts and general principles in regard to the late funding operations.

At the outset, we may caution our readers against accepting too readily the sensational stories which have been set afloat by speculators and other persons, for various purposes, and in part with a view to cause excitement in the gold market. Mr. Bristow, it has been affirmed, was so anxious last year to close out the new fives that he went further than he should have gone in the work of calling in the five-twenties for redemption. Some startling figures have been exhibited in Wall street, to show the gold obligations of the Treasury and the difficulty of meeting them. The good sense of the people has prevented the success of this clever expedient for disturbing the market and raising the price of gold. Some of the statements made were too extravagant for belief, still for others there was some foundation in fact. To learn what truth there might be in any of the floating rumors, we applied for information in a well-informed quarter, and we are assured that the obligations of the government on account of the called bonds have been so adjusted that they will be met by ample resources already provided and from funds chiefly from the Syndicate. It is gratifying to be assured of this, for, as our readers are aware, the later calls for bonds were heavy, and their maturity is near. On Tuesday next a large amount will be payable, and a fortnight later a still larger sum. Altogether, on the two dates mentioned—the 1st and the 15th of February—the called bonds which fall due amount to $27,785,350. The previous calls were on the 1st of January and on the 1st and 17th of December. It may make the subject more perspicuous if we briefly recapitulate the particulars of these several calls. They are shown in the following table:

These statistics show that of the 50 millions of called bonds maturing in the three months beginning 1st December, more than half will mature on the 1st and 15th February. The bonds called on account of the sinking fund amounted to 30 millions 11th March, 8 millions 1st September, and 5 millions 15th November, giving a total of 43 millions. It is this sum of forty-three millions of dollars, payable on account of the sinking fund bonds, which has been supposed likely to cause Mr. Bristow some trouble. But, as has been said, he is reported to have made provision beforehand for all these obligations, and the statement is confirmed by two facts. First, the receipts of the Treasury have been and are quite large from customs duties, and, secondly, the surplus revenue reported for the last fiscal year, and that estimated for the present one, amount together to 42 millions, so that, even if the revenue does not exceed the estimates of the last Treasury report, Mr. Bristow will still receive enough during the next five months to enable him to meet all the usual disbursements of the government, as well as to pay off all the bonds he has called; and, if there be any excess of revenue over and above the estimate—as seems not improbable—the amount of this excess can be devoted to the calling and redemption of future bonds. It will be observed, moreover, from the foregoing table, that the outstanding bonds of 1864 have now been all exhausted, and that the process of redemption and extinction has now begun to operate on the bonds of 1865. We have thus lost from the schedule of the public debt another description of our war obligations, in addition to the 1862s, the seven-thirties, the compound interest notes and the other old securities emitted during the financial pressure of the war.

This brings us to a question which has been often raised of late in connection with the funding operations of the future, and which is now exciting some discussion. Suppose the offer should be made to take at par 1,000 millions of new four per cent bonds redeemable after fifty years, to what extent could the offer be accepted? This question resolves itself into two: First, how large an amount of such bonds are authorized by law? and, secondly, how large an amount of them can be issued in exchange for such outstanding bonds which are redeemable? As to the latter inquiry, it is easily answered. The last debt statement shows that the sum of 700 millions of dollars would be required to call in and cancel the five-twenties of 1865, 1867 and 1868, which are now outstanding. If to this sum we should add 300 millions, for the redemption of the greenbacks, we should reach a total of 1,000 millions. Whether it would be good policy to negotiate such a loan at all, and, if so, at what time and under what conditions—these are questions of policy which do not enter into this branch of our present argument, which is concerned only with the figures and the facts.

As to the question whether the requisite amount of fifty-year bonds are authorized by law, it is also susceptible of an equally easy reply. The only statute on the subject is that of 14th July, 1870, commonly known as the "Refunding Law of 1870." As amended in 1871 and in 1875, it authorized four per cent. bonds to the amount of 1,000 millions, but it made them payable after thirty years. Now, as all the financial authorities seem to agree that a four per cent. bond, to be negotiable in Europe at par, must bear a longer date than thirty or even than forty years, and as no such bond is as yet authorized by law, it follows that until an amendment can be passed to sanction the extension of the bonds to fifty years or to effect some similar change, no negotiation of four per cents in Europe can be expected. As the money markets abroad are believed likely to be favorable to the reception of a large loan of four per cent. bonds of the United States, should these bonds be made of longer dates, it is for Congress to consider whether this policy shall be adopted or not. It has always been recognized as extremely desirable that the next funding operations conducted by the Treasury should tend to the consolidation of the debt in some form of obligation analagous to the consols of England and the rentes of France. The fifty-year Fours which are referred to above have often been recommended as a suitable description of security for the purpose; such a bond would absorb hereafter the outstanding Fives, as well as the Sixes. And, until some such consolidated security can be decided upon, equally acceptable in Europe and in this country, it does not seem very likely that much can be done with advantage for the renewal of the funding operations of the Treasury.

THE NEW DRAWBACKS ON EXPORTED SUGAR.

When the Secretary of the Treasury, in his letter of instructions of October 9th, announced that the existing drawback was excessive, and gave instructions for a temporary alteration in it; he also stated that the department was instituting an investigation for the purpose of determining the correct amount of drawback to be allowed. The reports of this committee, dated Nov. 12 and Nov. 22, are now published, and the new drawbacks, recommended by that committee, were promulgated in a Treasury order of December 17th.

The first report states that the order of Oct. 9 was suspended on account of the disturbance which it caused to the trade. It goes on to explain the figures and calculations on which the new drawbacks have been arrived at, premising that the usually accepted estimates of the yield of each class of new sugar are no guide in the United States, where the kind of sugar used by the refiners is generally of a specially low quality, and the proportion of soft refined sugar very large. The usual out-turn of the refinery, as ascertained from the testimony of the refiners, is given, and the amount of drawback to be allowed on each of the three descriptions of refined sugar—stoved and unstoved, white sugar, and soft sugar—is estimated from those figures. Raw sugar of specially high strength, as compared with its appearance, is incidentally referred to, but no importance is attached to it as causing an extra loss to the Treasury through the return of excessive drawback, on the ground that the refiner has to pay more for it. The supposition that the recent large increase in the exports of refined sugar was to be attributed to the contemporaneous raising of the drawback, is dismissed as erroneous. The true causes of that increase are, in the opinion of the committee, an over-importation of raw and an over-production of refined sugar, low freight, and high gold premium. The first report concludes by suggesting that if hard sugars can be made by American refiners, better and cheaper than by foreigners, so much the better for the country, and the Treasury should therefore refuse to listen to the "representations of interested foreign competitors." It would, perhaps, have been more to the purpose, if the committee had in the first instance made some effort to meet and confute those representations, which appear, so far as can be judged from the acceptance which they have received from authorities in commercial and financial matters, to have been founded on strictly accurate figures and reasoning. If it be shown that the taxpayers and the Treasury of the United States are losing money under the present system, it can be of little moment from whence the proof of that fact may emanate. However interested the information may be, the first point to be decided is whether it is accurate. It is quite possible that information procured at home may also be not altogether disinterested, and therefore it is a matter of importance carefully to analyze the bases on which the committee have founded their conclusions, and on which the Treasury has now taken action. We fear that such an examination will show the action now taken to be somewhat premature.

Though the report rejects the Cologne yields as too high, it is still an undeniable fact that throughout Europe they are universally admitted to be too low. The committee state that American refiners use a low class of sugar, and they refer to the classified imports in proof of the assertion. But when they calculate the drawback on hard sugar, they assume, as their basis, that it is made entirely of high class sugar. The two arguments do not appear quite consistent. The strong point which is made of the fact that a large portion of the sugar turned out in American refineries is "soft sugar of inferior quality," may on examination turn out to be rather a weak point. For, as it happens, the duty on the class to which the soft refined sugars belong is too high, in proportion to the duty on the raw sugar from which it is made. As the soft sugars go into consumption at the duty-paid price, it is clear that, so far from neutralizing the effect of an excessive drawback, their existence actually aggravates it. The gain to the refiner is, in fact, twofold; first, from the excessive drawback on the hard sugar, and, secondly, from the excessive duty on the soft sugar. In the one case, the Treasury returns more duty than had been paid; in the other, the consumer pays more duty to the refiner on the manufactured article than the refiner had paid on it in the form of raw material. In both cases the taxpayer is the loser. Part of what he contributes to the revenue is afterwards erroneously returned to the refiner, and part of the tax is intercepted by the refiner before it reaches the Treasury. These are points which serve in the report to usher in the following hard figures on which the committee have calculated the new drawback:

I.

| Drawback on— | |
|---|---|
| 70 lbs. white refined coffee sugar, above 20 D. S. in color, at 3c. per lb. | $2 10 |
| 13¾ lbs. inferior quality, at 2½c. per lb. | 33·75 |
| 11¼ lbs. syrup (1 gallon), at 6¼c. per gallon. | 6·25 |
| 100 lbs. | $2 50 |

II.

| Drawback on— | |
|---|---|
| 60 lbs. hard sugar, at 3·60c. per lb. | $2 16 |
| 23·6 lbs. soft sugar, at 2·50c. per lb. | 59 |
| 11·5 lbs. syrup, at 6·25c. | 6·25 |
| 100 lbs. | $2 81·25 |
| Import duty on 100 lbs. Nos. 10 to 13 Dutch standard | $2 81·25 |

The report elsewhere explained that the only difference between "hard sugar," on which it is proposed to allow a drawback of 3·60c. per lb., and white coffee sugar, above No. 20 Dutch standard (i. e., perfectly white), is that the one is "dried" and the other is not. Knowing that fact, it will at once strike the reader, even one who is not an expert, as curious, that in the one case the low class of raw sugar should be assumed as the basis of the manufacture, and in the other case, the high class; more especially as it has been previously stated in the report that very little high-class sugar is imported. Looking at the matter with a technical and instructed eye, it appears that in reality the two manufactures must be the product of one and the same class of raw sugar, viz., Nos. 7 to 10, charged with a duty of 2·50c. per lb. (and this is rendered more certain by the fact that the duty on the higher class is, as stated in the report, slightly prohibitive, except for the strongest sugars of the class). The proof can be made intelligible to the general reader thus:

The soft or inferior sugar, on which, in both cases, the same drawback of 2·50c. per lb. is allowed, is the same in both cases, and may be estimated as containing about 84 per cent of extractible pure sugar. The white coffee sugar only differs from hard sugar by containing a small percentage of water, certainly not more than 2 per cent. The quantity of pure sugar produced in each case is, therefore, identical, as the following calculation clearly shows:

| I. | Pure Sugar | II. | Pure Sugar. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 70 lbs. white, at 98 p. c. strength | 68·6 | 60 lbs. dry sugar | 60 |
| 13·5 lbs. soft, at 84 p. c. strength | 11·34 | 23·6 lbs. soft, at 84 p. c. strength | 19·82 |
| Total pure sugar yielded by the raw | 79·94 | Total pure sugar yielded by the raw | 79·82 |
| i.e., Nos. 7 to 10, duty | 2·50 | i.e., Nos. 7 to 10, duty | 2·50 |

Therefore it is really the duty of 2·50, and not of 2·8125, which ought to be deducted from the calculation of the new drawback.

|---|---|
| Drawback on 60 hard, at 3·60 | $2·16 |
| do. 23·6 soft, at 2·50 | 59 |
| do. 11·5 syrup, at 6·25 | 6·25 |
| | $2·8125 |
| Duty on raw | 2·50 |
| Excess of drawback | ·3125 |

This looks very much as if the committee had allowed the refiners to get them into a fog. Looking at the figures from another point of view, the same, or even a worse, conclusion must be arrived at. In a supplementary report the committee take some pains to explain why they fix the drawback on dry white sugar at 3·60c., and on undried white sugar at 3c. per lb. They say that they took the relative market value as their basis. But suppose that the relative quantity of sugar contained in each be taken as the basis; for after all that must be the real basis on which the duty is levied as long as it is charged on the raw material. Taking the undried white sugar at 98 p. c., or, to avoid all dispute, 97 p. c. of dry sugar, and comparing the two drawbacks with the quantity of actual sugar on which they are allowed, it is at once manifest that 3c. per lb. being proved by the committee's own calculations to be the correct drawback on the one, since it balances the duty of 2·50 on the raw sugar, the drawback of 3·60 on the other must inevitably be too high. A drawback of 3c. per lb. on a sugar containing 97 p. c. of dry sugar is equivalent to a drawback of 3·09c. per lb. on dry sugar. A drawback of 3·60c. per lb. would be equivalent to 116¼ lbs. of dry sugar in the 100 lbs. The drawback of 3·60 is therefore 51 cents per 100 lbs. too high. The fact is that all these errors have arisen from the committee's refusal to take any account of the true relative yields of the various classes of raw sugar. A classified scale of duties on raw sugars, with the proportionate drawbacks, can be correctly arrived at only on that basis, for the very simple reason that the only object of the duty is to tax the sugar which is consumed, and the duty must therefore be charged on the raw material in proportion to the consumable sugar which is produced from it. To judge from the somewhat rudimentary errors into which the committee have unfortunately fallen, it would seem that in America, no less than in Europe, it will be impossible to fix the duties and drawbacks on any rule of thumb method, and that either some scientific method of determining the strength of raw sugars will have to be adopted, or, as would be most natural, the duty will have to be charged on the actual sugar which it is intended to tax; not the raw material, but the sugar itself as it goes to the consumer.

Without such a complete change of system, it will be impossible to protect the taxpayers against the payment of duties which never reach the coffers of the State, or the Treasury against a payment of excessive drawback which in reality amounts to a return to the refiner, in addition to that which is his due, of sums which have already been paid by the home consumer, and which ought to remain to the credit of the revenue.

It seems almost superfluous to point out the fallacy of the argument with which the committee meet the most important point connected with the difficulties of sugar assessment at the present time. Sugar of high yield, but of low quality as to outward appearance, is not, according to the report, of any importance, because the refiner has to pay more for it. The committee quite fails to see that, while the refiner very naturally pays for his raw material in proportion to its strength, that fact does not prevent him from stealing a march on the revenue—quite legitimately under the present system—by getting his raw material charged with a low duty, according to its appearance, and receiving a heavy drawback on the actual large yield. Sugar which gives this result has now become the rule instead of the exception in countries where the same system of assessment has been hitherto practiced, and as long as an excessive drawback is given in the United States, the imports of that kind of sugar will continually increase, and with them the excess of drawback, until the time comes, as it now has in Europe, when the Treasury and the taxpayers begin to feel that sums which are intended to go to revenue should not be diverted to other purposes; and that, if the avowed policy of the country be to give bounties on export, it would be better to know exactly how much is given, and to vote annual sums for the purpose.

PORK PACKING AT THE WEST.

The depression which has prevailed of late in the speculative value of lard, and the inactivity of trade in pork and bacon, may be regarded as somewhat anomalous, in view of the marked reduction that has taken place in the number of swine slaughtered at the West for the season of 1875–6, beginning November 1 and ending March 1. Without some explanation of auxiliary influences, it seems unreasonable that the price of lard should now be cheaper than one year ago, and that of late a considerable decline has taken place in this chief article of speculation.

The Cincinnati Price Current, an excellent authority on this subject, devoted in its last issue considerable space to the progress of slaughtering, thus far, this season, the prospects for the remainder of the season, and (what is of equal importance), the number of swine that may be left for "summer packing." There has recently been a great increase in the number slaughtered; exceeding, for the past four weeks, the corresponding period of last season; and the total to the latest dates, at six principal towns of the West, was 2,400,000, against 2,770,000 to the corresponding dates a year ago. During the same period at seventy-two minor towns of the West, the number was 859,496, against 1,352,748 at the same towns for the whole of last season. Proceeding on results thus far ascertained, it is estimated that the total slaughtered at the six principal towns of the West will be about 200,000 less than last season, when the number was 3,500,811, a falling off of less than six per cent; but the number slaughtered at the minor towns of the West will, it is estimated, increase the deficit to 750,000 for the season; giving us a total approximating the following:

or about 13¾ per cent reduction.

The question naturally arises, in what manner and to what extent is this falling off compensated for? How are lower prices of lard explained? Stocks of this staple are admitted to be much smaller than one year ago. The first explanation is found in the increase in the weight of the swine slaughtered. This is estimated to be 18 pounds per head at Chicago, 7 pounds at Louisville, 25 pounds at St. Louis, while at Indianapolis there has been a recent increase in the weight, with the yield of lard "unusually large." It thus seems probable that, notwithstanding the reduction in the number slaughtered, the yield of lard for the whole season will be fully as great as for last season. There has been at the same time a marked falling off in the export of lard. According to the statistics published in the last CHRONICLE, this difference amounts to about nine million pounds, or a decline of nearly twenty per cent, since the first of November, compared with the corresponding period last year.

The situation may, from this brief review of facts, be stated as follows:—Decrease in the number of swine slaughtered for the season 13¾ per cent.; increase in weight 6 per cent.; falling off in export of lard 20 per cent.; while prices of three leading products compare as follows:

PRICES AT NEW YORK.

| | 1876. Jan. 25. | 1875. Jan. 22. |
|---|---|---|
| Mess Pork, per bbl..... | $20.75 | $19.50 |
| Prime Lard, per lb.. ..... | 13¾c | 12½c |
| L ng Clear Bacon, per lb..... | 11c | 10¾c |

But it is necessary to take into the account the probable supply and demand during the spring and summer months. Lard is lower, and pork and bacon are higher, than last January. Legitimate influences seem to warrant the variations that are exhibited. From this time out last season, the demand for all descriptions of the products of swine was in excess of anticipations, and holders, favored by a comparatively small summer production, were enabled to force up prices to extreme figures, and manipulate "corners" on pork and lard during the early months of autumn.

There is a large crop of corn now in the country, and it is selling low. Farmers find it much more profitable to feed it to swine than to send it to market, but unfortunately the number of swine in the country is quite small. Therefore, slaughtering during the spring and summer months must again be on a restricted scale, so far as numbers are concerned, though an increase in weight can hardly be doubted, and consequently an increased yield of lard.

It is not probable that the European demand will be so active. The demand from that quarter during the latter portion of last season was the result of a resistance to the prices asked in our markets, and the consequent running down of stocks abroad. This season, as will be seen from the export exhibit, the foreign markets have been, thus far, free buyers of pork and box meats, and have made better preparation for their needs later on. The Cotton States are not likely to be as free buyers as last season. They have attempted to increase their home production, with what success is seen in the comparative cheapness of corn and bacon in some of the more Southern sections. It seems apparent, therefore, that, while no important decline in prices need be feared, the speculative excitement, and abnormal advance in prices, which characterized a portion of last season, can scarcely be anticipated.

LONDON, Tuesday, Jan. 11, 1876.

The year has opened with a quiet spirit everywhere observable in business circles. Great activity or speculation is not anticipated in 1876; on the contrary, after the late serious warnings, the unexpected collapse of so many firms, some holding high positions, revealing a state of things not creditable to English commerce, it is but natural that a cautious policy should be for some time pursued. Cheap money and cheap wheat are however likely to be favorable features. In fact, the price of wheat has been so low the past year that no complaints have been heard even among those earning the minimum of wages. And yet the demand for gold for Germany is an uncertain element, made of more importance by the fact that France still holds on to her large stock of treasure, refusing to resume the payment of specie, but all the time augmenting her gold supply. Taking our trade as a whole, we may say that latterly it has been more satisfactory. The iron trade has been bad; but, as regards other branches, the extent of business in progress has not been unsatisfactory, the chief, though important, complaint being that prices do not yield a sufficiently remunerative result. What the future promise is, may be best indicated by a brief reference to the prominent commercial and financial events of the past twelve months.

For some years the report has been current that our India trade was very unsatisfactory, and although large quantities of goods were sent away to these Presidencies, there was either no profit, or there was a loss. This report had prevailed so long, without any serious evil resulting, that at length people began to think the statement an exaggeration, or else that by cautious trading the difficulties which had existed, had been surmounted. About midsummer, however, they were undeceived on that point, for one of the leading houses in the trade—Messrs. Collis & Co.—suspended, and a sharp and serious panic ensued. The transactions of that firm had not been, it was well known, of a creditable character, and not much, if any, sympathy has been shown it, but its reckless trading brought down several innocent firms whose facilities for obtaining advances had been cut off by the distrust which prevailed, and by the indisposition which the banks and discount houses naturally evinced to lend on India mercantile paper. Serious as was that crisis, it is hoped that the trouble which has been impending for years has now disappeared, and that trading with our Indian Possessions will hereafter be conducted with judgment, and not with the recklessness made public during the past year. The banks, certainly, will not afford, for some time to come, the facilities which they granted to Messrs. Collie. This is somewhat of a guarantee for future security, and if the houses which have been trading recklessly with India and the East have now been weeded out, we may hope that our Indian commerce will, in future, yield a remunerative result.

Previous, however, to the failure of Messrs. Collie & Co., there had been the suspension of Messrs. Fothergill & Hankey, trading under the style of the Plymouth & Aberdare Ironworks Company, limited. That undertaking had, it was understood, been carried on at a loss for many years, and the break-down of the discount establishment of Sanderson & Co. compelled it to stop payment. The iron trade had for many months previously been in a most unsatisfactory condition, strikes and foreign competition, together with a diminished export demand for manufactured iron, having led to a great contraction of business. That failure, in the same manner as Collie's, produced a very uneasy feeling in its particular department, and caused other firms to suspend payments, but, considering at what loss the trade in iron had been conducted, and how ruinous had been the strikes, the difficulties which were made public were fewer than might have been expected.

Another failure, for which 1875 will be conspicuous, was that of Messrs. J. C. im Thurn & Co., whose total liabilities, including acceptances from other firms, amounted to about three millions sterling. A large proportion, about two-thirds, of those liabilities quickly ran off, the bills being retired in most cases by the drawers. As regards this firm, the difficulties were caused by losses incurred in trading with South America. With nearly every country on that continent trading had led to unsatisfactory results, and, owing eventually to the failure of remittances, a collapse took place. Grave fears were entertained by the mercantile community respecting this failure, but it appeared that the firms for whom Messrs. im Thurn had accepted were mostly of respectable or good standing, and they were enabled to find the means to retire their own drafts. Some difficulties naturally arose, but they were few; so much so, indeed, that some surprise was occasioned, and a fair degree of confidence was soon restored in that particular branch of commerce.

The year 1875 will also be memorable for the partial defaults of the Turkish Government. No one has been surprised that Turkey should find itself unable to pay its way, but the question has now been discussed for so many years that people began to believe that event, if it were ever to take place, was yet very distant. Many bondholders, unfortunately, had convinced themselves that Turkish bankruptcy was to be an affair of the distant future, and those who thought thus were the only class upon whom the news came as a surprise. From that default there will, unquestionably, be considerable suffering. Turkish bonds were held in larger or smaller amounts by individuals who ought to have invested their savings in a security of undoubted safety, and who ought to have been contented with a lower rate of interest. The high rates of interest which accrued upon Turkish bonds were, no doubt, tempting to many who had hoped to have made a provision against old age, and the surprise must have been cruel when it was discovered that the interest was to be diminished by one-half, and when it also appeared that great difficulties had to be encountered to provide even the necessary funds to meet those diminished payments. Little surprise, however, can be felt at the failure of the Turkish Government to pay the interest on its debt, and it is much to be feared that the downward course of the country will be unchecked. To meet the January coupons, the exactions of the tax collectors have been brutal, and even the famished provinces, where the taxes had previously been remitted, have been called upon to pay up all arrears. This state of things looks very bad for the future of Turkish finances, and there is perhaps reason to believe that matters will proceed from bad to worse.

The partial default of the Turkish Government served to produce an uneasy feeling respecting the state of Egyptian credit, and fears were entertained that the Viceroy would follow in the steps of his Suzerain. The policy of the Viceroy of Egypt has, in a financial sense, been a blundering one, but, at the same time, His Highness can be commended for having devoted a large portion of the proceeds of the loans raised in France and England to public works. These works will, it is to be feared, prove in many cases to be unproductive for many years to come; but the money has not, as in the case of Turkey, been altogether wasted. The Viceroy of Egypt, with a patriotism which is commendable, has been attempting too much, but he sees and acknowledges his error, instructions having been given to stop all public works which are not immediately necessary. That the Viceroy has been at his wits' end to procure funds to meet the forthcoming dividends, is evident from the fact that he should have to part with so important a security as his interest in the Suez Canal. That purchase by the British Government for £4,000,000 has not only temporarily, and, we hope, permanently, established Egyptian credit, but is an event which will be memorable in the annals of English Parliamentary Government, and may, perhaps, mark an important era in our history, so far as that history is connected with our Indian Possessions. Whatever jealousies may arise, foreign nations know that the canal is in safe hands, that it will be kept open to navigation, and that all nations are free to use it at the lowest possible charge. England encourages trade in every part of the world, and never throws impediments in the way of peaceful industry. Were the Continental nations to do the same, there would be no necessity for an armed peace.

The list of misfortunes of the year 1875 has not yet, however, been completed. The latest difficulty, and the last, is the default of the Peruvian Government with regard to its external debt. It was not expected that this would be immediately the case, as the country possesses, or claims to possess, large supplies of guano, which, it has been said, are sufficient for the service of the debt for many years to come; but whatever may be the actual position, there have certainly been blunderings and misunderstandings which have prevented the Peruvian Government from obtaining the funds requisite to meet the January coupons. Some persons believe that the money will eventually be provided, but even if this prove to be the case, it is obvious that Peruvian credit has sustained a shock from which it is not likely to recover.

Serious as all these losses have been to the country, they are not, perhaps, without some rather large grains of comfort to the community at large. Many individuals, as far as their investments in Turkish, Peruvian and Spanish bonds are concerned, are great losers, but the fact must not be lost sight of, that a high rate of interest has been paid—a rate much higher, in fact, than what prudent people consider to be consistent with safety—and that large amounts have been paid to the bondholders in the shape of drawings. Practically, therefore, bondholders, instead of living upon their income, have been expending their capital, and they now find that exorbitant rates of interest are eventually productive of loss. We may consider that hereafter fresh loans for doubtful States, even if they offer high rates of interest, will be eschewed here as well as in Paris, and that only those loans will attract attention from investors, the security for which is undoubted. These will yield a lower rate of interest, but they will prove to be more profitable, as the capital will remain intact, and the bondholders will not, as in the case of the Turkish, be paying themselves. The Empire at large will be a gainer, as an impetus will be given to colonial industries and the construction of railways and other public works, and to the more rapid development of agriculture; while, at home, a larger amount of capital will be available for the extension of our resources. With our surplus capital, therefore, more safely invested, there will be less to apprehend about the future, and if peace is only ensured, the country will no doubt make genuine and healthy progress.

The money market has been easy during the greater part of the year, and although there has been a good demand for gold on account of the German mint, the Bank rate has not practically exceeded 4 per cent. At the commencement of the year the rate was five per cent, but there was an almost immediate reduction to four per cent, which was also the closing rate for the year. The average rate for the year is about 3 per cent, and the money market has presented therefore an easy appearance, which has no doubt aided materially these firms which have had difficulties to contend against. Had money been scarce and dear as in 1866, the consequences might have been serious, but the reverse has been the case, and possibly many failures have thus been averted. The changes in the Bank and open market rates may be seen in the following statement:

The stock of bullion at the Bank was at its highest point on August 18, when it amounted to £29,393,892, the reserve of notes and coin being £16,228,262, and the Bank rate 2 per cent. The smallest quantity of gold was held on April 21, when it was £20,059,300, the reserve of notes and coin being £9,130,835, and the Bank rate 3½ per cent. The highest reserve was on the 25th of August, when it amounted to £16,399,635, the Bank rate being 2 per cent; and the lowest on May 5, when it was £8,398,533, and the Bank rate 3½ per cent. The position of the Bank, according to each week's return, has been as follows:

Wabash & Erie Canal.—This canal is to be sold at auction, Feb. 24, at Terre Haute, Ind., under a decree of the United States Circuit Court, at the suit of Jonathan K. Gapen. The sale will include the canal from Evansville, Ind., to the Ohio State line, and a number of lots and parcels of land held by the trustees. The canal will be sold in sections varying from 13 to 25 miles in length. The terms are 10 per cent. in cash; the balance will be allowed to remain one year at 6 per cent. interest and on approved security. The whole length of the canal is about 380 miles.

— The State of Indiana, a number of years ago, funded its debt and gave as part payment Wabash and Erie Canal stock, bearing 6 per cent. interest. Railway competition reduced the earnings of the canal to such an extent that the value of the property greatly depreciated, and the State claimed that the canal property was transferred to the bondholders as full security.

ORIENT MUTUAL INSURANCE CO.—We are glad to see that the Orient (Marine) Insurance Company has had so prosperous a year. It has done a large business and a good business, leaving as the result, a splendid show of assets for the first of January. They declare their usual dividend to the dealers entitled to it, and also pay six per cent. interest on all outstanding scrip certificates, besides redeeming in full the scrip issue of 1860. Having the best of officers, there will be no one but will rejoice at the Orient's increasing success and continued progress.

—Messrs. Fisk & Hatch have issued a circular to the bondholders of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad, drawing attention to the fact that the road was transferred on the 20th inst. to Gen. W. C. Wickham, the Receiver appointed by the State Courts of Virginia and West Virginia. They say that the proceedings for foreclosure in the State courts will now be forwarded with as little expense and burden upon the property as possible, a decree of sale obtained, the property purchased under their plan of reorganization—in which bondholders to the extent of over 700 in number, (of whom nearly 600 are holders of first mortgage bonds only,) and over $15,000,000 in amount, have already joined—and the reorganization will be perfected as soon as practicable. Arrangements have been made for the return to the bondholders of their funded coupons upon the surrender to the New York Guaranty and Indemnity Company of the income bonds and accompanying receipts, and those who have funded their coupons can now recover them at any time. Messrs. Fisk & Hatch remark that the more the plan of reorganization is examined and discussed with bondholders, the more satisfactory its terms appear, and they think it is the best that could be adopted.

—The officers and friends of the Phenix Fire Insurance Company of Brooklyn have reason to congratulate themselves upon its continued prosperity. On January 1 the company's assets were $2,549,959, and, after making every deduction for re-insurance and other liabilities, there is a net surplus of nearly $800,000, or 80 per cent. premium on the company's capital of $1,000,000. There is apparently an increase in the year of $400,000 in assets and $250,000 in net surplus. Mr. Stephen Crowell, President, and Messrs. Shaw and Crowell, Vice-President and Secretary, have reason to be proud of the company's strength and progress under their management.

The Money Market and Financial Situation.—The principal features noticed in the financial markets last week have still been prevalent, and, while money has been growing easier, the prices of both speculative and investment securities have advanced—in some cases quite sharply. The general talk among bankers and brokers is favorable, and whether or not their expectations are fully realized during the current year, it is evident that the anticipation of a healthier financial business is now quite general.

Our local money market has shown a steady increase in the amount of funds offering on call, and rates are quoted from 4 to 5 per cent for the bulk of business, with some exceptions at 3 per cent for large blocks of money on government collaterals. Commercial paper is in good demand, and the supply of strictly prime paper is small, selling at 5½ to 6½ per cent.

On Thursday the Bank of England reduced its minimum discount rate to 4 per cent from 5, the previous figure, and showed an increase in bullion for the week of £265,000. The Bank of France gained 7,139,000 francs in specie.

The weekly statement of the New York City Clearing-House Banks, issued January 22, showed an increase of $953,075 in the excess above their 25 per cent. legal reserve, the whole of such excess being $14,810,050, against $13,856,975, the previous week.

| | 1876. | | | 1875. | 1874. |
| | Jan. 15. | Jan. 22. | Differences. | Jan. 23. | Jan. 24. |

United States Bonds.—There has been a lively business in governments this week, with a further advance in prices. Large purchases have been made by permanent investors, among whom the financial institutions are foremost, as usual. We have heard of several round lots of $100,000 and upwards being taken by such corporations, and in one instance as much as $1,300,000 by a single prominent company. The result of these large purchases by parties who intend to lay the bonds aside and keep them, should naturally be to reduce the available stock of bonds in this market and to push up prices. It has also been noticed this week that the amount of bonds offered by foreign bankers is much smaller, and from the delay in delivering some bonds which had virtually been sold "to arrive," although time enough has elapsed for them to have come over, it is inferred that some of the free offerings in the early part of this month were merely "short" sales.

State and Railroad Bonds.—There have been few transactions in State bonds, but prices are generally firm. Tennessees are well maintained, and the old bonds are quoted to-day at 46½ bid, and 47½ asked. South Carolina consols are strong. Alabama bondholders seem to have less hope now that the State will offer any better proposition than that already made, and in the end they may conclude to accept it.

Railroad bonds have attracted much attention, and dealings in them have been large at buoyant prices. One of the most striking features of the market is the large advance in the prices of many of the lower class of bonds which have heretofore ruled at comparatively low figures. Among these may be named the St. Paul consols, Northwest consolidated gold 7s, Hannibal and St. Joseph 8s, C. C. and I. C. first mortgage consols, Ohio & Mississippi bonds, Pacific of Missouri firsts, and several other well-known bonds. The idea of purchasers seems to be that the companies issuing these bonds are past all danger of default, and that all their mortgage bonds are therefore good, and the differences heretofore existing between the prices of their earlier and later issues are, under present circumstances, too large. The Pacific Railroad bonds have been rather neglected, and some of the issues are not quite as strong as last week, probably in consequence of the reports of the suits pending to recover 5 per cent. of their net earnings, and the report of proceedings of Congress inquiring into the issue of government bonds beyond $50,000,000.

Railroad and Miscellaneous Stocks.—The stock market has shown a fair business at strong prices. There have not been transactions of immense volume in any of the leading speculative stocks, but more generally distributed purchases throughout the whole list. The advance in prices has been well sustained, and to-day many of the stocks touched the best prices made in some months. Western Union sold up to 78; N. Y. Central, 112; Northwest common, 43; St. Paul common, 42⅝, preferred, 77; Ohio and Mississippi, 23⅝; Erie, 17¼. There are two principal causes of general influence which form the basis of the present upward movement, and these are—first, the anticipation of increased earnings during the present year; and, secondly, the prospect that the laws unfavorable to railroads in several of the Western States will be repealed. If these are repealed, then the decision of the Granger cases in the Supreme Court at Washington becomes of less importance, at least in its immediate results, as the cause of the present difficulties would be removed. The introduction of a bill into the Wisconsin Legislature for the repeal or modification of the obnoxious Potter law has had the effect of stimulating very sharply the stocks and securities of the Northwest and St. Paul roads, which operate a large mileage in that State. Towards the close of business the tone was strong and prices near the highest of the day.

* The decrease in receipts in December is said to be owing to the fact that the rivers in 1875 have been in good boating condition, while in 1874 they were too low to enter into competition with the railroads, and further to the reduced scale of freight charges in 1875. It it stated that the decrease has been almost entirely in the amount of cotton transported, while the general merchandise has increased in volume.

| | D. M. Valley. 1873. | K. & D. M. 1874. | K. & D. M. 1875. |
|---|---|---|---|
| From freights..... | $459,860 24 | $475,343 90 | $533,690 13 |
| From passengers..... | 141,451 65 | 183,975 70 | 214,882 85 |
| From miscellaneous..... | 38,278 66 | 46,866 03 | 44,200 86 |

The recent decrease in earnings is due to the soft condition of the corn coming to market, which, owing to the difficulty of selling it in that condition, prevents as large shipments as would otherwise be made.

The Gold Market.—Gold dealings have been without any special animation, and the price has remained pretty steady. There are still a good many who anticipate a higher price of gold and considerable export of coin during the next few months, though it is not possible to predict these movements with certainty. On gold loans a moderate price has been paid for carrying, and to day the range was 3@5 per cent.; on time loans of gold quotations have been made as follows: 30 days, ⅛@¼ for carrying; 60 days to 4 months, ¼@⅜ for carrying; all the year, ⅜@½ for use.

The following table will show the course of gold and operations of the Gold Exchange Bank each day of the past week:

Foreign Exchange.—Exchange has been quiet during the past week, and quotations have varied but little. The principal elements in the market are the cotton and bond movements, and on these the future course of prices and the shipments of coin must largely depend. Some of the foreign bankers anticipate that the export of coin will now begin in a very short time, and all of them look for considerable shipments during the next three months. On actual transactions to-day, the prices were about ¼ point lower than the nominal quotations, which are as follows:

The report says: The principal feature in the business of the past season, and the cause of the largely decreased traffic, has been a prolonged strike in the anthracite coal region, which for six months deprived the company of nearly its entire coal tonnage, and very materially reduced its receipts from other traffic which is always dependent upon the coal trade.

The trade union of the operatives in the coal mines, known as "The Miners' and Laborers' Benevolent Association," ordered a strike, to take place upon the 1st of January, against a reduction of wages, to take effect upon that day. Upon the 15th of June the strike was practically ended, and between the last date and the 1st of July work was generally resumed by the men at the reduced wages.

Some idea of the cost of such a strike, and of the relative difference between receipts and expenditures during the respective periods of idleness and activity, may be gained by the following figures:

|---|---|
| Coal tonnage of the company for six months during strike | 1,033,241 14 |
| Coal tonnage for six months of business | 4,472,213 02 |

The difference in results, however, is still greater; the business of the six months of the strike showing a net profit of only $26,055 65, against a profit of $4,504,712 54 for the remaining six months.

The comparative traffic of the last three years is shown by the following table:

|---|---|---|---|
| Number of passengers carried | 6,790,088 | 6,961,869 | 6,938,129 |
| Number tons coal, 2,240 lbs | 6,546,553 | 6,348,812 | 5,507,455 |
| Number of tons merchandise, 2,000 lbs | 3,331,194 | 3,093,831 | 2,720,208 |
| Number of tons company's materials, 2,000 lbs | 651,648 | 493,591 | 581,984 |
| Total tonnage of company (2,000 lbs.), including weight of passengers and company's materials | 11,032,262 | 11,336,261 | 10,099,040 |

The traffic lost in consequence of the strike not having been made up during the few months of business left at the close of the year, the reserved fund of the company is practically exhausted by the dividend payable on January 25th; and, as the business of the three winter months of the year can never be relied upon as sufficient, without a reserve fund, to provide for a quarterly dividend, the consideration of the next dividend must be postponed from April until July, at which time whatever may have been earned will be declared as one semi-annual dividend.

Another new steam collier of fifteen hundred tons was added during the year to the fleet of the company, which now comprises fourteen vessels. The following table shows the amount of business done during the year, with its results, as compared with previous years. The item of $418,479 61, of expenses for 1875, includes a charge of $73,525 46 for insurance fund, which is now in credit $152,426 13.

| 1872 | 127,275 | $355,400 03 | $237,818 26 | $117,641 77 | $2 62 |
| 1873 | 135,673 | 309,296 23 | 202,111 01 | 107,185 21 | 2 32 |
| 1875 | 345,145 | 491,639 50 | 418,479 01 | 72,559 89 | 1 15 |

In common with nearly all the business of the company, the fleet of steam colliers suffered severely from the strike—the first seven months showing a coal tonnage of but 91,101 tons, and a net loss of $33,750 16, against a tonnage of 254,043 tons, and a profit of $106,310 05 for the following five months.

The canals of the company suffered equally with all other departments, in consequence of the loss of tonnage during the strike. The transportation and income accounts show, in detail, the net loss upon each canal—that of the Schuylkill being $125,716 45, against $216,927 94 for last year, and the loss upon the Susquehanna Canal being $172,270 09, against $161,019 13 for 1874.

Notwithstanding the general depression of business, the traffic of the Germantown and Norristown Branch has been very good, the number of passengers carried during the year being 4,299,480, against 4,257,860 for 1874, 4,064,530 for 1873, and 3,712,316 for 1872.

The gross receipts of the Catawissa Branch, for the year, were $634,099 49, against $705,143 89 for the previous year; and the loss of the line, after payment of the rent, has been $157,001 14, against $148,199 37 for the year 1874. It must be remembered, however, that the profits of the business upon the Main Line derived from the traffic of the Catawissa Branch, are much greater than the loss upon the leased line.

The express business has resulted in a profit of $61,591 50, against $54,540 81 for the previous year—a very satisfactory increase. All additions to the equipment added during the year, and amounting to $7,329 50, have been charged to expenses; the equipment account not having been increased, and amounting now to $55,574 68.

|---|---|

Of this total amount, 1,437,450.08 tons were mined by the company, and 1,594,740.18 tons were mined by tenants.

After a very large expenditure upon the property of this company, the collieries are in excellent condition for economical and profitable working. No further outlay will be required, except for the purpose of completing the Mammoth vein shafts, and two or three smaller improvements, which together will require no very large amount of money.

To supply the necessary funds required by the two companies, and to meet engagements incurred in the prosecution of their works, an issue of ten million dollars, or two millions sterling of the general mortgage bonds, has just been made in London—the prospectus inviting subscriptions having been issued in London as late as January 1st. No advices have been received other than the telegraphic announcements of the success of the issue.

By order of the Board of Managers.

GENERAL INVESTMENT NEWS.

Alabama Bondholders and the State Commissioners.—The following is the full text of the reply of the Alabama State Commissioners to the communication of the bondholders of the 18th of December:

STATE OF ALABAMA, OFFICE COMMISSIONERS, MONTGOMERY, Dec. 30, 1875.

W. H. Hays and H. Blydenburgh, Esqs. (Bondholders' Committee), New York:

GENTLEMEN—We have received your communication of the 18th inst., and have carefully considered your suggestions in regard to the adjustment of the class of bonds embraced in our proposition bearing date 20th ult.

We appreciate the tone and spirit of your communication, and when you and those whom you represent discover the errors into which you have fallen in your estimate of the resources of this State applicable to the payment of interest on the bonded debt, you will, we are confident, recede from the position which you have taken, and without hesitation accept the proposition which we in good faith have submitted to the holders of the five, six and eight per cent bonds, as not only just and honorable, but as the best the State is able to make.

Your estimate of the resources of the State is approximately correct, say $1,054,346; but in indicating, as you attempt to do, how the income is to be disbursed, you entirely ignore the imperative obligation of the General Assembly to make appropriations for the support of public schools, and you assume that the expenses of the State need not exceed $265,000.

The appropriations to public schools cannot be less than $244,280, unless the present low rate of interest on the trust fund should be reduced, which you as the friends of education would hardly advise. The Constitution makes it the duty of the General Assembly to appropriate at least $100,000 for the support of public schools. It may be enlarged, but cannot be diminished. To this must be added about $100,000 for interest on the 16th section, valueless 16th, and United States surplus fund; $24,000 to pay interest on the University fund, and $20,280 to pay interest on the Agricultural and Mechanical College fund. The three amounts last named arise from donations made by the Federal Government for the support of public schools, and, with the direct appropriation of $100,000 by the State for the same purpose, aggregate $244,280. Do you advise a repudiation of this demand upon the treasury of the State? You quote in support of your assumption that the expenses of the State may be limited to $265,000, a myth—an alleged report of the Auditor to the late constitutional convention. No such report was made. We presume you were led into this error by having seen a letter of Auditor Smith, just before the November election, in which he stated that under the new constitution the State would save about $265,000 annually. This saving, as stated by the Auditor, consists of several items—most of them prospective in their operations. Biennial sessions of the Legislature cannot commence before November, 1877. The salaries of State officers cannot be reduced until their terms of office expire. The judges and chancellors, whose salaries amount to $63,020 annually, were elected in November, 1874, for six years, and all other officers will receive the salaries now fixed by law until November next. So you will observe that prospective retrenchment avails nothing for present State purposes.

Moreover, if you had carefully examined the reports of the Auditor and Treasurer for the fiscal year ending 30th September, 1874, or any previous reports of those officers, we do not think you would have ventured to make the statement (so greatly at variance with the facts) that the expenses of the State need not exceed $265,000. The items of expenditures are given in each report, and, without stating the amount expended each year, we respectfully refer you to the reports, and invite a careful examination and scrutiny of their contents.

The expenses of the State Government for the past fiscal year, under all the economy which could be enforced, amount to $537,000, exclusive of the interest paid on State obligations ($54,203 23-100) and of the amount paid from the Treasury on account of public schools.

The larger part of the amount appropriated to public schools is paid directly to the school authorities in the various counties, without passing through the State Treasury; but in addition to such payments the sum of $117,000 was paid from the Treasury during the past fiscal year.

When you add the various amounts which necessarily take precedence over the payment of interest on the bonded debt, you will find that they aggregate about $835,483, to wit:

|---|---|
| State expenses | $537,000 |
| Appropriations to public schools | 244,280 |
| | $835,483 |

—leaving only $218,863 to be applied to the payment of interest on the bonded debt, or to be used for at least one year in the payment of State obligations.

This small balance is based upon your estimate of the annual revenue, say $1,054,346, and upon the ascertained disbursements of the past fiscal year, which cannot be diminished, but may unavoidably be increased.

It is doubtful whether the receipts during the present fiscal year will equal your estimate. The income from taxes on railroad property will be greatly diminished, as that species of property has depreciated in value.

In regard to expenditures, it is proper for us to say that the item of feeding prisoners will probably be increased, unless new legislation or improved morals should diminish the number of criminals fed at the expense of the State. In no event, therefore, do we see any prospect of reducing the expenses of the State during the present fiscal year below the amount expended for the year ending 30th September last.

Our plan is to devote whatever surplus there may be for next year to the reduction of the amount of State obligations now in circulation. Hence the provision in our proposition that the first payment of interest on the new bonds be deferred until 1st January, 1877; and as we cannot hope to retire more than $200,000 annually for five years, we propose the low rate of interest on the bonds for that period, knowing that the State cannot do more.

It must not be inferred that, because we omit in our proposition a variety of claims against the State, none of them will be recognized and provided for. The claims vary in character, and no general proposition could properly embrace all of them. Some of the claims to which we refer have been recognized by the State as valid, and others are now being investigated. In each case such recommendation will be made by commissioners as may seem to be just and proper.

Our report will be submitted to the General Assembly in a few days, and will be published soon thereafter. We will forward a copy to you, and we hope it will convince you that the commissioners have acted ingenuously and fairly towards the creditors of the State.

We regret that Alabama is not able to pay in full every dollar of her just indebtedness. The causes of her poverty are known to you, and if you and other bondholders would visit the State and see the waste, desolation and loss entailed upon our people—our uncultivated fields and depressed business—and ascertain, as you would, to what extent lands are sold for taxes and remain unredeemed, you would, we confidently believe, return thanks for your good fortune in sustaining no greater loss than will be incidental to an acceptance of our scheme of adjustment. Very respectfully,

GEO. S. HOUSTON,
LEVI W. LAWLER,
T. B. BETHEA,
} Commissioners.

Atlantic Mississippi & Ohio.—The proposition made by this company to the English bondholders is that the two half coupons and one full coupon on the consolidated bonds, together with the twelve coupons up to and including October 1, 1881, shall be delivered to two trustees, who shall hold them as security for the carrying out of the agreement, and as protection against any unforeseen action on the part of other creditors. In place of these coupons shall be issued twelve interest warrants at the rate of 3 per cent, due April 1st and October 1st of each year, and a 7 per cent income bond of an amount equal to the coupons already overdue and the 4 per cent to be surrendered for the coming six years. The amount of the divisional mortgages is now $5,123,041; of the consolidated bonds, including unpaid coupons, $5,906,415; and of the floating debt, $1,056,341.

Central of Iowa.—At a special term of the Circuit Court of the U. S., at Des Moines, Jan. 14, the cause of the Farmers' Loan & Trust Co. and this road was called for final disposition. A petition and motion presented by Sage and Cowdrey, asking to be made parties, and that the decree of last term be modified, was argued at considerable length, and both were overruled. Leave was granted to counsel for Sage and Cowdrey to appeal, by filing within thirty days a bond in the sum of one million dollars, to cover damages and the interests accruing on the bond. Unless the appeal is taken on the above conditions, the road will be sold as provided by the decree of October 5, 1875.

—Judge Dillon has appointed J. B. Grinnell permanent receiver, in place of D. N. Pickering, who has had charge of the road for three years. The appointment was made, as Judge Dillon states, of the Court's own motion.

Central Vermont.—The Supreme Court of Vermont has decided the Central Vermont Railroad quo warranto case, discharging the Rule dead and dismissing the petition. The opinion was rendered by Judge Redfield. As to the question of right, he held that the 2,350 shares issued to Langdon and Millis, on the day of election, had been purchased by the corporation from the original subscribers, and whether kept alive as stock or not they were an asset which the company had the right to sell, and when sold were good stock. The sale to Langdon being at most voidable, and no steps having been taken to avoid it, the election of the Smith board was sustained.

Detroit & Milwaukee.—The trustees under the first mortgage of the Detroit & Milwaukee Railroad Company have accompanied their answer to the suit in the Wayne (Michigan) Circuit Court for the foreclosure of the second mortgage with a cross bill, asking the foreclosure of the first. The Detroit Free Press says:

The result of the proceedings, if carried to a conclusion, will be to procure a foreclosure and sale of the road, and an adjustment of the respective rights of the bondholders under both mortgages as to the payment of the bonds. But the parties to the suit are so numerous, and as there are various other mortgages besides those now in litigation, it does not seem likely that a very speedy sale of the road will be obtained unless some concert of action should take place between the holders of the different securities. There are several schemes on foot looking to such a result, and it is said that an agent of the English bondholders is shortly expected in this country.

District of Columbia.—The House of Representatives passed a resolution on the 24th, directing Commissioners to pay the February interest on 3.65 bonds out of the funds already in their possession, and added a proviso to the resolution that the issue of the bonds be at once suspended, and that nothing in the resolution should be so construed as to recognize the validity or legality of any of these bonds already outstanding which have not been issued in accordance with law.

Greenville & Columbia.—At the annual meeting in April last, the stockholders voted to authorize a mortgage of $3,000,000 on the road, of which $2,500,000 were to be used in settling the outstanding debts, and the remaining $500,000 to be held in trust to be used in paying for future extensions and additions to the property. The mortgage has been made to the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company of New York, as trustee, and the company is now offering for sale the $2,500,000 of 20-year 7 per cent. bonds to be issued under it. They are offered at 75. It is stated that the net earnings of the road for the past year were about $245,000, more than enough to pay the interest.

Indianapolis Bloomington & Western.—The three committees, representing respectively the Danville Urbana Bloomington & Pekin first mortgage bondholders, the Indianapolis Bloomington & Western first mortgage, and the second mortgage bondholders, have agreed upon a plan of reorganization, an outline of which is as follows:

The foreclosure to be completed, the road bought in and a new company to be organized, which shall issue the following securities;

|---|---|
| First mortgage bonds ($17,327 per mile) | $3,500,000 |
| Second mortgage bonds ($7,426 per mile) | 1,500,000 |
| Stock } ($16 485 per mile) } Scrip | 2,500,000 |
| | 830,000 |

Both first and second mortgage bonds to bear interest from Oct. 1, 1876, at 4 per cent. for two years, 5 per cent. for two years more, and thereafter at 7 per cent., and to have 30 years to run, with a sinking fund of 1 per cent. The stock to have a dividend not exceeding 8 per cent., after interest on the bonds is paid, and any surplus after paying such dividend to go to a dividend on the scrip. The scrip to be convertible into stock after it shall have received one dividend of 7 per cent. These securities are to be divided as follows: $2,000,000 first mortgage bonds in exchange for the principal of the present Danville Urbana Bloomington & Pekin bonds, and $1,500,000 for 50 per cent. of the Indianapolis Bloomington & Western firsts, $1,500,000 second mortgage bonds for the remaining 50 per cent. of the latter. Of the stock, $600,000 to be issued for the accrued interest and for difference in interest for four years to come on the Danville bonds; $900,000 for accrued interest and difference in interest on the Indianapolis Bloomington & Western firsts, and $1,000,000 for 66 2-3 per cent. of the principal of the second mortgage bonds. The whole $830 000 in scrip to be issued in exchange for 33 1-3 per cent. of the principal of the second mortgage bonds and for the accrued interest on those bonds. That is, each holder of a $1,000 Danville Urbana Bloomington & Pekin bond will receive a $1,000 first mortgage bond and $300 in stock of the new company; each $1,000 Indianapolis Bloomington & Western first mortgage bond will be exchanged for a $500 first mortgage, a $500 second mortgage bond and $300 in stock; each $1,000 second mortgage bond for $666 67 in stock and $553 33 in scrip.

Lake Superior & Mississippi.—Fisher A. Baker, of No. 110 Broadway, one of the committee appointed to prepare a plan of sale, purchase and reorganization of the Lake Superior & Mississippi Railroad, announces that the committee have agreed upon a plan, which embraces the following points with others:

The trustees to foreclose and the committee of the bondholders to become the purchasers in trust for the parties uniting in the purchase, and a new corporation to be organized. Preferred stock then to be issued to the first mortgage bondholders for the amount of their bonds and accrued interest to January 1, 1876, and to be received at par for lands as the first mortgage bonds now are. The common stock to be issued to the holders of the income bonds, notes, certificates of indebtedness, book accounts and floating debt, for the amount of their respective claims and accrued interest, to January 1, 1876, and to the holders of the present common stock, at the rate of one share of new stock for twenty of old. Each share of preferred stock and every three shares of common stock to be entitled to one vote at all meetings of the company. No mortgage to be placed on the property without the written consent of the holders of not less than two-thirds of the preferred stock, then outstanding, and one-half of the common stock.

Missouri Kansas & Texas.—The Amsterdam committee of bondholders announced, Dec. 31, that the Union Pacific Southern Branch Coupons would not be paid Jan. 1, when due, there being great dissensions between the company and the committee concerning details in the conditions of the arrangement which was adopted July 26. The committee says that the request of the trustees, that, pending the litigation, the Receiver should pay the sum agreed upon under the araangement, has not been attended to. The committee hoped after the request had been brought before the Court, as was to be done Jan. 12, harmony would be established again.

New Orleans St. Louis & Chicago.—A meeting of the stockholders was held recently at No. 20 Nassau street, to act upon a proposition to issue preferred stock, to be used in settling the floating indebtedness of the company and retiring the 7 per cent. income and equipment mortgage bonds of the Miss. Central RR., and upon a proposition to issue $3,000,000 bonds of the N. O. St. Louis & Chicago RR., to improve and better equip the company's road. The Board of Directors was authorized to issue preferred stock, and the bonds as above stated.

Ohio and Mississippi.—The President, in a letter, gives an estimate of the traffic of the first half of this January, compared with the same period last year:

|---|---|
| Main line to 1876 | $143,241 54 |
| Main line in 1875 | 123,399 58 |
| Increase to 1876 | $19,841 96 |
| Springfield division in 1876 | 14,847 45 |
| Total increase in 1876 | $34,692 41 |

The movement of loaded cars is positive, and is appended also:

|---|---|
| Total car-loads moved on main line, 1st to 19th January, 1876 | 15,463 |
| Increase, 48 per cent | 5,018 |

The increase is mainly in grain and cotton from west of the Mississippi and from the South.

Pacific Railroads.—In response to a resolution of the Senate, the Secretary of the Treasury has communicated to that body a statement of his action under the law of June 22, 1874, providing for the collection of moneys due the United States from the Pacific Railroad Companies for the five per centum of their net earnings, required by the act of June 1, 1862, to be paid into the United States Treasury to constitute a sinking fund. It appears from this statement that demands were made by the Secretary of the Treasury upon the Treasurers of the respective railroad companies as follows: Nov. 12, 1874, Union Pacific Company, $1,040,056 29; Nov. 14, 1874, Kansas Pacific Company, $308,330 13; Nov. 14, 1874, Central Branch Union Pacific, $47,197 39; Oct. 31, 1874, Sioux City and Pacific, $21,104 42; Nov. 24, 1874, Central Pacific Company, $1,836,635 10. The amounts of these demands were based upon the net earnings reported by the companies from the date of the completion of their roads, these dates being stated by the Secretary of the Treasury as Nov. 6, 1869; Nov. 2, 1869; Jan. 20, 1868; March 3, 1869, and July 16, 1869, respectively. All of said companies having refused to pay the sums thus demanded, within sixty days from such demands, Secretary Bristow certified the fact to the Attorney General, and his duty under the act in question, thereupon ended. From reports made by the United States Attorneys of California, Kansas, Minnesota and Iowa, to the Solicitor of the Treasury, it appears, however, that suits were brought against all the companies in the proper districts during the month of April, 1875, and that these suits are still pending. In further response to the Senate resolution, Secretary Bristow states the action taken by the department under the law of March 3, 1873, relating to payment for government transportation, and the present condition of the matter therein referred to, since May 27, 1873. All moneys due the several Pacific Railroad Companies for transportation have been placed to their credit on account of interest due by them to the United States. The suits brought by the Central Pacific and Kansas Pacific Companies to recover the amount due them, and thus retained by the Treasury Department, are still pending in the Court of Claims. A copy of the judgment obtained by the Union Pacific Company, in its similar suit against the United States, has been duly presented to him, but the judgment has not been paid. He incloses a copy of a stipulation signed by the plaintiffs in this case, in which it is provided that no judgment which may be rendered against the United States shall be collected until after final judgment in the suit brought by the United States against said company under the act of June 22, 1874.

[It should be well understood that the main point at issue between the companies and the government is merely in regard to the time when the roads were technically completed according to the intent of the law. They are ready to pay on net earnings from 1874.]

Railroads in Illinois.—The report of the State Commissioners for the year ending June 30, 1875, compiled chiefly by Hon. F. T. Dubois, secretary of the Board, has lately been printed.

There have been 331 miles of main line and branches opened for business during the year, exclusive of such lines as are still under construction. This additional main line over last year is owned by the following companies:

| | Miles. |
|---|---|
| Cairo and St. Louis | 56.5 |
| Chicago, Danville and Vincennes | 21 |
| Chicago and Pacific | 50 |
| Chicago and Paducah | 28 |
| Illinois Midland | 78 |
| Paris and Danville | 38 |
| Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Chicago | 6 |
| Springfield and Northwestern | 47 |

Returns were received from fifty corporations, all of which have the common gauge, except the Cairo & St. Louis, which has a narrow gauge of three feet.

EARNINGS OF THE ENTIRE LINES (INCLUDING MILEAGE OUTSIDE OF ILLINOIS).

The following railroads, owning 38 per cent of the total mileage of the State, have within the last three years made default in payment of the interest on their bonded debt. We mention only such cases of default as have been followed by proceedings in the courts. In most of these cases receivers have been appointed on application, and in a few instances the holders of the mortgage bonds have foreclosed, the roads have been sold, and are now reorganized or in process of reorganization:

The Commercial Times.

COMMERCIAL EPITOME.

FRIDAY NIGHT, Jan. 28, 1876.

There is a very good general trade in progress, considering the early stage of the season, but business is now done at such small profits that complaints of dull times are still very general. The stagnation which has overtaken the speculative spirit prevailing in former years in leading staples of domestic products proves a great drawback to the revival of regular trade, for dealers, not anticipating any marked change in prices, permit their stocks to remain as low as possible. Numerous failures keep credits unsettled, and many are unwilling to sell except for cash. Despite these drawbacks, commercial affairs wear a more cheerful aspect.

Provisions have been without important changes, or much activity, except in lard, the speculation in which has been quite brisk at a lower range of prices, the effect of a reduced export demand and a larger production, owing tothe swine which have latterly been slaughtered showing a great increase in their weight, and therefore yielding a large proportion of lard. Pork has sold at some decline, but closes quite firm; new mess, $20 75 @20 90 on the spot and for the next two months, and $21 for April. Bacon has been active at full prices, and cutmeats are rather firmer. Beef remains quiet. Butter is slightly firmer for the finer grades. Cheese is ¼c. higher, and factories range from 9½@13½c. Tallow has been active at 9⅛@9⅜c. for good to prime.

The demand for Rio coffee has fallen off, but quotations remain at 18@19½c., gold, for fair to prime cargoes. The stock has been increased by arrivals of 39,000 bags, to 205,300 bags, and the visible supply for the United States is 461,000 bags. Mild grades have also been quiet, and stocks are 100,526 mats Java and 46,300 bags and 2,500 mats of other growths. Rice has been dull, and teas very quiet. Fruits steady, but quiet. Molasses moderately active at former prices. Raw sugars are 1-16@⅛c. lower, owing to the dulness of trade and the doubt in which the future of the market is involved; good refining quoted 8¼c., but standard crushed 10⅜c. The movement in raws has been:

|---|---|---|---|---|
| Receipts past week | 5,114 | 1,562 | 8,291 | — |

There has been a fair demand for Kentucky tobacco, and quotations are steady at 7@9c. for lugs and 10@18c. for leaf; the sales for the week embraced 550 hhds., of which 450 were for export and 100 for consumption. Seed leaf has been fairly active and unchanged; the sales embrace: Crop of 1873, 158 cases Ohio at 7 3 16c., 130 cases New England at 17c., and 100 cases New York on private terms; and crop of 1874, 400 cases New England at 7@50c., 200 cases New York at 7⅞@8c., and 200 cases Wisconsin on private terms. Spanish tobacco has been less active, but steady; sales 600 bales Havana at 88c.@$1 05.

Hides have been in moderate demand and steady; dry Montevideo sold at 20½@21c. gold, and city slaughter ox at 9c. currency. Linseed oil has been in fair jobbing demand at 61@63c. Other oils quiet and unchanged. Cloverseed has been active and higher, with sales of 4,000 bags at 14@15c. per lb. for Western and State. Whiskey has been dull at $1 10½@1 11, tax paid. Hops have met with a brisk demand for export, and are firmer at 14@18c. for fair to choice State, crop of 1875.

The business in ocean freights during the past week has been unusually moderate, and berth room has shown some decline in consequence; charter room, however, is steady under moderate offerings. Late engagements and charters included: Grain to Liverpool, by steam, 8d; cotton ¼d; provisions 30s@32s 6d. Grain to London, by steam, 9½d; provisions 45s, and hops ½d; grain, by sail, 8½d; do to Bristol, by steam, 9½d. The nominal rate for grain to Cork for orders was 6s 6d@6s 9d; residuum to Liverpool 5s; case oil to Java 32½@35c. To-day there was a continued dulness, and some further weakness was noticeable in berth room. Grain to Liverpool, by steam, 7¾d; do to London, by steam, 9½d. Flour to Bristol, by steam, 3s 4½d. No grain or petroleum charters.

The business in naval stores for the past week has been very small, and quotations are rather weak at 37c. for spirits turpentine and $1 60@1 65 for common to good strained rosin. The petroleum market has continued to advance and show much firmness, with a moderate business. Crude, in bulk, closes at 8¼@8⅝c., and refined, in bbls., at 14⅝@14½c., for early deliveries. Ingot copper has been slightly more active at somewhat reduced figures. Sales 300,000 lbs. Lake at 23@23½c., cash.

* On shipboard at Galveston to-night, not cleared: For Liverpool, 21,318 bales; for other foreign, 10,449 bales; for coastwise ports, 600 bales. Of the Galveston exports to-night, 230 are to Mexico.

†The exports this week under the head of "other ports" include from Baltimore 257 bales to Liverpool; from Boston 5,454 bales to Liverpool; from Philadelphia 641 bales to Liverpool; from Wilmington 3,829 bales to Liverpool.

[☞ Our telegram from New Orleans to-night shows that besides the above exports the amount of cotton on shipboard, and engaged for shipment at that port, is as follows: For Liverpool, 82,000 bales; for Havre, 28,000 bales; for Continent, 52,000 bales; for coastwise ports, 4,000 bales; total, 166,000 bales; which, if deducted from the stock, would leave 202,500 bales representing the quantity at the landing and in presses unsold or awaiting orders.]

From the foregoing statement it will be seen that, compared with the corresponding week of last season, there is a decrease in the exports this week of 21,564 bales, while the stocks to-night are 59,619 bales more than they were at this time a year ago. These mail returns do not correspond precisely with the total of the telegraphic figures, because in preparing them it is always necessary to incorporate every correction made at the ports.

The market has, except for the last two days, shown a hardening tendency for cotton on the spot, and on Wednesday quotations were placed at a uniform advance of ¼c., to 13¼c. for middling uplands. This improvement was the effect of various causes, each comparatively slight in itself; the Liverpool market was reported steady and more active, and there was an advance in rates of exchange; the demand for home consumption also slightly improved; but the main influence was a further falling off in receipts at the ports. Yesterday and to-day, with heavier receipts and Liverpool quiet, the market was weak and irregular, but not quotably lower. For future delivery, the market opened the week with a slight decline on Saturday, but in the course of Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, there was an upward tendency, and some improvement in prices, which was most decided in the Winter and Spring months. The influences which are noted above, as contributing to the advance in spot cottons, were felt in futures; but the speculation was pointless, and yesterday, under the large receipts at New Orleans (over 20,000 bales for the day), nearly the whole of the advance was lost, and the close was flat and spiritless. To-day, the market for futures opened weak, but recovered tone, and, though the demand was not active, prices ruled about steady.

The total sales for forward delivery for the week are 129,100 bales, including —— free on board. For immediate delivery the total sales foot up this week 8,047 bales, including 4,853 for export, 2,021 for consumption, 1,173 for speculation, and —— in transit. Of the above, 200 bales were to arrive. The following are the closing quotations:

These figures indicate an increase in the cotton in sight to-night of 142,625 bales as compared with the same date of 1875, an increase of 28,225 bales as compared with the corresponding date of 1874, and an increase of 477,391 bales as compared with 1873.

AT THE INTERIOR PORTS the movement—that is the receipts and shipments for the week and stock to-night, and for the corresponding week of 1875—is set out in detail in the following statement:

The above totals show that the old interior stocks have increased during the week 5,473 bales, and are to-night 18,494 bales less than at the same period last year. The receipts have been 5,921 bales more than the same week last year.

BOMBAY SHIPMENTS.—According to our cable despatch received to-day, there have been 13,000 bales shipped from Bombay to Great Britain the past two weeks, and 6,000 bales to the Continent; while the receipts at Bombay during this week have been 18,000 bales. The movement since the 1st of January is as follows. These are the figures of W. Nicol & Co., of Bombay, and are brought down to Thursday, Jan. 27:

| | Shipments this week | | | Shipments since Jan. 1 | | | Receipts. | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1876..... | 13,000 | 6,000 | 19,000 | 22,000 | 21,000 | 43,000 | 18,000 | 60,000 |
| 1875..... | 16,000 | 2,000 | 18,000 | 39,000 | 31,000 | 70,000 | 87,000 | 117,000 |

From the foregoing it would appear that, compared with last year, there is a decrease of 17,000 bales this year in the week's shipments from Bombay to Europe, and that the total movement since January 1 shows a decrease in shipments of 27,000 bales compared with the corresponding period of 1874.

WEATHER REPORTS BY TELEGRAPH.—There has been a very considerable rainfall the past week in much of the cotton section, more particularly the Western and Southwestern States. The roads are again bad. Our Texas telegrams all speak of the roads being much cut up and delaying the movement of the crop.

Galveston, Texas.—We have had no rain here this week, but it has been foggy. Up the country there have been drizzling rains. The roads are badly cut up, and in some sections impracticable. This, and the disposition to hold cotton to the extent of their ability, are the cause of the small receipts. January payments are now mostly made, and planters are easier. The thermometer has averaged 67, the highest being 74 and the lowest 60.

Indianola, Texas.—There has been no rain here, but it has been cloudy. Roads are bad, and planters are not at present disposed to market their cotton freely. The thermometer has averaged 67, the highest being 78 and the lowest 53.

Corsicana, Texas.—We have had a drizzling rain on four days, and the rest of the week has been cloudy. The roads are again bad. The thermometer has averaged 58, the highest being 77 and the lowest 35.

New Orleans, Louisiana.—We have had no rain here the past week. The thermometer has averaged 64.

Shreveport, Louisiana.—The weather has been warm, showery and close all the week, the rainfall reaching thirty-four hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 62, the highest being 76 and the lowest 46.

Vicksburg, Mississippi.—It has rained here on four days this week. The thermometer has averaged 62, the highest being 77 and the lowest 43.

Columbus, Mississippi.—The weather has been warm the past week, with occasional showers, the rainfall reaching twenty hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 61, the extremes being 48 and 76.

Little Rock, Arkansas.—The weather has been cloudy all the past week. The thermometer has averaged 55, the highest being 72 and the lowest 36. Total rainfall for the week ninety-five hundredths of an inch, and raining heavily now. There will be little, if any, more cotton gathered in this section. A large quantity yet in the fields has been destroyed.

Nashville, Tennessee.—There were light showers on three days of the week, the rainfall reaching thirty-five hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 52, while the extreme range was 43 to 61.

Memphis, Tennessee.—There were three rainy days here the past week, the rainfall reaching one inch and forty-four hundredths. Average thermometer 53, highest 60 and lowest 44.

Mobile, Alabama.—One day this week was showery and two days were cloudy. The rest of the week was pleasant, but warm. The rainfall has reached eleven hundredths of an inch, and the thermometer has averaged 63, ranging from 38 to 72.

Montgomery, Alabama.—We have had warm, sultry, wet weather the past week. There have been three rainy days, with a rainfall of three inches, and the thermometer has ranged from 36 to 75, averaging 61.

Selma, Alabama.—The weather the past week, excepting one rainy day, has been pleasant. The thermometer has averaged 60, and the rainfall has reached seven hundredths of an inch.

Macon, Georgia.—Rain fell at this point on one day this week. The thermometer has averaged 58, the highest being 72 and the lowest 44.

Atlanta, Georgia.—We have had two rainy days (showery), the rainfall reaching thirty-three hundredths of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 54, the extremes being 32 and 71.

Columbus, Georgia.—There was rain on only one day the past week (showery), the rainfall reaching eight-hundredths of an inch. Average thermometer 59, highest 68, and lowest 52.

Savannah, Georgia.—We had one day on which there was rain this week, the rainfall reaching thirty-hundredths of an inch. The rest of the week has been pleasant. The thermometer has averaged 62, the highest being 75, and the lowest 39.

Augusta, Georgia.—The weather the past week has been warm and dry, there having been only a light rain on one day. The thermometer has averaged 59—the highest was 78 and the lowest 32. Rainfall nine hundredths of an inch.

Charleston, South Carolina.—It was showery one day this week, the rainfall reaching one hundredth of an inch. The thermometer has averaged 58, the highest being 76 and the lowest 42.

The following statement we have also received by telegraph showing the height of the rivers at the points named at 3 o'clock Jan. 27. We give last year's figures (Jan. 29, 1875) for comparison.

New Orleans reported below high-water mark of 1871 until Sept. 9, 1874, when the zero of gauge was changed to high-water mark of April 15 and 16, 1874, which is 6-10ths of a foot above 1871, or 16 feet above low-water mark at that point.

FUTURE RECEIPTS AT NEW ORLEANS.—Yesterday we telegraphed to our correspondents at Shreveport, Vicksburg and New Orleans, to learn, if possible, what were to be the receipts at the latter point during the remainder of the year. The question we asked in each case was, in substance, the same, to wit: Will the movement of cotton for the remainder of this crop year be larger or smaller than for the same period of last year? To-day we have received the following answers:

"Vicksburg, Jan. 28—Considerable more cotton will be furnished this year than last year."

"Shreveport, Jan. 28—Two-fifths of the entire crop are yet to arrive; ten thousand bales more than last year."

"New Orleans, Jan. 28—Believe receipts will be large during February and March."

The receipts at all the ports already show (not including this week) an excess of about 370,000 bales over last year. This would give us a crop of 4,200,000 bales, provided there is to be no further increase and the overland is the same; but the overland also has thus far been at least 30,000 bales in excess of same time in 1874-5. Our advices do not show that we are to get in the aggregate any less cotton than last season at the Atlantic ports (including Mobile) for the remainder of the season, while at Galveston they expect considerable further increase. Our readers can interpret these facts as well as we can.

AGRICULTURAL BUREAU'S METHOD OF CROP REPORTING.—In some remarks we made on the last report of the Bureau (See CHRONICLE, Jan. 15, pages 67-68), we referred to the great difficulty the trade found in interpreting its figures and the importance of establishing some more certain or exact unit for comparison. We find that there is very great interest felt on this subject, and we return to it now for the purpose of explaining the matter more fully.

And first, as to the necessity of a change. Of course, the object of these government reports is to convey information, and in as exact a form as possible. Yet, it is scarcely necessary for us to say that no report of condition ever issued by the Bureau has been interpreted by any two persons alike. With the best of intentions, there seems to be an utter impossibility of reaching a conclusion which any one is sure is the right one; and guessing at what the Agricultural Bureau means has become as much a matter of contention as guessing on the crop. In our analysis of the last Bureau figures, which we gave on the 15th instant, we supposed we had found a key for unlocking these mysteries hereafter. But since then, applying the rule there used to other years, we see it is no guide whatever. Besides, this plan of adding up the five months' average condition, to obtain the year's average, seems without any reasonable basis, unless we are to suppose those monthly figures are a statement of the simple growth or progress for the month. Heretofore, however, it has always been said that they were a statement of "condition," and, if that is true, why certainly the figures of "condition" on Oct. 1 must of themselves include the whole season's changes and growth, and be an indication of the result of the season—or, literally, of the condition of the plant Oct. 1. Still, this is a matter of no importance if we can know who or what is right. Then, again, what degree of excellence does the unit 100 indicate?—with what crop shall it be compared? The result shows that this year it meant a comparison with last year's crop. It indicated no such thing in 1874 or in 1873; that is to say, the result will not work out on any such supposition. Is it unreasonable, then, to suggest that its meaning be made definite. If the plan pursued this year is the one to be pursued hereafter, would it not be a very decided advantage to have it generally and definitely known? Then the way-faring man, though a fool (and we do not all of us claim to be overburdened with wit), need not err therein.

But if we are to have a change in the government system of reporting, a correspondent makes a suggestion which is certainly well deserving of careful consideration. He says, speaking of the Bureau:

None appear to know what its unit is: if 100, then in what relation to the product of an acre; and if that figure is the maximum (as it should be), how is it sometimes overstepped, as in the Arkansas and Tennessee report for last August—108 and 107. If 100 is not the highest, then how are we to compare 85 to what the crop could be. If a figure were chosen above anything that could be obtained, and that known and retained, a lower one could then be compared and an estimate made; but, as now, in exceeding 100, what is to prevent its exceeding 200?

Take, for example, one bale to the acre, and the decimal of 100 to correspond—a figure which would never be reached. A planter can easily say, by looking at his fields, how much on the average an acre will yield him (a farmer finds no difficulty in determining this in bushels for grain), say half a bale; then he makes his report 50; or, take it one-third of a bale, which would change it to 33 1-3. In this way we could readily arrive at a crop estimate by taking the acreage planted. The mathematical requirements here are facile enough for even the most uneducated. Comparisons with former years to determine an average is too heavy a tax on memory, which at best is treacherous; allowing the possibility and probability of a planter's hopes or disappointments influencing his mind.

Did 1 to 100 represent the product of an acre, and taking the average of the ten States for October, 1874, we would have had 43·75 equal to 71·69, the Bureau's average. On a planting of 8,800,000 acres the crop was 3,850,000, or 43·75 per acre.

As we now take it, and others with us, it would seem that the figures are compared to the crop of 1870–71—supposed to be an average one; and that it is this which is the unit of 100, and that anything outnumbering this would denote a better condition than in that year. If this is the case, is it not asking too much of the planter or correspondent to depend on his memory for that season, which would fade yearly. Would it not be wiser to take his experience, which increases yearly and enables him to determine with greater accuracy the product of an acre? Thus, in giving his monthly report, he only looks to the time being. He should not and would not refer to the past, and could not anticipate the future.

There is certainly a thought in the above which is valuable, and we should think could be utilized to great advantage. Starting with the ascertained acreage planted, and any abandonment for overflows or other disasters deducted, it would be the easiest possible problem to determine, in the way suggested, the prospective yield. But we do not, however, at all insist that this or any new plan shall be adopted. The great point is for the Bureau to make it plain to all what its figures mean.

INDIA COTTON.—We have not referred to the new crop of cotton in India for several weeks, as there has been no special change, until the very latest mail dates, in the expectations, so far as the leading authorities are concerned. They have seemed to anticipate a good crop, although a late one in the early districts. The weather during the first three weeks of December, however, has not been favorable, considerable rain having fallen; but there does not appear to be any general apprehension of damage to quantity, except in a small way; but to the quality more harm has been done. Finlay, Muir & Co., however, take a little less hopeful view with regard to the Oomrawuttee districts.

Messrs. Nicol & Co., under date of Dec. 11, write:

The accounts received from our correspondents this week generally complain of unseasonable weather, rain having fallen in the Berars and in some portions of Guzerat. So far as we have been able to ascertain, any injury done in the assigned districts has been confined to Akote, about one-eighth of the produce of which will probably show black leaf; but there can be little doubt that all over the Berars picking has been retarded by the untimely showers, and the marketing of the crop thereby rendered later. In Guzerat no damage whatever seems to have been done, and the Broach crop is reported as being in splendid condition.

On December 18 the same authorities say:

The latest advices from the various districts report the weather as very favorable for picking operations. * * * In the Akote District the damage done by late rains is now showing in the cotton coming to market; only one-fourth of which is to be found free from black leaf. From Khamgaum and Oomrawuttee we are now receiving a somewhat better style of cotton, but dark leaf is still very prevalent. Hingunghat of fine quality is, we learn, becoming very difficult to obtain in other than small lots. From Broach we continue to receive good accounts, and, so far, everything seems to give promise of a crop equal in extent (if not larger) than that of last year.

Messrs. Finlay, Muir & Co., under date of Dec. 15, write:

During the early part of the fortnight the weather was very unsettled, both here and up-country. Rain fell more or less through the districts producing Oomrawuttee. Very contradictory reports as to its effect have been received. Ryots are always prone to exaggerate any damage, and European agents were unwilling to place much faith on their first reports, and advised that they did not consider much harm had been done, but a correspondent who sent out special messengers advises that he thinks it certain that the Jerree crop has suffered considerably, and that both quantity and quality will be affected. His estimate is that Berar will be 50,000 bales less than last year. In Broach 10 —— of rain fell, and this would benefit the plants. No later news of a reliable character has reached us from Dhollera. Prospects are again less favorable in Dharwar, blight having appeared in some quarters.

GUNNY BAGS, BAGGING, ETC.—The market for bagging during the past week has ruled very quiet; no large lots have been disposed of, and orders of good size are scarce. There is a fair business passing in small lots for consumption, and prices rule steady at 13@13¼c. Bales rule nominal at 9@9¼c. for India, and 12¼c. for Borneo. Bags have not sold to any extent, and prices are quoted at 13¼c. for 440s. Butts have been in fair request, and prices continue firm at 2⅝c. gold for late arrivals, and 3¼c. currency for lots near at hand. Sales are reported of 1,000 bales Boston, to arrive, at 2⅝c. gold, cash; 800 bales, due here in February, at 3¼c. currency, and 800 bales, February shipment, at 2⅝c. gold, the market closing firm at these figures.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 28.—3:00 P. M.—BY CABLE FROM LIVERPOOL.—The market has ruled quiet to-day. Estimated sales of the day were 10,000 bales, of which 2,000 bales were for export and speculation. Of to-day's sales 5,900 bales were American. The weekly movement is given as follows:

Below we give all news received to date of disasters, &c., to vessels carrying cotton from United States ports:

DHOOLIA, str. (Br.), from New Orleans, at Grimsby, in bringing up in the Humber, Jan. 9, parted her cable, losing an anchor and 30 fathoms of cable, but which would probably be recovered.

RALEIGH, (str.) which sailed from Wilmington, N. C., Jan. 18, for Baltimore, sustained a slight accident at sea by the blowing off of a piece of her boiler. She returned to Smithville, but the injury being slight, she put to sea again in the evening, and arrived at Baltimore 21st.

STATE OF NEVADA, str. (Br.), Brace, which arrived at Antwerp, Jan. 19, from New York, collided in the harbor on the 24th with steamer Rallus, (Br). The latter vessel was badly damaged and run ashore. The extent of injuries to the State of Nevada had not been ascertained. She was advertised to leave for New York on Jan. 28.

VIRGINIA, (str.) from Charleston for Philadelphia, anchored off Fort Delaware at 8:30 A. M. Jan. 25, supposed damaged, and passed Newcastle at 3:50 same day in tow.

JUVENTA, ship (Br)., France, from Mobile for Liverpool, before reported, was discharging at Key West, Jan. 19, for repairs.

ENTERPRISE II, bark (Dtch.), Mulder, from New Orleans, Dec. 14, for Havre, with 2,073 bales cotton, 25 do. moss, and 2,400 staves, ran on Colorado Reef to the N. W. of Cuba prior to Jan. 6. She was being discharged on the 10th, and a complete salvage was looked for.

MARY FROST, bark (Br.), Neil, loaded with cotton for Liverpool, took fire at Galveston, night of Jan. 11. The fire department was promptly on hand, and after removing a considerable number of the ballast it was deemed advisable for the engines to fill her hold with water to the level of the cotton, which was done. The following day a steam engine was set at work to remove the water, when, after nearly completing that duty, the fire again developed itself and the vessel was again re-filled with water. The vessel was then unloaded to obviate further danger. The damage sustained by the cargo is almost solely confined to water—the fire having been extinguished before it reached any considerable headway. The chief engineer and foreman of the fire department brought suit against the bark in the U. S. Circuit Court for salvage, claiming $70,000, but at a meeting of the City Council, the firemen's action was annulled, and an effort to remove them from office was defeated by the lack of a two-third vote.

THORWALD.—The reported stranding of the bark Thorwald'(Dutch) from New Orleans for Havre, at Bahia Honda, has not been confirmed.

CADET, (Brig) Leighton, from Charleston for Liverpool, put into Queenstown Dec, 21, with the master sick.

RHONE, brig (Br.), O'Brien, from New Orleans for Bremen, with cotton, which put into Nieuwe Diep, Jan. 8, leaky, having been aground at Texel, had 6 feet water in her hold on the 10th, and would have to discharge for repairs.

HARTSTENE, (schr.), stranded at Hollands Wadero, had completely broken up Jan. 3.

Market dull.

BREADSTUFFS.

FRIDAY, P. M., January 28, 1876.

The flour market has been comparatively quiet the past week, and prices have had a downward tendency, though no important reduction can be made in the range of quotations. On Tuesday several thousand barrels of good shipping extras from spring wheat (State and Wisconsin) sold at $5 20@$5 25, and there has been more doing by the city mills in West India brands at $5 75@$6; but, on the whole, trade has been slow. Scarcely a new influence has been felt. Supply and demand have been alike moderate, here and at the West, and there has been very little change in foreign markets. Sterling exchange has been firmer, and ocean freights close a little lower. To-day, the market was dull and low grades weak.

The wheat market has been less active, but prices have been well maintained for all grades. The demand for the better grades of spring and winter wheats, for milling and for shipment to British outports and the continent, has been trifling, but there has been some revival of the export demand for low grades of spring growth, the sales including poor rejected at 94c, better qualities of rejected at 97@99c, No. 3 Milwaukee at $1 09@1 10. The sales of No. 2 Milwaukee have been at $1 25 afloat, and of No. 1 Spring $1 35 for Canada in bond. No. 2 Toledo red winter has sold at $1 30 to arrive, and choice amber as high as $1 47. To-day, the market was depressed, and the sales embraced No. 2 Milwaukee at $1 23 afloat.

Indian corn has been active for export and home use, and the speculation for February has been on a more extensive scale; but, with supplies comparatively free, and foreign advices depressed, the advance of early in the week has not been maintained. Yesterday, there were free sales of prime new mixed at 62¾@63c. on the spot and 63@63¼c. for Feb. delivery. Supplies are coming forward freely at all points, and the Southern States appear to be taking from the West much less than formerly, and some of them have a surplus to sell. To-day, there was no essential change, but the market favored buyers.

Rye has sold at widely irregular prices, but quotations are revised and reduced. Barley has been very active at pretty full prices, including choice Bay Quinte at $1 30, and good No. 2 State two-rowed at 88@90c; barley malt also doing better for choice samples. Canada peas are dull at $1 02@1 03, in bond.

Oats have been in better demand, and prices show an advance of fully one cent per bushel for the week, with choice mixed salable at 49c. and choice white at 52c., and 47c. bid for No. 2 Chicago in store. To-day the market was very quiet, owing to the extreme views of holders.

THE DRY GOODS TRADE.

FRIDAY, P. M., Jan. 28, 1876.

The week's traffic has been less active than was expected from the increased number of buyers in the market. Jobbers from California and other remote parts of the country bought fair quantities of assorted merchandise, but the Western trade operated lightly, and the city jobbers held aloof from the market to a noticeable extent. The clothing trade were well represented, but their purchases were mostly made in small amounts, and were not important in the aggregate. There was some pressure on the part of manufacturers' agents to sell certain makes of cotton goods, prints, &c., and many lines of these goods were either placed "on memoradum" to be charged up hereafter or dated ahead, by means of which a considerable quantity of goods changed hands. There were still further failures of jobbers in Boston, and collections in some other sections of the country were not entirely satisfactory, although wholesale buyers have met their payments with promptitude. The export movement in cotton goods was comparatively large, being 2,235 packages for the week from this port, of which 1,520 packages were shipped to Africa, 405 to Liverpool, 207 to Brazil, and the remainder to other countries.

DOMESTIC COTTON GOODS.—There was a dragging demand for all descriptions of cotton fabrics, but, on the whole, prices were well sustained by agents. Brown sheetings and shirtings were quiet for new business, but some liberal deliveries were made in execution of previous orders. Bleached shirtings were taken by shirt manufacturers and by the trade in moderate quantities, the best makes being most in demand. New York Mills wide sheetings were subjected to a reduction in price. Tickings, denims and other colored cottons remained quiet. Cottonades of the better grades were in fair request, but inferior makes were dull and weak. Corset jeans and satteens were in steady request and firm. Rolled jacconets, cambrics and silesias were quiet but unchanged in price. Grain bags moved slowly, and there was not much animation in carpet warps, yarns or twines. Print cloths continued depressed at 4½c.—10@30 days—at which figures very few transactions occurred. Prints were not so active as could be desired, and several makes have begun to accumulate in agents' hands. Shirting prints and cambrics met with fair sales, but at low and somewhat irregular prices. The Bristol fancy prints were opened at 7½c., and cambrics of the same production at 9c. Cotton dress goods attracted much attention, and agents received fair orders for future delivery. Staple ginghams were in fair demand, but fancy styles were quiet. Cotton hosiery was distributed in liberal amounts in execution of orders.

DOMESTIC WOOLEN GOODS.—The demand for spring woolens from first hands has been less active than was generally expected by holders. There was no lack of buyers in the market, but their purchases were individually light. The clothing trade bought very few goods, and cloth jobbers confined their selections to small lots of the newest styles of cassimeres, suitings and worsted coatings. Some transactions occurred in cotton warp fancy chinchillas and overcoatings for the fall trade, but these were exceptional, and restricted to a few favorite makes. Cloths and doeskins were inactive, but there was an increased movement in satinets. Kentucky jeans were in irregular demand, with most relative activity in low grades. Flannels continued quiet, and the package trade in blankets was nominal. Worsted dress fabrics were in moderate request by far-off jobbers, but the Western, Southern and near-by trade operated sparingly in these goods. Worsted shawls were more inquired for by California and Texas jobbers, who placed some fair orders for future delivery.

FOREIGN DRY GOODS.—There was a better demand for British dress fabrics, which were opened by some of the importers in new Spring styles, but imported goods were generally quiet. Silks moved slowly, and the supply is so large that an effort will shortly be made to close out some large lots at auction. Linen goods dragged, except dress linens, which were in fair demand. Staple white goods and embroideries were in limited request by manufacturers and the trade. Woolen goods for men's wear ruled quiet. The auction season will be inaugurated next week, when important lines of housekeeping linen goods, white goods, straw goods, &c., will be offered for public competition.

Mortgage Security Co.

BY ITS

CAPITAL STOCK OF $500,000.

Interest Coupons payable semi-annually. Bonds registered to order, or payable to bearer at option. Accrued interest is not required to be paid by purchaser, the next-due Coupon being stamped so as to denote that interest begins at the date of purchase.

A Pamphlet with full information will be sent on application to the Company's Office,

43 Milk Street, Boston.

These Bonds are commended to the attention of the MOST CONSERVATIVE INVESTORS, as they are believed to be as perfect a security as can be obtained. The issue of Bonds is limited to one-half the amount of the same class of Bonds ever issued under a like Guarantee.

The security of each Bond is not confined a to single Mortgage, but extends over all the Mortgages owned by the Company. This Company receives no deposits, guarantees no other securities, and has no other debts than its bonds. Its Mortgages are of like character to those which have been bought in the last twenty years by Individuals, Life Insurance Companies and other Corporations, to the amount of more than Fifty Millions of Dollars, proving a most secure and satisfactory investment. The Loans are all upon improved Farms in some of the most fertile Western States, near the Railroads, with short and perfect titles, and average less than $650 each, upon property worth nearly four times their amount. Experience has proved that well selected Mortgages upon this class of property are safer than those upon city property, either in the East or West. They are not affected by Fires, or by Business revulsions; Principal and Interest are more promptly paid; and upon the success of Agriculture depends that of almost every Industrial Investment.

Ten Per Cent.
On Mortgage Security.

Having been engaged for the past 12 years in investing money at ten per cent interest, on farm property in Illinois, we have now opened a branch office at Council Bluffs, Iowa. The amount of loans placed by us have exceeded $4,500,000 without the loss of a single dollar to the investors.

Iowa has entered upon a career of wonderful, and, we believe, permanent prosperity. During 1874 Iowa farmers raised more wheat, corn and hogs than any other State in the Union.

The demand for loans is active, and we are receiving large numbers of choice applications for sums ranging from $500 to $10,000 on from three to five years time.

CHARACTER OF THE BUSINESS.

The mortgages, taken from borrowers by this Company, are secured by a first lien on Real Estate, and are then offered for sale with the absolute guaranty, on the part of this Company, of the prompt payment of both principal and interest when due, at the office of the Company in New York City.

This Company issues no Bonds of its own, but only negotiates with its guaranty the Bonds it has received from persons to whom it has lent its money on mortgage. No Bond, therefore, can be put in circulation by the Company unless its amount has been secured by mortgage. To the negotiation, guaranty and sale of such Bonds the Company is exclusively devoted, and it incurs no obligations except those arising from such guaranty.

RULES IN MAKING LOANS.

The appraisement of property, searching of titles, execution of bonds and mortgages, and other details of the business of loaning, are performed with the utmost possible care, by the most competent of agents and attorneys, and the following invariable rules have been adopted by the Company:

1st. Loan only on First Mortgage.

2d. Loan no more on any property than 50 per cent of a low cash valuation.

3d. Loan no more than the value of the land, independent of any improvement it may have on it.

4th. No loans on farms shall be taken at more than one-third of the value of the land without the improvements.

5th. Make no loans to Churches, to Religious or Charitable Societies or Corporate Bodies.

6th. Factories, Mills or Machinery will not be reckoned as part of any security.

7th. The rental value of any security must be at least Ten per cent of the amount of loan made upon it.

FORM OF THE BONDS AND MORTGAGES.

The obligations are in the form of Bonds with Interest Coupons attached. They are divided into denominations of One Thousand and Five Hundred Dollars each, bear seven per cent interest payable semi-annually, at the New York office of the Company, or at Messrs. Baring Brothers in London, run for a period of five years, and can be registered if desired.

The borrower empowers a Trustee, in whose name the mortgage is made, to sell the property in case of non-payment of interest or principal. The Trustee cannot apply the proceeds of the sale to any other purpose than that of taking up the Bonds secured by the property, and the money will not even pass into the Company's hands unless it is itself in possession of these identical Bonds.

SECURITY OF THE INVESTMENT.

The purchaser of these Real Estate Bonds has a three-fold security for his investment, each independent of the other, viz.:

1st. The personal obligation of the borrower, who must be a party of good character and standing.

2d. A first mortgage on specified Real Estate, taken with the utmost care, on substantial property at a low valuation.

3d. The guaranty and endorsement of this Company, having a paid-up capital of $1,000,000 and a surplus of $235,000, which is to be steadily increased to $1,000,000.

He can enforce his claim against the real estate by which this Bond is secured. He can hold the Company on its guaranty. No act of the Company can prevent or impair his remedy on the mortgage, and no act of the mortgagor can prejudice the purchaser's claim against the Company on its guaranty.

The Company commenced operations in 1872, and up to the first of September, 1875, had made total loans of $5,061,000, and sold bonds to the amount of $4,664,500. They have never had a foreclosure, and in consequence of the steady demand for their bonds, and the high character of the investment, they have recently advanced the price to 102 and accrued interest.

INVESTMENTS IN JANUARY.

The common prediction of a "January rise" in investment securities has been fully realized during the present month. Government and railroad bonds have been very strong on an active business, and in some cases the advance in prices of the latter since the close of December has been 5@10 per cent. The high prices of United States bonds at home has led to a large import movement from Germany and England, and the amount of bonds ordered from abroad since the first of the year is estimated at high figures by the principal dealers in governments and in foreign exchange. The syndicate have virtually closed their negotiations, and any increase in the demand at home is necessarily supplied by the return of five-twenties from the foreign markets, as there is no stock in this country to meet the demand.

By the last United States debt statement, January 1, 1876, it appeared that the total amount of coupon bonds outstanding was $922,938,850, and as it is known that practically the whole amount of registered bonds is held in this country, it is believed by parties well-informed that an estimate of from 500 to 700 millions will fully cover the amount of United States securities held abroad.

With railroad bonds there has been a large advance in some of the second mortgage or other bonds which had been ruling at very low prices, showing a disposition on the part of buyers to try an investment in bonds not strictly first-class, at prices which pay 8 to 10 per cent interest on the investment; this inclination was encouraged by the idea that railroads are going to do much better in 1876 than in 1875, and that no more of the old roads having an established business are at all likely to go to default hereafter.

The following table shows the sales or bid and asked prices of the principal issues of government bonds and of some of the popular railroad bonds which have advanced considerably, on the 3d to the 5th of January, and again on the 25th and 26th:

In the Chronicle of the 22d inst., was presented a complete list of all companies defaulting on their interest maturing at any time since the panic of 1873. This list was more carefully prepared than any similar statement previously published, and was accompanied by remarks upon the condition of each company, that no injustice or misrepresentation should be allowed to occur. The general conclusions of the tabulation when classified and arranged were as follows:

|---|---|---|
| 1. Total amount of railroad bonds on which default has been made in the payment of any interest falling due from Sept. 20, 1873, to Jan. 1, 1876, inclusive | | $789,367,665 |
| 2. The above, arranged by years, according to date of first default by the respective companies, is as follows: | | |
| Total bonds of companies first defaulting prior to 1873 | $134,684,600 | |
| Total bonds of companies first defaulting Jan. 1 to Sept. 20, 1873 | 91,740,500 | |
| Total bonds of companies first defaulting Sept. 20 to Dec. 31, 1873 | 152,633,250 | |
| Total bonds of companies first defaulting in 1874 | 265,366,701 | |
| Total bonds of companies first defaulting in 1875 | 140,448,214 | |
| Total bonds of companies first defaulting Jan. 1, '76 | 4,494,400 | |
| Total as above | | $789,367,665 |
| 3. Arrangement according to condition of companies: | | |
| Bonds of companies already funded or settled | $91,549,250 | |
| Do. settling or remaining without litigation | 151,369,500 | |
| Do. having foreclosure or other suits pending | 387,079,615 | |
| Do. foreclosed or re-organized | 159,373,300 | |
| Total as above | | $789,367,665 |
| 4. Bonds now in default, unsettled | | $538,415,115 |
| 5. Proportion of grand total estimated to have been held in the United States | $535,967,665 | |
| Proportion estimated to be held abroad | 253,400,000 | |

The statement will be perpetuated for reference in our annual "Financial Review," to be issued February 10, and with this final publication we trust that we shall be able to take leave of the unfortunate subject of railroad defaults, and allow the compilation to remain as a sad chapter in the financial history of the United States, which at least, may have some fruits in its forcible warnings to the financial managers of the future.

As railroad stocks and bonds have been, and probably will continue to be, among the most popular investments open to the private investor, it may not be out of place to suggest one thing which would render those securities more acceptable and more secure. Where railroads have a business, established for years, which has enabled them to pay dividends on a large amount of stock, it is apparent that all the money so disbursed for dividends constitutes a surplus fund for the payment of interest on the funded debt in any year when the earnings should be inadequate to pay both dividends and interest. But with such railroads as have only sufficient earnings to pay their interest, with possibly a small surplus, there is evidently a weakness which is liable to be troublesome at any time when their earnings are unavoidably reduced by panics or depression in business, by failure of crops or other causes. For most railroads with a large bonded debt an available surplus convertible into cash on short notice would seem to be necessary to place them in a thoroughly sound condition. Suppose that a company of this class should carry a surplus, invested in governments or other first-class bonds paying 6 to 7 per cent interest, equivalent to one year's full interest on its bonded debt,—(such a proposition would probably be received with ridicule by most of the railroad managers of the country)—and should determine to conduct all its operations subject to that, increasing the amount as new bonds were issued, and paying in dividends only the amount earned above that surplus. Would this form a practicable remedy? Whether it would or not, it is pretty clear that the traffic on most railroads is not likely to be placed on such a basis that it may not at times be seriously deranged by causes outside of the company's control, and if there are no resources from which to meet interest payments in such an emergency, there remains always a possible danger of being thrown into bankruptcy.

Alabama.— A bill was passed in December, 1874, appointing commissioners to "take charge of and ascertain, liquidate and adjust," the legal liabilities of the State on its bonds. The Committee on Finance, &c., reported to the Constitutional Convention, Sept., 1875. See V. 21, p. 276. The proposal made by commissioners to State creditors is given in V. 21, p. 531. The State has been in default since Jan., 1874. The valuation of all taxable property is given at $160,000,000; tax rate, three-fourths of 1 per cent. (V. 20, p. 139, 539, 570, 581; V. 21, p. 276, 294, 322, 612.)

Arkansas.—Rate of taxation, 5 mills. Unfunded debt is mostly held by U. S. The State is in default for interest. By the last assessment for 1872 and 1873 the total valuation of property was $104,972,329. Interest was paid Jan. 1, 1876, on secured sinking fund bonds, issued under the law of December, 1874, to pay expenses. A Board of Finance was appointed in January, 1875, to confer with bondholders of the State and they issued a notice as quoted in V 20, p. 161. See CHRONICLE, V. 19, p. 167, 189, 637; V. 20, p. 139, 161; V. 21, p. 465, 590.

California.—California finances appear to be in a particularly sound condition. The State holds in trust for School and University funds the $500,000 Capitol bonds and $2,063,000 of bonds 1873. Total valuation of property, 1874, over $600,000,000. Tax rate, 50 cents per $100. As the debt is now practically extinguished, the Governor advises the gradual cancellation of the bonds held in trust and the purchase of foreign securities in their place. (V. 19, p. 3 of advertisements; V. 19, p. 32.)

Connecticut.—The debt of Connecticut was all created for war purposes, and has been reduced since 1866 from $10,000,000 to the present figures by sinking fund purchases. The 1861 bonds are payable at pleasure since July, 1871, and those of 1864 after October, 1874. Assessed value of real and personal property, $358,491,451; rate of taxation, 1 mill,

District of Columbia.—The total assessed valuation of the District in 1874 was $98,231,000. United States Attorney-General Pierrepont has rendered an opinion that the faith of the United States is pledged for the payment of interest on the 3.65 bonds, but conflicting legal opinions have been rendered as to the right of New York savings banks to invest in these, as government securities, and the House of Representatives declined to make an appropriation to pay the February interest. (V. 19, p. 637, and V. 20, p. 83. See also V. 19, p. 15, 61, 142, 189, 477; V. 20, p. 299, 446; V. 21, p. 63, 417, 465.)

Florida.—The debt of Florida has been placed in a better shape by the continued efforts of the State Comptroller, Hon. C. A. Cowgill, whose last annual report is quoted at some length in the CHRONICLE, V. 20, p. 161. Less the school bonds and J. P. and M. loan, the total debt is about $1,160,000. Real and personal property are valued about $35,000,000; tax rate, 7 mills. The loan to J. P. & M. RR. is secured by mortgage on road, and the question as to the State's obligation to the bondholders was before the United States Supreme Court, and decided in December, 1875, (V. 21, p. 591), in favor of the State; no interest has been paid on these bonds for some years past. (V. 21, p. 466.)

Georgia.—This is one of the Southern States that has paid the interest on its acknowledged debt, but the State Legislature declared void all the semi-annual gold bonds of 1870, and $120,000 of the quarterly bonds held by H. Clews & Co.; the Brunswick & Albany bonds, $1,500,000; and the following railroad endorsements, viz.: Brunswick & Albany $3,300,000; Bainbridge Cuthbert & Columbus $600,000; Cherokee Valley, $300,000; Cartersvill & Van Wert, $275,000. Assessed value of property in 1874, $273,000,000; rate of tax, four mills. Macon & Brunswick Railroad endorsement was declared valid by Legislature of 1872, but the later issue of $600,000 was declared void by the Legislature in 1875. Governor's Message V. 22, p. 87, refers at some length to the transactions of Mr. Henry Clews with the State when he was acting as financial agent, and states the bonds retired were issued again without authority (V. 20, p. 83. See also V. 19, p. 111, 350, 375; V. 20, p. 241, 336, 670.)

Illinois.—The debt has been rapidly reduced of late years, and, without the addition of new loans, will soon be extinguished. The Illinois Central Railroad charter tax on earnings contributes over $400,000 per year to the State revenue. The assessment of all property in 1875 was $1,085,529,856. Municipalities in Illinois are in some localities heavily incumbered with debt issued to railroads. (V. 19, p. 15, 38, 526.)

Indiana.—Indiana has but a nominal debt now, but there is a question as to the State's obligation to pay the Wabash & Erie Canal debt. A reference to the origin of that debt, arising from the State's compromise with the bondholders in 1846, will be found in the CHRONICLE, V. 19, p. 493; see also p. 526. A suit is pending on the question, in which Mr. J. K. Gapen, of 12 Wall street, is the plaintiff, (V. 21, p. 85.) Taxable valuation in 1874, $981,861,821; in 1875, $897,739,783; tax rate, 1¼ mills. A law permitting towns to issue bonds was passed in 1875, the main section being as follows:

"SECTION 1.—Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, That any corporated town in this State which shall have heretofore, by the action of its Board of Trustees, commenced the erection of any public buildings, to be used as a market house, engine house or other public purposes, and shall not have the necessary means with which to complete such building, on the passage of an ordinance authorizing the same by the Board of Trustees of said incorporated town, issue the bonds of such town to an amount not exceeding in the aggregate $10,000, in denominations of not less than $50 nor more than $500, and payable at any place that may be designated in the bonds; the principal in not less than one year nor more than ten years after the date of such bonds, and the interest, annually or semi-annually, as may be therein provided, to provide the means with which to complete such buildings; provided that such bonds shall not be sold at a price less than ninety-four cents on the dollar, nor bear a greater rate of interest than eight per centum per annum."

A similar law was passed for counties, which, referring to contracts that have been made for public buildings, &c., says that in counties where such contracts have been so made, the board of commissioners of such counties are authorized to issue bonds to an amount not exceeding one-half of one per centum on the assessed valuation of the property of such county, in addition to any loan for said purpose for which bonds may have been heretofore issued, negotiated and sold.

Kansas.—Kansas has but a small State debt, but the issues of municipal bonds have been large. An extract from the State Auditor's report is given in V. 20, p. 14. The valuation of real and personal property in 1875 was $121,544,344; tax rate, 6 mills for State purposes, and an average of 3.78 per $100 for all purposes. State funds hold $759,250 of the bonds. (V. 20, p. 14.)

Louisiana.—A constitutional amendment, passed December 15, 1870, limited the total debt to $25,000,000, but it was decided that bonds authorized previous to the amendment might be issued. The funding bill passed January 24, 1874, scaled the debt down to 60 per cent of the face value. For coupons lacking on bonds funded, similar coupons are cut from the new bonds issued; interest on consol bonds is paid in New York, but no interest paid on bonds unfunded; the total consols issued to Dec., '75, were as above, and the old bonds outstanding are given as of that date according to the statement of Gov. Kellogg. His message, January, 1876, gives total bonded debt as $18,474,443; bonded and floating debt, $19,061,645. The gross debt reported January 1, 1875, by the Auditor was—bonds, $21,872,320; warrants, $1,423,958. Nothing was said of the contingent debt, which was $5,488,902 in January, 1874. The Auditor recommended the same tax, of 14½ mills, in 1875 as in 1874 (in 1873 the rate was 21½ mills.) The total assessed value of real estate in 1874 was $155,748,788; personal, $44,825,923; of which New Orleans had $105,901,565 of real and $30,059,220 of personal. The gross revenue in 1874 was $3,514,332 and expenses $3,068,101. The $2,500,000 bonds to New Orleans & Chattanooga Railroad have been declared void. (V. 20, p. 78, 84, 476, 521, 548; V. 21, p. 15, 63, 110, 159, 231, 489, 535, 613; V. 22, p. 62.)

Maine.—The sinking funds, January, 1876, reduce the total debt to a net amount of $5,272,688. Valuation of total taxables in 1875, $255,000,000; tax rate, 5 mills. Governor's message in V. 22, p. 62.

Maryland.—The assessed valuation of property in 1874 was $463,034,812 on which the rate of taxation was 20 5-16 cents per $100; income from dividends on railroad, canal and other stocks owned by the State was $139,469. The State has largely assisted canals and railroads, and holds $6,068,509 of stocks and bonds of solvent companies, leaving only $5,304,167 of debt without any offset; the State also holds $22,555,188 in unproductive securities. On two investments only, the Comptroller says that the State has met no loss, viz., the Baltimore & Ohio and the Columbia & Port Deposit railroads.

Massachusetts.—Governor's message on finances, V. 22, p. 62. All interest on the funded debt of Massachusetts is paid in coin. The credit of the State stands high in London and at home. During 1874 the debt was increased $987,400, and in 1875, $4,500,000. The sinking funds in January, 1876, were $11,725,309. The Hoosac tunnel has cost the State over $14,500,000. Real estate assessed in 1874, $1,289,308,763; personal, including bank shares, $572,861,914; tax rate, 1.23-100 mills; deposits in savings banks, $217,452,220; corporation property (above real estate and machinery), $84,775,150. The loan to Boston Hartford & Erie RR. was secured by deposit of $4,000,000 "Berdell" mort. bonds. (V. 18, p. 63; V. 19, p. 117; V 20, p. 336, 521; V, 21, p. 247; V. 22, p. 62.)

Michigan.—The debt has been largely diminished in the last few years. Assessed valuation of real and personal property, 1871-72, $630,000,000, and tax rate 2¼ mills. Surplus revenue is applied to purchase of bonds. (V. 20, p. 139.)

Minnesota.—All the State bonds are now held by the permanent school fund. Minnesota is usually classed among the States which have avoided their obligations, in consequence of her refusal to recognize the "State Railroad bonds" of 1858 to the amount of $2,275,000. There seems to be a growing feeling in the State that those bonds should be acknowledged. See Governor's Message, V. 22, p. 63. Property valuation, 1874, $217,000,000; tax, 5 mills. (V. 19, p. 493.)

Missouri.—Valuation of real and personal property in 1875 was $549,503,471, upon which the tax is 4½ mills. Railroad property was assessed at $54,849,312, as returned to County Courts; but at only $19,861,141, as returned to the State Auditor in 1875. The State had $1 428,000 bonds maturing in 1875, and $3,907,000 in 1876. To provide for these, a law of 1875 authorizes the sale of new bonds. The Hannibal & St. Joseph Railroad provides for its own debt. Bonds falling due are paid in currency, pursuant to a resolution of the Legislature, although some of these bonds are payable by their terms in "gold or silver." Some difficulty has arisen about the last six months' interest due on bonds maturing. (V. 20, p. 83, 161, 290, 313, 336, 383. 477; V. 21, p. 277; V. 22, p. 83.)

Nevada.—The debt of Nevada is hardly more than nominal.

New Hampshire.—The debt of New Hampshire was created for war purposes, and is being rapidly reduced. The Municipal loan of 1872 was issued to cities and towns, the proceeds to be used in reducing their several war debts, which the State thus assumed.

New Jersey.—The debt was created for war purposes. Of the first two classes of bonds the principal is payable, $100,000 per year. Valuation of real and personal property in 1875 $613,995,196, against $619,097,903; State tax, 3½ mills.

New York.—There is also $68,000 contingent debt to Long Island Railroad, and $7,361 per annum for Indian annuities. The debt of New York State has been created chiefly for canals and for war purposes. The late canals are a failure; but the Erie Canal, though expensive (partly through political fraud in its management), has been a great success as an internal improvement. An abstract of the Governor's Message was given in V. 22, p. 64, showing a net reduction of $2,741,505 in the debt for year ending Sept. 30, 1875. The following were valuations and tax rate for State purposes in the year 1859, and from 1870 to 1874:

| Year. | Real Estate. | Personal. | State tax. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1859..... | $1,097,564,524 | $307,349,155 | 2½ |
| 1870..... | 1,532,720,907 | 431,280,278 | 7 41-156 |
| 1871..... | 1,599,930,166 | 452,607,732 | 5 79-120 |
| 1872..... | 1,644,379,410 | 147,248,035 | 9¼ |
| 1873..... | 1,692,523,071 | 437,102,315 | 6 95-100 |
| 1874..... | 1,750,698,918 | 418,608,935 | 7¼ |

It appears that the assessed value of real estate by local assessors is $1,750,698,918, while the full value, as estimated by the State assessors, is $4,168,330,757. The Comptroller says the actual value should be adopted as the basis of taxation. The debt decreased in 1873-4 $3,649,570. The actual value of real estate in 1874 was estimated to be $4,168,330,757, and total amount raised by tax, State and local, was $57,811,381. The local debts of cities in New York State are $137,539,6 9; of counties, $46,685,264, and towns, $25,140,181. (V. 19, p. 350; V. 20, p. 28, 60, 615; V. 22, p. 63.)

North Carolina.—North Carolina is heavily burdened with debt, in proportion to her taxable property. A lengthy extract from the Treasurer's report was given in V. 20, p. 84. Total property was assessed in 1872 at $123,507,628, a low valuation. Interest is paid on bonds issued to North Carolina Railroad ($2,800,000), as the State holds $3,000,200 stock and receives dividends thereon. Other interest in default. A funding bill passed the Legislature March, 1875. (See CHRONICLE, V. 20, p. 336.) In New York bonds are classified thus: "Old," being those issued prior to May 1, 1861, coupons on from Jan. '69; "N. C. R. R." issue of $2,800,000 to that road, coups. on since Jan. & April, '69; same "coup. off" have had coups. paid; "funding act '66 carry coups. Jan., '69; "funding act" '68 carry coupons April '69. "New"—authorized before war, except $1,500,000 in 1868; "Special tax. 1st," carry coup. April, '69; "2d" conp. of Oct. '69; "3d" coup. April, 1870. (V. 18, p. 166, 629; V. 20, p. 24, 161, 283; V. 21, p. 570.)

Ohio.—Ohio has a very small State debt, but large local debts, amounting in 1875 to $25,957,588. Valuations in 1874 were: Real estate in cities, &c., $366,031,721; other, $696,883,323; personalty, $535,660,818. Tax rate in 1875, 3 2-10 mills for State, and an average of 25 9-10 mills for local purposes. Of the 1875 loan above, $868,230 was paid Jan. 1, 1876 and the balance April 1. Report on State and local debts, V. 22, p. 64.

Oregon.—The debt is provided for by sinking funds. Taxable property in 1872 was valued at $37,174,169; ¼ mill tax was laid for Relief bonds and 1 mill for Bounty bonds.

Pennsylvania.—Total debt Nov. 30, $23,233,137; available assets, $9,466,572; net debt, $13,766,564. The financial system is remarkable in Pennsylvania in the fact that no tax is laid for State purposes on real estate. Revenue is raised from numerous sources, principally from corporations. Taxes are levied on personal property, which was assessed at $165,362,443, and the tax was $535,719 in 1874. State expenses have lately exceeded revenue, and sinking funds have been diverted to meet the deficiency. The State holds $1,754,321 in stocks and $9,000,000 of railroad bonds. Interest is paid in gold on all the State debt issued prior to 1867. Any coupon bond may be changed to registered. The bonds due in 1877 are payable at any time till 1882; those of 1882 till 1892. (V. 21, p. 137; V. 22, p. 64.)

Rhode Island.—The debt was all created for war purposes and is being steadily diminished. The valuation of real and personal property in 1873 was $217,798,580, and tax rate 20 cents on $100.

So. Carolina.—The Governor's message on finances in V. 21, p. 535. The funding law approved Dec. 22, 1873, provided for scaling down the old debt by giving new bonds to the extent of 50 per cent, and declared void the conversion bonds to the amount of $5 965,000. The January and July interest was paid on consolidated bonds, but a loss to the State of about $200,000 cash by failure of a trust company caused a suspension of payments afterwards. Interest due January, 1876, paid February 15. The total debt when funded will amount to $6,187,441. Total valuation of all property, $176,965,502; rate of taxation in 1874, 12 mills. (V. 20, p. 84, 241, 291, 358, 547; V. 21, p. 489, 614.)

Tennessee.—On the first July, 1874, the payment of interest was resumed, and the interest due January 1, 1875, was paid by help of a loan of $300,000, but default again made July, 1875. The Governor's letter in December, 1875, on the finances, discouraged the expectation of further payments soon, and suggested funding. (See V. 21, p. 614.) The State Treasurer, February 25, 1875, gave the following estimates for the current year:

Subsequently laws were passed to tax railroads, which it was claimed would give an increase of revenue over 1874. The law passed in March, 1873, provided for funding all outstanding, legally issued bonds, due between July 1, 1874, and July 1, 1884, as well as all past due coupons, and coupons maturing on or before Jan. 1, 1874, in a 10-40 year 6 per cent bond. The total debt given above is substantially, according to the last report of the Comptroller, January, 1875. The Comptroller estimated debt of solvent railroads at $3,288,896; due from purchasers of railroads then sold, $372,000; value of Knoxville & Charleston road, $100,000. The State's endorsements for railroads are $1,802,000, of which $1,560,000 is taken care of by the roads. Total valuation of real estate, $287,000,000, and railroad property, $51,000,000. The rate of taxation is 40 cents on the $100. Tennessee bonds sold as "Old" are those issued before 1862, and having coupons of July, 1869; Old "ex coupon," have only the coupon of July, 1875; "New," issued since 1862 carrying coupon of July, 1869, "ex coupon" July, 1875, only; "New Series," the new funding bonds. (V. 18, p. 143, 247, 350, 497; V. 19, p. 167; V. 20, p. 14, 84, 161, 282, 491; V. 21, p. 87, 313, 614.)

Texas.—The State Comptroller, August 31, 1875, reported total funded debt $4,707,588; floating debt, $614,326. The valuation of taxable property in 1874 was $241,841,860, against $207,920,526 in 1872. Tax rate in 1874, 50. (V. 19, p. 15, 117, 142; V. 20, p. 84.)

Vermont.—This State has a very small debt—all created for war purposes. Of the registered bonds $135,500 are held for Agricultural College. The sinking fund, Aug. 1., 1874, was $37,932.

Virginia.—The Funding act of 1871 provided that coupons of the funded bonds should be receivable for State taxes. For 2-3 of the old bonds a new bond was issued, and for the other ⅓ a deferred certificate given (as the proportion due by West Virginia). The act of 1872 amended that of 1871 by not allowing coupons to be received for taxes. All the amounts marked (*) may be funded under the amended act of 1872. The sinking fund holds $2,446,-983 of State bonds and certificates. Interest due Jan., 1874, was paid in part (2 per cent) in July, 1874. All interest over-due and unpaid to Sept. 30, 1875, (on the basis of 4 per cent.) was $1,199,864. Assessed value of property is $329,424,152; tax rate, 5 mills. Auditor's report, V. 21, p. 604. (V. 19, p. 295 502, 526, 582; V. 20, p. 14, 306, 356, 375, 547; V. 21, p. 527, 604.)

Albany.—There are sinking funds for municipal bonds and for water stock. The loan to Albany & Susquch. is secured by 1st mort. The assessed valuation of property in 1874 by State authorities was: Real estate, $43,761,203; personal, $6,508,101; total, $49,669,304. Estimated true value of real estate, $102,764,770.

Augusta.—Bonds created chiefly for city improvements and other municipal purposes.

Baltimore.—The fiscal year of Baltimore ends with Oct. 31. The city credit has been loaned extensively to railroads, in exchange for their securities, which it holds to a large nominal amount. The sinking fund for Balt. & Ohio Railroad $5,000,000 loan is $1,649,053; West Maryland Railroad sinking fund, $140 605; and the total of the several other sinking funds, $5,936,566. The Balt. & Ohio RR. pays interest on $5,000,000 loan; Water loan is paid by income of water works, and Public Park by City Passenger Railway, and out of a total debt of $32,095,725 only $7,535,304 is dependent on the tax levy. The assessed value of property in 1875 is $231,242,513; tax rate, 1875, $1 80 on the $100 for city purposes, and .20¼ for State. Population in 1870 was 267,354, against 212,418 in 1860.

Bangor, Me.—The valuation of real and personal property is $10,510,694; rate of taxation, 2.90 per cent. The loans to European & North American Railroad and to Bangor & Piscataquis Railroad are secured by first mortgages on those roads.

Boston.—The population of Boston in 1870 was 292,497, against 177,840 in 1860. Valuation of real property in 1875, including the recent annexations, was $558,769,500, and personal, $284,998,400; upon which the rate of taxation is $13 70 per $1,000—$12 66 of this for city and $1 04 for State purposes, against a total of $15 60 per $1,000 last year. The total debt, both funded and unfunded, at the close of the last fiscal year, April 30, 1875, was $43,512,611, and the sinking funds, bonds, mortgages, &c., $16 218,492. The sinking fund provisions are sufficient to meet the debt as it matures. In March, 1875, Mr. Turner, city auditor, gave his estimates for the revenue required for the coming financial year 1875-76, commencing May 1, 1875, and terminating April 30, 1876. This estimate is based on an assumption of strictest economy in all departments. He says: It is a source of congratulation that in meeting the actual wants of the municipality and avoiding the borrowing of money for other than for the additional supply of water, extension of the water works, and extensive and costly street improvements, the tax per each thousand dollars will be largely reduced from last year. The following is a comparison of the appropriations asked for and income to be received, compared with the estimates for 1874-5:

| Appropriations | $12,188,805 | $13,645,143 |
| Income | 2,864,425 | 2,728,850 |
| | $9,324,380 | $10,916,293 |
| Per centage | 279,731 | 327,489 |
| | $9,604,111 | $11,243,782 |

Placing the tax to be paid to the State at the same as last year, the estimated tax warrants exhibit the following result:

| | 1875. | 1874 |
|---|---|---|
| City and County | $9,604,111 00 | $11,243,782 00 |
| State | 802,120 00 | 802,120 00 |
| | $10,406,231 00 | $12,045,902 00 |

During the last forty years, with a single exception, the taxable valuation has shown an annual increase. Mayor Cobb's message, January, 1876, gives a net decrease of debt in 1875, amounting to $305,579. (V. 22, p. 61.)

Brooklyn.—The statement of debt is from the Comptroller's report, dated Sept. 1, 1875, which made the whole city debt as follows:

|---|---|
| Permanent loans | $26,063,000 |
| Loans chargeable on specified property benefitted | 10,685,500 |
| Tax certificates | 1,859,000 |
| Less sinking fund | 3,462,736 |

—The Mayor, in his message, January, 1875, stated that the debt chargeable on taxation increased in 1874 only $525,115, against $2,426,516 in 1873, $1,591,411 in 1872, and $3,590,581 in 1871. Population in 1870, 396,200, against 266,661 in 1860. Valuation of property in King's County in 1874, by the State Board of Equalization, $179,085,370 for real estate, and personal, $18,975,980; they estimated the true value of real estate to be $426,393,740. The Board of Supervisors value the total taxable property of Brooklyn in 875 at $225,176,755, or about 65 per cent of true value. The debt of Kings County, separate from the debt of Brooklyn, is $3,923,000, of which the city is responsible for about $3,726,000. Average tax rate in 1874, $3 52 per $100, against $3 46 in 1873. (V. 19, p. 142, 652; V. 20, p. 320.)

Charleston, S. C.—The bonds of Charleston are mostly held within the State of South Carolina. The total assessed value of property in 1873 was $27,978,991; rate of tax, 2 per cent. Sinking funds reduce the total debt to $4,672,663.

Chicago.—The total funded debt at the close of the last fiscal year, April 1, 1875, was $13,456,000. Certificates of indebtedness, $3,317,229. Assessed value of real property, '74, $258,549,310; personal, $45,155,830 —total, $303,705,140. Tax rate, 18 mills. The Illinois State valuation is $224,118,620, and the city debt is limited to 5 p. c. of that. The comptroller says: "Owing to the wise provision in the Constitution of the State our funded debt cannot be increased above the present amount for some years to come. Of our $13,473,000 of funded debt $4,581,000 is on account of the Water Works, which last year yielded an income of $730,144 21, and from the rapid extension of the mains and increase of population, will yield much more largely in future. Practically, therefore, the amount of our funded debt is $8,897,000, being the remainder after deducting the water debt. From other sources the following is compiled:

| Year. | Assessed Value. Real Estate. | Assessed Value. Per. Estate. | Tax Rate. |

Population in 1870 was 306,605, and in October, 1874, 395,226, against 109,260 in 1860. Cook Co. debt is all 7 per cent, and interest is all payable in J. & J., or in M. & N. The So. Park, W. Chicago Park, and Lincoln Park loans are not debts of the city, but of distinct corporations. (V. 21, p. 207.)

Cincinnati.—By the census of 1870 population was 218,900, against 161,044 in 1860. Tax rate for 1875, $28 82 per $1,000, against $23 38 in 1874. Under the laws of Ohio real estate has been valued for purposes of taxation once in ten years. The following table from the books of the Auditor of Hamilton County, Ohio, exhibits the assessed valuation of the city of Cincinnati since the year 1860:

| Year. | Real estate. | Personal estate. | Total valuation. | Rate tax per $1,000. |

The School Board is a distinct organization from the city, created by a separate act of the Legislature; levies its own tax, which is collected by the City Treasurer. The city warrants are discounted when sold. The floating debt of this character, Jan. 1, 1875, was $200,000, payable during this year.

Jersey City.—The total bonded debt of the city, April 1, 1875, was stated at $14,247,500, as follows: General, $3,558,000; assessment debt, $6,060,500; water debt, $1,629,000. The sinking fund was $525,565. Assessed valuation, including railroad property, is $88,496,885, on which the tax rate is $3 00 per $100 on $68,496,855, and 1 per cent on railroad property assessed at $11,000,000. Population by State census in 1875 was 116,883, against 85,000 by U. S. census of 1870. (V. 18, p. 190.)

Louisville.—The funded debt, Jan. 1, 1871, was $8,253,500; issued during the year 1874, $500,000; retired by the sinking funds, in all $249,500; total bonds, Jan. 1, 1875, $8,504,000; railroad loans, $1,508,000; floating debt, $405,969; total debt of city, $10,417,969. Of the $8,504,000 there is payable out of the sinking fund $3,981,000; payable by special tax, $4,523,000. Assets of the sinking fund are $3,130,625. The revenue of the sinking fund in 1874 applicable to the payment of interest and principal of this debt was—From licenses, $227,844 46; from wharves, $2,371 54; from taxes, $251,537 45; from interest, $65,829 36; total, $557,612. Population by census of 1870 was 100,750, against 68,033 in 1860; now estimated upon the basis of 7 to a voter makes 130,000. Assessed value of property, about $79,000,000. Real value, $100,000,000. In 1868 the taxation per $100 was $1 98; in 1873 it was $2 55 for the Eastern District and $2 47 for the Western District.

Memphis, Tenn.—The city has been in default for interest since Jan. 1, 1873, and the amount overdue Jan. 1, 1875, was $171,665. In 1874 the policy was adopted of receiving proposals for the sale of past due coupons, so far as the funds in hand permitted. The City Council declared the funding and paving bonds issued by Mayors Leftwich and Lofland 1867–8–9 to have been issued illegally, but allowed the coupons to be received, pro rata, according to the amount realized by the city for the bonds; but a decision of Tenn. Supreme Court, December, 1875, was against the city on this point. Assessed valuation, $32,000,000. Tax rate, $2 per $100. Population in 1870, 40,230. (V. 21, p. 186, 570.)

Milwaukee.—The city cannot issue debt beyond 5 per cent of its average assessed value for five years, which is $43,545,000; in 1874 it was $35,157,000 of real, and $16,167,883 of personal; tax rate, 28½ mills. Sinking funds are provided for all the bonds. Old railroad bonds, $200,000, due 1876 and 1877 (with interest about $400,000), have been held valid against the city. Population by State census, 1875, 101,000. (V. 17, p. 187, 628, 691.)

Mobile.—The valuation of property in 1875 was $16,563,715; tax rate, 1½ per cent. Interest has been in default since July, 1873. A settlement with bondholders was offered by Commissioners in New York, Sept., 1875, viz.: $510 in 6 per cent bond for $1,000 of the old 8 per cent. The 6 per cent bonds have a lien on city revenue, and exchange for these is offered at 75 per cent of their face in the new 6 per cents. Population about 38,000. (V. 20, p. 302.)

Newark.—The bonds in the first line in the table are payable out of the sinking fund of 1869, which amounts to $355,575; those in second line out of sinking fund of 1864, $690,474; public school bonds out of public school fund, $62,243; Clinton Hill bonds by sale of property; against local improvement bonds the city holds $2,637,276 of assessments unpaid and a lien on the property. State tax, 14⅔ mills; city tax, 25 mills; total tax, 39⅔. The lease of city wharves July, 1875, is considered by many to be advantageous. A scheme for settling the debt by a bond premium drawing plan has been started, and first drawing took place Nov. 3. Population in 1870, 191,418; in 1860, 138,670. (V. 21, p. 64, 86, 159, 278 511 613.)

—The true value of real estate is estimated at $1,935,021,540. By an act of 1874 the towns of West Farms, Morrisania and Kingsbridge, embracing about 12,000 acres, were annexed to New York. The debt of these towns was about $1,500,000.

From the termination of the Tweed regime in 1871 to January, 1875, the gross increase in debt was $23,252,049, and Comptroller Green claims that the old claims existing when he took office, with the bonds issued to pay deficiency in State sinking fund, and for up-town improvements, aggregate more than this whole increase. He condemns very strongly the law under which the Department of Public Works makes such heavy expenditures. All unadjusted claims against the city Jan. 1875, were nominally $6,971,149, a large part of which the Comptroller claims to be fraudulent and has determinedly opposed. The outstanding assessment bonds (payable out of local assessments on property benefitted) are represented by $5,712,739 advances to contractors; $7,531,447 advances on Boulevard work; and $7,606,500 uncollected local assessments. Great hostility has been shown to Comptroller Green on account of his opposition to claims against the city and chiefly on the charge of his placing many valid and reasonable claims on the same ground as those which are fraudulent or extravagant. Mayor Wickham objects to the present method of authorizing bonds; that the laws are mandatory on the Board of Estimate and leave them no discretion. He says: "The Common Council has no control over the proceedings required to be taken under several of them. But some officer or department of the City Government is by each of them authorized to prosecute a public work of some sort, and to incur obligations for it in the name of the city, and for the payment of such obligations city bonds must be issued." Extract from Mayor's Message of January, 1876, is given in V. 22, p. 63. (V. 20, p. 14, 29; V. 21, p. 86.)

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Estimated expenses of the Departments for the year 1876 | | $14,533,765 20 |
| Outstanding warrants November 1, '75. | 6,586,303 07 | |
| Amount due various loans | 2,925,714 37 | |
| Estimated discounts allowed on taxes. | 500,000 00 | |
| Estimated amount of warrants which may be drawn prior to Jan. 1, 1876, and special amounts carried forward. | 1,500,000 00 | |
| Estimated amount of mandamus and interest on warrants. | 250,000 00 | |
| Total estimated liabilities | | $26,296,282 64 |

Of this amount $9,296,202 are estimated to come from other sources than taxes, leaving $17,000,080 to be raised by taxes, at a rate of $30 per $1,000 on full city property. The following table exhibits the assessed valuation and tax rate in the city since 1870:

| Year. | Real Estate. | Personal Estate. | Rate Tax per $1,000 |
| 1870 | $470,851,800 | $8,188,853 | $18 00 |
| 1871 | 491,844,096 | 8,592,786 | 18 00 |

There is no large amount of city debt maturing in the next five years. Assessed valuations for 1876 are: Full city property, $537,213,282; tax rate, $3 00; suburban property, $38,031,673; tax rate, $2 00; farm property, $20,168,423; tax rate, $1 50. Population, 1870, 674,022, against 565,589 in 1860. (V. 18, p. 526.)
